RIVERS DELAYS EXPECTED ANNOUNCEMENT ON HIS CANDIDACY IN SEPTEMBER PRIMARY

13 Winners Are Announced In Constitution's Statewide Civic Improvement Contest

District Victors Are Bulloch, Decatur, Schley, Carroll, Rockdale, Monroe, Bartow, Lowndes, Habersham, Columbia.

FORTY ARE LISTED ON ROLL OF HONOR

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Judges yesterday awarded $3,500 to Dodge county (Eastman) as winner of the first place in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937.

DeKalb county (Decatur) gets $1,000 as runner-up, and Charlton county (Folkston), in the extreme southeastern section of the state, $500 for third place.

District Awards.

First district, Bulloch (Statesboro); second, Decatur (Bainbridge); third, Schley (Ellaville,; fourth, Carroll (Carrollton); fifth, Rockdale (Conyers); sixth, Monroe (Forsyth); seventh, Bartow (Cartersville); eighth, Lowndes (Valdosta); ninth, Habersham (Clarkesville), and tenth, Columbia (Appling).

In addition to the 13 cash awards, Albert S. Hardy Sr., former president of the Georgia Press Association and editor of the Gainesville News; Mrs. A. B. Conger, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and Robert C. Mizell, secretary of Emory University, who were judges, established an honor roll of 40 other counties which made strides in county government improvement entitling them to recognition.

Honor Roll of Counties.

Painstaking Study.

Decisions of the judges followed careful study of thousands of pages of reports filed by the Georgia counties. Every report was

Letter From Judges Announcing Awards

Major Clark Howell, President and Publisher,
The Atlanta Constitution,
Atlanta, Georgia.
Dear Major Howell:

As a result of careful studies of sworn reports of accomplishments of Georgia counties in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937, we, the judges, make the following state-wide awards:

1. First award, $3,500, to Dodge county.
2. Second award, $1,000, to DeKalb county.
3. Third award, $500, to Charlton county.

First district, Bulloch county; second, Decatur county; third, Schley county; fourth, Carroll county; fifth, Rockdale county; sixth, Monroe county; seventh, Bartow county; eighth, Lowndes county; ninth, Habersham county, and tenth, Columbia county.

In addition to those counties which actually win awards, there are about 40 other counties which made such strides during 1937 that we believe they are entitled to recognition by this board of judges, and we, therefore, have decided to establish an honor roll of the following:

The decisions which we submit were difficult because it was obvious that many counties made remarkable and praiseworthy progress. We tried to determine what counties had made the greater percentage of improvement in the light of opportunities before them. Obviously a rich county is able to do more for its citizens than a poor county; but at the same time, the poor county may be utilizing the resources at its command to better advantage than the rich county. In such cases, we thought more credit should be given the poorer county, and we have accordingly based our decisions on this premise, believing that was the spirit of the program sponsored by you and The Constitution.

We gave careful consideration to the question of whether tax increases as reported in some instances were justified by circumstances. We were inclined to give considerable weight to improvements made without increases in taxation. We

Bodies of 45 Are Recovered In Virginia Mine Explosion

Drifts Cleared by Rescue Crews Working for Hours in 30-Minute Shifts at Grundy; State Mine Inspector Believes Blast Due to Dust.

GRUNDY, Va., April 23.—(AP)—Forty-five charred and broken bodies of miners were taken from the seared depths of the Keen Mountain mine of the Reck Jacket Coal Company today, victims of the volcano-like explosion which greeted the night shift as it entered the mine yesterday.

Chief Mine Inspector C. P. Kelly, of the state department of labor, expressed the conviction the explosion was caused by dust.

The United States Bureau of Mines officials said no further bodies were in the "drifts," which extend far under the mountain.

Sweating, sooty-faced members of the mine rescue squads, worked in 30-minute relays in the furnace-like atmosphere until they had explored every avenue of the big mine. Two members were overcome by bad air, which had to be blown out before the final group of bodies could be taken out.

Nobody Found Alive.

For many hours the crews worked grimly, without hope of finding life among the victims trapped by the blast, but unwilling to cease their efforts until every miner had been accounted for.

No word of cheer came for sorrowing wives, children, sweethearts. Only bodies came up from the mine. Four hundred men were working to bring them out.

A sooty-faced miner named Bill Smith, who had been riding with bodies down the four-mile narrow-gauge railroad for many hours, paused long enough to tell his eye-witness acouunt of the disaster. He was standing 50 feet from the mouth of the mine when he heard the roar and saw flame belch from the mountain.

"The blast was away from me, and that's why I didn't get hurt," he said. "I saw coal-carrying cars, motors, slate and timber spouted as if from a cannon."

Bill didn't finish his story. Another load of bodies was ready to go down the incline to await identification by persons with tear-dimmed eyes.

The payroll office was besieged for names of the dead and the missing. Townspeople at Grundy, 12 miles from the scene, gathered with grim faces and bowed heads as the Salvation Army held a prayer service for the victims.

The line party telephone line to the mine office was busy continuously. Persons from far points made inquiry of relatives.

It was a steep ascent to the

Two Killed as Auto Leaps Highway Bridge

Two Fayetteville (Ga.) young men were killed at about 11 o'clock last night when the automobile in which they were riding went off a bridge and dropped 30 feet into a creek on the Fayetteville-Newnan highway, two miles west of Fayetteville.

They were W. C. Goodman, 25, and Henry Padgett, 25. It was reported the car "jumped the bridge." The bodies were recovered early this morning.

BURNS SENTENCED TO SEVEN YEARS AND FINED $4,000

Pee Wee Free in Five Minutes on $8,000 Appeal Bond; Hearing Scheduled for June Tenth.

JUDGE COMMENDS IMMUNITY GRANTS

Etheridge Asserts Crimes of Trusted Officers Are the 'More Revolting.'

A. T. Jean, alias Pee Wee Burns, yesterday was sentenced to seven years in a county prison camp and fined $4,000 by Judge Paul S. Etheridge, for bribing two city policemen and six former deputy sheriffs to prevent interference in his liquor activities.

Five minutes later he was free again, after posting $8,000 appeal bond.

His attorneys, George Finch and W. R. Bentley, filed motion for a new trial before the quiet that covered the courtroom during Judge Etheridge's statements had been dispersed by the crowd.

Appeal Hearing June 10.

Judge Etheridge set the date for the hearing on the appeal for June 10.

In sentencing Burns, Judge Etheridge said the "public mind considers the offense of this defendant and others like him less revolting than the offense of the officers involved.

"The court is convinced that the grand jury's grant of immunity is vital to reach the officers who have violated their public trust."

Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews issued a statement that "nothing will deter the investigation" of grafting law enforcement officers.

Newt Garner, professional bondsman, was waiting in the hall outside the courtroom when Burns left in the company of two deputy sheriffs. Garner, with Burns and his attorneys, went to Clerk of Court Simmons' office, where he signed the former prizefighter's bond.

Garner already had signed a $2,000 bond, guaranteeing Burns' appearance before the grand jury last week, and a $10,000 bond following the grand jury's indictment last Monday.

Prizefighter Stance.

Burns had stood before the bench with his head cocked, his chin almost hidden by his shoulder in the protective position generally adopted in the ring.

He had nothing to say until the intermittent flashes of photographers' cameras prompted him to ask the court to "put a stop to those cameras." Judge Etheridge granted the request, stating he had understood the defendant had no objections to pictures being made.

"On count one of this indictment, I sentence you to 12 months in prison. On count two, I sentence you to 12 months, this sentence to follow that for count one, and impose a fine of $1,000," Judge Etheridge said.

He followed the same procedure in the first two counts against each set of former deputy sheriffs and imposed a year's sentence and $1,000 fine on Burns for count 37, which charged he paid two city police for protection.

In each of the other counts, he imposed a sentence of 12 months but directed that the time run concurrently with the other sentences.

The sentence followed conviction Friday.

He was charged in the first 10 counts of paying O. J. Stanley and W. R. (Cap) Joyner $25 a month for almost two years to refrain from arresting him during

Joyce Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Estes, and "sweetheart of Sigma Chi" chosen by the Tech chapter at a recent sweetheart ball, contemplates the change in time from central standard to Atlanta daylight saving, tears her hair and thinks it as confusing as the clocks showing the time at one minute after midnight in other cities of the United States. Atlantans moved their clocks ahead one hour at midnight. Many Georgia towns remained on central time. Hence when it's 1 o'clock here it's 12 midnight in these cities. New York on eastern daylight saving time has 2 o'clock to Atlanta's 1 o'clock. But in Denver (mountain time), it's 11 o'clock and in San Francisco (Pacific time) it's only 10 o'clock.

LIQUOR SALE HERE OPENS TOMORROW

First City and State License Is Issued to the Henry Grady Hotel.

Legal liquor will go on sale in Atlanta tomorrow, it was announced yesterday after the first city and state licenses were issued to Cecil R. Cannon, president of the Henry Grady Hotel Company.

Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head signed the Cannon license before leaving the city for the week end. He announced that other license applications would be investigated by his office and passed on when he returns to the capitol Wednesday. Head will spend Monday and Tuesday in Augusta. Legal liquor goes on sale in Augusta tomorrow.

Two additional counties entered the wet ranks yesterday, with Rockdale county (Conyers) balloting, 359 for and 301 against, in a light vote. Registered were 1,800 persons. In Mitchell county (Camilla), the vote stood at 549 for to 140 against with two small precincts missing.

Warehouse Leased.

Before leaving Atlanta, Head announced that his office had leased warehouse space from the Southern railway, along its tracks just below the Terminal station.

J. Gordon Hardy, former Fulton county deputy sheriff, was named superintendent of the Atlanta warehouse. Hardy's appointment was urged by a large number of city and county officials, including Sheriff J. C. Aldredge, Mayor Pro Tem. Robert Carpenter and George Longino, of the Fulton county commission.

Hardy said he would begin op-

Father Time Gets Laugh On Atlantans

Pushing of Clock Hands One Hour Ahead Raises Ludicrous Situations.

Atlantans traded even with Father Time last night.

They surrendered an hour of midnight frolic, or slumber, on the "promise" from the man with the scythe he would give them one additional hour of sunshine each afternoon beginning today and continuing through September.

And the citizenry seemed content as it fulfilled its part of the bargain at 12:01 o'clock this morning. Fact is, most of the citizens were sleeping peacefully when Time claimed his hour. Others went about their frolic or business after turning watches forward one hour.

Father Time was laughing, though! He was perfectly satisfied. In September he'll reclaim his hour and this morning he will enjoy the discomfort of thoughtless Atlantans.

Didn't that Jones family get

CZECH GERMANS DEMAND EQUALITY

KARLOVY VARY, Czechoslovakia, April 23.—(AP)—A congress of Nazi Sudeten German leaders met behind closed doors here today and cheered demands for equality of this nation's 3,500,000 Germans with the Czechs.

The meeting was expected to culminate tomorrow in an important declaration by Konrad Henlein, Czech-German leader, voicing a demand for autonomy.

Deputy Ernst Kundt, parliamentary floor leader for the Sudeten Germany party, paved the way for such a demand by telling the congress today:

"We reject the idea of a minority status. We want our position to be exactly the same as that of the Czech nation."

He closed menacingly with an implied reference to Adolf Hitler, who has promised protection to

Teacher Loses Third Court Fight Against Fulton's Ban of Marriage

A court attempt to force the Fulton county board of education to pay her back salary since October, totaling $900, failed yesterday for Miss Marie Long, who last fall refused to sign a contract tendered her by the board until removal of certain provisions which included the board's ban on marriage of teachers in the system.

Judge John D. Humphries, after studying documentary evidence for more than a week, denied Miss Long's mandamus proceedings against the board in Fulton superior court.

Miss Long, who taught for 13 years in the Center Hill school, contended she is still a member of the county system and is entitled to her salary of $150 per month.

In issuing his order, Judge Humphries said:

"It is unfortunate that the plaintiff lost her opportunity to become an employe of the board of education of Fulton county under the

GOVERNOR CAUSES SURPRISE BEFORE STATE COMMITTEE

Reports on Stewardship and Praises Program of Roosevelt; Intends To Carry Out Platform.

FEES ARE FIXED AT $100 INCREASE

'I Do Not Wish To Act Both as Governor and Candidate,' He Declares.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Governor Rivers last night postponed announcement of his candidacy for any office. He told the state Democratic executive committee that if he makes an announcement at this time it will serve to hinder his conduct of the Governor's office.

"I do not wish to act both as Governor and as a candidate for office at this time," the chief executive said.

Causes Surprise.

The Governor's failure to make a definite announcement of his plans caused surprise, as he had been expected to announce his candidacy for either of the major offices to be filled in the primary.

Several days ago it was said the odds were 100 to 1 that he would seek re-election to the governorship. Although there was nothing in last night's speech to indicate the contrary, his failure to make a definite announcement left political observers still guessing.

Meanwhile, the committee opened entries and fixed the closing date for 10 o'clock the morning of June 1.

Fees Are Fixed.

The entry fees for governorship and United States senatorial candidates in the September primary were fixed at $350 and those for state house officers, including justices of the supreme court and court of appeals, were fixed at $250.

Congressional candidates were assessed $250. The fees are to be paid to the district committees and the funds split among the counties of each district.

Judges of the superior court and solicitors general were assessed $250, the money to go to the counties in which the candidates run. To provide for the heavy expense

JUDGES ANNOUNCE THIRTEEN WINNERS OF COUNTY AWARDS

Announcement of the winners was made in a special communication to Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution, who initiated the awards program.

The winners are those counties which the judges believed did the best job of making county governmental improvements during 1937, bringing the greatest benefits to their citizens.

This was the sole basis of the awards, and the winning counties were selected by the judges from the sworn records which counties submitted to The Constitution.

Major Howell Comments.

Major Howell said yesterday:

"The Progressive Government Awards did two things.

"1. They created an interest in the rank and file of citizens in the governments of counties of Georgia.

"2. They inspired officials to strive harder to operate the most efficient governments possible, to give the greatest service possible most economically.

"I wish to congratulate the counties which the judges have selected as winners, and I want to express my gratitude to the judges who gave so much of their time and talents in their faithful study of the records of county accomplishments. The judges had a tremendous task. The Constitution turned records over to them and left them to decide the matter.

Deeply Appreciated.

"The splendid co-operation and the fine news stories and editorials written about the program by the Georgia press have been deeply appreciated.

"Editors are interested in the welfare of their state, and in their county governments as well as in the future progress and prosperity of Georgia."

"Those counties which did not win awards, but which entered into the spirit of the program are winners in any event. They will reap the benefits of their own accomplishments."

Pointing out the awards programs stimulated citizen interest in county administrative functions, the judges in their communication to Major Howell, asserted:

"In many counties, the co-operative attitude of commissioners, county office-holders and citizens has been of such value that commissioners have invited citizens to maintain their organizations and to continue to assist them in administration of their county governments."

State-Wide Interest.

A study of the winning counties and the honor roll established by the judges is indicative of the general state-wide interest stimulated by the program.

Every section of Georgia was touched by the awards competition. Winning counties are in every district, and the scores of reports filed by interested counties showed that county governments received especial attention of commissioners and citizens during the year.

Checks already have been sent to the winning counties.

Widespread Recognition.

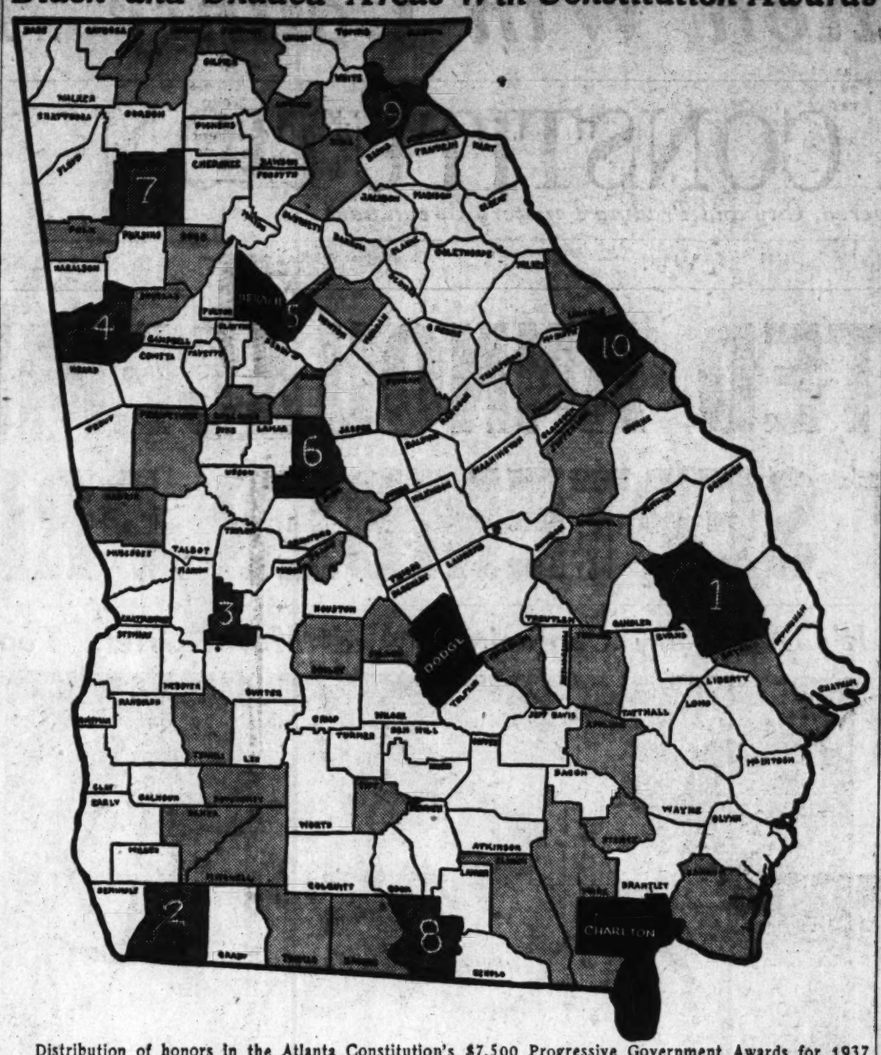

Not only did the awards command the attention of the state, but there was recognition from outside the confines of Georgia.

Scores of queries have sought information about the program from persons interested in the program from all parts of the country.

The March issue of the Governmental Research Bulletin, published monthly by the Governmental Research Association, Chicago, carried an article dealing with the program, and Robert M. Paige, secretary-treasurer of the organization, has asked for additional information.

University students studying government have requested information regarding the program in order that it might be treated in their theses. Organizations in New Jersey, Arkansas and other states also have written for data on the subject.

Black and Shaded Areas Win Constitution Awards

Distribution of honors in the Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937 is shown in the above map. It also indicates the general interest in the program to stimulate improvement in county administration for the benefit of citizens. Counties in black are the first three award winners—Dodge, first; DeKalb, second, and Charlton, third. Shaded and numbered counties are congressional district winners—first district, Bulloch; second, Decatur; third, Schley; fourth, Carroll; fifth, Rockdale; sixth, Monroe; seventh, Bartow; eighth, Lowndes; ninth, Habersham, and tenth, Columbia. Other shaded areas are the 40 counties on the honor roll, established by judges in announcing results of the program.

Letter From Judges Announcing Awards

also thought an awakened civic interest in county affairs was indicative of a healthy condition and should be recognized.

Ours was a difficult task. We reviewed the record of every county which filed what was considered a creditable report and believe our findings, based on the major premise of the program—improvement in county governments bringing the greatest benefits to citizens—are the best we could make.

We established the honor roll of counties above mentioned and it comprises the counties which we thought really made a record of achievement in the light of the sworn reports filed with your committee.

We are convinced the program has amply justified itself. It was a novel venture in the field of civic progress. Even though we can see millions of dollars worth of physical improvements, which will be of service for many years to come, there is no way to measure the far-flung results the program may have on county government in Georgia in the future.

Civic interest has been revived in many sections of Georgia. Some of the counties organized county-wide drives in execution of their awards programs. Some of them went even further and broke down the county organization into militia districts. Citizens who never before took any interest in county administration and who were not acquainted with county governmental affairs, now know the many problems facing them.

They are, therefore, in a position to render a real service to their respective communities. Their co-operation in 1937 is an indication of sympathetic aid in the future.

We believe the awards program has been a success. It has been beneficial to every county which strove for an award whether it won one or not. It has been of vast benefit to commissioners and to the ordinary citizen.

In several of the counties, the co-operative attitude of commissioners, county officeholders and citizens has been of such value that commissioners have invited citizens to maintain their organizations and to continue to assist them in administration of their county governments.

If no other result had been achieved, the program would have been a success.

We wish to congratulate the many counties appearing upon the honor roll as well as the winners of cash awards. We also wish to congratulate you and The Atlanta Constitution for the outstanding public service rendered the state of Georgia in promoting the awards program.

The fine way in which other newspapers of the state rallied to the awards is most praiseworthy and should be a source of gratification to The Constitution in one of the finest journalistic efforts in American newspaper history.

Yours very truly,
ALBERT S. HARDY,
MRS. A. B. CONGER,
ROBERT C. MIZELL.

ANTI-NAZI LEAGUE ASKS POLICE AID

Request Follows Report Raids Are Planned in N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Officials of the nonsectarian Anti-Nazi League today requested police protection, asserting Representative Dickstein, of New York, had information raids on anti-Nazi offices in their city were planned.

The request was made after Dr. Charles Weiss, 31, crippled editor of "Uncle Sam," an anti-Communist, anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi publication of Brooklyn, was severely beaten by four men who Weiss said invaded his office last night and demanded he kiss a swastika emblem.

Dr. Weiss told police that after tearing down an American flag in his officer, the four beat him with the flagstaff and scratched Nazi emblems on his chest.

TWO SEAMEN WOUNDED AS 11 MUTINY IN CHILE

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, April 23.—(AP)—The captain and ten men of the crew of the freighter Canadian, under charter to the Grace Line, today forcibly put down what they described as a mutiny.

Two sailors were seriously injured in an exchange of revolver fire. The disturbance was said to have been started by a drunken sailor returning from shore leave. Captain J. L. Thompson marched 11 men off the ship under arrest but once ashore they started a new fight. Chilean carabineros intervened and took the seamen to jail.

INSURGENTS WIDEN BARCELONA WEDGE

HENDAYE, April 23.—(UP)—Nationalist forces widened the wedge between Barcelona and Madrid along the entire southern front today, capturing the city of Aliaga, 23 miles north of Teruel and driving down the coastal highway on Castellon De La Plana.

More than 5,000 picked Republican troops, backed by aviation, artillery and tanks, were decimated by the Nationalists.

Bloody fighting took place at the castle of Alcala de Chisbert. Despite a government artillery barrage, the Nationalist troops encircle the castle and charged the first parapets. Fighting was bitter but Republican machine gun nests were silenced by grenade throwers.

Using light tanks, the Nationalists attacked on three sides and forced the Loyalists inside the Chateau. The defenders were forced to flee when airplanes bombed the castle with aerial torpedoes.

NYE SEEKS WAY TO LIFT EMBARGO

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said today he was interested in finding some method to eliminate the present embargo on arms shipments to Spain.

He added, however, that President Roosevelt's apparent decision to seek no changes in the neutrality law might make it difficult to lift the embargo.

JUDGING OF AWARDS A STAGGERING TASK

The board of judges were: Albert S. Hardy, prominent Georgian, editor of the Gainesville News, former president of the Georgia Press Association and chairman of the Press Institute program committee; Mrs. A. B. Conger, Bainbridge, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and Robert C. Mizell, secretary of Emory University and chairman of the Citizenship Institute sponsored jointly by Georgia Tech, Emory University and Agnes Scott College.

When they assembled for their initial study of the sworn records of counties which filed as candidates for the awards, they faced a mass of papers, books and illustrated pamphlets.

It was a staggering undertaking, but the judges tackled it with zest, working as long as 15 hours at a time.

Constitution representatives turned the records over to the judges and left the room. They were given free reign to map their procedure and to make any recommendations they saw fit.

The letter to Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution, tells mildly of the task facing them. There were thousands of sheets of paper to be read. County claims were tabulated. When that was done, the matter of comparative abilities of counties to perform services and to improve their governments had to be decided.

Judges compared advantages of counties, tried to reach a fair basis of comparison based on the ability of the county to make improvements and on the manner in which they were made.

The conclusions speak for themselves, but they do not tell of the long days spent in closed conferences where minute details of reports were reviewed before they decided the winners.

Officials and members of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia were enthusiastic backers of The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards campaign.

Frank M. Kimble, president of the association and commissioner of Worth county for the past 20 years, was one of those who gave the program his unstinted support and called on members to adopt programs to improve their county governments.

J. J. Whitfield, former president and former commissioner of Pulaski county, was one of the first to give the program his approval.

Members of the organization threw their influence behind The Constitution's effort to stimulate more interest in county affairs and co-operated fully, and unanimously passed a resolution commending it.

EASTERN AIR LINES FORM NEW CONCERN

Take Over Equipment and Mail Contracts of North American Aviation, Inc.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Postmaster General Farley announced his approval today of the sale by North American Aviation, Inc., of its Eastern Air Lines division to Eastern Air Lines, Inc., a new concern.

The sale, in which the new corporation transferred $3,500,000 of its stock to North American, involves all operating equipment and all air mail contracts now held by the latter concern.

North American will continue in the aircraft manufacturing business.

The air mail routes involved are between New York, Atlanta and New Orleans, New York and Miami, Chicago, Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., and New Orleans and Houston, Texas.

Colonel E. V. Rickenbacker, the war ace, who was vice president of North American and general manager of the Eastern Air Lines division, becomes president of Eastern Air Lines, Inc.

Farley said the sale was the largest of its kind since the present air mail act was passed in 1934.

BUYS PUREBRED CATTLE.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 23.—A shipment of registered, purebred Hereford whiteface cattle—two bulls and 19 heifers—was received in Baldwin county this week. Bought in Montgomery by Ralph Simmerson, they will form the nucleus for a beef cattle herd.

Flagstad To Sing Here Thursday In Closing Concert of This Season

Norwegian Prima Donna To Be Heard in Program at Fox Theater.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

Kirsten Flagstad, Norwegian prima donna, who is one of the greatest Wagnerian singers the Metropolitan Opera Company has ever known, will be presented in concert Thursday night at 8:30 at the Fox theater, the season's final concert of the All-Star Concert Series, Marvin McDonald, manager.

Madame Flagstad made her debut at the Metropolitan as Sieglinde in "Die Walkuere," on February 2, 1935, and took the audience and the public by storm. At her second performance as Isolde, a few days later, every inch of standing room was taken, and the same condition has existed at practically every appearance she has made since that time.

Madame Flagstad's program for Thursday night is one of rare artistic content: "Die Allmacht," "Im Abendrot," and "Ungeduld," all by Schubert; "Ich Trage Meine minne," and "Caecilie," by Strauss; a group by Grieg, sung in Norwegian, the English titles of which are "A Boat Rocks To and Fro," "A Swan," "And I Shall Have a True Love," "Of Spring," and "Thanks for Your Counsel;" the lovely aria, "Mild and Leise" (Isolde's "Liebestod"), from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and a group in English, "We Two Together," Marshall Kernachan; "Snow Towards Evening," Elinor Warren; "Spring Came," Edwin McArthur; 'When I Have Sung My Songs," Earnest Charles, and "Sea Moods," Mildred Tyson.

Edwin McArthur, Flagstad's accompanist, will also play a group of piano solos, including "Wiener Tanze," Friedman-Gartner; "May Night," Palmgren; "Arabesque Valsante," Levitski, and "Caprice Espagnole," by Moszkowski.

Gandhi 'Detects' Flaw in Himself, Forecasts Death

BOMBAY, April 23.—(AP)—Frail, despondent Mohandas K. Gandhi, who has led India's millions along the troublesome road toward political autonomy, has predicted his own early death.

"My days are numbered," the 68-year-old former Mahatma wrote in the newspaper Harijan.

"I am not likely to live very long—perhaps a year or a little more.

"For the first time in 50 years I find myself in the slough of despond. All about me is darkness; I am praying for light. . . . I have detected in me a flaw which is unworthy of a votary of truth."

Ill for several months, Gandhi is in the midst of a fight for freedom of political prisoners in Bengal province. Despite his illness, he observed a day-long fast April 7, during "national week."

RIVERS AND HERTY HEAD SPEAKER LIST AT STATE MEETING

Governor Rivers, Dr. Charles H. Herty, who discovered the process of manufacturing newsprint from pine trees, and W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, head the list of speakers at the twenty-fourth annual three-day convention of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia, opening tomorrow at Macon.

Frank M. Kimble, commissioner of Worth county for the past 20 years and president of the Association, will preside at the sessions beginning at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Dempsey hotel and lasting through noon Wednesday. Charles A. Matthews, DeKalb county commissioner, is vice president and chairman of the board of managers.

800 Delegates.

About 800 delegates representing every county in Georgia, are expected to attend, Troy M. Raines, chairman of the Bibb county commission, official hosts, said.

Julius A. McCurdy, DeKalb county attorney and chairman of the legislative committee of the organization, will preside Monday afternoon at a round-table discussion on legislation.

Miller will speak at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and Matthews has scheduled the meeting of the board of managers at Lanier hotel at 8 o'clock that night. There also will be a reception to visitors beginning at 8 o'clock at night.

Registration will begin at 9:30 Tuesday morning in the lobby of the Dempsey hotel, as a prelude to the official opening of the convention at 10 o'clock by Kimble.

Welcome Address.

Leon S. Dure, of the Bibb commission, will deliver the address of welcome, and George F. Longino, Fulton commissioner and former president of the organization, will make the response.

Kimble and Mathews will make their official reports, and McCurdy will follow with a report of activities of the legislative committee.

Tate Wright, veteran Clarke county commission clerk and association secretary-treasurer, will file his report.

W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, will speak on "Beautification of Highways," to be followed by Dr. Herty and Governor Rivers. The morning session will adjourn after the official photograph has been made.

W. W. Dykes, of Sumter county, will preside at the luncheon meeting at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Sightseeing Trip.

There will be a sight-seeing trip to Indian mounds and a survey of Indian relics at the municipal auditorium.

Bibb county commissioners will entertain at a barbecue and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, there will be a wrestling match to which commissioners and convention guests have been invited.

The Silver Slipper Revue will be held at the Shrine mosque that night to be followed by dancing.

Matthews will preside at the business sessions, marking the closing of the convention Wednesday morning.

W. D. McCranie, Dodge county commissioner, will speak on "Pure-Bred Cattle" with Frank Hayward, Georgia state forester, will speak on "Fire Control for Georgia Forests."

These will be followed by committee reports, election of officers, selection of the next convention city and other routine business matters. Adjournment will be by noon if plans of convention leaders materialize.

NEWTON TO LAUD PASTOR'S SERVICE

Dr. E. R. Carter Has Served Church 56 Years.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, will speak at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at special services marking the 56th anniversary of Dr. E. R. Carter as pastor of the Friendship church.

The church was the nucleus of Spelman College in 1881, and Atlanta University started in a railroad box car which was used as a place of worship by members of the church, when the college was moved here from Augusta.

The church was begun in the First Baptist church (white) and was organized in 1862. It has had only two pastors, Dr. Frank Quarles, who served from 1862 to 1881, and Dr. Carter, whose pastorate began in 1882.

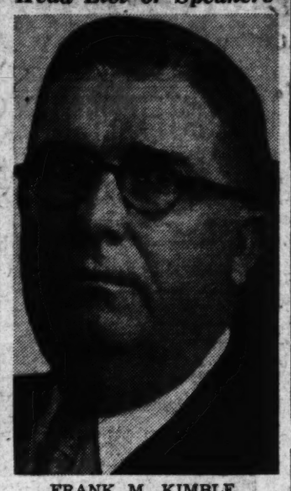

Dr. James B. Adams, pastor of Concord Baptist church, Brooklyn, will speak at 11 o'clock this morning, and a musical offering Gaul's "Holy City," will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight as part of the celebration.

A home-coming reception and an address by Dr. William Holmes Borders, pastor, Wheat Street Baptist church, will feature tomorrow night's observance of Dr. Carter's long career.

MOSELEY DECLINES TO AID GUARD PLANS

Looks 'To the Governor of Georgia' To Furnish Armory Facilities.

A satisfactory solution to the problem of housing Atlanta's national guard unit must be worked out, but the War Department will accept no part of the responsibility for the job, Major General George Van Horn Moseley, fourth corps area commander, said yesterday in a letter to Mayor Hartsfield.

General Moseley, who last week termed the armory situation here "a disgrace," declined to serve on a committee to investigate the situation on the ground that he is "on the other side of this problem."

A resolution requesting him to serve on a committee to make recommendations was adopted by the city council Monday.

"I very much appreciate being considered by the city council in this connection," his letter said, "but I must decline to serve for reasons you will well understand.

"In my position I am the representative of the War Department in this southeastern territory. Under the law and regulations, that same War Department looks to the Governor of Georgia to furnish proper and adequate armory facilities for the national guard of Georgia.

"If that responsibility has been decentralized to the particular localities in which these national guard organizations are situated, that is a matter of state or local policy, and the decentralization of the responsibility to furnish proper armories is in no way recognized by the federal government.

"While I am 100 per cent willing and anxious to help the state or to help any local community in the state properly to solve this question of suitable armories, I cannot take any responsibility in the matter, for I am situated on the other side of the problem, and I must continue to insist, as the representative of the War Department, that this problem be properly solved.

"No part of that responsibility can be transferred to me in any way, as would be the case should I accept a position on your committee."

Orders recently were issued by the city to the 122d infantry to "vacate" its headquarters in the auditorium by May 15 in order to make room for more improvements. It was indicated yesterday, however, that the unit would not be required to move until satisfactory arrangements could be made for storing its equipment.

7 KILLED IN SECT CLASH.

BEIRUT, Syria, April 23.—(AP)—Seven persons today were reported killed and many injured in clashes between Christians and Moslems in the Djezireh region of eastern Syria.

Unwilling Judge Parts Bride, 12, and Mate, 37

GEORGETOWN, Del., April 23.—(UP)—Almira Mae Walls McChesney, Delaware's 12-year-old bride, was committed to a state industrial school for girls today by a judge who wished she "could live" with her 37-year-old husband.

The judge, Earle D. Willey, finding the girl guilty of parole violation, said: "I wish you could live with Samuel McChesney, "but the law forbids the marriage of a girl your age. The minimum age for marriage for a girl in this state is 16 years."

The child bride, sobbing bitterly, was taken from the arms of McChesney, a Lewes, Del., fisherman, and led from the courtroom. McChesney, tears streaming down his face, said he would wait for her "until they send her back."

New Pinwheel Stars Announced; Seem To Make Universe Lopsided

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(AP) Discovery of a new and extremely dense group of galaxies of stars which seem to throw the universe slightly out of balance was announced today before the American Philosophical Society by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard College observatory.

This group, which appears to make the universe somewhat lopsided, was found recently during a "patrol survey" of the heavens to determine the density of galaxies which lie far outside our own milky way, which is also a galaxy of millions of stars.

The survey was made on the density of galaxies approximately 10,000,000 light years away from the earth. A uniform distribution of the galaxies was found over most of the area from the south galactic pole upward toward the plane of the milky way. However, at one point near the south galactic pole, density of the galaxies was found to be eight times the normal distributions, which was the new dense group and which appeared as a long streak through the area.

A theory of how such pinwheel galaxies are formed was offered before the society by Dr. Ernest W. Brown, of Yale University.

A possible explanation is that a group of stars near each other will group together in bars like two pencils lying together. Then, the Yale mathematician declared, the stars nearest the middle of the bars will begin to rotate faster than those near the ends, the results being the formation of the pinwheel arrangement.

The word kilt, designating the costume worn by Scottish Highlanders, is derived from the Danish "kilte," meaning "to tuck up."

GOVERNOR RIVERS REVIEWS RESULTS OF HIS STEWARDSHIP

EXECUTIVE RECALLS EFFORTS TO KEEP PLATFORM PLEDGES

in the larger counties, all counties with a population of more than 70,000 were permitted to make extra assessments.

Duckworth Offers.

Before the committee session adjourned, Assistant Attorney General W. H. Duckworth, of Cairo, qualified as a candidate for the supreme court to succeed Justice John B. Hutcheson, who is retiring.

Zach D. Cravey, of McRae, qualified as a candidate for state treasurer. State Treasurer George B. Hamilton is expected to offer for re-election.

Governor Rivers confined his talk chiefly to a report of his stewardship at the capitol.

Discusses Platform.

He took up, item by item, the platform of the Democratic convention of 1936 and told the committee what he had accomplished toward its completion. He spoke for approximately one hour and 20 minutes.

He made only casual mention of national affairs but the address was interspersed with laudations of President Roosevelt and his program.

The Governor's speech was broadcast over Station WSB.

In presenting Rivers, Executive Committee Chairman Charles S. Reid declared the party was proud of the record made by the Rivers administration.

The closing date and fees were set by the rules committee of the full committee. The rules group was under the leadership of I. S. Peebles, of Augusta, recently appointed its chairman to succeed Justice Warren Grice.

Fees Upped $100.

The fees for major candidates were increased $100 over what they were two years ago. Fees for state house offices likewise were upped $100, Mr. Peebles explaining that the present committee took over an empty treasury and is without any funds to carry on the primary.

Governor Rivers met with the committee in his capacity as national committeeman. Mrs. Fred Stowe, of Toccoa, committee secretary, and Mrs. Helen Williams Coxon, of Ludowici, vice chairman, also attended.

Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, the national committeewoman, also sat at the speaker's table.

Mrs. Rivers, wife of the Governor, and other members of the chief executive's family were in the audience.

Governor's Statement.

In his statement, the Governor opened with a warning that:

"The fact that Georgia is so overwhelmingly Democratic does not relieve the party of its obligation to merit leadership and power," he said.

"While the sense of majority security has caused other committees to be purely perfunctory, this committee has functioned for the party and the people in an active and aggressive manner. It has not satisfied itself with being a perfunctory medium simply for the calling of primaries. This committee has met courageously its duty to assist the Democratic state administration in carrying out the party pledges to the people of this state. The manner in which you have done so will prove, I trust, a precedent for the future, so that when the Democratic party of this state pledges the people a platform those promises will be performed on a party basis."

Thanks Committees.

He then congratulated the committee and expressed gratitude for its help and support, stating that he thanked them "from the depths of an appreciative heart."

"Through the inspiration of your aggressive leadership as officials of the party, we have attracted the widespread co-operation of local and state officials and of the rank and file of the party membership. I am grateful for this extended support and convey my thanks to every official and to every member of the party for his help.

"Especially am I due every praise to the wonderful Democratic general assembly the people gave me to work with. No Democratic Governor can carry out the party platform by himself. He must have the co-operation of the Democrats in the general assembly, his fellow Democratic officers, the officials and members of the party, and the Democratic press in order to do a good job."

Governor Rivers then said he was not unmindful of great assemblies in the past, but that the last general assembly will go down in history as the state's greatest, at least up to this time.

"The fact is, in moments of meditation, I ofttimes wish the President might have the Georgia Democratic general assembly to work with. I am sure that if such a demonstration could be had the present turmoil, confusion, strife and partisan bickerings obstructing the national Democratic program would be supplanted by harmony and intelligent accomplishment. One of the most pleasant experiences of my administration is my work with the general assembly. They have envisaged the Democratic program of progress for the people keenly and comprehensively; they have supported it ably and loyally. It takes men and women of ability, courage and determination, as well as devotion to the interests of the party to do what this assembly has done for the party and the people."

More Praise for Assembly.

Praising the assembly further, the Governor said "few could have had their sweep of vision and their undaunted courage and faith." He drew a parallel between the present stormy times and the voyage of Columbus, pointing out that there were men sailing with the great discoverer who sought to throw him overboard and retrace their route.

"In the present national congress it seems that some, elected there as Democrats, like the companions of Columbus, are failing in their vision and courage, and would even throw the President overboard and retrace their steps, instead of courageously and faithfully following through to the final goal of the national party," Rivers continued.

Declaring that the party platform "becomes the program of all the people," the Governor said:

"We offered the people a platform broad enough, sound enough and appealing enough for any man, woman or child who loves Georgia and the people of this great state to stand on and work for. There is opportunity enough in it for the effort of everyone and there is credit enough in its accomplishments for everyone who assists in it.

United Behind Program.

"The co-operation of the press, of the local officials and of the people is remarkable. The vast majority of our local officials, our state officials, our newspapers, our business people, and the rank and file of the citizens, are working wholeheartedly with me. And to them, and each of them, I owe and express a deep and sincere gratitude."

He then launched into a detailed discussion of the various planks, beginning with the first plank which pledged support of the principles of the national administration and President Roosevelt.

"The second plank in the party platform called for a return to a co-ordinated government by the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government for a law to prevent the Governor from removing or suspending, without a hearing—a public hearing—a public official who is elected by the people; for curtailment of the use of the military except for constitutional purposes; for preventing the military from being used as personal bodyguards of the Governor and preventing the military from being used with their identity disguised by civilian clothes; for a law to enable the general assembly to convene itself of its own motion when the Governor fails or refuses to do so upon appropriate request. All these things have been done in each and every instance."

Other improvements came in the establishment of several of the state's new divisions, the Governor continued, pointing out that merit systems prevailed in the state highway patrol, the unemployment compensation department, and the reorganized tax collecting department. He continued:

"The third plank of the platform calls for returning to operating of the state according to law rather than by the bayonet; for monies to be spent only upon appropriation by the assembly; and for protective measures to prevent future illegal acts such as were practiced by the last administration; and for an inventory and appraisal of all personal property of the state. All of this has been done; and Georgia is again operating according to law, rather than by force of the bayonet.

"The fourth plank of the platform calls for lifting the educational standards of the state; and quite appropriately, I feel, we have made the keystone of our program this plank on education. When 15 months ago this state administration was handed the helm, Georgia, counting the District of Columbia, ranked forty-ninth in the nation in education. The state was furnishing only sufficient funds to operate our schools approximately three months.

"Only about one-fourth of our children had a nine-month term of school. Much of the appropriation to our teachers was finally left unpaid. Thousands of our children had no books with which to go to school, and were out of school entirely or were repeaters in their grades at additional expense in teachers' salaries and loss to themselves. The salary schedule of our teachers was miserably low and in some instances degree teachers were drawing as low as $40 per month, even less than we pay our janitors around the courthouses, capitol and depots."

The Governor then told how much of the tax burden of the communities had been shifted to the state, and discussed in detail the legislation which had brought about this accomplishment.

He explained further how the assumption of the tax burden by the state resulted in rural schools now operating for nine-month terms in most instances, and that no child in Georgia now has less than a seven-month term of school.

"We revised our teachers' salary schedule," he said; "gave them a much deserved increase in pay; and based our pay upon qualification and experience."

He then summed up the provisions made for free schoolbooks, prefacing his remarks by a resume of the fact that many children previously were unable to attend school because their parents were too poor to buy books. He went on:

"With these three measures—the seven-month term, plus the equalization fund; the teachers' salary schedule; and the free schoolbooks—we have, in the short space of 15 months, brought Georgia from 49th well up among our sister states in the education of our boys and girls; and no longer do Georgians have to hang their heads in shame and apologize for our system of education."

Book Costs Reduced.

Still discussing schoolbooks, the Governor explained how cost of the books had been brought down, and contrasted the present cost with that under the "old system." Discussing the future cost, he said:

"It is the experience of the operation of free schoolbook systems in other states that it costs an average of $1 a child per year to maintain the free school book program after it is initially installed. On the basis of that experience, Georgia having approximately 1,000,000 school children, at $1 per child, it will cost us approximately $1,000,000 each year in the future to keep up our schoolbook program."

The Governor next launched into a discussion of the fifth plank of the party platform, exemption from taxation of personally and small owner-occupied homes, saying, in part:

"Our program of taxation proposed a reduction of the local tax burdens by letting the state assume a larger share in supporting the schools, public health and other governmental activities that had been bearing too heavily on the people through local taxation. We did shift a large part of this burden from the local taxpayer to the state. This enabled us to reduce local taxes."

Explains Exemptions.

He followed this by explaining the importance of home and household and kitchen furniture exemptions and illustrating how the legislature worked out the problem.

He said:

"However, the desirability of home exemption, in addition to tax relief, must not be overlooked. The home is the citadel of our civilization. Without these quiet cottages, which we have exempted from taxation, and the social structure they maintain, there would be no freedom worthy of the name, no progress worthy of the effort, no republic fit for preservation.

"The home is the unit of society, the foundation of government, the comfort and crown of life. It precedes every form of social structure.

The Governor then stated that through home and household tax exemptions, the administration had accomplished much to preserve the family and to anchor people on their own little plots of land. He said this had been "one of the most popular planks."

Discusses Education.

Taking up the discussion of education, he told of advances made in libraries, modern curricula, and other improvements. He continued:

"As evidence of the educational renaissance, to which I refer, we have completed 210 new public school buildings in the state up to last November 1; and, since November 1, have built 1,795 additional school rooms.

"We have increased the number of our public school teachers holding four-year certificates in the past year nearly 1,000.

"We have increased the appropriation to the University System, and have practically doubled the amount of money that has heretofore been appropriated by the state in any one year for public school education and, what is more, we will pay the teachers 100 cents on the dollar this year for every dollar we have promised them. The total amount of money from the state treasury to the public schools this year in addition to the University System appropriation aggregates $14,500,000. (Nine and a quarter million dollars, the common school appropriation, $3,000,000, the equalization fund; and $2,500,000 for free schoolbooks.)"

He then summed up the aid given to forestry education, to research and vocational training. He said:

"Another problem we are now tackling vigorously is the eradication of adult illiteracy. The last federal census shows we had in Georgia slightly more than 200,000 adults who could neither read nor write. Strangely significant it is that this number of adults is approximately the same as the total number of children we put in school this year with the free schoolbooks who had to stay out of school heretofore because they could not get the books.

"This evidences the fact that we were growing a new crop of illiterate people each year as the older ones died because we were permitting these 200,000 boys and girls to grow up without learning how to read and write."

The Governor spoke further of illiteracy, telling of the work being done in gathering accurate statistics on the subject, and pointing out that illiteracy means lower earning and that blights of nature do not equal in money the loss suffered through illiteracy.

As for financing this program, he said:

"Not having sufficient state funds with which to undertake the program of eradicating adult illiteracy, we have requested the federal government to give us 1,500 WPA teachers paid for by the federal government, to conduct this illiteracy campaign. The federal government has already given us more than 900 of these teachers, and will give us the remainder of 1,500 as fast as we set up classes and enroll our people in them. We have already covered 55,000 of the 200,000 in these classes."

He then dwelt on the human angle of the problem, relating how instructed groups beam in happiness. He told of attending a class recently in Gainesville, which was to him an "inspiring sight."

Fiscal Problems.

Following his words on illiteracy, the Governor took up fiscal problems, saying the "fiscal problem created for the schools by the exemptions has been substantially met," and the actual effect of the exemptions on the finances of each county will vary, and that only at the end of this year can the actual needs of each county be determined.

Discussing the fifth plank in the platform, calling for tax revision, of which exemptions were a part, he said:

"Suffice it to say, we have accomplished a revision of our tax system, fundamentally, and in detail, that many tax students believe will, once functioning efficiently, adequately meet the needs of the state for revenue."

Coming to the sixth plank, calling for the reorganization of the State Highway Department and the Board of Control, and establishment of a state and federal-supported system of rural route highways, the Governor said "all of these promises have been fulfilled."

Touching on the Highway Board, he declared it has "restored the confidence of the people."

Labor Department.

Discussion of the seventh plank dealt with creation of a department of labor, which, the Governor said, has "supported the right of the working man to collective bargaining and to freely organize, and has been able to settle all threatened disturbances between employes and employers, without resort to force."

"Another part of the seventh plank calls for the co-operation of our state with the federal government," he said, "on conservation of our natural resources, soil erosion, development of live stock industry, flood control, co-operation of the Department of Agriculture, extension forces and other agricultural units with our farmers, and generally a program to make more attractive the farm life, so as to hold our young people on the farm where they are needed to build up a greater and more prosperous commonwealth.

"We have carried out these items of this plank of the platform. We have created a State Planning Board, that is working in harmony with the Federal Planning Board, and have reorganized our Natural Resources Departments and so co-ordinated the reorganization with each division and with the Planning Board and, in turn, with the federal government that we are told, both by the federal authorities and by leading conservationists of other states, that Georgia has the outstanding laws in this respect of all the states of the entire nation."

Freight Rate Parity.

He said the administration realized farms must be made attractive to youth, and then referred to the battle for freight rate parity, declaring:

"We have organized a Southeastern Governors' Conference, and are co-operating with the Democrats of the southeastern states as a group for the advancement of the interest of this section. Of particular interest is the fact that we are now making a hard drive to secure a parity of the freight rates of our section, so that we can get out from under the 39 per cent handicap that it costs us to ship from our section over what it costs to ship into our section. This will be a tremendous help to our farmers, and to the development of industry in this great state."

Planks 8 and 9, the Governor linked together—the expanded public health program and old-age pensions and other forms of social security.

Health Fund Boost.

"We increased our appropriation to public health from $100,000 to $600,000 and, by co-operating with the federal government, have obtained $400,000 per year from them, which gives a health program of approximately $1,000,000 per year," he said.

The Governor devoted much time to the discussion of social security, telling of obstacles placed in the way, and what had been done along these lines.

"Although," he said, "we have been functioning only nine months with our state program of social security, we are now paying more people benefits through public assistance in this program in Georgia than are paid by any other southern state, except Texas. It has been the experience of every state that the first 18 months of operation is the most expensive to administer, and that it generally takes two years to get the program functioning smoothly."

He then discussed the work of the welfare department and the local welfare boards.

"If there is any department in the state government in which partisan politics should be laid aside," he said, "and in which the people should co-operate regardless of political alignments, it is the program of public welfare."

Referring to unemployment insurance, he said we "now have sufficient funds with which to start paying unemployment compensation benefits," and then went into a discussion of the 10th plank of the platform, reform of the prison and parole system, and remedying the problem of loss of lives and violation of laws upon the highways.

"The new penal program has been the marvel of both the federal government and our sister states," he said.

"The other part of the 10th plank calls for legislation to remedy the problem of loss of lives and violation of the laws upon our highways," he said. We carried out this part of the platform by establishing a state police patrol. It is recognized as one of the best in the entire nation, although in existence only a few months. In setting up the state patrol, we followed strictly the merit system. In addition we gave the patrolmen several weeks of instruction, and prepared them for their work. No more courteous or efficient patrol exists in the entire country."

Insurance Rates Reduced.

During the first six months operation of the police patrol, the Governor continued, insurance rates were reduced approximately 20 per cent, and burglary and robbery insurance on business houses reduced.

He spoke also of the first aid work of the patrol, investigations, recovery of stolen property, aiding in captures of escapes, school boy patrol activities, and fighting forest fires.

"The platform ends as it begins with a pledge of loyalty to President Roosevelt and the National Democratic party," he said.

"We have not let the attitude of faltering doubters deter us in our unswerving support of our great President," the Governor continued. "We expect to follow through with him to the goal of his ambition to do something about the problems that beset the well-being of the masses of the people. No matter how hot the water gets, nor how much rabbit is evidenced by others, we expect to carry out this platform pledge of loyalty to the President because we know the President is the friend of the masses. We have seen reforms during his tenure of office that have benefitted us. We know he knows more about the needs of the people, and we know that he will do more about serving the needs of the people, than any living leader in the nation. We have seen him accomplish for our benefit measures that other officeholders and office-seekers had, for generations, told us were impossible. We have seen him correct conditions that other office-holders before him had declared incorrectable and a scourge to be endured."

Much To Be Done.

The Governor said there is "yet much to be done," and that he was working "night and day to this end. The duties of the Governor at the moment are so exacting that there is no time to give to other enterprises if one does a good job of being governor," he said.

"In view of this, the interests of the people of the state will be best served by me retaining at this time my status as governor, rather than immediately changing to a candidate for public office. For this reason, I am postponing, for the present, becoming a candidate for any public office."

Phillips Moore Says He'll Oppose Owen

Phillips Moore, of Heard county, until recently airport advisor with the Bureau of Air Commerce here, announced last night he would run for the fourth district congressional post held by Representative Emmet Owen, of Griffin.

A civil engineer, Moore was educated at the Carrollton Agricultural and Mechanical College, and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

REPORTER PICTURES DOOMING OF FOUR

Allowed To Witness Trial by Secret Loyalist Treason Court.

By ROBERT OKIN.

BARCELONA, April 23.—(AP)—The secret court of espionage and high treason today sentenced four men to death—three of them soldiers charged with attempting to desert to France, and the fourth a robber.

By special permission of the court, the Associated Press reporter was allowed to view the three-hour proceedings which were of increasing interest as the government pursued its campaign to clean up the rear guard.

Three women were tried on charges of aiding the deserters, but escaped death sentences. One of them, Teresa Veloy Sastre, 38, of Lerida, was given a 23-year prison term for housing and concealing deserters. The other two, clerks in the agricultural ministry, were ordered tried in lower court on lighter charges of disaffection toward the regime.

Former Professor.

Typical of the three soldier-defendants was Ricardo Lopez Garcia, 35. He wore seedy, brown-striped pants and fingered his rough woolen trench cap as he talked quietly.

He told the court he had been a professor of German, French and mathematics in a Madrid private school before the war. He joined the International Brigade as an interpreter and was made a lieutenant.

"You wrote Fascist propaganda, you lived with Fascists, you sympathized with Fascists?" the court asked.

"No! No!" the defendant replied, shaking his head vigorously.

He explained he did not like life in the International Brigade, that he was ill in a hospital and later went to Lerida.

Then he admitted he falsified papers which would permit him to leave, but said he was willing to return to the army if he would not be assigned to the International Brigade.

"Is it true you were drunk most of the time?" the court asked.

'I Drank Anything.'

"Yes," he replied mildly. "I drink anything and I only stop when I have no money."

The other soldier-defendants in turn were shown papers which they were charged with falsifying. They protested their only motives were to come to Barcelona and that they did not attempt to desert to France.

The women then were heard.

Senora Veloy Sastre told her story in mile-a-minute Spanish, garnished freely with gestures. She said she supplied rooms for the men in return for board money but denied she made any attempt to conceal them.

The two agricultural clerks denied they had aided the three soldier-defendants.

Trotsky Group Member.

In the final case, Antonio Ricard Bean, 29, was charged with robbing a pharmacist at a pistol point. He testified he was a member of P. O. U. M., so-called "Trotsky group," and had served at the front for a year. He denied the robbery charges.

The testimony finished, the prosecutor asked that the death sentence be imposed because "in wartime it is necessary for the welfare of the republic."

BUSINESS LEADERS MEET IN 'JAMBOREE'

50 of Nation's Industrialists Gather at Nashville for Week-End Play.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—(AP)—Business is business and it's all right in its place, but there are times when it's decidedly out of place.

That was the attitude of a half-hundred of the nation's foremost industrialists who gathered in Nashville today for a week-end "jamboree."

What has newsmen in Nashville puzzled is that this "jamboree" has been held here each year for the last seven and until this year had not been discovered.

The general idea, it was explained, is that business becomes a headache every once in a while, especially about the time of the annual spring fever epidemic, and well, "all work and no play—."

So seven years ago, F. O. Reemer, vice president of the Pullman-Standard Manufacturing Company, wired a small group of friends to meet him in Nashville for a week-end in which charts, prices, markets, directors' meetings and the like would be pushed into the background.

Among those who relaxed for golf on fashionable Belle Meade Country Club's course today are B. F. Fairless, president of United States Steel; H. W. Phelps, chairman of the board, American Can Company; H. A. Baker, president of American Can; C. A. Liddle, president of Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Company, and D. A. Crawford, president of the Pullman Company.

Tonight the industrialists dined; tomorrow it will be more golf and more dining.

Then Monday—back to desks and markets and directors' meetings.

YOUNG PERSHINGS FLY ON HONEYMOON

Son's Ceremonies Exhilarate Hungry General.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Warren Pershing and his bride left tonight by plane for San Francisco on the first lap of their round-the-world wedding trip.

His father, General John J. Pershing, wartime commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, spent the day quietly in his hotel room, somewhat exhilarated by the wedding yesterday.

"It was like a tonic for him," his doctor commented.

"If I keep on eating the way I have since I have been in New York," the general said, "I'll put back all the flesh I lost during my illness."

GOLD IN GEORGIA IS DEEP IN EARTH GEOLOGIST THINKS

Revival of Mining Operations Is Cited by Captain Garland Peyton.

By LUKE GREENE.

Gold is where you find it, and Captain Garland Peyton, director of the state division of mining and geology, believes the prospects for finding it in Georgia are promising, despite reports from Washington to the contrary.

A revival in gold mining operations has taken place throughout the state, with one of the largest mining companies in the country starting operations in Haralson county, Captain Peyton said.

He bases his optimism on the success that may be obtained from mining at a depth. He, too, holds out little hope for the prospectors who expect to find the precious metal on the earth's surface.

Futile Efforts.

An engineer for the Bureau of Mines in Washington recently pointed out that efforts of a few hardy gold-seekers who still look for rainbow's end along the Atlantic Seaboard are practically futile.

The engineer explained that gold production in the eastern states never had been very high; that in 1937 the output was only 10,536 ounces, valued at $368,760, compared with 4,047,297 ounces, valued at $141,655,395 produced in the western states and Alaska.

"Nobody has ever gone very deep in the ground, and there is no certainty of opinion as to what exists there in the way of gold, but in view of the large amount of surface gold that was mined in the early days it is reasonable to expect large deposits at considerable depths," Captain Peyton said.

Good Ore.

"We do know that we have bodies of ore 30 feet wide and valued at $10 per ton, and certainly that is good ore in anybody's country," he added.

The geologist said there isn't a 500-foot vertical shaft in Georgia.

"Although we have mined gold for 100 years, for the first time we have an adequately trained company trying to investigate gold ores at a depth," Captain Peyton said.

He said gold mining has been revived recently in Carroll county, adjoining Haralson county, and three old mines in north Georgia have been reopened within the past few months.

Georgia's production last year, as figured by the Bureau of Mines, was 704 ounces, as compared with Alabama's 2,450 ounces and South Carolina's 2,343 ounces.

Dr. T. Poole Maynard, well-known consulting geologist of Atlanta, will speak to the Georgia Mineral Society at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Central Y. M. C. A. on Luckie street. His subject will be "Opportunities and Experiences in Professional Geology." S. P. Cronheim is president of the society.

QUINTUPLET COSTS

$26,460 Annually Spent on Girls and Staff.

CALLANDER, Ont., April 23.—(UP)—The guardians of the Dionne quintuplets, whose father Oliva, wants an investigation of their management, spent $26,460 a year on the girls and their staff, it was learned today.

The sum, amounting to $2,205 a month, is approximately $5,000 in excess of interest from their $600,000 estate, most of which is invested in government bonds.

The expenditures are for operation of the Dafoe nursery, home of the quintuplets, and payment of salaries to a large staff which includes Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe, their physician.

Promptly at 7:45 o'clock this morning, H. W. Dent, of 867 Myrtle street, N. E., president of the Warner Hill Men's Bible Class of St. Mark Methodist church, was sitting at his telephone calling every member to be sure he got to Sunday school on time. Officers of the class realized that the change to daylight saving time might cause even the most conscientious to oversleep.

Meanwhile City Clerk Joe Richardson issued 39 Atlanta retail store licenses, including one to Cannon, who also got City License No. 1.

Cannon's store will be on the Cain street side of the hotel.

"We will begin operations at noon Monday," the hotel man said. "However, all liquor to go on sale will come through Atlanta wholesalers, and we will wait until it arrives here and not attempt to purchase it from other Georgia wholesalers."

TEACHER IS LOSER ON MARRIAGE BAN

terms and conditions of her re-election. But she chose the course pursued by her, and the court is powerless to declare her an employe of the county board of education when she had declined to become one on the terms of her re-election."

Miss Long last summer signed a contract sent her by Superintendent Jere A. Wells and added a notation that where certain provisions in the contract were concerned they were not to bind her.

Included in the provisions was the county's strict rule that marriage of a teacher within the system means termination of her services as a teacher at the end of the school term. The rule further provides that no teacher who marries during a vacation can return to the system.

The mandamus yesterday was the third court fight Miss Long's attorney, Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, had launched to attempt to force the county board to recognize her client's status as a teacher.

Injunction proceedings last fall were denied by Judge Paul S. Etheridge when Miss Long sought to restrain Wells from "removing her from the system. A municipal court suit to recover her first month's salary was also filed last fall.

After Miss Long signed the contract sent her last summer and gave it to Wells, he returned it to her, saying the board could not accept it with her exceptions.

The court upheld his stand that the county board had the right to make its own rules governing its employes conduct in the performance of their duty.

Miss Long contended that under an act of the legislature of March 30, 1937, she was automatically an employe of the county board. The act, as cited in the ruling yesterday, provided civil service for teachers in counties with population of more than 200,000 persons. The act provided that persons employed for a "total period of as long as three years" shall "automatically be reappointed by the county board of education and no person shall be discharged from such position or refused reappointment except for disability, inefficiency, insubordination or moral turpitude."

HANDS OF CLOCKS ADVANCED AN HOUR

themselves in a fix? Mother retired after moving the hands of the clock forward an hour. Father finished his reading a few minutes later and turned out the lights after setting the clock. Junior came breezing in some time later. One look at him would confirm spring's presence. Junior's best girl had made him very happy tonight. Of course, he didn't look at the clock, just absent-mindedly moved it forward as the papers had advised all to do.

Bible Class Reaction.

Then, too, the old gent wanted to watch the reaction of members of the Warner Hill Men's Bible class of St. Mark Methodist church, when their telephones ring this morning. Officers of the class promised to call all members at 7:45 o'clock so they would have no excuse for being late to church.

Yes, Father Time was happy. He had thought the office workers needed more exercise. And this trade will give the golf fans an extra hour to finish their game and provide time for others to get some outdoor exercise throughout the warm summer months. Yep, where health is concerned, Father Time sees no reason for anyone begrudging an hour's delay in the morning mail. Postmaster Lon Livingston had pointed out train schedules would not change and mail now arriving at 6 and 6:30 o'clock would be an hour later, thus being delivered at business offices on the postman's second round instead of the first. The setup looked good to him.

Daylight saving time also went into effect in six eastern states and in 748 communities of 11 other states at 2 a. m. today. The lives of approximately 30,000,000 Americans were stepped ahead one hour by the change, which remains in effect until September 25.

"Summer time" is observed generally in New Hampshire, New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Other states in which numerous communities follow the advanced time schedule are New York, Pennsylvania, Maine, Vermont, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Idaho.

Labrador, Newfoundland, 75 Canadian communities and nine European nations also observe daylight saving time.

WOMAN ARRESTED IN SIMON THEFT

Confession by Ex-Secretary Reported by Prosecutor.

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—(AP) Sandra Martin, pretty brunette secretary of Simone Simon, French film actress, was arrested today by district attorney's investigators, who announced she confessed spending thousands of dollars withdrawn from the actress' bank account to buy herself expensive jewels and clothing.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said the woman, arrested at the home of friends where she had spent the night, admitted taking at least $16,000.

Informed at her home of the arrest, Miss Simon said:

"I feel just sick about the whole thing. I'm terribly sorry. It is such a disappointment and it is also so confusing I don't know what to say."

VON PAPEN RETURNS FROM ESTATE IN SAAR

BERLIN, April 23.—(UP)—Baron Franz von Papen, former German chancellor and veteran diplomat, arrived from his estate in the Saar territory today, dispelling rumors abroad he had disappeared and his life was in danger.

Fears among friends of von Papen grew yesterday when it was revealed the former special ambassador's secretary, Baron Kon Keppler, had committed suicide in a forest near Vienna. Von Papen was ambassador to Austria before the anschluss.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO HONOR LEADERS

Dinner Saturday To Convey Recognition of Their Aid to Cultural Progress.

Atlantans known for their contributions to the state's cultural progress, and for their work in gaining recognition for the city's history, will be honored with a dinner at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night by the Atlanta Historical Society.

The event, to be held in the Atlanta Woman's Club, will honor J. J. Haverty, art connoisseur and collector; Mrs. Myrta Lockett Avary, author and newspaper contributor; Walter G. Cooper, newspaperman and author of two historical works; Eugene M. Mitchell, authority on Atlanta history; Mrs. J. K. Ottley Sr., exponent of education for the underprivileged, and Mrs. A. McD. Wilson Sr., clubwoman.

The guests will be introduced by Philip Weltner. Former Governor John M. Slaton will respond for them.

Receiving will be Franklin M. Garrett, vice president of the society; Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of trustees; Stephens Mitchell, editor of the Atlanta Historical Bulletin, and Miss Ruth Blair, executive secretary of the organization.

John Ashley Jones will welcome the guests. Mrs. Charles P. King, Mrs. Wilbur Kurtz, Mrs. Donald Loyless and Mrs. Lola W. Clement will assist in entertaining.

Germans beyond Germany's borders.

"We belong to a great nation which is led by a great man," he said. "It has recovered its inner strength and confidence."

Czech officialdom watched the outcome of the meeting closely, since it came in the midst of a barrage of anti-Czech propaganda in newspaper in neighboring countries—Germany, Poland and Hungary.

Henlein's representative, Deputy Karl Hermann Frank, opened today's session with a speech reviewing the Austrian-German union and the united German movement in Czechoslovakia. He was followed by Kundt, who, in voicing a demand for autonomy, declared Premier Milan Hodza's proposed grant of additional minority rights to Germans in Czechoslovakia was wholly inadequate.

Czechoslovakia's 186,000 Jews, especially those living in Sudeten German sections, watched with special anxiety. If the Germans are granted autonomy, it is taken for granted they will apply anti-Jewish measures in all communities under their control.

5 RUSSIAN PLANES ON WAY TO PRAHA

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, April 23.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said five bombers bought by the Czachoslovak army from Soviet Russia were forced down today at Jassy, Rumania, by bad weather.

The planes, flown by Czech pilots, were en route here.

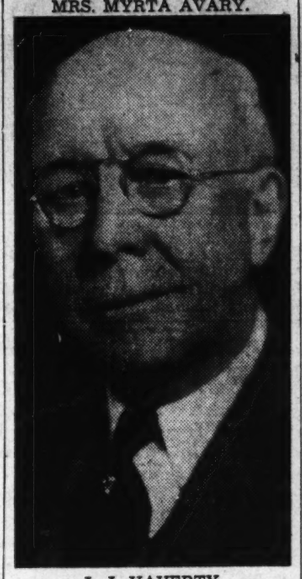

This was disclosed in explanation of reports abroad that 300 Soviet bombers had flown over Rumania. These reports were described as "completely invented."

Most of the U. S. government medals struck during the Revolutionary war were made in France.

'DISCRIMINATION'

Berlin Accuses U. S. on Helium Sale Attitude.

BERLIN, April 23.—(UP)—Refusal of the United States to sell Helium for German Zeppelins, coupled with the possibility France and Britain may be permitted to buy American military plans, has deeply impressed official quarters here.

While no official comment is forthcoming, the situation is interpreted in government circles as another example of discrimination on the part of the democracies. The possibility is seen of the United States, Britain and France developing an "arms front."

The government-inspired press took notice of the matter and the Berlin Tageblatt published a dispatch from Paris which alleged that the tri-power "arms front" was being created.

TEN ARMY BOMBERS EN ROUTE TO PANAMA

MIAMI, Fla., April 23.—(UP)—A squadron of 10 army bombers under command of Lieutenant-Colonel W. O. Butler landed at Miami municipal airport today after a flight from Maxwell Field, Ala.

The planes are en route from Moffett Field, Cal., to the Panama Canal Zone, where they will become a part of the 19th wing of the army's general headquarters air force. The planes were scheduled to leave here tomorrow for Havana, Cuba.

NAZIS MAKE JEWS PICKET OWN STORES

Force Them To Carry Cards Urging Public Not To Buy From Them.

VIENNA, April 23.—(AP)—Jews in Vienna were forced today to picket their own stores.

Jewish shopkeepers were made to hold upwards at arm's length signs reading "Don't Buy From Jews."

In some instances they remained in this position 40 minutes or longer.

Draped about the necks of persons found in Jewish establishments were placards proclaiming: "This stupid, common person still purchases at Jewish stores."

Hundreds of SA (brownshirt) Hitler youth directed the mass anti-Jewish boycott, while German officials began a purge of the famed Austrian national library.

The chief librarian received a list of proscribed "non-Aryan" works to be removed and burned from the 1,200,000 volumes in the magnificent collection.

Public bookshops already have conducted their own purge.

Destroyed or relegated to cellars were the works of Thomas Mann, Stefan Zweig, Jacob Wassermann, Vicki Baum and others.

In the picketing of Jewish stores, Nazis put up signs, warning, "Aryans, do not buy from Jews." Windows of a leading coffee shop were smeared with three-foot red letters "Jew."

One aged man, forced to hold aloft an anti-Jewish placard, fainted twice. He was revived by cold water thrown into his face, then made to carry on again.

Bite of Dog Is Fatal To 20-Month-Old Baby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 23.—(UP)—Joseph Franklin Allison, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allison, died in a hospital here today of hydrophobia.

The child, bitten by a dog two months ago, was stricken Monday. Thursday he became violent and grew steadily worse.

EMORY TO BE HOSTS TO JUNIOR BRANCHES

More Than 75 Students To Be Entertained at Annual Week End.

Emory University will be host to more than 75 students of the institution's colleges at Oxford and Valdosta next Friday and Saturday, at the annual junior college week end.

Representatives of the two junior divisions will participate in sporting events and social activities. On Saturday the Emory Woman's Club will give a dinner honoring the students, at which faculty members and prominent Georgia educators will be present.

Athletic events between the two schools will be held Friday and Saturday afternoons, with teams vying for honors in baseball, track, tennis and swimming.

Fraternities on the Atlanta campus have planned social functions to entertain the representatives.

Orphan Animals Will Find Homes As Atlanta Marks Humane Week

Local Society To Seek 1,000 Members in Plan for Improvements of Headquarters So That Better Care May Be Provided for Pets.

Countless orphan animals who long for a home and a master and a sympathetic word may get their chance this week as Atlanta joins in the observance of Humane Week.

Although there are many institutions to care for people, there is only one free shelter for homeless animals—that of the Atlanta Humane Society.

The society takes in injured dogs and cats, finds homes for those not mangy or ill, and painlessly puts to sleep surplus kittens that are brought in before their eyes are open. More than 100 animals are placed in homes every month. Next week there will be special emphasis on preventing cruelty and injustice to animals.

Officials of the Atlanta Humane Society said that it sought at least 1,000 members. Its present needs are a properly equipped shelter, longer runs for dogs, places for keeping the larger animals which are sometimes brought in, a clinic where those who love their pets and who cannot pay for treatment may obtain it free, another ambulance and an animal cemetery.

The north, it was explained, is seemingly more humane conscious than the south. All large cities and most of the smaller ones there have efficient societies, memorial cages donated in memory of loved animals, skilled veterinarians in charge of clinics, adequate shelters and well-kept cemeteries with neat headstones, where pets can be buried.

Atlantans were urged to visit the society's shelter and to attend the meetings on the first Tuesday of every month at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Next week the society's slogan will be especially appropriate—"Treat every living creature as you would like to be treated if you were that creature."

5 GEORGIA WOMEN IN PARTY PARLEY

Mrs. Rivers Leads Group to Columbia.

Five prominent Georgia women democrats will have important parts of the program of the southeastern regional conference of democratic women at Columbia, S. C., this week, it was announced yesterday.

Those who will take part in the program are Mrs. J. A. Rollison, of Waycross, president of the Georgia Affiliated Women's Democratic Clubs; Mrs. Louis Roos, Mrs. George M. Murray and Mrs. Max E. Land. Mrs. E. D. Rivers is scheduled to head the Georgia delegation to Columbia.

Mrs. Rollison will present Mrs. Thomas F. McAllister, director of the women's division of the democratic national committee, at the opening luncheon of the conference.

The meeting will take place Wednesday and Thursday. A number of prominent national figures will take part in the conference.

BURNS SENTENCED TO SEVEN YEARS

$8,000 Bail Bond Frees Pee Wee Five Minutes After Sentencing.

the time they were employed as deputy sheriffs.

In counts 11 through 23, he was charged with paying bribes of $25 to former deputies W. L. Moore and S. G. Davies monthly for a year. The next 13 counts charged him with paying Gus H. Howard Jr., and Joe F. Schilling Sr., former deputies, $50 a month for a year. The last count charged he paid a $25 bribe to City Policemen W. H. Rauschenberg and R. R. Davis on October 5, 1937.

Finch contended the indictment actually constituted only four offenses against the defendant, according to law, since in the counts against each set of officers the charge was similar and related.

The Greater Crime.

"It is the natural sense of the public that the greater crime is that of the trusted official who is not only a party to the criminal's act, but who is unfaithful to his trust in protecting it," Judge Etheridge stated.

"Public sentiment is strong in this case, but I am not going to be swayed by public opinion. The public expects me to inflict a penalty of 37 years. I do not intend to do that.

"From what has been brought out, I believe the grand jury was seeking the co-operation of this man and he defied them. I have an idea that if this man had cooperated with them, he would have been granted immunity. Immunity does not sit well with the grand jury, but there seems to be no other way out of it."

Contempt Hearing.

Judge Etheridge later set date for hearing the contempt attachment sent out last week against W. R. Osborne, for refusing to talk before the grand jury, for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Commitment hearings for two witnesses who testified for the state in the trial of Burns, Carl Aiken and David Townsend, on perjury warrants sworn out against them will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Former Fulton Superior Judge G. H. Howard Sr., father of Gus H. Howard Jr., swore out a warrant against Townsend Friday. City Policemen Davis and Rauschenberg each swore perjury warrants against Aiken. Aiken testified he saw Burns pay off the two policemen, while Townsend stated he often paid off young Howard for Burns.

Facing 8-Year Sentence.

Burns went into court with an eight-year sentence for a robbery conviction in Macon pending against him. The sentence has been delayed by an appeal in the Bibb county court and Burns was at liberty on $5,000 appeal bond.

The Bibb county conviction has priority over the Fulton conviction, but he can be held by Fulton until called by the Bibb superior court, attaches here said.

GUFFEY-KELLY ROW DRAWS U. S. PROBE

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(AP)—The federal government moved swiftly today into Pennsylvania's Democratic primary battle scene where warring factions, both vowing support of the New Deal, are shouting counter accusations of "political coercion" in relief and public works.

The Works Progress Administration ordered an investigation after John B. Kelly, Philadelphia Democratic chairman, told President Roosevelt he had "undeniable evidence" that Senator Guffey attempted to influence WPA workers for political purposes. Washington ordered a WPA official here to ask Kelly for "specific information."

From Guffey's side came charges that Kelly himself was guilty of the sort of "coercion" he laid to the senator. Guffey, long a Democratic power in Pennsylvania, broke with the state committee over its slating of Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, for the gubernatorial nomination at the May 17 primary. Guffey threw his support to Lieutenant Governor Kennedy, who is backed for governor by John L. Lewis, CIO leader.

Governor Earle—Guffey's running mate four years ago in the Democratic victory that broke a 40-year period of Republican control and put Pennsylvania in the list of "doubtful" states—became the state committee's choice for United States senator. The Guffey-Lewis forces selected Republican-elected Mayor Wilson as Earle's opponent.

Meanwhile, the Republican campaign, with former Governor Gifford Pinchot once more, at 72, seeking the nomination against Judge Arthur H. James, of Pittston, near Wilkes-Barre, has been marked by spirited campaigning but without the spectacular acrimony of the Democrats.

Pee Wee Burns Hears Judge Order Him Fined $4,000, Sent to Prison

As Judge Paul S. Etheridge prepared to sign an order after sentencing Pee Wee Burns to seven years in prison and added a fine of $4,000 in Fulton superior court yesterday, the photographer's flash caught Burns staring moodily at the order on the judge's bench. Spectators jammed the courtroom to hear the sentence yesterday after following Burns' trial to the jury's verdict of guilty Friday. Left to right are: Judge Etheridge, seated on the bench, Burns, with mouth open, standing at his attorney's elbow, and W. R. Bentley, addressing the judge. Clerk of Court J. W. Simmons stands at the right looking on. Five minutes after the sentence, $8,000 bond was posted.

Special Prosecutor Asks Public For Co-operation in Graft Inquiry

Grand Jury Investigation Will Be Continued, Andrews Says in Answer to "Some Indication of Impatience on the Part of Certain Persons."

As the Fulton county grand jury prepared to take up its graft investigation, temporarily sidetracked for the trial of Pee Wee Burns, Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews yesterday called for "co-operation of the public" in answer to what he said was "some indication of impatience on the part of certain persons concerning progress of the special investigation."

His statement in full follows:

"There is some indication of impatience on the part of certain persons concerning the progress which has been made in the special investigation now before the grand jury.

"First I wish the public to understand that it is not the duty of the solicitor general's office to undertake to police Atlanta.

Duty Up To County.

"This duty rests upon more than 500 law enforcement officers in Fulton county. It is the primary duty of these officers to police Fulton county against racketeers and law violators, and against dishonest officers as well. It is their duty to procure the evidence and lay it before the grand jury, of such violations, then it becomes the duty of the solicitor general to prosecute.

"The grand jury has undertaken to do this job because it is apparent that no such effort has been made.

"The grand jury is charged with the responsibility of investigating county affairs, and much of its time has been taken up with such work. But outside of this normal duty the grand jury has devoted all the time it was possible to devote to the investigation of bribes and payoffs. It has worked long hours, and at extra sessions, at great loss of time to its membership from their own personal business.

"The public should understand the difficulties that have confronted the grand jury. It should understand that organized racketeering, when protected by arresting officers, is hard to uncover, and it can only be uncovered through long and tedious effort.

Ample Time Necessary.

"To do the job that must be done, the investigating grand jury must have ample time in which to do it. They must have public co-operation, without impatience on the part of the public.

"In order to avoid indictments that are not thoroughly prepared, patience, above all things, is imperative.

"While it is not the duty of the solicitor's office, nor of the grand jury, to take up the work which should have been done by the law enforcement agencies of this county, the job has been undertaken and will be pursued diligently.

"Every effort will be used to expose and prosecute all officers involved in the taking of graft and bribes, where the evidence is ample to justify an indictment, or sufficiently strong to reasonably expect a conviction.

Only Four Investigators.

"Does it seem fair that any impatience should be exhibited when the set-up of the solicitor's office is such that only four investigators are available for this work and for the other duties in the solicitor's office in the preparation of cases? Is it not the primary duty of those in authority in law enforcement bodies to clean their own house rather than to impose the task upon the grand jury—and then, making no efforts themselves to aid, to criticise that body because the job is not done with lightning speed.

"We concede that there are many fine and splendid characters among the law enforcement bodies, and no reflection is intended to be cast upon them. It is only the faithless ones who are bringing discredit on their fellows and on themselves.

"Therefore, I implore these good men to render every assistance in their power to bring before the grand jury evidence of the faithlessness of their fellows.

"The honest men in law enforcement cannot justly complain that they are being besmirched by publicity as to the crimes of their fellows if they themselves remain silent on those crimes.

"When the public realizes that this job is not solely the job of the grand jury and the solicitor's office, but is the duty of every citizen and every officer, the results will be quickly achieved.

"If we cannot get, and do not get, this co-operation which we ask, the job will be carried on—patiently, untiringly, slowly, of necessity, until the investigation is completed and results accomplished which we have every reason to believe will satisfy the public.

"Nothing will deter the investigation.

"The clumsy trick of swearing out perjury warrants against state's witnesses during the progress of the trial, a cheap attempt to intimidate those who in the future might be called upon to testify, will not deter the investigation.

"In the face of the fact that the 23 men on the grand jury believed in the truth of the testimony of these witnesses, in the face of the fact that 12 men on the jury which convicted Burns heard and believed their testimony, these charges of perjury can be readily recognized for what they really are—a cheap, clumsy, and old legal trick designed only to create fear in the hearts of witnesses and a little public sympathy for the officers whom the testimony held up as faithless to their trust."

Every disease and death among the Polynesians is believed to be caused by the gods for some crime against taboo or the result of some offering by an enemy.

JAPANESE CLAIM KIANGSU ADVANCE

Report Driving Way to Within 30 Miles of Lunghai Railroad.

SHANGHAI, Sunday, April 24.—(UP)—Commanders of heavily reinforced Japanese armies in north-central China claimed today they had smashed their way into Kiangsu province to within 30 miles of the famous Lunghai railroad.

Spearhead of the drive on the railroad along which are China's strongest defense fortifications guarding the provisional capital of Hankow, was east of Suchow. The city, one of the "gateways" to Hankow, is strategically located at the junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow (Nanking) railroads. Its loss may prove to be the start of the final stages of the Japanese campaign in China.

Chinese reports ignored the Linyi front, but claimed the Chinese crushed a Japanese advance at Wungwawu, 12 miles north of Taierhchwang, where the original Japanese drive was halted two weeks ago.

JAPANESE HOLD AMERICAN AS BOMBER

YOKOHAMA, Japan, April 23. (AP)—Melvin Gibbon, 27, of New York, was held by Japanese authorities for further questioning today because they said he had "confessed bombing Japanese troops while a member of China's "foreign flying legion."

Gibbon was questioned yesterday when he arrived on the Empress of Asia. He is being detained.

METHODISTS FACE HOT UNION FIGHT

Quadrennial Conference Opens in Birmingham This Week To Meet Issue.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 23. (AP)—Unification of the three Methodist branches — Methodist Episcopal Church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Methodist Protestant Church—into one denomination of 8,000,000 members faces a final barrier here next week in the quadrennial conference of southern Methodists.

Determined and vociferous opposition is certain.

The church was split into southern and northern divisions in 1844, on issues later involved in the birth and defeat of the Confederacy.

Decisive votes will be cast by the 482 official delegates to the quadrennial conference, equally divided among lay and clerical members, but present plans call for "open debate," and most church leaders expect this to be long and vigorous.

Annual conferences of the southern church have voted for the merger, with a single exception, and a two-thirds majority of the delegates here could complete all but technical details of the merging.

The Methodist Episcopal church (the northern branch) and the Methodist Protestant division have approved the union.

LIBERAL SUGGESTS F. D. R. THIRD TERM

O'Connell Says La Follette Parley Is 'Excellent' Opportunity.'

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Representative O'Connell, Democrat, Montana, said today a conference of Liberals at Madison, Wis., next week, would provide "a very excellent opportunity" for the group to indorse President Roosevelt for a third term.

Governor Philip La Follette, of Wisconsin, called the conference for Thursday, inviting between 3,000 and 4,000 persons.

The Montanan, usually aligned with a Liberal bloc in the house, said many persons he had talked to agreed that if the Democratic party failed to renominate Mr. Roosevelt it would be "very wise" for the Liberals to support him to head a third party in this country."

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who led the successful fight against President Roosevelt's court reorganization bill last year, commented:

"It is very significant Governor La Follette is calling the meeting for the apparent purpose of creating a third party for 1940."

Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, declined to comment on his brother's announcement, but indicated he would attend the meeting:

Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia, commented:

"It is a very definite indication that there is a break between the Liberal movement and the President. Liberals have come to the conclusion that the President is more of a politician than he is a Liberal."

TARIFF IS ENEMY NO. 1 COTTON GROUP IS TOLD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 23.—(AP)—Retiring President Dudley D. Dumas, Memphis, told the Southern Cotton Shippers' Association today that "congress and the administration continue to fiddle" while the cotton problem remains "the burning issue of the day."

"Until America has the courage to attack the problem at its basic foundations—and not until then—can the problem be solved," Dumas declared, adding "America must take the lead in tearing down" tariff walls.

The association, holding its annual one-day convention, elected E. D. Hazlehurst, Memphis, president.

BRITISH TAXPAYER HEARS WORST SOON

Simon To Disclose Arms Levies Tuesday.

LONDON, April 23.—(AP)—Treasury experts ended their search today for more revenue to meet heavily increased rearmament and other costs in the fiscal year which began April 1.

The public will not know from whose pocket the cash will come until Tuesday, when Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, will present the 1938-39 budget to the house of commons.

Britain faces the stern necessity of finding millions of pounds sterling additional for rearmament under the handicaps of slowly declining business and a tax rate already the highest in her history.

Chequers, official county residence of the British prime minister, was presented to the nation in 1917 by Sir Arthur Lee.

ATLANTA YOUTHS IN A.A.A. 'PARADE'

200 Schoolboy Patrolmen To Join 13,000 on 4-Day Tour of East.

More than 200 Atlanta boys will leave Wednesday, May 4, to take part in the seventh annual American Automobile Association school boy patrol parade the following Saturday.

The Atlanta youngsters will participate in the parade with 13,000 other patrolmen. Various entertainment features have been planned for the four-day trip.

On Thursday they will visit the Norfolk navy yard and naval base, going aboard one of the navy's largest airplane carirers, the U. S. S. Yorktown. After a sightseeing tour of Norfolk that afternoon, they will proceed to Baltimore by steamer.

Chartered buses will carry the party to Washington Friday morning by way of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. In Washington they will see Arlington, Mount Vernon, the White House, the capitol, the Smithsonian Institution, Library of Congress and the new FBI building, home of the G-men.

From the G-men they will learn how notorious criminals are caught, the latest methods in crime detection, and how it is possible to identify a fingerprint within a few seconds from the millions on record. They will also view guns taken from notorious criminals. Special entertainment, including circus acts, will be provided the visiting patrolmen at 7:30 o'clock Friday night.

The trip is sponsored by the Atlanta Motor Club in co-operation with the police and school and P.-T. A. officials.

ATLANTANS GET POSTS IN ELECTRIC EXCHANGE

Three Atlantans were named directors of the Southeastern Electric Exchange yesterday at its annual convention in Gulfport, Miss.

W. E. Mitchell and C. A. Collier, officials of the Georgia Power Company, and E. H. Ginn, vice president of the General Electric Company, were elected to the board of directors. Bryan Hanks, of Miami, Fla., was selected president of the exchange.

E. W. KLEIN HEADS ENGINEER COUNCIL

Elected Chairman of Unit of Chamber of Commerce.

E. W. Klein, of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, was elected chairman of the engineering council of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting of the directors of that organization. He succeeds S. W. Boyd, of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Other directors selected by their respective engineering societies, are Dr. Harold B. Friedman and Dr. Paul Seydel, from the American Chemical Society; Joseph W. Cooper and M. A. Tucker, from the American Institute of Architects; Gordon Price, from the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; F. C. Snow and W. A. Hansell, from the American Society of Civil Engineers; Robert S. Newcomb, from the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and C. F. Palmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce. M. T. Singleton and Alex MacDougald were elected directors-at-large.

A group of 125 leading engineers and technical men, organized for the purpose of assisting with civic projects, the engineering council is now studying certain phases of the Reed report.

BRITAIN AND ERIN TO SIGN TOMORROW

Sealing of Pact Is First of Events of Busy Week for Chamberlain.

LONDON, April 23.—(AP)—Great Britain's new agreements with Italy and Ireland have put new force behind Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's plans for a broad-scale attack on other problems facing European statesmen in the busy week ahead.

With new faith in his "realistic" policy as a result of these achievements in quick succession, the 69-year-old prime minister returned freshened from a fishing holiday to plunge into this packed schedule:

1—Sealing a pact with Ireland Monday which may go far toward removing the long-standing differences between the two countries.

2—Giving final approval to a new budget from which the nation's taxpayers will learn Tuesday whether they must pay more to keep rearmament booming on a large scale.

3—Mapping procedure for getting League of Nations approval to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia—a vital part of the new Anglo-Italian pact.

4—Conferring with French Premier Edouard Daladier and French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet Thursday and Friday on a common policy for maintaining European peace and, if that fails, closer military co-operation.

Helping Chamberlain along in his efforts to strengthen Britain's friendships was young War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha. He visited Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Rome and planned to fly to Paris tomorrow to see Daladier.

DALADIER PREPARES TO USE DECREE POWERS

PARIS, April 23.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier, moving to bolster the sagging franc and to build a strong international position for France, today scheduled a week of conferences and gave notice he was ready to make his first use of decree powers.

To prevent further unfavorable developments in foreign exchange, the "strong man" premier moved up a scheduled cabinet meeting from Tuesday to Monday and announced a plan for economic and financial rehabilitation by decree had been prepared.

The frank fell to 166.75 to the pound sterling in London trading —a drop of three per cent from yesterday's Paris closing.

OXFORD GROUPERS MEETING AT AIKEN

350 From 25 States Are Attending Four-Day House Party.

AIKEN, S. C., April 23.—Representatives from 25 states and four countries were assembled here today for the Oxford Group's southern house party. Members of the group started arriving Thursday and the meetings will continue through Monday. Approximately 350 are registered at Oxford Group headquarters here.

Among prominent persons registered are Philip Marshal Brown, Washington, former professor of international law at Princeton University; Russell Sard, Washington; Robert W. Hudgens, Montgomery, regional director for the Farm Security Administration; Howard Davidson, member of the New York Stock Exchange, and Colonel and Mrs. T. L. Alexander, Atlanta.

The public event of the gathering was the open meeting in the high school auditorium tonight with 700 persons present to hear a large number of Oxford Group speakers.

ARMY RECORD SET

Colonel Olds Flies Across U. S. in 10 Hours.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(UP)—Averaging 212 miles per hour, Lieutenant Colonel Robert Olds today set a new transcontinental record of 10 hours and 45 minutes in piloting one of the army's new four-engined flying fortresses from March Field, Cal., to Langley Field, Va.

Olds, who led the army's recent good-will flight to Buenos Aires, was accompanied by seven other crew members.

He landed at Langley Field at 3 a. m. (Atlanta time) after the 2,285-mile nonstop flight. The commercial plane transcontinental record is seven hours, 28 minutes and 25 seconds for a flight from Los Angeles to Newark, N. J. It is held by Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman-motion picture producer.

Rescue Workers Awaiting Turn in Coal Mine Blast

Acme Telephoto.

These men, working in 30-minute shifts, are about to enter the coal mine at Grundy, Va., where an explosion, believed to have been caused by dust, caused the deaths of 45 miners and injured others. The bodies of 45 were taken from the mine drifts after a search lasting for several hours.

mine entrance but many persons went up to offer their services and to encourage workers. Two photographers counted 1,312 steps upward, not including the steps they slid backward.

"All the evidence indicates the underground crew died instantly," said Inspector Kelly. He said federal, state and mine officials would make a full investigation after the rescue work. The mine was a new one, opened last November, and was described as up-to-date in every respect.

Mingo Keadle, vice president of the Red Jacket Company, announced early in the day that air had been circulated through all passages, but workers found progress slower in the main shaft than in the B shaft, where 17 bodies were found before it was fully explored. Three of the first 22 bodies came from the mine entrance and two fere found badly burned in the A or main shaft.

Governor Sends Envoy.

Meanwhile Thomas B. Morton, state commissioner of labor, left Richmond by automobile to serve as personal representative of Governor Price. He was instructed to offer any assistance the state could render to stricken families and to make a thorough investigation before returning. The state welfare department also offered assistance through its Buchanan unit, including foodstuffs.

This is the first major disaster to strike the newly developed field in Buchanan county, although mine disasters are not new to southwest Virginia. In ten years 376 miners have been killed.

DON'T POUT, FARLEY ADVISES BUSINESS

Postmaster Says New Deal Saved Nation From a Worse Recession.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—In a nation-wide appeal for tolerance, Postmaster General Farley said tonight private business would have to admit that "except for some of the reforms adopted by this administration, we would be faced with a condition that would make the present recession in business look like a pink tea party."

"If business pouts and sulks and holds back, it may well kr w that it will not retain the good will and majority opinion of the American people.

"This country was in for a house-cleaning one way or another," he said in an address at a banquet celebrating the 195th birthday anniversary of Thomas Jefferson.

"It was coming from government or it was coming without government. No matter what the enemies of this administration may say, the troubles that afflict us now are far less ugly than those which menaced the United States in 1933."

Farley said President Roosevelt had issued at least 20 specific friendly invitations to private business to join forces with the New Deal program to revive business and stimulate employment.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT GREETS 4,400 D. A. R.'S

Shakes Hands With Delegates to Annual Meeting.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) New and retiring presidents-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution stood with Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt in the White House today to shake hands with 4,400 D. A. R.'s.

It took them an hour and 15 minutes to receive the throng attending the forty-seventh D. A. R. congress, which ended with a banquet tonight.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in a blue lace dress, was assisted by Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr., of Annapolis, Md., president-general installed this morning, and Mrs. William A. Becker, of Summit, N. J., retiring D. A. R. head.

KING GEORGE ESCAPES INJURY IN COLLISION

LONDON, April 23.—(UP)—An automobile driven by a young army officer, with a girl passenger, collided with the limousine of King George today as he was returning to Windsor castle after attending the St. George's Day services at St. Paul's.

No one was injured.

'KID' COOGAN'S FIGHT GOES TO CONGRESS

Bill Introduced To Require Federal Guardians for Juvenile Film Stars.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(UP) Jackie Coogan's fight to gain possession of the $4,000,000 fortune he claims he earned as a child cinema star came indirectly to congress tonight.

Representative Cannon, Democrat, Wisconsin, concerned over the 23-year-old Coogan's legal battle with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein, for his fortune, presented a bill to require government guardians for future juvenile stars of the motion pictures.

"The passage of this bill, of course, will in no way affect the tragic situation in which young Jackie Coogan finds himself," Cannon said. "The passage of this bill, however, will prevent a recurrence of such a sad and pathetic affair which has shocked the conscience of the entire nation."

Cannon's bill would prohibit interstate shipment of motion pictures of children for whom a guardian has not been appointed by a federal district court. The guardian would exercise complete control over the minor's estate. Violation would be punished by a fine of $1,000 to $10,000.

'HIT' AND 'MUSS'

Nazis Protest Low's Cartoon in London Paper.

LONDON, April 23.—(UP)—A protest against the drawings of David Low, famous cartoonist for Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, has been made by the German government through the British foreign office.

The foreign office has conveyed to Low an intimation of Germany's displeasure but in view of traditional freedom of the press in England, no further official action has been taken.

Germany was particularly incensed by a comic strip in which the characters are named "Hit" and "Muss" and are obviously based on the two dictators.

That Low did not heed the German protest was indicated by today's cartoon showing a walrus moustached die-hard Tory saying to Low, "Gad, Sir, Beaverbrook is right. The Austrians celebrated Hitler's birthday just to show how thankful they were he wasn't twins."

In its literal sense "Mikado" meant the Gate of the Imperial Palace, and then came to signify the emperor himself.

Soothsayer's Story Comes Royally True

Countess' Betrothal to King Zog Bears Out Budapest Fortune Teller.

By MELVIN R. WHITELEATHER.

TIRANA, Albania, April 23.—(AP)—One day last summer comely Countess Geraldine Apponyi for no special reason went to consult a Budapest fortune teller. It was nonsense, of course, but it was fun.

She was 22, a tall, attractive blonde, fond of tennis, swimming and skiing—very much American in appearance, an offspring of an old Hungarian landed family, with a mixture of American blood.

She looked and looks as if she belonged to an American college campus. Her only occupation at the time was to help the Hungarian national museum catalogue the $200,000 Apponyi collection of books which her uncle, Count Alexander Apponyi, had presented to the museum.

The fortune teller, garbed in a colorful dress, spun a big yarn which made the countess tingle with amusement.

Here is what the soothsayer said:

"Before the end of the year great things are to come your way. You are going to marry a handsome man of high rank.

Before the bells rang out the year 1937 this prophecy was just about an accomplished fact and the countess was just about beside herself with joy and amazement.

On December 31, at a year-end ball in the Tirana royal palace, she met 42-year-old bachelor King Ahmed Zog.

The meeting was prearranged. The King's inseparable trio of unmarried sisters, Princesses Maxhide, Ruhije and Myzejen, had met Countess Geraldine Apponyi in Budapest. They had eyes out for a likely sister-in-law. The King sent his confidant, Deputy Jake Koci, to invite the Countess to the ball.

That is how it came about that Countess Apponyi, whose aristocratic pedigree reaches back to Virginia's plantations, was selected to become the first Queen of Albania.

A civil wedding will be celebrated in the white and yellow Tirana palace April 27.

America Declares War on Spain! Headline 40 Years Ago Tomorrow

U. S. Embarked on Policy That Also Involved Her Heavily in the Far East; Mediation Efforts by Powers Before Declaration Reviewed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Forty years ago on Monday the United States declared war on Spain and embarked on a policy that involved her heavily in the Far East.

From April 25, 1898, dates the policy some writers have called "the great aberration" — which brought us the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Guam and stretched our lines of interest far to the east.

On that day telegraph lines carried the fateful news that congress had declared a state of war with Spain.

The nation already had gone through two stirring months, with war alarms ringing in the land.

Remember the Maine!

The battleship Maine blew up in Havana harbor February 15, with the loss of 260 American officers and sailors.

A court of inquiry consisting of American naval officers concluded that an external explosion thrust in the ship's bottom plates and probably produced an internal explosion in the powder magazine.

Three weeks after the Maine sank, congress unanimously appropriated $50,000,000 "for national defense and each and every purpose connected therewith."

Next the United States presented Spain with a series of demands designed to bring independence to Cuba, then in the throes of revolution.

The Queen of Spain replied by giving orders to Captain General Blanco in Cuba to suspend hostilities with the Cuban revolutionaries so as to prepare for and facilitate peace negotiations.

On April 5, President McKinley decided to submit the Cuban question to congress but postponed it until American citizens were evacuated from Havana.

Europe Alarmed.

Germany took the lead, through her ally, Austria-Hungary, in making peace representations here and in Madrid. Germany, diplomatic documents show, was anxious to prevent war because she had a plan in mind for purchasing the Spanish islands in the Pacific, including the Philippines.

Austria-Hungary lined up Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia to join with her and Germany in a joint note presented by the six ambassadors to President McKinley April 6.

Enforce Peace.

Nevertheless, on April 11, President McKinley's message went to congress. He recommended the use of the United States army in enforcing peace in Cuba.

Congress on April 19 passed a joint resolution declaring Cuba independent, demanding Spain withdraw from Cuba, empowering the President to use the army, navy and militia toward this end, and disclaiming any intention to annex Cuba.

The President signed the joint resolutions April 20. On the same date he sent an ultimatum to Spain, expiring April 23 at noon. Spain not having answered, congress declared that a state of war existed since April 21.

'I Loved My Mother,' Weeps Youth; Court Weighs Parent-Slayer Case

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP)—A criminal court judge pondered tonight what verdict to return for Teddy Danielsen, 16, charged with murdering his crippled mother by strangling her and thrusting a bread knife into her throat.

Chief Justice Harrington, of the criminal court, who heard the case without a jury, took the case under advisement without indicating when he would reach his decision.

In closing arguments at the trial today, the prosecution demanded "severe punishment" for the youth and defense counsel asked for his freedom and a chance to remake his life.

The slender young defendant wept aloud as the trial reached its conclusion and told the judge he was at the mercy of the court.

"Whatever you do with me will be all right," he cried. "I want you to know that I loved my mother. I don't care what Mr. Meyers (prosecutor Morris Meyers) said. If I was in my right mind at that time, I never would have done it."

Young Danielsen, an accomplished pianist, pleaded innocent to a murder charge, and testified he "must have" stabbed his mother. Teddy told the court he attended Sunday school, that he neither smoked nor drank.

FATHER KILLS HIMSELF AT DAUGHTER'S DOOR

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 23.—(UP)—Clyde Hilliard, 45, ill and jobless, committed suicide today on the steps of his daughter's home.

Two small girls who live next door witnessed the act. Other relatives inside the house, including his mother, heard the report and told police Hilliard pulled the trigger of a shotgun with a stick, sending the load into his head.

Marlene Dietrich Signs Contract With Columbia

NEW YORK, April 23.—(UP) Marlene Dietrich, who severed her affiliation with Paramount, has signed a contract for two productions with Columbia Pictures, it was announced tonight.

Columbia said the German actress would appear in one film under the direction of Frank Capra but that no story had yet been selected. Miss Dietrich will arrive here Monday en route to Europe for a vacation.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS REGISTER MONDAY

Toccoa Institution To Open Season June 13 and Close August 8.

Camp Fire girls planning to attend Camp Toccoa this summer will register tomorrow at Camp Fire headquarters, located at Davison-Paxon Company. Mothers, fathers and girls who are interested in the camp have been invited to learn about particulars.

Camp Toccoa will open its 1938 season June 13 and continue through August 8. It will again be under the direction of Miss Catherine Sherard, Atlanta Camp Fire executive, assisted by a highly trained group of counselors.

The camp will consist of three villages which have programs adapted to the different age groups. A fourth unit will be added this summer.

Omikse village for younger girls will be under the direction of Miss Helen Curtain, graduate of the University of Georgia, a primary teacher. The village has five cabins, with capacity for eight girls in each cabin. Yoki Indian village, with three cabins, is for intermediate girls and will be directed by Mrs. Thelma Coley, teacher in the Atlanta public schools.

Keona unit is for older girls and has three log cabins a mile from the recreation lodge. The director will be Miss Marian Weeks, graduate of the Florida State College for Women. The fourth and new unit will accommodate 16 girls and will be named with appropriate ceremonies during the summer. Miss Ruth Slack, senior at Agnes Scott College, assisted by Betty Withers, who will be graduated from Girls' High school in June, will be in charge of this group.

Other staff members are Beth Belser, of Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., waterfront director, and three waterfront assistants, Marian Becker, of the University of Alabama, and Mary Cole and Jane Johnson, of the Georgia State College for Women. A variety of crafts will be taught, with riding as a new feature.

MEXICAN DEPUTIES SEND FELICITATIONS

Roosevelt Replies But Oil Is Not Mentioned; Daniels and Welles Confer.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) An exchange of cordialities between United States and Mexican officials imparted a friendly tone today to conversations regarding the Mexican seizure of oil properties owned by firms of this country.

Replying to felicitations from the majority bloc of the Mexican chamber of deputies, President Roosevelt spoke of the "common aspirations" of western hemisphere nations "to solve our problems in a spirit of friendly co-operation."

Deputy Leon Garcia, leader of the majority bloc in the Mexican congress, had telegraphed Mr. Roosevelt that "world democracy has found in our President Cardenas and yourself its two most vigorous representatives."

Neither communication referred specifically to the oil questions.

Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, conferred during the day with Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, on the oil situation. Daniels later expressed to newspapermen hope for a "just, fair and friendly" solution of the problem.

OIL WELL INDEMNITIES REPORTED AT $7,500,000

MEXICO CITY, April 23.—(UP)—American and other foreign oil companies will be paid only 30,000,000 pesos ($7,500,000) for their expropriated properties, valued by the concerns at $400,000,000, afternoon newspapers reported today.

According to the newspapers, the amount of indemnification was reported in treasury circles.

POPE STILL HOPES FOR HITLER VISIT

But Officials Drop Hope Der Fuehrer Will Call.

VATICAN CITY, April 23.—(UP)—Church officials have almost abandoned hope that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler will request an audience with Pope Pius during his forthcoming visit to Rome, it was learned tonight.

Tentative plans have been completed already to transport the aged pontiff to his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, April 30, before Hitler's scheduled arrival in Rome. His departure, however, would be postponed if Hitler asked to see the pope because the latter is most anxious to talk with the German leader before Germany takes steps to put Austrian Catholics under the same restrictions as Catholics in Germany.

EXECUTION OF NEGRO IS DELAYED BY COURT

A new trial for a negro scheduled to die in the electric chair at Tattnall prison Friday was denied yesterday in Fulton superior court, but Judge Paul S. Etheridge granted a supersedeas which will hold up the execution until the appeal is heard.

The negro, Ralph Benton, was convicted of killing another negro convict in Fulton county more than a year ago. After four stays of execution, he was resentenced two weeks ago to die at Tattnall. Frank Bowers, attorney for Benton, contended the negro should have a new trial on the ground that in the original sentence he was sentenced to die in Milledgeville and that the place of execution could not be changed.

Girl Accused of Poisoning Consoles Her Mother

Acme Telephoto.

Elizabeth Wagner, 22, charged with poisoning her two brothers, is shown consoling their mother in the home of a neighbor in the Astoria section of Queens county, New York city. The prosecutor said she had admitted putting rat poison in orange juice she prepared for the brothers. She is charged with homicide.

POISONING OF TWO CHARGED TO SISTER

State Reports Confession She Put Rat Mixture in Brothers' Fruit Juice.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Against the name of the Wagner family, humble working people of Astoria, Queens, was written today the start of another tragic chapter.

A medical examiner's report, sprinkled with the phrases of a toxicologist . . . an entry on a police blotter . . . another entry in the records of Queens felony court . . . a short affidavit, charging homicide in that Elizabeth Wagner, 22, "did administer liquid poison" to her brothers, Henry, 21, and Charles, 14.

Alone in court the girl stood today, blue-eyed, brown-haired, an inch under five feet tall, while an attendant read the charge to Magistrate Savarese.

In the home of a neighbor her mother, Mrs. Marie Wagner, grieved while her only surviving son, August, 24, tried to console her.

From Assistant District Attorney Rowan came this statement: "Elizabeth has admitted that on four different occasions, as she prepared milk and orange juice for her brothers, she took rat poison, which she kept under a tray of the gas oven and put pinches of the powder in the orange juice and milk."

There was a time once when the future held a great deal of promise of happiness for the Wagners. The grandparents, thrifty, hard-working, had lived unobstrusively, saving their pennies and dollars. August Wagner was a cigar-maker and his son followed him in the trade.

The grandfather died years ago and in 1930 the death of his son was set down in the records of Bellevue hospital.

Grandmother and mother and the children went on living in the $7,500 home the older people had acquired.

On Christmas Eve in 1932, death again marked the family. The grandmother's body was fished out of the East river.

BOOTS YIELD $5,000

Canadian Woman Buys 'Em at Auction for Dollar.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel W. Bowes, Toronto widow, disclosed today that a $1 purchase at a recent auction of unclaimed express parcels netted her more than $5,000.

She bought a package which turned out to be a pair of riding boots, in the toes of which she found the money. She would not tell the precise amount.

Mrs. Bowes made three more purchases and got another "jackpot," she said, the last parcel containing $200 in cash.

ROOSEVELT EMBARKS FOR POTOMAC CRUISE

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) President Roosevelt, attracted by bright, cool spring weather, headed down the Potomac river today on a week-end cruise. He intended to work aboard the yacht Potomac on two special messages to be delivered to congress.

Accompanying him on the cruise are Secretary Ickes, Ambassador William C. Bullitt, envoy to France; Federal Housing Administrator Steward McDonald; the President's daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and a secretary, Miss Marguerite Le Hand.

New Washington Stamp Sale Starts Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—The one-cent George Washington stamp, first of a new series, will go on sale exclusively at the Washington post office Monday.

On Tuesday it will be available at any post offices in the country where postmasters have obtained a supply.

The next stamp of the new series to be sold will be the one-and-one-half-cent Martha Washington stamp, which will be issued May 5 at the Washington post office. The one-half cent Benjamin Franklin stamp will be sold for the first time May 19 at Philadelphia.

Veterans of Gray To Be Honored In Memorial Exercises Tuesday

Mammoth Parade Will March Through Atlanta Streets; Former Governors Talmadge and Slaton Will Be Principal Speakers at Oakland Ceremonies.

A mammoth parade will march through Atlanta streets Tuesday afternoon as thousands of Atlantans and Georgians join with the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial Association in paying tribute to the soldiers who fought for the south in the War Between the States.

With bands blaring and banners waving, the annual Memorial Day parade will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at Peachtree and Baker streets and will proceed past a colorful reviewing stand to Oakland cemetery, where many of the south's heroes lie buried.

Former Governor Talmadge and former Governor Slaton will be the principal speakers at the ceremonies beside the graves at the end of the march. Both are the descendants of Confederate veterans.

Loyalty Praised.

Mrs. Arthur McD. Wilson Jr., president of the Ladies' Memorial Association, praised both for their loyalty to the old soldiers. All former Governors have been invited to sit on the reviewing stand.

Lieutenant Colonel Louis A. Falligant, of the Eighth Brigade, will command the parade, which will be several miles in length.

Seven divisions will form at the junction of Peachtree, West Peachtree and Baker streets to follow the guard of honor through the heart of the city to Oakland cemetery. Virtually every civic, patriotic and social organization of Atlanta will be represented in the parade.

Military Staff.

Major Willis M. Everett Jr., Captain Frank E. Hankinson, Captain F. C. Stone, Captain T. C. Huguley, Captain Parks Huntt, Lieutenant R. N. Fickett, and Lieutenant William Slaton Waldo will comprise the military staff under Lieutenant Colonel Falligant, marshal of the day.

In case of rain, the parade will be called off and the ceremonies scheduled to be held at Oakland will take place at the municipal auditorium, it was announced.

The few remaining soldiers who fought for the south in the War Between the States will be accorded all honors Tuesday as the impressive tribute is paid them and their dead comrades.

They will stand by as various patriotic organizations superintend the laying of wreaths on the graves of the Confederate dead. The program will close with "Taps" sounded by the buglers of the 22nd Infantry from Fort McPherson.

Sons of Confederate veterans will hear Judge Oswell R. Eve, of Augusta, at a Memorial Day luncheon sponsored by Camp John B. Gordon, Sons of Confederate Veterans, of which McWhorter Milner is commander.

Whether members of the camp or not, the old soldiers' sons are invited to attend the luncheon, which will be held at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Georgian Terrace hotel. Judge Eve is the commander of the Georgia division of the sons' organization.

60,000 PUPILS GET 3-DAY VACATION

Extra Holiday Wednesday Is Provided for Those With Perfect Teeth Records.

A three-day holiday period will begin for more than 60,000 Atlanta school children tomorrow, giving them a total of five days' freedom from studies, city school officials announced.

The official spring holiday is tomorrow, and Tuesday is Memorial Day. All children with perfect teeth records will receive an extra day Wednesday.

School superintendents said all the junior and senior high schools will be closed Wednesday but that a few elementary classes will be held on that day.

They praised the excellent record children established in preserving their teeth. The extra day off from "books" is the annual prize awarded those pupils who have perfect records.

M. E. Coleman, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools, said he was informed almost every school in his department would get the extra holiday, while H. Reed Hunter, assistant superintendent of high schools, said all senior and junior schools would be shut down until Thursday morning.

Bells will ring for "books" again at the regular time Thursday morning in all schools.

G. M. A. CADETS TO DECORATE GRAVES OF CONFEDERATES

A handful of "old soldiers" will be honored this afternoon at the Georgia Military Academy, when cadets parade in full dress and patriotic organizations decorate Confederate veterans with roses grown on the breastworks of battlegrounds around the city.

As guests of Colonel J. C. Woodward, president and founder of the military academy, the few remaining veterans of the War Between the States will be served light refreshments while members of the College Park and Atlanta U. D. C. organizations will pay honor to the living and dead heroes who fought for the south.

The program will begin at 4:30 o'clock (daylight-saving time) this afternoon at the academy. Colonel Woodward has invited the public to attend the parade and band concert.

SALVATION ARMY TO DECORATE GRAVES

Salvation Army officials will decorate graves in their plot in West View cemetery with flowers and army flag at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in a Confederate Memorial Day service, Major Robert Rose has announced.

The cemetery plot is maintained in Atlanta for Salvationists all over the southeast. There is a large monument bearing the Salvation Army crest, the graves themselves being designated by smaller markers.

Major Robert Rose is in charge of arrangements for the Memorial Day service with Adjutant Fred Foster and Lieutenant Sven Ruthstrom assisting. The service will include, in addition to the Scripture and prayer, music, taps and the reading of the honor roll. The Salvation Army flag, known as the "Blood and Fire" flag, is blue, red and yellow, the colors symbolical of purity, blood and fire of the Holy Ghost.

Retiring A. P. President Is Saluted By Old Friends and Associates

FRANK B. NOYES.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—The old friends and associates of Frank B. Noyes, who is retiring as president of the Associated Press, saluted his 38 years of continuous service in that office at a dinner tonight in his honor. He will say his official farewell to the presidency on Monday at the AP's annual meeting, a gathering of men representing the association's member newspapers—1,400 of them across the continent.

Last January, he announced his decision not to accept re-election, saying he felt his job was done and that now it should fall to younger hands.

Approaching 75.

Mr. Noyes, now approaching 75, is the last member of the little group that formed the Associated Press, and through all the storms of 44 years he has been a leader in the AP and its predecessor corporation, as board member, executive committee member and president.

The dinner tonight was arranged by those who have served, at various times during the long Noyes tenure, in high places—officers, directors, former directors and officers; executives and former executives.

Noyes' Colleagues.

They are:

E. P. Adler, Davenport, Iowa, Times; Paul Bellamy, Cleveland Plain Dealer; Kent Cooper, AP general manager; John Cowles, Des Moines Register; W. H. Cowles, Spokane Review; L. F. Curtis, treasurer; Charles S. Diehl, former assistant general manager; Jackson S. Elliott, former assistant general manager; Frank E. Gannett, Rochester Times-Union; Houston Harte, San Angelo, Texas, Standard; J. N. Heiskell, Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock; J. L. Horne, Rocky Mount, N. C., Telegram; Clark Howell, Atlanta Constitution; J. R. Knowland, Oakland, Cal., Tribune; Albert P. Langtry, Springfield, Mass., Union; George B. Longan, Kansas City Star; W. J. McCambridge, assistant general manager; Robert McLean, Philadelphia Bulletin; Frederick E. Murphy, Minneapolis Tribune; Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune; L. K. Nicholson, New Orleans Times-Picayune; Newbold Noyes, Washington Star; William J. Pape, Waterbury, Conn., Republican; Paul Patterson, Baltimore Sun; Stuart H. Perry, Adrian, Mich., Telegram; Byron Price, executive news editor; Joseph Pulitzer, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; E. Lansing Ray, St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Victor Ridder, New York Staats Zietung; Lloyd Stratton, assistant general manager; W. O. Taylor, Boston Globe; Frederick I. Thompson, Montgomery, (Ala.) Journal; Oswald Garrison Villard, old New York Post; A. C. Weiss, Duluth (Minn.) Herald; Florence D. White, old New York World; J. R. Youatt, former treasurer.

Mr. Perry Presides.

Mr. Perry presided and the scheduled speakers were Mr. Adler, Mr. Diehl, Mr. Heiskell, Mr. McCormick, Mr. Ray and Mr. Thompson.

The business of the annual meeting includes the election of a new president and the election of six directors due to expiring terms.

Also to be discussed are recommendations made to the board that member newspapers be allowed to make arrangements with advertisers for sponsored news broadcasts.

FORD WILL ADDRESS NEWS PUBLISHERS

NEW YORK, April 23.—(UP)—Members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association meet here next week in annual convention to study problems of their industry and hear a program of speeches, including one by Henry Ford.

The automobile manufacturer will address the dinner of the association's bureau of advertising Thursday night. S. E. Thomason, publisher of the Chicago Times, will be toastmaster at the dinner.

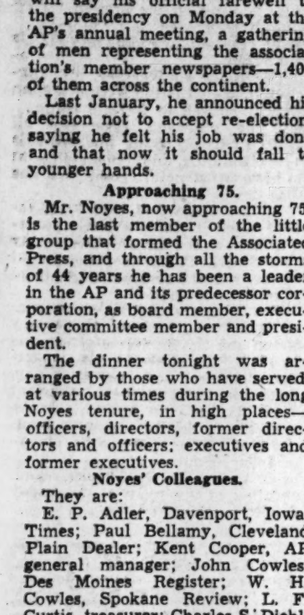

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner and president of the association, will preside at the convention, which will open Tuesday with about 500 publishers present. Discussion topics include labor problems, newsprint costs, economy measures in newspaper production, expansion of advertising and trial reporting practices.

ARMY ORDERS

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Army orders today included:

Captain Thomas H. Allen, infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., to Hawaiian department.

PERMANENT RELIEF HELD NATION'S NEED

Average Citizen of Opinion Appropriations Must Be Continued Long Time.

By Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Although the average American voter takes an adamantine attitude toward larger relief allowances for the unemployed—as an Institute of Public Opinion survey indicates today—the average voter is also prepared to see the federal government continue its relief appropriations for a long time to come.

He believes that the government may have to continue its assistance permanently.

This is indicated today in a companion survey on the relief problem conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

"Do you think the United States will have to continue relief appropriations permanently?"

Throughout the country two voters out of three say that in their opinion relief will be a permanent government responsibility. The percentage vote is:

Permanent	67%
Not permanent	33%

Shift in Opinion.

Today's Institute survey undoubtedly reflects the effect of the new depression on United States thinking. Just a year and a half ago, following the 1936 election, the Institute asked the same question. At that time business was picking up and relief rolls were down. Optimistically, many an American who now regards relief as a permanent thing thought that relief appropriations could eventually be stopped. The vote was:

Permanent	54%
Not permanent	46%

A comparison of the two surveys shows that while shifts have occurred in the thinking of every important group in the country, the Democrats have shifted most. A year and a half ago only 52 per cent of them thought relief would be permanent, whereas 69 per cent think so today.

Republicans have shifted from 56 per cent "permanent" to 63 per cent today.

Section by section there is little variation in the vote. Even the agrarian states of the south and middle west, which are comparatively remote from the relief problem as the big cities know it, are overwhelmingly of the opinion relief will become a permanent government function.

For Continuance.

Seventy-five per cent of the persons on relief interviewed in today's survey think that assistance will have to be continued permanently as compared with 62 per cent who thought so a year and a half ago.

The percentage of persons in other population groups who think it will be permanent are: city voters, 71 per cent; small town voters, 51 per cent, and farmers, 60 per cent.

Administration officials today agree with the public's forecast, although they seldom agree on the exact size of the relief load they expect.

Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins recently told the special senate committee on unemployment that he thought the problem would be permanent but that he did not "mean that we must reconcile ourselves to 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 jobless, or even 6,000,000." Hopkins declared the number could be "greatly reduced."

$500,000 ART RAID DENUDES GALLERY

LONDON, April 23.—(AP)—A band of thieves who left no fingerprints entered a Kentish castle filled with sleeping week-end guests early today and carried away half a million dollars' worth of paintings.

Five old masters—most precious of which was Rembrandt's portrait of his first wife, "Saskia at Her Toilet"—were taken in the biggest British art haul of this century.

They belonged to Eir Edmund Davis, art collector and mining company director, who kept them in a ground floor gallery in his 17th century Chilham castle near Canterbury.

The burglary was perhaps the most skillful in this country since Thomas Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire" was slashed from its frame in a Bond street gallery in 1876.

The robbers entered by cutting a pane from a mullioned window. Sir Edmund entered the gallery in the front of the castle this morning and found the frames empty.

INVESTIGATORS OF TVA TO CONFER TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Members of the congressional committee appointed to investigate the TVA arranged today to confer for the first time Monday night.

The committee planned an informal dinner, at which members expected to talk over preliminary arrangements for the inquiry. Members said the committee might conduct some hearings before the adjournment of congress, but the bulk of its work probably would be done this summer.

May Festival Queen and Maid of Honor

Brown-eyed, dark-haired Catherine Gillooly (left) will be queen of the May festival to be held at the Sacred Heart school on May 17, while her maid of honor on the occasion will be Veronica Byrnes, who was named the most beautiful girl in the school in the recent "Who's Who" elections. Both girls are 18 and seniors. Thirty-eight other seniors will take part in the festival.

Voters in Survey Believe Relief Grants Adequate

Those Receiving Them Say, However, That Standards Are Too Low.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, April 23.—As the problem of relief for the unemployed takes the national spotlight again, a nation-wide survey conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicates a majority of Americans think persons on relief are already getting "as much as they should."

The survey underlines the long tug-of-war between the advocates of higher relief standards and the general public, and it demonstrates clearly that while relief has been accepted in principle the public has not been sold on the idea of a better standard of living for the unemployed.

The Institute put its question to a carefully selected cross-section of voters in all sections of the country and in all walks of life. Persons on relief were included, as were voters in all income levels, in proportion to their numbers in each state.

"Do you think," the Institute asked, "that people on relief in your community are getting as much as they should?"

The country over, nearly three voters out of every four indicate that reliefers are getting enough. The actual vote is:

Getting enough	71%
Not getting enough	29%

Last month the American Association of Social Workers published a survey of actual relief standards in 28 states which put forward the case for heavier relief allowances. The association's report found that federal work relief has lagged behind increasing needs and that direct relief allowances—for those outside the WPA—are "shockingly low" in many areas.

Even WPA standards are admittedly far below the "American standard" of living. The monthl earnings of WPA workers range from $21 per month in rural sections of the south to an average of about $60 per month in the large cities of the north.

SOCIAL AGENCIES FAIL TO CONVINCE PUBLIC

But today's Institute survey proves that the social agencies have not won the public's support for their argument. The voting shows that all sections of the country, and especially the agrarian states of the middle west, are unwilling to allocate more to their relief "cases" than they do at present.

"To my mind, relief is just what the word implies. It shouldn't go any farther than lending a hand until those on relief can be shifted into private jobs."

In spite of some sharp differences, Democrats and Republicans take the same side in today's survey. Sixty-six per cent of those who voted for Roosevelt declare that relief allowances are adequate. Eighty-three per cent of those who voted for Landon call them adequate.

The chief dissent comes from the group who are themselves on relief. A breakdown of their vote shows that only 27 per cent of them think relief allowances are as great as they should be, while 73 per cent want them increased.

"It would take a miracle to provide for a family decently on what we get," a typical relief voter comments. Another voter recalls, "I was on relief once, and it was plain misery to live on what I got."

But even the group that favors increasing relief allotments is not sure that it wants to see taxes increased as a result of such a move. The Institute asked as a supplementary question: "Would you favor raising taxes in order to give them more?" And although 29 per cent of the voters interviewed had favored giving reliefers more, only 13 per cent approved raising additional revenue for this purpose.

PUBLIC GRUDGE LONG-STANDING

The United States had no plan for giving relief to the unemployed when the country entered the depression in 1929, and for a long time the Hoover administration was reluctant to have the federal government enter the field of relief at all.

In recent years the surveys of the American Institute of Public Opinion show how sentiment toward the relief problem has developed.

One of the first surveys ever conducted by the Institute, in February, 1934, found that a prevailing number of voters thought government spending for relief "about right." But by the following summer opinion had shifted, and the greatest number thought the government's spending "too great." Public opinion has remained critical of these amounts during each succeeding year.

Other Institute studies show that the public favors a system of work relief over direct cash relief, largely because "it makes the reliefers work for what they get," and that the public believes politics plays a part in the administration of relief.

In addition to all this, Republican voters are disturbed by the continuation of an economic group that gave an overwhelming share of its votes to Roosevelt in 1936.

The latest Institute presidential index, last month, revealed that relief voters are 80 per cent for Roosevelt at the present time.

SUPREME COURT MAY RULE ON NLRB

Mackay Radio Challenges Labor Board's Power.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(UP)—The supreme court reconvenes Monday after a two-week recess, for decisions which may include the Mackay Radio Company's challenge of powers of the National Labor Relations Board.

The new test of NLRB powers headlines a court schedule which also may include a decision on constitutionality of the municipal bankruptcy law, enacted to replace the Bankruptcy Act invalidated by a five-to-four decision of the court in 1936.

The Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company challenges power of the NRLB to compel reinstatement of a group of telegraphers found by the board to have been barred from reinstatement, after a strike, because of union activities. The company contends such an order amounts to affirmative coercion compelling it to give employment to selected persons.

MARTIN WORKING FOR MOTOR PEACE

UAW Leader Won't Accept Strike Mandate Until All Other Means Fail.

FLINT, Mich., April 23.—(AP)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said tonight that although CIO unionists of the Buick and Chevrolet plants of General Motors Corporation had voted to strike, there would be no strikes or stoppages of work until grievance procedure has been exhausted.

Close upon this statement, William E. Dowell, director of G. M. locals of the UAW said corporation concessions relating to "preferred lists" of employes to be retained or called back to work after lay-offs might make a strike unnecessary.

A General Motors spokesman confirmed Dowell's announcement that the corporation had given assurance that no abuses of such lists would be tolerated.

"We have a contract with General Motors and we will live up to it," said Martin. "The UAW also has a constitution and we will live up to it. That constitution provides there shall be no strikes or stoppages of work until grievance procedure has been exhausted, and there will be no strikes until that has been done."

RIVERS TO SPEAK.

View of the Type of Many Pretty Homes Now Being Built in Peachtree Park Subdivision

Above is shown six of nineteen homes just about completed in a North Side subdivision. Most of these are being built by lot owners as homes, though some few builders have taken over lots and are building, sales being made almost before completion. Forty-two lots have recently been sold since the tract was opened a few months ago. It contains 115 lots, 19 of them now having buildings completed or in course of construction, at a valuation of $150,000. The homes above are dotted along each side of Peachtree drive, with many that could not be shown. The property is handled by Haas & Dodd, realtors.

BIG APARTMENT CHANGES HANDS TWICE IN ONE DAY

17-Unit Structure on Ponce de Leon Has Quick Change in Ownership.

The sale of a large 17-unit apartment twice in one day would seem at least an indication that investment properties are now growing more in demand than for some time.

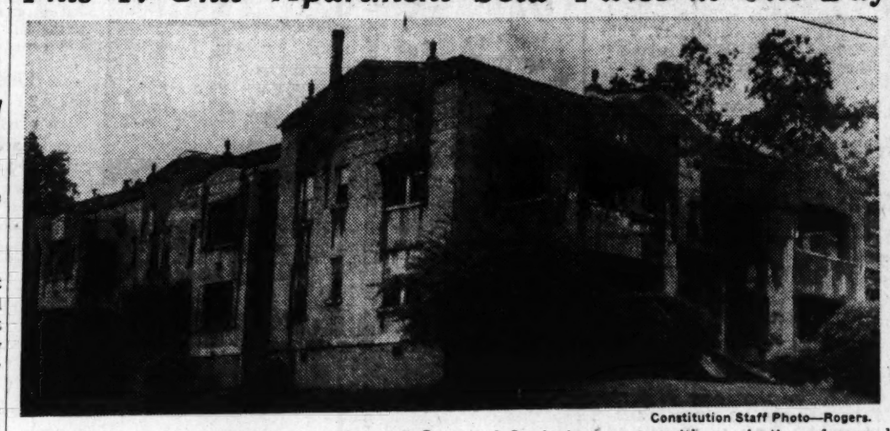

In this case the St. Augustine apartment, on Ponce de Leon, at the southwest corner of Seminole avenue, was sold a few days ago through Harry Paschal Jr., of the Draper-Owens Company, realtors, for the Southern States Portland Cement Company to the Southern Co-operative Realty Company.

Within a few hours—the same day—through Perry Adair, of the Adair Realty & Loan Company, realtors, the Southern Co-operative Realty Company disposed of the apartment to the Eleven-Fifteen Corporation, composed of a group of Atlanta businessmen. The latter sale was mentioned in The Constitution Thursday, and a valuation price of $45,000 stated as involved in the deal. However, it was not learned until later that Harry Paschal Jr. had negotiated the first sale just a few hours before the latter sale was consummated, with a price close to the figures stated.

The building is of hollow tile and stucco construction, containing 16 four-room apartments and one efficiency unit, and is completely occupied. The property is assessed by the city for tax purposes at $31,350. The lot fronts Ponce de Leon 87 1-2 feet and is 200 feet deep along Seminole avenue.

This is the fourth large apartment sale announced within the past two weeks, and shows increased activity among investors in realty.

This 17-Unit Apartment Sold Twice in One Day

The St. Augustine apartment, corner Ponce de Leon and Seminole avenues, with a valuation of around $45,000, was sold a few days ago through Harry Paschal Jr., of Draper-Owens Company, realtors, from the Southern States Portland Company to the Southern Co-operative Realty Company. Almost immediately—within a few hours—it was sold through Perry Adair, of the Adair Realty & Loan Company, realtors, from its new owners to the Eleven-Fifteen Corporation, a group of Atlanta businessmen. It is built of hollow tile and stucco, with 16 four-room apartments and one efficiency, on a lot 87½x200, and is assessed at $31,350.

Northside Subdivision Being Fast Dotted With Attractive Residences.

With the sale of 42 lots, the consideration for which involves approximately $38,000, within a few months, and with 19 new residences either completed or under construction, with sales values approximating $150,000, Peachtree Park subdivision is making fast progress as one of the outstanding northside subdivisions.

This property consists of 115 lots originally, and is handled exclusively by Haas & Dodd, realtors. It lies just east of Piedmont avenue and about three brocks south of Peachtree road. Its two main arteries are Peachtree drive and East Pace's Ferry road, all lots facing on these new thoroughfares, which are paved, with city water, lights and gas available.

Of the 42 lots already sold, about half have had pretty six to seven-room homes erected on them, running in a price class of $6,000 to $8,000, and many of them have been purchased outright, while in a number of cases lot-buyers have erected their own homes. The 20 or more remaining lots already sold will have homes started on them within a very short time, and many prospective lot-buyers are constantly inspecting the tract of 115 lots.

APARTMENT HOTEL WORK IS STARTED

Old Building at 105 Third Street, N. E., To Have 40 Rooms.

Awarding a contract for more than $30,000, the owner of a large three-story building at 105 Third street, N. E., which has been more or less vacant in the past, work is to start immediately to convert the building into a 46-room apartment hotel, with a bath for practically every room. When completed within about two to three months it will represent an investment of more than $50,000.

The architect on the completely overhauled building is Alvin R. Moore, while the contract for the work has been awarded to Van Winkle & Watkins, a local firm. In addition to the large number of rooms to be made out of the old building, a large lounge and lobby will be placed convenient for tenants, a barber shop and beauty shop installed. Also a large number of garages will be arranged for the convenience of occupants.

The Wall Realty Company, realtors, planned the sugested change and negotiated a lease for the remodeled structure before work was begun. It has been leased to Mr. and Mrs. C. Hines for an aggregate gross fental for five years of $26,520.

ADAMS-CATES MADE EXCLUSIVE AGENTS

Will Handle Beverly Hills Subdivision; Sales of the Company.

The owners of the Beverly Hills subdivision yesterday announced the appointment of Adams-Cates Company as exclusive agents for the sale of lots.

Commenting on this appointment, Alvin B. Cates, president of the company, said, "We are very pleased to have the sale of these fine lots. Located on Sheridan drive and Delmont drive, each lot has a frontage of 75 feet with generous depth. The location is most desirable, being only a few hundred feet from Peachtree road. They are convenient to the car line, churches, stores and with the completion of the new grade school near North Fulton High school, it will be possible for children to go all the way from the first grade through high school without having to cross Peachtree road traffic. These lots are priced correctly, and in my opinion they represent good value."

M. Friedman sold to the Andrews Point Company improved property known as 643-5-7 Capitol avenue.

O. E. Collum sold to Andrews Point Company the lot in the rear of this building. Both sales were handled by Harry W. Dews.

Peters Land Company sold to Roy M. Mundorff a 50-foot lot on the west side of Techwood drive, the sale having been handled by W. T. Perkerson Jr.

The Woodlawn Company sold to B. H. Thompson a residential lot fronting 55 feet on the west side of Standard avenue, this sale having been handled by N. J. Wooding Junior.

LIPSCOMB-ELLIS ELECTS OFFICERS

Death of Mr. Lipscomb Changes Personnel.

Due to the recent death of Rutherford Lipscomb, prominent real estate operator, and head of the Lipscomb-Ellis Company, the directors of the company have named the following as the necessary changes and officers of the company:

Rutherford L. Ellis, president; Edwin P. Lochridge, vice president; Sam M. Weyman, vice president; Charles H. Clement, treasurer; J. S. Baldwin, secretary.

The Lipscomb-Ellis Company is one of the recognized staple realty concerns in Atlanta, and with the long real estate experience behind the men composing its personnel is assurance of a continuance of good service to its many clients.

Louis XIV was secretly married to the Marquise de Maintenon, a governess in the royal household.

RANKIN-WHITTEN SALES ARE $45,000

Woodward Handles Four Sizable Transfers.

1710 North Decatur road, two-story, nine-room brick, purchased by Mrs. Eunice Brockman for $17,500.

1359 Springdale road in Druid Hills, two-story, nine-room brick, purchased by W. E. Edwards for $12,900.

ALABAMA STREET STORE IS LEASED

A short-term lease on a percentage basis, with a guaranteed rental of $200 per month, has been closed by Harry Cowee, of the Adair Realty and Loan Company, realtors, to Mrs. Fanny Bernstein for a small store at 120-A Alabama street.

The new occupants will operate one of a chain of women's dress shops, known as "Cottonland Shops," and it will be managed by Herbert Freedman. The owner of the property is the H. H. Dean estate, of Gainesville.

THREE HOME SALES COME TO $18,000

H. J. Graf, of Garlington-Hardwick, Makes Deals.

Three home sales aggregating $18,000 were closed during the past week by Garlington-Hardwick Company, realtors:

An eight-room, two-story Dutch colonial residence located at 36 Club drive was purchased by Mrs. W. G. Peoples from Mrs. Elizabeth K. Willis. This sale was negotiated in conjunction with the Jacobs Realty Company who represented the purchaser.

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation sold a six-room brick bungalow at 1029 Katherwood drive, S. W., to Mrs. Beulah B. Hendricks.

The Metropolitan Realty Company sold a six-room frame bungalow located at 1077 Confederate avenue, S. E., to Mrs. Maggie Dennard.

All three sales were handled by H. J. Graf.

THREE SMALL HOMES ARE SOLD BY WALL

Sale of three small homes were reported Saturday by the Wall Realty Company, one of them being a home owned by Ben Wall, of the company. The three sales involved between $9,000 and $10,000.

Mr. Wall sold the five-room residence at 117 Maxwell street, in Decatur, to H. L. Manderson. The other sale was of a six-room brick home at 1164 Union Place, S. W., sold to A. F. Burt from the Union Theological Seminary, as a home for the buyer. The Home Owners' Loan Corporation sold to H. F. Williams a home at 2069 Delano drive, N. E.

WORK HAS BEGUN ON PEACHTREE STORE

Work of razing the old residence landmark at 1068 Peachtree street, near Eleventh street, next door to the new Firestone Building now nearing completion, has begun.

On this property the Andrews Point Company will erect a large superstore for the Rogers chain. The lot fronts 72 feet on Peachtree and runs through to Crescent avenue, about 135 feet. The rear and side of the lot will be reserved for parking. It is expected to have the store completed within a few months. E. C. Seiz is the architect who drew the plans for the new building, which will be one-story, built of brick and while no cost was stated, it is understood that between $15,000 and $20,000 will be the figure.

The secretary of the Atlanta Real Estate Board announces that three new members have recently been added to the roster of the organization. They are Mace J. Green, of the Sweat Realty Company; George F. Gann, of Chapman-Baldwin Company, and T. E. Johnson, of the Atlanta Title & Trust Company.

Duckworth Announces as Entry In State Supreme Court Race

Assistant Attorney General W. H. Duckworth, of Cairo, last night formally announced his candidacy for the state supreme court in the Democratic primary of September 14.

Duckworth, a member of the Democratic executive committee, paid his entry fee and made public his announcement soon after the committee fixed rules and regulations governing the primary.

The assistant attorney general is a widely known lawyer and former member of the state senate. He is a graduate of Young Harris College.

Text of Announcement.

His announcement follows:

"To the people of Georgia:

"I am a candidate to succeed Judge Hutcheson, who has announced his retirement from the supreme court.

"It is my opinion that this court has made a record of public service unexcelled by any department of our state government. The personnel of the supreme court has always been the highest type of men. It would be a privilege and an honor for anyone to sit upon that court with the present justices who are great lawyers, excellent men, and patriotic citizens.

"In entering this race I do so in a spirit of humility, fully conscious of the solemn responsibilities that will rest upon me if elected.

Court of 'All the People'.

"The supreme court being the final guardian of the lives, liberties and properties of the people, is entitled to the support and respect of all citizens. At the same time, having been established by the people and being maintained by the people, the supreme court must never forget that it belongs to all the people and that every one is entitled to a full and free opportunity to properly present his case to that court for decision.

"Having ehgaged in the practice of law for 20 years, I know the intense interest every lawyer has in his cases and his desire for straightforward decisions of the court upon all questions of law presented by him which he believes important to his client's case.

"Therefore, it shall be my purpose to meet this worthy desire and evade no questions, but decide them upon sound, legal principles in a decision that is free from ambiguities and that will leave no doubt as to what the supreme court has held on such questions.

Prompt Justice.

"I know the people want prompt and speedy justice, and the lawyers appreciate decisions in their cases as early as possible consistent with due deliberation and careful study of the law necessary to a sound decision. I shall ever strive to do my part in expediting the work of the court to meet these desires.

"If elected, I will be 44 years of age when I take office, and feel that at this age I will be in position to render the kind of service on that court to which my fellow lawyers and the people are entitled. I ask your support. I will sincerely appreciate that support."

W. H. DUCKWORTH.

Bridge Lite

BY HAROLD SHARPSTEEN

CALLING ALL CARDS.

Bridge nip-ups from yesterday's mailbag of post mortems:

COVER JACK.

I never know when to cover and when not to cover when declarer finesses a jack through me toward the dummy. Will you please clear up this question? Mrs. Frank Hacking, Minneapolis, Minn.

Answer: Your question covers quite a bit of territory. . . . Whenever dummy holds two threatening high cards, as Ace-Ten or King-Ten, cover declarer's Jack. . . . Cover, if it places you before a tenace in the dummy, should you refuse. . . . Cover if you believe it will establish a tenace for your partner over the dummy-hand.

"TENACE POSITION."

What do you mean when you refer in your articles to a "tenace position?" . . . Mrs. W. E. Lytle, Gouverneur, N. Y.

Answer: The simpliest explanation is to imagine the Ace-Queen of a suit in your own hand as declarer. . . . Nothing is to be gained by leading away from the suit. . . . When right-hand opponent holds the King, you are in a position to take a simple finesse by leading from dummy-hand through the King. . . . When left-hand opponent leads the suit your Ace-Queen is placed in a certain winning "tenace position" over both opponents.

STOPPER.

When is it safe to assume you have opponent's suit stopped? . . . Mrs. O. C. Miller, Miami Shores, Florida.

Answer: Holding at least the Q, 10, X of his suit in back of the suit bidder. A stopper is any card or combination of cards which will win a trick or must be removed before opponents can establish the suit.

TWO NOTRUMP.

When partner responds with one notrump to my opening suit bid what do I need to raise to two notrump? Mrs. Irene (Gus) Edwards, Santa Monica, Cal.

Answer: So long as your partner's one notrump is not forcing, a raise to two notrump should show 4 1-2 to 5 honor tricks and a hand well suited for no-trump play.

'Til tomorrow—

CARNIVAL TO RAISE FUNDS FOR LEGION

Attractions Being Set Up at Lakewood Park for Opening Wednesday.

The Royal American Shows, claiming to be the largest carnival in the world, will open Wednesday at Lakewood park under auspices of American Legion Post No. 1, Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, announced yesterday.

The carnival will be the feature of the annual spring festival of the American Legion, and many former "doughboys" are going to work on the mile-long midway when the shows open.

Proceeds received by the Legionnaires would help to build their new $50,000 home in Piedmont park, it was said.

Special daily events will be planned for the festival by Robert A. Garner, past commander of Post No. 1, who is director of the festival.

Benton and officials of the Legion praised the new features of the Royal American Shows yesterday as they planned setting up the 18 rides and 24 tent theaters on the improved Lakewood showgrounds.

The spring festival will continue for 10 days, closing May 6.

CANCER FIGHT AID URGED THIS WEEK

Give Dollar, at Least, Public Asked.

Final week of the enlistment drive being conducted by the Georgia division of the women's field army for control of cancer will open tomorrow with separate organizations operating in every county in the state.

An urgent appeal for every man and woman to take at least a single $1 enlistment was made yesterday by Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, Georgia division commander, who said she was confident the campaign would be a success.

"We are trying to teach people how to recognize early symptoms of cancer," Mrs. Ritchie said, "in an effort to reduce the tremendous annual death toll, and we are confident we are going to get continued support."

Since the educational campaign has been started, she said, more than 400 state-aid cases have been admitted for treatment in cancer treatment centers in various parts of the state. Of this number only 14 were found to be beyond the curable stage.

CLEAR SKIES, WARMER FORECAST FOR TODAY

Atlanta will have a "fair and warmer" week end with clear skies and temperatures close to the range of the past few days, the United States Weather Bureau predicted last night.

Yesterday's minimum was 54 and the maximum was 71. Today's extremes are expected to be about the same with a slight increase in both by tomorrow.

HOME-COMING SET AT 'MOTHER' CHURCH

Ministers and laymen from many parts of Georgia will gather back at 98-year-old Indian Creek Baptist church next Sunday for an old-fashioned home-coming with "dinner on the ground." The church is located off Memorial drive between Avondale and Stone Mountain.

The 100th anniversary of the church, which is the second oldest Baptist church in DeKalb county, will be observed December 7, 1939. Plans are going forward for a new building, and members hope to have the structure completed by that time.

With a history dating back to 1839 when it was chartered by 11 members as the Decatur Presbyterian church, it has been the scene of many great revivals and other religious meetings.

The original structure was burned in 1865 during the War Between the States, but was rebuilt in 1870. The church is considered the "mother" of the Decatur, Avondale, Zion, Clarkston and Mt. View Baptist churches.

R. Frank Smith, who served as clerk of the church for 23 years, said its members plan to have a brick veneer building for the celebration of the 100th anniversary. The Rev. Homer C. Johnson is the present pastor.

Speakers on the homecoming program include Dr. W. H. Faust, Baptist secretary of evangelism, and Judge James C. Davis, of the Stone Mountain circuit.

"We want everyone to bring a well-filled basket dinner and enjoy the day with us," Smith said.

HEALTH EDUCATORS END 4-DAY TALKS

Delegates to the 43d annual convention of the American Association for Health and Physical Education elected officers and chose Atlantic City as the 1941 convention city at the close of their four-day meeting yesterday.

Dr. N. P. Neilson, of Stanford University, was elevated to the presidency, succeeding Dr. C. H. McCloy, of the University of Iowa. As the president is named one year in advance, Dr. Margaret Bell, of the University of Michigan, elected at this session, will take office next year.

Vice presidents are Dr. Dorothy B. Nyswander, of Astoria, N. Y., chairman of health; Grover W. Mueller, of Philadelphia, chairman of physical education, and Dr. Frank Lloyd, of New York University, chairman of recreation.

The Georgia section of the national body chose J. Lewis Cook, of Hoke Smith Junior High school, president, succeeding R. D. Powell, of Murphy Junior High school.

The convention city is chosen two years in advance. The 1939 convention will be in San Francisco and the 1940 meeting in Chicago. Approximately 2,500 delegates attended the Atlanta meeting.

MENAGERIE BOAT BREAKS IN TWO

Considerable Part of $2,000,000 Cargo Lost.

BOSTON, April 23.—(UP)—The grounded British freighter City of Salisbury broke in two today, spilling a considerable part of its $2,000,000 cargo into the sea.

The vessel, whose cargo included jungle snakes, animals and birds, became lodged on Graves ledge yesterday. All but 17 of its crew had gone ashore after removing 16 crates of monkeys, eight cases of reptiles, three bears and scores of exotic birds.

While towboats and a coast guard cutter were standing by, the freighter suddenly rose from the ledge and broke in two aft of the pilot house. The bow sank immediately but the stern remained afloat.

100,000 JUVENILES TO HELP CELEBRATE YOUTH WEEK HERE

Special Events Arranged To Mark Each Day From April 30 to May 6.

Nearly 100,000 boys and girls in the Atlanta area will have a part in a series of events that will mark Youth Week, April 30 to May 6, it was announced yesterday by W. W. Snow, general chairman.

Mr. Snow, chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary Club, and head of the sponsoring group that represents more than 20 civic and character building organizations, said that Atlanta would see the leaders of the future in action during the week.

Planned to bring about an understanding of what the city is doing to prepare leaders for the years to come, and to fight crime and delinquency by building a strong and alert youth, the program will demonstrate all phases of the work of health guidance, character building, education and recreation for young people.

Special Events Each Day.

Each day of the week has a particular significance and is sponsored by a group of organizations.

Mr. Snow said interest was mounting in the plan for an "Evening at Home," Tuesday, May 3.

Sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Associations of this area, under the leadership of Mrs. J. Elmer Slider and Mrs. P. A. Rich, and by the Family Welfare Society and other organizations, this event is planned to strengthen family ties and bring family groups closer together.

Every family will be asked to gather at the family fireside or dinner table that evening to talk about things that interest the children. Parents will be urged to seek an understanding of their childrens' outlook on life and events. A radio program at the dinner hour will give an impetus to family discussions.

This particular event is the climax to school day, which will be marked by special programs in every city and county school. The Exchange Club is sponsoring the day, with the assistance of other groups.

Program on Citizenship.

The program on citizenship, set for Thursday, May 5, also is taking form as one of the outstanding of the week.

Elections will be held in each of the junior and senior high schools for a councilman to represent the school at a meeting at which a mayor will be named. Arrangements are being made for this young mayor to preside over several meetings and to be presented to Atlanta at a mass meeting during the evening.

Another phase of this day's program is the special drive to have all persons who have just passed 21 to register as voters. Convenient booths will be placed downtown.

The Lions Club is sponsoring this day, with the League of Women Voters, the Woman's Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in charge of events.

Shirley Is 9 Years Old; Entertains 300 at Party

She bounced out of bed this morning and found her parents' Brentwood Heights mansion jammed with presents. They were all wrapped in Shirley's favorite colors—red and white. And they came from admirers in all parts of the world.

This afternoon she played host to 300 children of Hollywood and Los Angeles newspapermen.

Ideas for Camera Fans

If your technique is off and you get a headache over proper exposure, you should take time out to read this column of news about Atlanta camera fans, which will appear in The Constitution as a regular weekly feature. Sponsored by the Atlanta Camera Club, this column is designed for all amateur photographers. The Atlanta Camera Club itself is an amateur organization, composed of 70 candid shot enthusiasts interested in better photography. Whether you know a 'shutter from a lens, you, too, can join the club and take part in its activities, which include educational lectures, picture competitions and traveling exhibits. All amateur photographers are invited to submit their best candid photographs to the Picture Editor of The Constitution for use in this column each Sunday.

By LEONARD ROSINGER.

Portraiture is more popular among amateur photographers than any other type of work and creditable results can be obtained with a minimum of equipment. By taking portraits in the home, a naturalness of expression and feeling of ease is possible for the sitter, which should add to the attractiveness of the finished picture.

Backgrounds for home portraits are easily arranged. Simplicity is the keynote, and a smooth wall with pictures removed and without distracting wallpaper pattern forms a nice background. If desired, an ordinary sheet can be hung between a doorway and it provides a fine neutral tone against which the sitter can be posed. Very often it is preferable to include a corner of the living room as a background and in this case it is possible to focus sharply on the sitter and open the lens wide, thus throwing all the background into a softer focus. The attention of the eye is then directed to the sharp center of interest and is not intrigued by confusing background details.

Lighting in home portraiture is most easily accomplished with photoflood lamps in reflectors. An evenly balanced light is not usually desirable and to achieve a flattering illumination, one light should be placed at about twice the distance from the subject as the other. An accepted rule is to have the main light strike the face of the sitter at an angle of about 45 degrees. The second light is used to fill in the shadows cast by the main light and should be placed on the opposite side of the camera. This throws sufficient illumination in the shadows created by the nearby light to prevent forming a harsh, solid mass. Lights may be diffused by placing a handkerchief over them, if a softer shadow is preferred.

With the lighting arranged, the camera should be located at about the eye level of the sitter and sufficiently far away to prevent distortion and to give a good "perspective" of the face. Try to snap the shutter when your sitter is natural and unposed. Begin a conversation and wait for the right moment. Then, click! and your portrait is made.

UHRY WILL COVER DERBY THIS YEAR

Ralph Uhry, who covered the Kentucky Derby last year with his miniature camera, is loading film in preparation of the 1938 classic. Uhry was greatly interested in the "periscope hats" used by spectators in the recent Coronation ceremonies in London. He would like to adopt a periscope hat for his camera so that a view would be available over the heads of the densely packed crowds at the Louisville track.

Despite handicaps, last year he was able to get some remarkable photo-finish shots of the thoroughbreds as they crossed the winning line and he hopes to nab some action shots again this year. In addition to the race itself, the stands are crowded with celebrities and offer great opportunity for a candid camera fan of Uhry's ability.

CLUB ANNOUNCES LANDSCAPE CONTEST

The beauty of Georgia landscapes, famed in poetry and song, is to be the subject for the May competition of the Atlanta Camera Club. Cameras that have lain dormant on a shelf for the winter months are being dusted off and lenses polished in anticipation of next month's contest. No restrictions are placed on the subject matter, save that it be landscape. A wide variety of views, ranging from the mountainous terrain to the sandy stretches of the Georgia coast line, are expected. Prize winners are voted upon by the entire club, acting as a jury, and the outstanding pictures are included in the traveling exhibition.

ATLANTANS' WORK WILL HANG IN N. Y.

Fifty pictures taken by members of the Atlanta Camera Club are shortly to make their first New York appearance when they are hung in the showrooms of the Manhattan Camera Club. The New York organization extended an invitation to the Atlanta group to send a representative showing of photographic works. An exchange exhibit of photographs made by the Manhattan Camera Club is soon to be held in Atlanta.

WINDOW SHADES FOR PHOTOGRAPHIC USE

An ideal background for portraits in a window shade of extra width that is colored green on one side and white on the other. Thus a white background is available when desired and by reversing the shade, a dark tone background is obtainable. A. A. Murphy liked the idea so well that he sent through a special factory order to produce for him a super shade that covers one-half of his studio wall. Another use for shades in photography is to flatten obstinate pictures that have a tendency to buckle. The damp picture is rolled up in the shade and permitted to dry. When removed it will uncurl and lie flat without any further coaxing.

TWO-WEEK-OLD BOY CANDIDATE FOR CLUB

Keeping photographic records of a baby's growth is one of the pleasanter aplications of amateur photography. John Minter recently achieved parenthood of a son and reports that his child has completely gotten over any camera shyness. Due to a very early acquaintance with the noise made by a camera shutter, the two-week-old lad obligingly poses for his camera-addict father and holds his breath for time exposures. Minter has already filed application for his son's membership in the Camera Club and predicts that he is certain to inherit his father's avid interest in matters photographic.

ARMAND MAIER PROVES PROWESS

Armand Maier has returned from New Orleans with pictures to support his story of a redfish he landed while there on a vacation. He reports that to haul in a fighting fish with one hand and adjust camera with the other is a difficult problem. While in New Orleans, Maier photographed famous scenes in the old French quarter that will form a valuable addition to his album.

ATLANTA TO BACK DRIVE FOR FUND

Regenstein Leads Effort for Jewish Welfare Donations To Aid Distressed.

The 1938 campaign of the Atlanta Jewish Welfare Fund for alleviating human misery overseas and maintenance of philanthropic agencies in the United States will be launched May 10, Harold Hirsch, president of the organization, announced yesterday.

Scope of the Atlanta campaign embraces Palestine rehabilitation, relief of the impoverished in Europe, educational institutions and hospitals, Hirsch pointed out. Allocations to the various beneficiaries of the local drive will be made by a budget committee at the close of the campaign.

Meyer Regenstein, chairman of the 1938 drive, also will head the men's division, and Mrs. Donald Oberdorfer and Mrs. Robert M. Travis, co-chairman, will be in charge of the women's division. Louis Regenstein Jr. will lead the youth division.

Hirsch will serve as chairman of the men's advance gifts committee, and Mrs. Herbert Elsas and Mrs. Arthur I. Harris have been appointed co-chairmen of the women's advance gifts committee.

"Upon the efforts of the Atlanta campaign and similar endeavor throughout the country depends the salvation of thousands in Europe," Hirsch said. "The burden of meeting the crisis abroad must be taken up in the spirit of renewed faith and courage."

MOTHER OF EIGHT DIES IN SUICIDE LOVE PACT

WESTERLY, R. I., April 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Madeline Partelow, mother of eight children, and John William Ledoux, of this town, were found shot to death today in a small coupe in the Varietyville section. Chief of Police Kessel said the death was a suicide pact.

Chief Kessel said a note was found in the coupe which read, "We can't have each other so we died together, Jack and Madeline."

GEORGIA ROTARIANS WILL CONFER HERE

Representatives of 44 Clubs To Come to Atlanta May 8, 9 and 10.

Representatives from 44 Rotary clubs in Georgia will attend a three-day Rotary district conference to be held at the Biltmore hotel May 8, 9 and 10.

The meeting will mark the 25th anniversary of the Atlanta club, the first Rotary club organized in Georgia. It will also celebrate the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Georgia Rotary district.

Howard See, president-elect of the Atlanta club, and chairman of the committee on arrangements, estimated the attendance would be between 600 and 700 delegates and their wives.

In addition to business meetings, social and recreational features will include a garden party on the Biltmore terrace Sunday, May 8; a golf tournament for the men and a garden tour for the women on Monday afternoon, and the Governor's dinner-dance Monday night.

Out-of-state speakers who will appear on the program include J. Murray Hill, of Louisville, Ky., representing Rotary International; George V. Klimes, of Birmingham, Ala., governor of his district, and Edmund H. Harding, of Washington, N. C.

T. T. Molnar, of Cuthbert, is district governor of the Georgia district.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR LUCIUS V. HAYES, 34

Funeral services for Lucius Virgil Hayes, 34, of 695 Wheeler street, N. W., who died Friday night in Grady hospital, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Bellwood Baptist church, with the Rev. Dewitt Reagan and the Rev. Ben Wilkie officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, under the direction of Harold H. Sims.

Hayes, a steel moulder, was admitted to Grady Friday afternoon in a coma, and never regained consciousness. An autopsy, performed yesterday morning, failed to disclose cause of death.

Baby Born Alive Half-Hour After Mother's Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 23.—(UP)—A baby boy was delivered alive by Caesarian operation today half an hour after its mother died of a heart attack.

The baby was hurried to Children's hospital and placed in an incubator. Its condition was critical.

Dr. J. S. McMath performed the operation. The mother was Mrs. Cora Litzinger, 35, of suburban Carthage.

Dr. McMath had set out for the Litzinger home to assist in the birth, unaware Mrs. Litzinger had died. When he arrived, the doctor was told the mother had died 15 minutes before.

Dr. McMath called the city lifesaving squad, which arrived about a quarter of an hour after the baby's birth.

Lieutenant Zimmerman and Herbert Hammond, of the life squad, used an inhalator to start respiration on the baby.

CAFE COLLAPSE TOLL MOUNTS TO 23 DEAD

PHENIX CITY, Ala., April 23. (AP)—Death of Minnie Drain, negro, in a Columbus (Ga.) hospital, today raised to 23 the fatalities in the collapse of a two-story cafe building.

Mayor Floyd and the Phenix City commission began an inquiry today into the collapse. Eighty-two persons were on the injured list, hurt when the structure caved in Thursday.

HOSPITAL IN DALTON GETS X-RAY MACHINE

DALTON, Ga., April 23.—Mrs. M. E. Judd, prominent Georgia club leader, has donated one of the latest types of deep X-ray therapy machines toward establishment of a cancer treatment center in the Hamilton hospital here, Miss Martha Mann, Whitfield county chairman of the state cancer control campaign, announced this week.

The gift, according to Miss Mann, is a memorial to Hubert L. and Morton E. Judd.

The machine will be placed in the hospital for use under supervision of the self-perpetuating committee from the Dalton Civitan Club.

HOWELL C. CURTIS DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Former Atlanta Druggist Is Meningitis Victim.

Howell Cobb Curtis, 53, former Atlanta druggist, died Wednesday in a San Francisco hospital of meningitis.

He was the brother of Dr. A. L. Curtis, druggist and former councilman, with whom he was associated in business for many years. Mr. Curtis was visiting relatives in California at the time of his death.

Surviving in addition to Dr. Curtis are three sons, Howell Cobb Curtis Jr., Bristol, Tenn.; A. L. and William Curtis, both of Knoxville; a daughter, Miss Margaret Curtis, also of Knoxville; a brother, B. C. Curtis, Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. A. S. Knight, West Palm Beach, Fla., and Mrs. H. A. Wise, Calhoun, Ga.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday in Calhoun, his birthplace.

SPECIAL SESSION BARRED BY COURT

Calling of Legislature in Washington Vetoed.

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 23.—(AP)—The state supreme court ruled against a special session of the legislature today, rejecting Lieutenant Governor Victor A. Meyers' petition for a writ of mandate against Secretary of State Reeves to compel her to attest his proclamation.

Meyers sought a writ to compel the secretary of state to attest his proclamation, which Governor Clarence D. Martin has revoked.

Governor Martin was absent from the state when Meyers called the legislature to meet next Monday to pass social legislation and increase taxes to meet relief and old-age pension payments.

WEIGHTY SCHEDULE IS FACING CONGRESS THROUGHOUT WEEK

Leaders Set June 1 as Approximate Date for Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) Leaders today arranged a heavy program for congress next week and set June 1 as an approximate adjournment date.

President Roosevelt intends to complete his legislative recommendations during the week and leave Washington Friday for a fishing trip. Messages are expected from the executive on monopoly and the removal of tax exemptions on salaries of public employes and on income from federal and state securities.

Tax, Navy Bills.

Administration leaders on Capitol Hill hoped to send the tax revision measure to the White House next week, obtain senate approval of the naval expansion bill and clean up a half-dozen odds-and-ends of legislation in the house.

The President's multi-billion dollar spending-lending program will continue its journey through the house appropriations committee. Officials of the Farm Security Administration are scheduled to testify before the committee Monday and Secretary Ickes may appear Tuesday.

Drafting of a compromise tax law in the form it probably will go on the statute books hinged only on action of a senate-house conference committee in reconciling numerous details of separate bills passed by the two chambers.

F. D. R. Calls Harrison.

Harrison, leader of the congressional fight to wipe out the undistributed profits levy, called on Mr. Roosevelt at the latter's invitation today. Harrison declined to say what was discussed.

There was speculation that Mr. Roosevelt may have assured the Mississippian that he had no ill feelings as a result of the tax fight. Another possibility was that he asked Harrison's advice regarding the forthcoming tax exemption message.

No Amendment.

In his tax exemption message, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to suggest that present salary and securities tax exemptions could be removed by legislation, without a constitutional amendment.

By a 34-to-33 vote, the senate has written into the pending tax bill a proposal by Senator Borah to make the interest on all future government issues subject to federal income taxation.

Wage and hour legislation, repeatedly recommended by President Roosevelt, has been revamped by the house labor committee and now is in the hands of the house rules committee. Chairman O'Connor, Democrat, New York, intends to call the latter group together next week to decide whether the new legislation should be given right-of-way to the house floor.

U. S. CHAMBER OFFERS NEW RECOVERY PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) As an alternative for the President's proposal to increase federal spending, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States put forward today "a non-spectacular, inexpensive program" for business recovery. The chamber in its bi-weekly Washington Review advocated:

"Immediate relief from the discredited and repressive undivided profits tax and from the business-stifling capital gains levy.

"Prompt reduction in social security taxes, with the adoption of a pay-as-you-go plan for old-age pensions.

"Amendments to the labor relations act to make it less lopsided in its application."

Louise Linenkohl, Lincoln county champion of The Constitution-National Spelling Bee. She is only 11 years old and in the sixth grade of Woodloan school.

Alvin Bonds, 12, seventh grade pupil of Burkett school who won the Upson county championship of The Constitution-National Spelling Bee.

Thomaston's Kiwanis Club will send the school system champion, Ruth Layton, 13, to Atlanta for the state final of The Constitution-National Spelling Bee.

Moody George, 13, of the eighth grade of the Cave Spring Consolidated school, who is Floyd county's champion in The Constitution's state-wide test.

DeKalb county's champion speller is Betty Glenn, eighth grade, Druid Hills school, who captured first place yesterday in a competition held at Decatur.

County Spelling Champions Listed In Constitution-National Contests

Betty Glenn, 13, Is Victor at Decatur, Allene Westbrooks in Gwinnett County and Eliazbeth Vaughn in Wilkes; Others Announced.

DECATUR, Ga., April 23.—Thirteen-year-old Betty Glenn, of the eighth grade of the Druid Hills school, won the DeKalb county championship in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee at the Decatur Boys' High school building here this morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Glenn, of 2337 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Betty also was eligible to take part in the latin competition of the Classical Association of Georgia, staged Saturday at Washington Seminary, but chose to compete in the spelling bee.

The runner-up, who showed extreme ability but finally failed on the word "seize," was Manget Davis Jr., 12, of the seventh grade of Dunwoody school. The county competition was under the general direction of Superintendent of Schools W. M. Rainey.

ALLENE WESTBROOKS WINS IN GWINNETT

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., April 23.—R. C. Simonton, county superintendent of schools, announced that Allene Westbrooks, of Norcross, a pupil in the seventh grade of the school, there, emerged victorious as the spelling champion of Gwinnett county in The Constitution's state-wide spelling bee, in which 54 grades of 18 schools took part.

Miss Westbrooks will represent her county in the state final in Atlanta May 7.

ELIZABETH VAUGHN WILKES CHAMPION

WASHINGTON, Ga., April 23. Elizabeth Vaughn, Rayle High school pupil, spelled her way to a lone stand and the championship of Wilkes county in The Constitution's state participation in the National Spelling Bee.

William Johnson, of the Washington High school, was runner-up. He was no longer "available" for first honors after misspelling that word. Miss Vaughn spelled it correctly, and went on to add "appendicitis" to her score. Among those interested in behalf of the winning schools taking part were James Short, principal, and Miss Kate Norman, athletic director.

VIRGINIA HOLMES VICTOR IN GLYNN

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 23.—Announcement was made today by Superintendent George W. Wannamaker, of Glynn county schools, that Virginia Holmes, sixth grade pupil of the Sidney Lanier school, won the Glynn county championship in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee. She will take part in the Atlanta state final.

OGLETHORPE WINNER IS EMILY ARNOLD

LEXINGTON, Ga., April 23.—Oglethorpe county's champion in the spelling bee of The Atlanta Constitution is 12-year-old Emily Arnold, of Maxweys school. She is the daughter of Hugh Arnold, of Bairdstown. Her teacher is Miss Elizabeth Mitchell.

The runner-up was Olin Coile, of Crawford school's seventh grade, who misspelled "evidence." The contest was held at the courthouse and was judged by Mrs. M. F. Blanchard, L. P. Green and F. J. Hendrix.

LILLIAN LITTLE WINS IN WALTON

MONROE, Ga., April 23.—Lillian Little, 13, Monroe Junior High school student, is the winner in the county-wide spelling match held at the Walton county courthouse here and will compete in the state match sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution in Atlanta May 7.

Bobby Bryant, of the Jersey grammar school, came second in the contest, and Charles Langley, of the Loganville Junior High school, third.

A large number of county schools were represented at the match which attracted a large crowd of students, teachers and citizens. John T. Preston gave out the words and P. N. Launius, L. D. Haskew, J. G. Bryant and L. H. Hamil acted as judges.

OLIVER DYAL, 12, IS HANCOCK CHAMPION

SPARTA, Ga., April 23.—Oliver Dyal Jr., 12, seventh-grader of the Sparta school, is Hancock county's champion in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dyal, of Sparta, Oliver will represent the county in the state final. His instructor is William Brake.

The runner-up, Anne Waller, 12, of the seventh grade of Culverson school, missed the word "occasion." Mrs. Louise G. Moore, county schools superintendent, sponsored the contest.

GIRL AGAIN WINS HONOR IN LINCOLN

LINCOLNTON, Ga., April 23.—Lincoln county followed the majority of Georgia counties in producing a girl winner in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee. The winner is Louise Linnenkohl, 11, a pupil of the sixth grade of Woodloan school.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Linnenkohl, of Route 1, Amity, Ga., Louise was warmly congratulated by County Superintendent J. L .Colvin, sponsor of the contest in the schools, especially in view of her extreme youth.

Likewise, the runner-up was a sixth grade girl pupil, Katherine Norman, of Forest Grove school. She failed to spell "advice" correctly.

Judges were Rev. J. R. Kirkland, Olen Hunt and Guy H. Smalley.

WAWENA, 14, OUTSPELLS FORTY CONTESTANTS

CARROLLTON, Ga., April 23.—Out of representatives of 40 schools, Wawena Blackwelder, 14, a member of the seventh grade of Roopville High school, emerged as the champion speller of Carroll county in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee.

She is the daughter of Mrs. G W. Blackwelder, of Roopville, and her instructor is W. H. Faver.

The runner-up was Audrey Shadrix, of Temple High school J. H. McGiboney, county superintendent of schools, was in charge of the competition.

RUTH LAYTON PICKED TO REPRESENT THOMASTON

THOMASTON, Ga., April 23.—Thomaston's independent school system's final in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee ended in the selection of Ruth Layton, seventh grade student of the Silvertown schooi, as the champion. The contest was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, which will send her to Atlanta for the state final on May 7.

The champion is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. P. T. Layton. The runner-up was Churchil Carter, seventh grade, R. E. Lee school, who was unable to spell "cinnamon" correctly. Superintendent Mark Smith organized the enterprise.

THREE TO CONTEST IN BLACKSHEAR FINALS

BLACKSHEAR, Ga., April 23.—Blackshear's schools, by oral spelling competition, has selected Travis Morris, seventh grade, as the system winner in The Constitution's state-wide spelling contest. The sixth grade champion is Lottie Dixon and the eighth grade winner, Nelda Geiger. The schools will be represented in the Pierce county final.

FOE OF MAYOR HAGUE GETS 6-MONTH TERM

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 23. (AP)—James J. (Jeff)) Burkitt, long-time political foe of Mayor Frank Hague, was sentenced today to six months in jail on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The charge was the outgrowth of a Journal Square meeting a week ago at which police charged Burkitt attempted to speak without a permit. Police said he used "loud, offensive and indecent" language when they attempted to restrain him.

DR. TYLER RE-ELECTED.

Orange Growers Send Tree to Mrs. Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(UP)—Patricia Ellis, motion picture star, today presented a navel orange tree to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as a "token of appreciation" from California's citrus growers for the government's importation of four orange trees from Brazil 65 years ago.

The four imported trees were imported from Brazil by the Department of Agriculture. One still survives in California, while another is in the Department of Agriculture's greenhouse in Washington. The other two died.

The orange importation was said to be the "most valuable fruit introduction yet made."

Moscow Churches Packed for Easter

MOSCOW, April 23.—(AP)—Thousands of Russians braved the Soviet scorn of religion today to pack Moscow's few remaining churches for traditional observance of Easter—holiest of Greek Orthodox church holidays.

Few priests were available to officiate in their brilliant robes, many having been arrested in the past year's purge on charges of espionage and sabotage.

Emelyan Yaroslavsky, potent head of the militant Godless league, recently estimated about half of Russia's some 170,000,000 inhabitants cling to religion.

CARRIER STRIKERS OKAY SETTLEMENT

Service in Columbus To Be Resumed Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 23.—(AP)—Members of the Amalgamated Association of Electric Railway and Motor Bus Employes' Union approved late today a proposal to end Columbus' transportation strike, in its seventh day.

Officials of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Company said immediately, however, it would take from 12 to 14 hours to get trolley cars and buses ready to operate. They indicated service would not be resumed before Monday morning.

Details of the agreement were not revealed, but it was reported reliably it provided for renewal of a working contract which expired at 12:01 a. m. April 16. The striking union employes had demanded wage increases after withdrawing a closed shop stipulation.

CLARKSTON, Ga., April 23.—A marker to the memory of Mary E. Bryan, southern writer and for many years a resident of Clarkston, will be unveiled by the Clarkston Woman's Club at the clubhouse here at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The marker will be presented by Mrs. Sydney Wilson Jr., club president, and will be accepted by Mayor H. K. Hensler, of Clarkston.

'Cruelty With Auto' Is Upheld by Court

DUBLIN, Ga., April 23.—A conviction on a charge of "cruelty to animals with an automobile" has been upheld by the Georgia court of appeals, it was learned here today.

The case was that of Joe Wilson, of Telfair county, who was found guilty of that offense in Dublin city court, after he had allegedly hit two cows with his automobile on a highway near here, injuring the animals so badly they had to be killed. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve six months' imprisonment by Judge E. L. Stephens.

Mass Exodus of Congress Goes To 'Seed;' Azaleas No Longer Bud

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 23. (UP)—Two South Carolina politicians tonight raised the political junket—a common American phenomenon—to super-colossal proportions.

They brought Vice President Garner and about 200 senators and representatives to Charleston on what probably is the biggest mass junket—although not the longest nor costliest—in history.

The promoters are Representative McMillan, Democrat, South Carolina, who is running for re-election, and Mayor Maybank, of Charleston, who is a tacit candidate for Governor of South Carolina.

"Never before in the history of America has congress adjourned in the midst of a session to attend an affair like this," McMillan reminded his constituents in a speech at Maybank's dinner for distinguished guests.

House and senate did adjourn—from Thursday until Monday.

The legislators got free Pullman rides to Charleston with their wives; free lodging, meals and plenty of sight-seeing and attention. McMillan and Maybank got plenty of publicity as the men for whom a third of congress came down to Charleston.

The congressmen came here for an azalea festival. Unfortunately, the azaleas had ended their blooming period when the special train rolled in.

PALMETTO BRAWL LEADS TO CRASH

Four Hurt as Speeding Car Is Wrecked on Way Here.

A brawl between two negroes in Palmetto resulted in an automobile crash and injury to four persons in College Park last night.

Night Officer Walter P. Bradley, 45, of Palmetto, reported Tom Williams and J. B. Davenport, negroes, engaged in a fight at about 8 o'clock. Davenport attempted to escape arrest, Bradley said, and ran into the path of an automobile.

The officer then asked Robert W. Steed, 21, of Palmetto, to drive to Grady hospital with the injured negro. The car headed for Atlanta, with Steed driving, and Bradley, Davenport and Thomas Slaughter, 23, also a negro, as passengers.

At Main street and Princeton avenue, College Park, Steed's car, which he admitted was "doing at least 60," struck the rear of a car driven by Thomas Hamilton, with Curtis Young a passenger.

Davenport and Bradley suffered cuts and bruises. Davenport was admitted to Grady hospital and Bradley was dismissed. Young and Hamilton were also cut and bruised, and were treated by a physician. Steed posted $100 bond on a charge of speeding.

Fighting Fox Listed As Second Choice

Menow Third, But Odds Drop on Bull Lea After Victory Over Headley Horse.

By CLAUD PERRY,
Louisville Courier Sports Writer.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 23.—Stagehand, winner of the rich Santa Anita Handicap, continues to rule a heavy favorite for the Kentucky Derby to be run here Saturday, May 7, just two weeks from today.

Fighting Fox, still in the east but expected here within the next 10 days, is second choice in the pre-Derby betting, with Menow, Belmont Futurity winner, ranking a close third. The latter, owned by Hal Price Headley, was beaten badly by Bull Lea, Warren Wright's Derby hope, in a race at a mile and a sixteenth over Keeneland track at Lexington, Ky., the other day, but the Headley colt, carrying six pounds more than the son of Bulldog and Rose Leaves, had all the worst of a ragged start. Bull Lea leaping into the lead with the rise of the barrier.

BULL LEA ADVANCES.

The latter, until that victory, was quoted in the winter books at 20 to 1, while Menow is being held now at 7 to 1. Fighting Fox recently was backed from 7 to 6 to 1, while Stagehand is being quoted at 3 to 1. Should the latter continue to train satisfactorily, it is expected that he and his running mate, The Chief both owned by Maxwell Howard and trained by Earl Sande, will go to the post on Derby day at not better than 2 to 1.

Dauber, which ran second to Stagehand in the Santa Anita Derby, is considered the dark horse in the Derby. He is said to be working well in the east, and is quoted by winterbook operators at 10 to 1. Another candidate frequently mentioned, and now on the ground here, is Lawrin, although he has shown nothing sensational in the way of works since arriving at Churchill Downs. He was a consistent performer as a 2-year-old last winter and is as big as Stagehand. He is quoted at 12 to 1.

Sun Egret, A. O. Compton's Derby eligible, and well thought of for the race, especially should the track be muddy on Derby day, now seems a doubtful starter. His trainer, H. Guy Bedwell, has expressed a preference for Pimlico and the Preakness over a distance a sixteenth of a mile shorter than that of the Kentucky classic.

MOUNTAIN RIDGE.

Mountain Ridge, in all probability, will be the only representative of the Milky Way Stable, owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars. Tiger, until a few days ago the stable's chief reliance, being out of training at present as result of a stone bruise suffered in a recent workout here. While Tiger re-

RACE CAPTURED BY FIGHTING FOX

Fast Colt Fairly Breezes to Victory and Gains Derby Prestige.

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 23.—(UP)—Fighting Fox today served notice on Stagehand that he will be the horse to catch and beat in the Kentucky Derby by scoring a brilliant victory in his 1938 bow at Jamaica race track.

The robust son of Sir Gallahad III-Marguerite, whose full brother, Gallant Fox, captured the Derby in 1930, and whose nephew, Omaha, was the 1935 winner, clearly demonstrated fitness in winning with ease in his first start since last October.

Shortly after Fighting Fox scored his victory in the first feature of a double-feature program, Merry Lassie, a stablemate, defeated a formidable field which included Steel Knight, Nedayr, Can't Wait and Traffic Light, also Derby candidates.

Victory for the Fox in next month's classic would complete a triple Kentucky Derby score for the veteran trainer, James Fitzsimmons, of William Woodward's Belair stud.

The Fox was impressive in victory because of the ease in which he romped away from seven other three-year-olds.

"Keep the Fox clear of interference and win from the outside," Fitzsimmons told Jimmy Stout as the stable champion paraded in the paddock before the race. And that's just what Stout did. Moving into command at the breakaway, Fighting Fox eased to the outside and increased his advantage to the end of the six furlongs, where he was galloping, four lengths ahead of Play Gold, Gentle Savage and others. The Fox carried top weight of 122 pounds, four less than Derby scale. The time was 1:12 3-5.

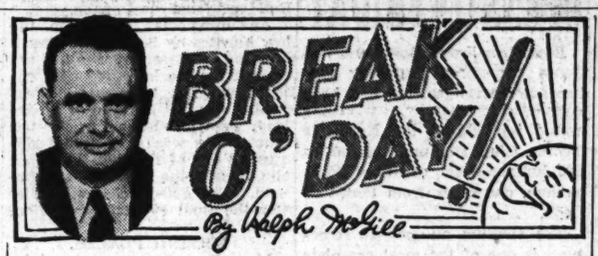

Fighting Fox and Nedayr will next meet in the Wood Memorial, final Derby preview, to be run at the local course next Saturday. Upon the outcome of that race determines the decision to ship the pair to Kentucky to engage Earl Sande's favorite, and others, over the mile and a quarter route on May 7.

Tech Fencers Lose To North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 23. Georgia Tech's fencing team lost to the University of North Carolina, 12-5.

The score, according to weapons, was: Foils, 6-3; sabers, 3-1; epees, 3-1.

If there is anything at all in a name, one of the two Derby hosses trained by Earle Sande ought to do something to write home about in the cool of the evening of May 7.

There's Stagehand, son of Sickle. Anyone knows that a Sickle cuts down a field. A Sickle cuts clean.

And even more significant is The Chief, son of Pennant. A pennant is a pennant, whether it's flying from a flagpole or hanging, forgotten, in the corner of somebody's den.

Last year, the thundering son of Man o' War, War Admiral, the little horse with the big heart, showed there was something more to a name than simply one letter following another by leading from start to finish.

There is, of course, a bit of difference in the interpretation. The diminutive son of Big Red had a real reputation to sustain; a heritage to uphold.

Big Red had sent another son off to the big race at Churchill Downs—Clyde Van Dusen, in 1929—and he was a winner.

There was, they say, only one hoss in the race at Churchill Downs last year, although 20 hosses left the barrier. Just one hoss. War Admiral was the favorite and ran an admirable race. The Darby once again went true to form.

But what of this year?

There may be something in a name. If only a hunch, perhaps.

It does seem that the sons of Sickle and Pennant between them ought to get something done. It is undoubtedly the best pair in the field.

And one is inclined to lean a bit toward The Chief because, after all, while Stagehand is the favorite, a stagehand may merely shift scenes—or might even be another Sceneshifter—and never attain the public's acclaim.

If this should seem a little confusing, please remember that the trainers don't know a great deal about it themselves. And they live with the hosses.

BRADLEY HAD A NAME OR TWO.

Baseball people who follow the Derby were a bit shocked when Colonel E. R. Bradley last year came up with a nominee named Brooklyn. They (the baseball people) would not have been surprised had Brooklyn run the wrong way.

That is, they wouldn't have been had Brooklyn ever gotten in the league. Colonel Bradley's Brooklyn was scratched and his other horse, Billionaire, proved, as usual, to be no poor man's friend.

Once Colonel Bradley, who is the only owner who ever won four Derbies, nominated a horse named Bad News. Asked why he had selected such a name, he replied:

In 1933, Colonel Bradley won with Broker's Tip, a maiden. But, as Ralph McGill wrote at the time, that was a year when nobody was taking brokers' tips.

The Derby people will miss Colonel Bradley this year. He has no entries. Kentuckians never failed to get down a bet on

TOMMY 3 DOWN AT THE 9TH HOLE

(Picture on Page 2-B.)

By KENNETH GREGORY.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—In a sensational finish of an overtime match, Tommy Barnes, of Georgia Tech, survived a gruelling duel today to win the Southern Intercollegiate golf championship.

Just as the Louisiana youngster dropped in a 12-foot putt to square and send the match to extra holes at the 18th green, Barnes rammed down a 12-footer on the 21st hole to achieve victory.

It was a great rally that brought victory for the Georgia Tech delegate, who yesterday displayed a spectacular exhibition of putting to eliminate Paul Leslie, Louisiana State captain and tournament medalist, 3 and 1.

DETERMINATION.

Today it was not putting that won for Barnes. Mostly it was determination and a few lapses by young McDowell, a Kansas City, Mo., boy who has twice qualified for the National Open tournament.

After being three down through nine holes, Barnes steadied and pulled up even with the Louisiana State opposition at the 15th hole. He won the short 17th and was dormie one.

The Louisianan, a member of the winning Baton Rouge team, fired that blow to within 12 feet of the flag. Barnes was short but pitched beautifully to within four feet of the cup for what appeared a certain halve and victory.

After his negro caddy laid down flat to help him line his putt, McDowell coolly walked up and rammed it down for an eagle. They halved the 19th hole with bogey fives, both being short of the green with their seconds.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—Boosted along by Gordon Maltzberger's first-inning wildness, an ankle injury that might or might not have prevented Mel Preibisch from converting a double into a putout and, most of all, by 13 resounding base knocks, the Atlanta Crackers humbled the Smokies here yesterday, 5 to 3.

The victory evened the two clubs up for the season and enabled the visitors to elevate their opinions of themselves. They thought dropping two out of three to Neil Caldwell's team in Atlanta a most humiliating experience.

Before Caldwell could get a relief slinger hot in the initial chapter the Crackers had nicked Maltzberger for two runs. The curve-ball artist was sadly off his feed, and it would probably have been a happier afternoon for home-town supporters had it not been his turn to adorn the mound.

GOOD HITTING.

His successor, the diminutive Jimmy McClure, did a pretty fair job of pitching and an excellent one of hitting. He drove in one of the club's three counters, scored another himself and delivered the single that set off the two-run splurge in the seventh.

Maltzberger failed to survive the first. He retired the lead-off swinger, but Mailho's two-base hit, which almost surmounted the right-field barrier, successive bases on balls to Rose and Hill, and Rubeling's pinch single staked the enemy to a two-run advantage. Gordon proceeded to rejam the cushions by passing Chatham and McClure was beckoned in from the bull-pen.

There went two of the tallies Manager Caldwell figured might just as easily not have been scored. The third came in the fifth, Preibisch, meanwhile, having turned his ankle in attempting to beat out an infield roller in the first.

Marshall Mauldin, first up in the fifth, kissed a well-hit drive to the Smokie gardener's right. He made a valiant effort to flag the ball and did succeed in flinging up his glove for contact. It was no dice, however. Mauldin later completed the circuit when Richards spanked a one-bagger to left.

DESERVED GAME.

While those items doubtless injured the home cause, the Crackers deserved the ball game. They riddled Maltzberger and McClure for 13 safeties, and were given acceptable hurling by Bobby Durham and Bill Beckman, the latter being rushed into the game in the seventh.

Durham sailed along serenely for five frames, although he did

Ice Cream Helped Defeat Ben Brown

MIAMI, Fla., April 23.—(AP)—Bill Gore, Miami Beach manager of prize fighters, is seriously considering adding ice cream to the training menu for his boxers.

A trifle perturbed when Fighter Ralph Chong didn't appear about the time he should have started dressing for the Ben Brown scrap, Gore began a search.

"Are you crazy, man?" Gore asked. "Eating ice cream just before a fight?"

"What difference?" Chong said. "I eat ice cream right up to time I go in the ring and still beat that guy."

And he did. He gave the highly touted Brown a sound drubbing.

TECH HURLERS LIMIT WINNERS TO FOUR BLOWS

Ed Clary Is Star for South Carolina Nine.

By TOM McRAE.

South Carolina got only four hits but beat Georgia Tech, 3 to 2, in one of the fastest college games of the year, the time being an hour and 25 minutes.

This gave the Gamecocks an even break in the two-game series and dropped Tech's average to .500, three losses and three wins.

CORBITT HURLS.

Jim Corbitt was on the mound for Tech and hurled hitless ball for five innings. When he retired for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, he had allowed only two safeties, both singles by Ed Clary. Jack Chivington, who pitched Friday, went in in the ninth and gave up two hits and struck out two.

Louis Tabor did the tossing for the Gamecocks and allowed only five hits, no two coming in the same inning. He issued only one base on balls.

Carolina scored in the first when, after Lowry and Williams had been hit by pitched balls, Stroud popped an easy fly to Cavette, who dropped it, allowing Lowry and Williams to score.

Tech scored in the second. Gibson reached first on an error, second on Ebdon's sacrifice, third he stole, and came home on Nixon's single.

That was all the scoring until the ninth. South Carolina got one then when Burns tripled and came home on Wolfe's single. Tech got their tally when Ebdon tripled and came home on Nixon's long fly.

CLARY IS STAR.

Ed Clary, Gamecock left fielder, showed up better than any player who has appeared on the Rose Bowl field this spring. He got two for three Friday, one a long homer. Yesterday he got the only two hits off Corbitt and both of them were sharp and clean. He fielded his position capably. He is a member of the Clary clan of Gaffney, S. C., which sends so many football players to South Carolina. He, too, is a good grid player.

There will be no home games at the Flats this week, as the Jackets have a four-game road trip. They play Alabama Wednesday and Thursday and Auburn Friday and Saturday.

BLACK CRACKERS PLAY TWIN BILL

Atlanta Black Cracker baseball team plays the Homestead Grays, of Pittsburg, a double-header today at Ponce de Leon park. The Grays are undisputed world champions of 1937 and have the same boys who played last year.

The Grays worked out yesterday afternoon at Clark University field while a large crowd looked on. Manager Vic Harris, of the Grays, says he is ready for the game. Nish Williams, pilot for the Crackers, hopes to put up a good battle.

Turnesa Brothers Annex Golf Match

ALAMEDA, Cal., April 23.—(AP) The five Turnesa brothers of New York defeated the five Fry brothers of California in a telegraphic golf match today by a net margin of 12 strokes and a best ball net of three strokes.

Playing on the par 72 Rockville Country Club course on Long Island, N. Y., the Turnesas scored a team net total of 367.

The Frys scored 379 on the par 71 Alameda municipal course. The eastern boys scored a best ball net of 61, compared with a 64 for the Californians.

Due to the differences in courses the Turnesas had a team handicap of five strokes and a one-stroke handicap on the best ball.

WARREN TO PLAY FULTON BAGGERS

Amateur baseball will again try to get a start after the rainy season, with the Warren baseball club scheduled to meet the Fulton Bag nine on the Warren athletic field today at 3:30 o'clock.

Manager Dave Harris says that he has his club in real condition and should show the fans plenty of baseball talent against the strong Bag nine this afternoon and will use his strongest line-up to start the game, with Collier more than likely to draw the starting pitcher assignment.

Harris has such stars as Virlyn Moore, Mac Carter, Clay Bearden, Red Wood, Nap Rucker and Tom Harper on his club, which ranks as one of the strongest semi-pro clubs in the state.

Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills possesses one of the strongest amateur nines in Atlanta and leads the Textile league with three wins against no defeats.

However, Warren and Fulton have been rivals for the past four years and the outcome of their series is not decided until every one of the games have been played.

Next Tuesday night Warren will play the American Bakeries nine on the Warren athletic field in their first night game of the season.

Perry Wins Tourney; Hughes Is Defeated

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 23. (AP)—Sam Perry, twice southern amateur golf champion, won the Birmingham Country Club's invitation tournament today by defeating Bill McWane, also a home club player, 6 to 5, in the finals match.

McWane, a rank outsider at the opening of the tournament, pulled two upsets, winning from Morton McCarthy, of Norfolk, Va., and Johnny Thames, of Birmingham, to reach the finals.

Warren Smith Jr., of Gadsden, Ala., defeated Dr. Julius Hughes, of Atlanta, 2 and 1, in the second flight championship match. Both had been expected to be title contenders, but off-color performances in the qualifying round left them out.

Dalton Makes Plans For Softball Season

DALTON, Ga., April 23.—Plans for the opening of the 1938 softball season the second week in May are being formulated in Dalton and Henry Nevin has been elected as new president of the softball association and Kelly McCutchen as secretary.

Two leagues, one for teams representing eight business firms of the city and the other for civic organizations, Lions, Rotary and Civitan clubs and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, have been organized. Two games will be played every night except Saturday, which will be kept open for girls' games and tilts with out-of-town opponents.

NEW RECORD.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 23. (AP)—Hugh Gingras, of Rockledge, Fla., drove the Grey Goose to a new world record of 73.701 miles an hour for four-litre hydroplanes today while S. Mortimer Auerbach, of Atlanta City, N. J., failed in seven record tries with his new Emancipator VII.

Athens Brings Victories To Barnes, Tech Senior

Tommy Won First Medal, as Smithie, at Athens; McDowell Cards Two Eagles.

By ROY WHITE.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—Athens is not a city which Tech students recall with fond remembrances, but for Tommy Barnes, a Jacket senior, the Athens Country Club is nearest and dearest to his golfing heart.

Saturday afternoon Barnes dropped a 12-foot putt on the 21st green to beat Bert McDowell, an L. S. U. sophomore, for the fourth annual southern collegiate golf championship.

And it was back in 1932 on the Athens Country Club course where Barnes, a Tech High freshman, first came into prominence. Tommy won the medal and went on to lead Tech High to the state prep golf championship. He later captained two Smithie golf teams to undefeated prep championships, and was medalist in the southern prep tourney at Charlotte in 1933.

BULLDOGS AID BARNES.

It was a bit unusual for a record gallery, consisting mostly of University of Georgia students, to be applauding a Georgia Tech senior and pulling for him to win a collegiate golf championship.

Or was it the memory of that 47 to 7 football defeat of Georgia by L. S. U. two years ago, and McDowell hailing from L. S. U. which prompted the Bulldog supporters to join the Barnes bandwagon around the course this afternoon?

Tommy was not alone in commanding applause, for McDowell's great second shot, a number 4 wood to the 18th green and his 12-foot putt for an eagle which squared the match, brought plenty of praise from the big gallery.

Herman J. Stegeman, one of the sponsors of the tournament for Georgia, said that shot was one of the best in the four-year history of the tournament.

TWO EAGLES—LOSES.

It was a bit unusual for McDowell to card two eagles against no eagles and only two birdies for Barnes, and yet lost the match.

Barnes' hot putter which eliminated Paul Leslie, the L. S. U. captain and tourney favorite, Friday, cooled off considerably Saturday, but warmed up enough on the 21st green to win the match.

That 18th hole shot will go down in the tournament history as one of the best. Barnes was well out in front with his drive, but was some 25 yards short of the green. McDowell's second was 12 feet short of the cup.

Barnes pitched up eight feet short of the cup in what looked like a sure half and the match, as he was up at the time, having gained his first advantage at the 17th, after being four down at the first five holes.

AN INCH TO RIGHT.

McDowell studied the putt, but wasn't satisfied and called his caddy, Rufus Hudson, of Newton, into conference. Rufus laid flat on the grass, both eyes centered on a line to the cup. "It's this much of an inch to the right," he told McDowell. "Play for that inch to the right," it's a straight line."

Again at 19th, Hudson was called into conference, but his target was missed and the hole was halved. Once more at 20 McDowell called for assistance from Hudson and again the caddy laid flat on the ground, selected the site and gave McDowell the target. The assistance was beneficial for the L. S. U. sophomore dropped a 10-foot putt to extend the match to the 21st.

There wasn't much need of assistance after Barnes dropped that 12-footer for a birdie at 21, for it would have broken the heart of most any golfer. McDowell made a brave effort, but the ball broke off to the right of the cup and it was the match.

Three putts at 14 for McDowell proved the turning point for Barnes. He admitted after the match that when McDowell missed a short one, it gave the Tech senior confidence.

NORTHSIDE CARD OPENS ON FRIDAY

Promoters Frank Bettis and Nat Jones announced yesterday that necessary arrangements had been completed whereby wrestling would be held at the Northside Tennis Club stadium, located at 623 Juniper street, corner of North avenue, one block from Ponce de Leon.

The stadium, an open-air structure, is one of the most complete outdoor arenas in the south. It is an ideal spot and has a seating capacity of around 2,500 seats including reserve and ringside. The first wrestling card has been scheduled for Friday night, April 29, and ladies will be admitted free except for a small service charge.

An array of wrestling stars will be featured on the first night's program, including Black Jack Ross, Toni Marchinio and Billy Raborn. The opening lineup will be completed within the next few days.

Wrestling fans wishing to reserve seats for Friday night's matches may do so by phoning Jackson 4140 or calling by the stadium.

WOMEN GOLFERS ACTIVE AT ROME

ROME, Ga., April 23.—The newly-formed Rome Women's Golf Association, is planning a number of contests to be held this season, Mrs. Hugh Given, president, announced today. Following a prize contest for the best individual 72-hole score, putting and other contests will be held soon by the association.

Other officers named besides Mrs. Given were: Mrs. Robert Elliott, vice president; Mrs. R. M. Wyatt, secretary and treasurer; Miss Martha Daniel, chairman of the tournament and handicap committee; Mrs. Edwin Caldwell, representative from the Coosa Country Club, and Mrs. E. A. Camp, representative from the Mt. Alto Club.

Mrs. Given is vice president of the Georgia Women's Golf Association, and Miss Daniel is present state champion.

Assisting in organization of the association here this week were: Mrs. W. D. Doak, president of the state association, and Mrs. James C. Wright, president of the Atlanta association.

GEORGIA RALLIES WITH TWO RUNS IN NINTH FRAME

Norris and Kilpatrick Hook Up in Brilliant Hurlers' Duel.

AUBURN, Ala., April 23.—Rallying in the ninth to push over two runs, the Georgia Bulldogs captured a 2-1 pitchers' battle over the Auburn Tigers today to gain an even break in a pair of Southeastern conference diamond struggles. Auburn won Friday's game, 3-2.

On the mound for the winners was Lester Norris, who limited the Plainsmen to singles by Norman Whitten, Charlie Kilpatrick's sacrifice and Doug Bennett's one-base blow that gave them their lone run in the fifth and a triple by Monroe Hayes in the sixth. In hurling three-hit ball with perfect support, Norris retired Auburn in order in four fames.

Opposing Noris in the box was Sophomore Charlie Kilpatrick, who also hurled a brilliant game in allowing the Athenians only five bingles and a triple by Carol Thomas that would have been checked for one base if it had not taken a lucky bounce. Kilpatrick struck out eight, passed only two, one less than Norris, and hit one batter. Norris also hit one.

Misfortune, however, trailed Kilpatrick in the ninth when one of his offerings caught Bill Gillespie on the arm and Thomas followed with a triple. Thomas scored on Spook Newsom's deep fly to short that Doug Bennett caught beautifully.

Georgia also loaded the sacks in the sixth, the only other frame they bunched safeties off Kilpatrick, but Kilpatrick tightened up by fanning Gillespie and causing Thomas to hit into a twin killing. Kilpatrick also tamed Georgia in rotation in four stanzas.

Nine hits collected by both clubs were distributed to as many players.

WEST END SHOOT IS SLATED TODAY

Atlanta skeet shooters will compete in a registered 100-bird skeet shoot at the West End Gun Club today as the third of a series of monthly events gets under way at 9 a. m. Invitations have been extended to shooters from neighboring states to compete in the event and a large entry is expected to compete for the silver trophies which will be awarded winners in the various classes.

Shooters will be classified according to club records on shoots held during the present year plus known ability. All complete scores will be filed with the National Skeet Shooting Association and be included in the yearly averages which are used in selecting all American team members.

Contestants will be required to fire at 50 birds on both fields and regular rules governing registered shoots will be in effect. Practice rounds and non-registering shooting will be permitted and spectators are invited to view the event.

TIGER TRACKMEN DEFEAT GEORGIA

Arnold's Failure To Place in Hurdles Gives Auburn Victory.

By ELMER SALTER.

AUBURN, Ala., April 23.—The 1938 track and field season received a major jolt here Saturday when Coach Wilbur Hutsell's Auburn Tigers nosed out Georgia, Southeastern conference champions, 63 2-3 to 62 1-3, to hand the Bulldogs their first dual meet reversal in two years. The close victory launched a seven-meet campaign for Auburn and was the Bulldogs' fourth test of the year.

An unexpected second in the low hurdles by Sophomore Chuck Morgan, of Bessemer, who had not trained for the lows and only entered when a teammate, Percy South, was lost because of an injury, gave Auburn a surprise triumph. He was second in conquering one of the best low fence climbers in the south, Monk Arnold. The 220-yard low hurdles was the final event of the afternoon.

SECOND PLACES.

More firsts were captured by Georgia, but the Plainsmen flashed considerable strength in racking up firsts and seconds. And they also amazed the track and field experts by registering firsts in the quarter and half-mile to place with their other top honors in the two-mile, pole vault and broad jump.

Outstanding features of the hotly contested battle were the performances of Oliver Hunnicutt in the century and furlong, and Vassa Cate, in the hurdles for the losers. Hunnicutt set a local track mark in zooming down the 100 in 9.7 and equaled another Auburn track record in winning the 220 in 22 seconds. Cate skimmed over the high timber in 14.9 and came in first in the 220-yard lows in local record-smashing time of 24.4 seconds.

Upsetting the dope, Jim Swanner broke the Auburn record in the 880 when he came in inches ahead of Joe Gillespie, of Georgia, in 1:57.7. David Sprinkle, with firsts in both the pole vault and broad jump, was the only double winner for the Tigers, who made a clean sweep of the points in the two-mile, the only event in which the digits were not distributed.

2-EVENT WINNER.

Another two-event winner was Quinton Lumpkin, who was first for Georgia in both the shot and discus, with two mighty fine performances.

THE SUMMARIES.

100-Yard Dash: Hunnicutt (Georgia), first; Cate (Georgia), second; Dickinson (Auburn), third. Time, 9.7.

220-Yard Dash: Hunnicutt (Georgia), first; Kelly (Auburn), second; Dickinson (Auburn), third. 22 seconds.

Sixto Escobar Asked To Defend His Crown

DETROIT, April 23.—(UP)—Frank MacDonell, chairman of the Michigan State Athletic Board, asked the National Boxing Association to require Bantamweight Champion Sixto Escobar to defend his title against K. O. Morgan.

MacDonell in a letter to N. B. A. officials, said that Morgan's victory over the champion made him the "outstanding challenger for the bantamweight title." He added that he believes Escobar should defend the championship against the Detroit fighter before he engages in another match.

Giants Defeat Dodgers, 8-5; Senators Flatten Yankees, 7-4

LARRY FRENCH HURLS AS CUBS BEAT CARDS, 4-0

Pittsburgh Whips Cincy, 6-2; Bees Turn Back Phillies, 3-1.

By UNITED PRESS.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, the only club in the major leagues boasting a perfect record after the first week of baseball, continued their hot pace with a 6-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday. It was the Pirates' fifth win a row and kept them one full game ahead of the New York Giants, who beat the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second straight time.

A seven-hit pitching job by Cy Blanton, who failed to last in the season opener, featured the Pittsburgh victory. The Pirates got nine hits off Gene Schott and Al Hollingsworth, and scored all their runs in two innings. Johnny Rizzo, rookie bought from the Cardinals, was the big gun in the Pittsburgh offensive, cracking out two triples and a single to drive in three runs. Arky Vaughan drove in a pair with two long flies.

First Baseman Johnny McCarthy's third homer of the season with two aboard accounted for the Giants' 8-5 victory. The Dodgers drove starting Pitcher Cliff Melton to cover in the eighth when with two out, Lou Chiozza's error and a pair of walks loaded the bases. Relief Pitcher Dick Coffman fanned Pinch-Batter Heinie Manush to end the rally.

Chicago's Larry French unlimbered his sore arm sufficiently to pitch the Cubs to a 4-0 shutout victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The win brought the Bruins into third place ahead of the Dodgers.

French allowed just four hits and yielded but one walk as he handed the Cards their first whitewashing and their fourth loss of the 1938 season. Billy Herman, Cubs' second baseman, accounted for the winning run in the third when he walked, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Frank Demaree's single.

Lou Fette, freshman ace of last season, held the Philadelphia Phillies to four scattered hits as the Boston Bees scored a 3-1 victory. The Bees clinched the game in the first inning, scoring three runs on three walks and three hits and driving in Bill Hallahan to the showers.

GERMAN NETMEN LOSE TO POLAND

BERLIN, April 23.—(UP)—First intimation to German tennis fans that the coming season will compare sadly with the past few years came today when they read dispatches on the present series in Warsaw involving Polish players and a squad from the Reich.

With the first day's play complete the score was Poland, two matches, and Germany none. Last time they played Germany scored a sweep.

The results were especially upsetting in view of recent press articles which emphasized the Reich's hope for various rising players. These players, apparently, were to receive "intensive instruction" and then become internationalists, almost overnight.

The trouble is that the present German roster does not include the names of Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel. The stories from Warsaw, however, simply state that "Germany is not using her top players" without referring by name to Cramm or Henkel. However, it was pointed out that four years ago, the last time the nations met, Germany scored an overwhelming victory.

Roanoke Nine Beats G. M. A. Team, 7 to 6

A strong Roanoke High nine nosed out G. M. A., 7 to 6, yesterday afternoon at G. M. A. after 11 hard innings of baseball.

Hanway, with three for four, led the visitors' hitting attack. For the losers Miller's home run and single in four trips to the plate was the best.

It was the eighth straight victory for the Alabamans.

Reds Release Lang, Gehrman on Option

CINCINNATI, April 23.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds released Pitcher Paul Gehrman and Infielder Don Lang, both rookies, to the Syracuse team of the International league on option. The releases cut the squad to 25, two more than the league limit effective May 15.

WONDER WHAT DIMAG IS TELLING M'CARTHY?

Acme Telephoto.

Joe DiMaggio, the "last holdout" in the major leagues, reported to the New York Yankees yesterday. Above he is seen in uniform with Manager Joe McCarthy, before going onto the field for a warm-up. DiMag clouted a few balls out of the park in batting practice yesterday to show fans the long layoff during the unsuccessful holdout campaign did not ruin his keen batting eye. Every day he doesn't play, he loses $162.

DiMag Clouts Homers During Batting Practice

Joltin' Joe Shows Fans Long Holdout Did No Harm; Batting Eye Keen.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Joe Di Maggio slipped into town through the "back door" today, reported to Manager Joe McCarthy, and then proceeded to show that his holdout hasn't done his batting eye any harm by clouting several balls out of the lot during the Yankees' batting practice.

To avoid a "welcome committee" at New York, Deadpan Di Mag hopped off the train at Newark and was met by his close friend, Joe Gould, the fight manager. Contending he still feels he's "worth more than $25,000," but that he "loves baseball too much to do any more arguing about salary," Jolting Joe walked away from would-be interviewers, and completed the trip to Yankee stadium by automobile.

After getting into uniform, he greeted McCarthy. Nothing was said, as they shook hands, smiled pleasantly and proceeded to the work of pre-game practice before the Yanks-Senators game at the stadium.

With a bat in his hands during practice, Joe looked like the same old walloper. He took a toe-hold on several pitches and parked them among the DiMaggio cheering section in the left-field bleachers. All of which caused a wide grin to spread across McCarthy's face.

"That guy," said Joe, "could get out of bed on New Year's Day and hit the ball out of the park."

The fans cheered as Joe completed his batting work and went to his regular center field pasture to shag flies during the fielding drill. He worked easily, just jogged around, and made long, lazy throws to the infield, rather than risk injuring his arm with his usual hot pegs to the plate.

It's virtually certain DiMaggio won't get into regular action this week end, since he hasn't yet signed a contract. That proceeding will be held Monday in Colonel Jake Ruppert's brewery office with the usual fanfare of photography and press surroundings that accompanies the final capitulation of a Yankee holdout.

Even after he signs, it's doubtful if Joe will see action before two weeks are over. He has indicated it may take him that long to get into playing condition. And all the time he is out, he will be losing pay at the rate of $162 per day, since Yankee officials have insisted he will not draw a dime until he's ready for action.

Penn Relay Carnival To Begin on Friday

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(AP)—Approximately 3,000 athletes will compete in the forty-fourth annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival next Friday and Saturday. They range from schoolboys to veterans such as iron-legged Glenn Cunningham.

Cunningham heads a quartet of four ex-college stars who will compete in special races on the 80-event program. The Kansas flyer will meet this perennial rival, Gene Venzke, in the mile. Don Lash, former University of Indiana star, will oppose Joe McCluskey, ex-Fordham runner, in a 3,000-meter run.

Two other special events—a 100-yard dash and a 120-yard high hurdle race—also are scheduled. Ben Johnson, Columbia's I. C. 4-A. indoor and outdoor sprint champion, heads a field of 12 collegiate runners in the dash, while John Donovan, Dartmouth's outdoor champion, and Ted Day, Yale's indoor titleholder, are favorites in the hurdle event.

'Pa' Stribling Signs Young Fighter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

W. L. "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the late William Lawrence (Young) Stribling Jr., the south's outstanding contender for the world's heavyweight boxing championship before his death in 1933, will re-enter the prize fight game May 1.

He has signed a contract with Harry (Moon) Mullins, of D'Lo, Miss., heavyweight who is 6 feet 1 1-2 inches tall and weighs 192 pounds, and who won the Golden Gloves national amateur heavyweight boxing championship in Madison Square Garden, New York, in March.

Mullins is a senior at Mississippi State College, Starkville, Miss., where he will be graduated early in June from the school of agriculture.

The agreement between Stribling and Mullins was signed in Hattiesburg, Miss., where "Pa" Stribling has engaged in the automobile sales business for the past three years.

FERRELL STOPS YANKEES' RALLY IN NINTH INNING

Lefty Gomez Knocked Out in Seventh; Crosetti Hits Homer.

By UNITED PRESS.

Three clubs—Washington, Boston and Cleveland—remain deadlocked for first position in the American league.

The Senators Saturday scored a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees behind the seven-hit pitching of Wes Ferrell. The loss was the fourth in six games for the world champions. Ferrell almost lost the game in the ninth when he walked three men to load the bases. Bill Dickey drove a long fly to Jonathan Stone, who back up against the right field wall and caught the ball to end the game. Lefty Gomez started on the mound for the Yanks in quest of his second win of the season, but an error, two walks, and a single by Ossie Bluege scored two for the Senators in the seventh and signaled the end for Gomez.

The Red Sox, paced by four former Athletics, ruined the season home opener for the Philadelphia Athletics by pounding out a 10-4 victory. It was the fourth triumph in five starts for the Red Sox and the fourth straight defeat for the Mackmen, who are the only major league team without a victory.

Budd Thomas, who replaced Smith, retired 15 Boston batters in succession before an error by Ambler led to three unearned Boston runs in the sixth to assure victory.

Johnny Allen, who won 15 straight games for the Indians last year, pitched eight-hit ball as his mates downed the Detroit Tigers, 6-3. Jake Wade, who broke Allen's winning streak with a one-hit performance last year in the final game of the season, was the losing pitcher.

Buck Newsom, who pitched the St. Louis Browns to victory on opening day, gave his mates their second victory of the season by hammering an eighth-inning single that defeated the Chicago White Sox, 5-4.

Newsom, who allowed six hits, drove in two runs to win his own game. One of the Sox hits was a sixth inning home run by Gerald Walker, ex-Tiger, playing his first game of the year.

BOBBITT BEATS BUXBY, 6-4, 8-6

Riggs Beats Burtz Boulware; Bobbitt-Boulware Win.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 23.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs, the nation's No. 2 ranking player, from Chicago, moved on toward the Tennessee valley tennis tournament finals today with two victories.

Bobby defeated Burtz Boulware, former Georgia Tech netter, 6-3, 7-5, in a morning match and turned back Harris Everett, Jacksonville (Fla.) city champion, 7-5, 6-0, in the quarter-finals.

He will meet Russell Bobbitt, Atlanta, in the semi-finals tomorrow. Bobbitt played excellent tennis to defeat Joe Davis, of Nashville, 7-5, 6-1, in a morning encounter, and Martin Buxby, 6-4, 8-6, in the afternoon. Buxby was seeded No. 4 and Bobbitt was unranked.

Art Hendrix, the No. 3 seeded player from Lakeland, Fla., downed Tommy Stokes, of New Orleans, 7-5, 6-1, to gain the semi-finals and the right to meet Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., who defeated Mike McClaney, of New Orleans, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, and Alex Guerry Jr., of Chattanooga, 6-3, 7-5.

Riggs and Bernie Coghlan, of Santa Monica, Cal., gained the doubles semi-finals by eliminating Frank Menendez, of Palm Beach, Fla., and Henry Tarshis, of Montreal, 6-2, 6-4. They will play Bobbitt and Boulware tomorrow, the latter tandem advancing with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Guerry and Davis.

In the other doubles bracket Hendrix and Cooke will play McLaney and Stokes. The Cooke-Hendrix team, seeded second to Riggs and Coghlan, downed J. N. Anderson, of Dartmouth, and Gus Ganzenmuller, of Columbia University, 6-1, 6-3. McLaney and Stokes eliminated Buxby and Everett, 7-5, 6-0.

Constitution Plays East Point Today

Constitution and East Point will meet this afternoon in the feature baseball game of the Walthour-Hood league.

Both teams boast perfect records. In the other contests Stone Mountain plays Chosewood Park, Mountain View faces Carey and East Atlanta battles Grove Park.

The East Atlanta-Grove Park contest will be preceded by regular opening-day ceremonies in which Miss Jerry Hughes, who was sent to Hollywood by The Constitution, will pitch the first ball.

Silvertown Defeats Barnesville, 6 to 1

THOMASTON, Ga., April 23.—Silvertown defeated Barnesville here today, 6-1. Otto Dumas and George Pounds, with two hits each, led the Silvertown hitting. Hyatt with three for three did the stick work for Barnesville.

Score by innings:

Barnesville	000	001	000—	1	7	2
Silvertown	001	004	10x—	6	9	2

Hackett, Kenny, Whittington and Hyatt; Griffith and D. Dumas.

PETRELS BEATEN BY GREENSBORO

GREENSBORO, Ga., April 23. Oglehorpe collected nine hits to four for Greensboro today, but the Greensboro nine of the Georgia-Piedmont semi-pro league won the ball game, 4 to 2.

The Petrels left men on base in nearly every inning and made four errors. Thaxton doubled in the second inning driving in two Greensboro runs. Tate gave up more than twice the hits the two Oglethorpe hurlers gave up, but was invincible in the pinches.

Score by innings:

Oglethorpe	010	100	000—	2	9	4
Greensboro	022	000	000—	4	4	3

McCullough, Archer and King; Tate and McElhanan.

Atlantans Capture High Rifle Honors

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Marion Harbin, East Point road, Box 208, Atlanta, Ga., has qualified in the junior division of the National Rifle Association as a distinguished rifleman, the highest grade of shooting proficiency, it was announced here today.

George West Jr., 2149 Ponce de Leon avenue, has qualified in the grade of expert rifleman, the next highest.

Of a total of 12,311 junior shooters of the country who have qualified so far this year in all grades of shooting proficiency from the beginning grade of pro-marksman to the highest grade of distinguished rifleman, only 34 have succeeded in attaining the distinguished rating and 157 the expert rating.

Navy's Powerful Crew Sweeps Over Columbia

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Navy's powerful varsity crew drove down the stretch to win by a length and a half over Columbia and complete a three-race sweep for the Middies on the Harlem today. The Tars' freshman and junior varsity eights won previous races.

Grimes Suspends And Fines Butcher

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 23. (AP)—Max Butcher, right-handed pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was fined $500 and suspended without pay today by Manager Burleigh Grimes for breaking training rules.

Butcher, 200-pounder from Man, W. Va., won 11 games and lost 15 last season and was counted upon for a regular starting turn this year.

Grimes also announced the release of Bert Haas and Al Cohen. Haas, utility outfielder, was sent to Milwaukee on option while Cohen was sold outright to Portland of the Pacific Coast league.

Cookie Lavagetto, regular third-sacker of the Dodgers, will be out of the lineup for at least ten days as a result of a leg injury suffered in yesterday's game with the New York Giants.

Sutter Meets Riggs In Tuesday Match

Davey Jones, runner-up to Bobby Riggs in the recent Atlanta invitational net tournament, and Russell Bobbitt, promising young Tech star, will appear on the program of exhibition tennis which brings together Riggs, second-ranked player in the country, and Ernie Sutter, national intercollegiate champion, at the Northside Tennis Club courts at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Jones will meet Bobbitt in the opening singles match. Following the feature fray of the afternoon between Riggs and Sutter, the Atlantan will pair with Sutter to battle Riggs and Bobbitt in the doubles play.

In the big match of the afternoon Sutter will attempt to make it two victories in a row over Riggs. The collegian eliminated the Chicagoan in the River Oaks tourney at Houston, Texas, a few weeks ago. Sutter is one of the best in the country on clay courts, but Bobby is pointing to the match and should win, after a hard battle.

Certainly young Sutter is a serious threat to Riggs' supremacy on clay, and he is out to prove to southern tennis fans that his victory in the Texas meet was more than just a sudden upset.

Coaches were introduced into England in 1555.

Jim Bloodworth Bats .643 To Take Lead in Southern Hitting Race

PAUL RICHARDS LEADS LEAGUE IN 4 DIVISIONS

Atlanta Pilot Has 7 Runs, 19 Bases, 3 Homers, 7 Runs Batted In.

Jimmy Bloodworth, Chattanooga second baseman, with a mark of .643 tops the Southern association hitters after the first week of play. Jimmy hit nine singles in 14 official trips to the plate.

First Baseman Neil Caldwell, manager of the Knoxville Smokies, pulled in second with .579 getting 11 hits out of 19 efforts. Ray Honeycutt, of Chattanooga, and Bill Rodda, of Nashville, both third basemen, along with Shortstop Hitchcock, of Chattanooga, round out the first five. Honeycutt has .545 while Rodda and Hitchcock are tied at .455, according to Howe News Bureau figures.

Manager Paul Richards, of Atlanta, tops the league in four departments—Runs, 7; total bases, 19; home runs, 3, and runs batted in, 7.

The Chattanooga Lookouts top the league in team batting with .370, while the Little Rock Pebbles, also undefeated, are the slickest fielders with .980. Nashville has turned in eight double killings.

While the Knoxville Smokies have broken even in four contests, their pitchers have yet to register a strikeout.

Tom Sunkel, Atlanta southpaw, has fanned 13.

Include Games of Thursday, April 21.

BARNES HOOKS SHOT.

Driving to the 21st, McDowell was down middle, Barnes hooked his tee shot into the rough and had a bad lie. The Louisianan, just 18 years old, fired a neat second 10 feet from the flag. Barnes knocked his ball nicely 12 feet away and walked up to sink it. McDowell's putt rolled off by three inches at the cup and that was the match.

Barnes was two over par for the 18 holes with a 40-37—77, while McDowell had 35-40—75. Barnes was even par for the three extra holes, and McDowell was one over.

The Louisiana State competitor started the match as though it would be a walkaway. He jumped into a four-up lead through five holes, sinking a 75-yard pitch for an eagle at three and firing a tee shot dead for a birdie at five. But Barnes managed to connect for a birdie at the sixth to cut the margin to three holes.

Barnes three-putted three greens on the first nine, missing putts of 18 inches on the fourth and two feet at the ninth. The Georgia Tech victor, however, settled down and proceeded to make it a "battle" once they started down the more difficult second nine.

the Bradley horses. It was not so much sentiment as an unswerving faith in the man and in his horses.

SANDE IS THE STORY.

Trainer Sande, the only rider in modern history to ride three Derby winners—he won with Zev in 1923, with Flying Ebony in 1925, and Gallant Fox in 1930—again can be the big story of the latest renewal of the Blue Grass Classic—the sixty-fourth consecutive running of the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby.

It really will be something if Sande saddles a winner. And he seems to have a bit better than an outside chance, having, as he does, Howard Maxwell's Stagehand, the current favorite, and The Chief, to which Sande now leans as a possible winner.

Twenty-eight post-time favorites have won the Derby. And if it should so happen that Stagehand, the Santa Anita double winner, walks postward to the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" on May 7, as the favorite, Sande will be in a favorable position.

Because he'll still have The Chief to fall back upon if Stagehand fails. And it may that The Chief will take the play away from Stagehand anyway.

The Chief has a more appealing name. The odds are expected to be short on both him and his running mate. They loom as 2-to-1 choices.

IF KURTSINGER RIDES.

Charlie Kurtsinger, who has been set down by the Headley stables for disobeying orders, has ridden two Derby winners—Twenty Grand in 1931—incidentally, the track record-holder with a time of 2:01 4-5—and War Admiral last year.

And if the suspension is lifted and Kurtsinger is allowed to ride Menow, a lot of support will be thrown toward the Headley colt.

Experts are inclined to think Menow would make a real race of it with Kurtsinger up. But they don't believe the horse would do so well handled by another rider. They reason that Kurtsinger has ridden Menow in all his important races.

THE FIELD NARROWS.

A starting field of 15, with a possibility that it will be reduced to 12, is seen by many observers, auguring a neat, compact race.

Stagehand, Fighting Fox and Menow are liked in that order in the present betting odds.

Bull Lea's smashing victory at Keeneland has made some of the observers sit up and take notice, but it doesn't seem that the Calumet Farm's son of Bulldog and Rose Leaves was overly impressive in beating Menow, since the Headley colt carried more weight and experienced a bad start.

It's largely guesswork picking the winner of the premier horse race offered annually in the land of the free. Form charts and betting odds to the contrary, a Derby race can swing on the kind of start and type of handling the winner gets. A lot of things can happen in that thrill-packed two minutes and a few odd seconds.

Cunningham Loses To Archie Romani

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 23.—(AP)—Archie San Romani, former Emporia, Kan., Teachers' College athlete, won the special mile race at the Kansas relays today, edging out Glenn Cunningham in a photo finish in the comparatively slow time of 4:23.

Don Lash, former University of Indiana star, finished third 10 yards behind the leaders, and Gene Venzke was last.

Cunningham, expected to shoot for his own meet record of 4:12.7, and possibly for the world mark, never held the lead until a brief period on the home stretch.

It was Cunningham's first defeat in his last 22 starts.

Venetian Will Hold Driving Meet Today

Another driving contest will be held at the Venetian Club today, Walter Baker, manager of the club, said yesterday.

The golfer driving the ball nearest the 125-yard hole will receive a prize. Harry McLendon won the two previous contests.

Armstrong Defeats Bullpup Netmen

In the feature match of the day, Coach Aaron Cohn's No. 1 Bullpup, Zahner Reynolds, of Atlanta, who promises to develop into the best player of University of Georgia tennis history, soundly whipped the Savannah city champion, John Tyre, Armstrong top-ranking performer, 6-0, 6-2.

The summary (singles):

L. Longwater (Armstrong) defeated T. Dunn, 6-3, 6-1.

DuPont (Armstrong) defeated John Woods, 6-3, 7-5.

Cranman (Armstrong) defeated Clement, 7-9, 6-2, 6-3.

D. Tyre (Armstrong) defeated Fulmer, 7-5, 7-9, 6-4.

J. DEAN, FELLER START CONTEST FOR SUPREMACY

Two Great Right-Handers Begin Battle With Brilliant Victories.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(UP)—The curtain has barely lifted for the 1938 season, but already we are witnessing one of the most fascinating mound dramas in baseball history.

Dizzy Dean, $270,000 hurler of the Chicago Cubs, and Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' "boy wonder," have started their battle for pitching supremacy in the major leagues.

It is a postponed conflict, scheduled originally for '37, but the delay, necessitated by injuries, only made the fans more eager when Diz and Bob strode to their respective mounds Wednesday. Feller drew first blood by completely stealing Dean's thunder. He pitched a one-hit game on the very day Ol' Diz was making his twirling debut with the Cubs. Both registered opening victories, but young Bob was far more impressive.

GREATEST FLINGERS.

These two right-handers are potentially the greatest flingers in the game today. Both are loose-muscled chaps, blessed with blinding speed. They are co-holders of the modern major league strikeout record, having registered 17 each in single games. They are receiving approximately the same salary, about $17,500 each. They are regarded as key men on their clubs—men who may pitch their teams to pennants if they win more than 20 games each this season. What an electrifying performance it would be, should they meet in the World Series.

Both approached the current campaigns with over-sized question marks hovering above their noggins, after injuries in '37 caused poor seasons. Dean suffered a broken toe in the All-Star game and won only 13 for St. Louis while losing 10. Feller, slated for his first full season in the majors, came up with a sore arm and tallied only nine victories against seven defeats.

Feller, the 19-year-old Iowa farmer, removed all doubt about his arm and pitching ability Wednesday when he allowed but one scratch hit to the St. Louis Browns. He gave one of the grandest exhibitions in this or any other season. Meanwhile, Ol' Diz—sick with a severe cold that aggravated his sinus trouble—didn't have to bear down much against Cincinnati because his Cubs gave him a nine-run lead in the second frame. Manager Charlie Grimm took him out in the seventh for a pinch hitter. Diz allowed eight hits and two runs in six innings, and tightened well in the pinches.

Opinion was divided after the game about Dean's ability to come back to the form of '36, when he won 24 and lost 13. Manager Grimm appeared jubilant.

GETTING TIRED.

"I took him out after six innings because he was getting tired," he said. "He pitched only about 15 innings in spring training. He needs more work. He'll do a lot of running and throwing the next couple of days. That should help his legs and wind. He probably will start against the Cardinals at Chicago Sunday. I'm satisfied with him in every respect. Soon as he gets his legs and wind in proper condition, I think he'll be a steady winner. He was as effective today as he needed to be although he's not ready yet to pitch at top speed."

Babe Pinelli, who umpired back of the bat in Dean's game, told Grimm he had nothing to fear about Dizzy's arm. Catcher Gabby Hartnett likewise assured Grimm that Diz was okay. Trainer Andy Lotshaw said there was nothing wrong with his pitching shoulder "except that it's a little stiff from not having been used enough this spring." Lotshaw figured the shoulder will loosen up satisfactorily with more work.

But Virgil Davis, of the Reds, who used to catch Diz with the Cards, said he didn't look like the Dean of old, even if he wasn't forced to bear down. He wasn't sure if Diz would return to top form. Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' first string catcher, said: "He was not the old Dizzy. There's something wrong with his arm. Maybe it's merely weak and will round into form with more work. But he wasn't as fast, even when pitching his hardest, as he used to be."

NOT EVEN CLOSE.

Outfielder Ival Goodman, who connected for a homer off Diz, said Dean wasn't even close to his former greatness. "His curve didn't have the snap it used to have," Goodman explained.

Likewise Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Reds, opined, "I don't think he's the great pitcher he used to be, at least not yet. Maybe he needs more work. He was sick during the training season. And this game really didn't test him. But even when he was bearing down, he wasn't as fast as before his arm went sour last summer."

However, Billy Myers and Alex Kampouris, of the Reds, insisted that Diz had showed them "plenty."

And Mr. Dean was well satisfied with his first start as a Cub. "I pitched okay when I wanted to and the arm feels good for the amount of work I've done this spring," he said. "It looks like a big year for Ol' Diz and the Cubs. Give me a couple more games under my belt, and I'll really show the boys something—if I have to. I'm not throwing my arm away when we're so far in front that our tail lights are out of sight."

STAGEHAND 3-1 FOR THE DERBY

It is doubtful that more than 15 thoroughbreds will go to the post here on Derby day, some putting the estimate at 12. In that event a truly-run race, with plenty of competition from start to finish, is expected. There will be plenty of early speed and a new track record for the distance is expected by some shrewd turfmen.

Jackie Westrope, who rode Stagehand so successfully in his California campaign, will have the mount on the big horse on Derby day, while The Chief, in all probability, will be ridden by Basil James, considered a brilliant saddle artist. Howell's Timely Hitting Gives Barons Double Win Over Memphis

TRAVELERS GIVE HURLING LESSON TO PELICANS, 5-0

Lookouts Hold Lead by Defeating Vols by 13 to 11 Score.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Murray (Red) Howell was the hero of a double victory for the Birmingham Barons yesterday, as his hits proved the decisive blows in 6-5 and 1-0 triumphs over Memphis.

Howell's double hammered home the winning counter in the last half of the ninth of the first game, and his triple in the second enabled him to register on an infield out.

Johnson held the Chicks to three hits in the second encounter.

A bit of a wrestling match enlivened the hurling lesson Little Rock's Travelers gave New Orleans' Pelicans in the visiting team's 9-0 victory.

The by-play came in the fifth frame when Don Gugler, Pel first sacker, tried to stretch a single to a double. From the stands, it looked like Roy Schalk, Traveler second sacker, was trying to shove Gugler off the bag and that Gugler was trying to justle the ball out of Schalk's hands.

Chattanooga's romping Lookouts stayed on top of the league by dedeating the luckless Vols in a game replete with hits, 13 to 11.

With both teams scoring in the first inning, Chattanooga came through in the second to tally five. The Vols rallied in the fifth to equal that mark, but despite a three-run rally in the ninth Chuck Dressen's boys were unable to overcome the Lookouts.

CHICKS 5-0; BARONS 6-1.

Howard Beckett, pro at Capital City, is shown holding the beautiful trophy which will go to the winner of the annual club championship, now in progress. The $300 trophy, which will be a perpetual prize, is a gift from the estate of Thomas H. Pitts, former Capital City Club member, who died several weeks ago. Tom was popular in Atlanta sports circles and the Capital City Club always held a warm spot in his heart.

JOE McCARTHY'S TEAM.

NEW YORK, April 23.—This is Joe McCarthy's team, this Yankee outfit that is swinging toward another pennant. The process of revamping the Yankees and stamping them with McCarthy's personality began as long ago as 1934 or thereabouts. It was a slow process, because Joe is not an impetuous fellow. He worked patiently, timed his moves, made changes deftly. There were players on the team who frankly didn't like him and played for him grudgingly. Others who simply didn't fit in with his plans. They're gone now. All of them. There isn't a player on the team today who wouldn't rather play for McCarthy than for any other manager in baseball.

Naturally, Joe is surer of himself than he ever was before. He had a difficult job when he first came to New York. He was a stranger in a strange league, his presence was resented by some of his players and he had to prove himself to them before he did anything else. He had to make them feel that he was the boss, but he couldn't often be rough or gruff about it. Fortunately, he had the right makeup for the task at hand. Having accomplished it, he has few problems now other than those concerned directly with the playing of the game—whom to pitch, when to take out a pitcher and when to bunt. And the power of the Yankee attack reduces that last one to the smallest possible dimensions.

Aside from those, his only problem—yet his main one—is to keep the Yankees moving toward the pennant—not always an easy thing to do with a team that already has won two pennants. But he knows how to do that, too. His attitude is that of Napoleon, who, when a young officer proudly recited to him the feats he had performed that day, said:

"That's fine. Now what are you going to do tomorrow?"

He doesn't believe in letting his players rest on their laurels. He knows that laurels, rested upon even briefly, are likely to dry up and blow away.

He Wanted To Keep Lazzeri.

One change in the Yankees Joe neither engineered nor liked. This was the departure of Tony Lazzeri. Tony was an important figure—almost the key figure—in the situation that obtained when Joe was tightening his grip on the team. He could have remained with the Yankees as a pinch hitter and utility infielder. He would have had an opportunity to tussle with Joe Gordon for the second base job this spring. But Tony had other ambitions, and, when he outlined them to Joe, Joe would not stand in his way. So Tony got his outright release and signed with the Cubs.

Tony was one of the players who did not have a very kindly attitude toward McCarthy when Joe came here to manage the Yankees. He wasn't actively opposed to him, as some of the other players were. But he is an independent thinker, he had almost worshiped Miller Huggins—and this new fellow from the other league had to show him something first before he could go all the way for him.

So Tony looked on for a while at the quiet but intense struggle between McCarthy and the malcontents and was convinced that Joe had a lot of stuff and was absolutely right—and that the players were wrong. So he ranged himself on Joe's side, and gave him the same loyalty he had given Huggins. And because Tony had the respect of every man on the team, this strengthened Joe's hand and made the smoothing of his way easier.

A Club-House Row.

An incident in the clubhouse one day when the Yankees were in Washington was the clincher, so far as Lazzeri was concerned. In the presence of a half-dozen players, including Lazzeri, McCarthy suddenly lashed out against one of the group that had combated him. Nobody ever had seen him in a mood like that and the player he denounced went pale under his words. The others looked on in shocked silence. Finally Lazzeri, walking between them, said to McCarthy:

"Take it easy, Joe."

McCarthy brushed him angrily aside.

"You keep out of this!" he said. "This fellow has had it coming to him for a long time."

He didn't let up until he had said everything he had on his chest. When he paused, the players, save Lazzeri, left the clubhouse. Lazzeri, upset by the row, had said nothing further, but had walked over and sat down in front of his locker. As soon as the others had gone, Joe went over to him and said, very calmly:

"I was sorry to have to do that, Tony. I didn't lose my temper. I said only the things I had to say to keep that fellow from losing his grip on himself as a ball player simply because he doesn't like me. I'm sorry that he doesn't like me. But, whether he does or not, he's too good a ball player to let himself go like that and I had to do something to head him off. I've been waiting for some time to say the things I did. I picked today to do it because there were a couple ot other fellows in here that I wanted to straighten out, too. I think I did."

"I think you did, too, Joe," he said. "You did a nice job. I hated you when you were bawling that fello.. out. I didn't understand. But I do now."

The fellow whom Joe bawled out isn't with the Yankees any more. But he still is in the American league and still a good ball player. Joe never had to bawl him out again and let him go only because he got a better player to take his place.

Riverview Defeats Fairfax Nine, 3-1

RIVERVIEW, Ala., April 23.—Riverview defeated Fairfax, 3-1, here Saturday in a thrilling game, making a triple play in the fourth inning.

ALABAMA ACE.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., April 23.—Hugh Kirkland, Alabama's ace hurler, who has won three of the Tide's first seven games, has allowed only 14 hits in the 23 innings that he has pitched.

'Diz' Dean Will Face Gashouse Gang Today

CHICAGO, April 23.—(UP)—Dizzy Dean, $185,000 pennant insurance for the Chicago Cubs, spent one of the quietest days in his career today resting for a home debut as a Cub against his old mates, the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dean will attempt to convince a skeptical Sunday crowd—possibly a sellout of 38,000—that his pitching arm still has all the magic that once made him the greatest right-hander in baseball.

"I think I can stop those Cardinals," Dean said. "Joe Medwick won't play Sunday, so Johnny Mize will be the tough one. That Mize is a hitter!"

Diz barely limbered up today and stayed close to the bench—unusually quiet. The great one is sure he still has his old fire and so are the Cubs. But the town isn't, despite his breezing victory over the Reds at Cincinnati last Wednesday.

Diz is on the spot and knows it. He abandoned his customary "pop-off" tactics during spring negotiating and training and since joining the Cubs confined himself to brief assertions that "Charlie Grimm is the greatest manager in baseball and the Cubs have got the best club I ever played on."

'BUG PRIZE' GOLF TOURNEY OPENS HERE ON MAY 9

Each Player Will Be Given $5,000 in Stage Money at East Lake.

A $100,000 "bug prize" golf tournament for members of the Georgia Rotary will be played Monday afternoon, May 9, on the East Lake course.

It's one of the most uniquie tournaments ever staged here and will be a feature of the annual district conference of Georgia Rotarians.

E. S. "Bunnie" Humphreys is the tournament committee and will be assisted by George and Harold Sargent, the East Lake professionals and members of the Rotary tourney committee.

Each player will be given $5,000 in stage money at the beginning of the tourney and awards for the player turning in the most unusued money at the end will be among the best ever offered.

COSTLY PENALTIES.

The penalties are costly, for instance it will cost each member of the foursome $1,000 for throwing clubs, balls, bags or caddies or for missing the ball entirely. And there will be plenty of "detectives" on the course to see that none of the rules are violated unless a penalty is exacted.

Use of profane language, and what golfer does not "pop off" with some surplus words when a shot is missed, will cost each member of the foursome $500.

FORTUNE AT STAKE.

The awards: $10 from each member of your foursome for the first ball on each green; $50 for net pars on each hole, from members failing to make net pars; $100 for net birdies on each hole, from members failing to make net birdies; $500 for net eagles on each hole, from members failing to make net eagles and $2,000 from each member of the foursome, plus $10,000 prize money from the committee, for a hole in one.

The penalties—$10 to each other ember of yoursome for all three putt greens; $50 to each member of your foursome, for hitting trees or getting in sand traps; $100 to each other member of your foursome, for going in water hazards or out of bounds; $500 to all other members of your foursome for using profane language on each hole and $1,000 to each other member of your foursome for throwing clubs, balls, bag or caddies, or for missing the ball entirely.

Pro-Amateur Set Here May 20.

Atlanta's second of a series of monthly pro-amateur golf tournaments will be played Friday, May 20, instead of May 13, as originally scheduled.

The weeks postponement was due to a state-wide pro-amateur tournament at Montezuma, Ga., on Friday, May 13, at which some six Atlanta pros expect to participate.

Seven Golfers Tie At Ansley Park.

Seven Ansley Park golfers tied for the first prize yesterday in the club's weekly blind bogey. The following turned in 75's to tie for first. They were: Charles Brawner, W. O. Cheney, Ed Merritt, W. E. Woodrow, D. H. Niefert, W. T. Hanson, and C. C, Clower.

The low net prize went to Jiroud Jones, who shot a 67.

ENDS TODAY.

The qualifying in the annual spring handicap tournament at Ansley Park will end today. The leader right now is L. H. Hynerman, with a 63.

MEET POSTPONED.

AWGA's weekly tourney, slated for Tuesday at Ansley Park, has been postponed until Wednesday, Mrs. J. P. Wright announced yesterday.

Thirteen Golfers Tie at East Lake.

Thirteen golfers tied for honors in the weekly blind bogey at East Lake yesterday afternoon, each posting 76's.

First Ladies' Night Is Scheduled Friday

Nashville Vols Will Oppose Crackers on That Night; Boys' Day Is Set Thursday.

By JACK TROY.

It won't be Earl's fault if he is not a ladies' Mann.

The popular Cracker president announced yesterday that the first ladies' night of the season will be observed Friday when the Crackers and those Nashville Vols square off under the arcs.

The initial nocturnal contest is being played some 10 days earlier this season because of the fact that the Crackers, during the merry month of May, will spend half of the time on the road.

They will, in fact, play 14 games out of town during the month. And when they leave after the next home stand, they won't return until the 22nd of the month.

Apparently, he is going back to the old idea of women and children first. The first boys' day of the season will be observed Thursday when the Crackers open with Nashville.

Mann's idea about the Cracker Club is that it will do until it is proved that there are other teams that definitely deserve a superior rating.

Vols, Barons, Pels Coming.

The Vols, Birmingham Barons and New Orleans Pelicans will move into Atlanta, in that order, after the Crackers conclude their opening business with Chattanooga on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Atlanta club should make some real headway in the 10-game home stand. They definitely are better than the Vols and seem to deserve an edge over the Barons at present.

As to New Orleans—well, the Pelicans drew more opening day fans than Atlanta, but can they beat the Crackers on the ball field?

That's the question.

Crackers Rest In Third Place.

Our Crackers seem to be climbing. It may be noticed by taking a look at the standings that the Paul Richards club is in third place.

The season isn't out of swaddling clothes yet, of course. A lot of things can happen. But there is reason to believe the Crackers will be around hammering at the throne room.

A spotty defense cost them two of the three games they have lost to date. Nothing else. And there has been marked improvement in the last two games.

The club is hitting better, too. There not only is more hitting, but some base knocks of a timely variety. It could, perhaps, be an optical illusion, but it does seem that the Crackers are coming around as expected.

Who Is Dressen Outsmarting Now?

All during the winter, Charley Dressen, the Vols' $10,000 manager, who apparently has acquired a baseball club from the five and 10 cent store, ranted and raved about how he was going to outsmart the rest of the league.

But it would seem, at a glance, that Brooklyn, instead, has outsmarted him. He is not getting the help that was promised by his old pal, Larry McPhail, at Brooklyn.

And the Vols may have to turn elsewhere for aid. The fans, who turned out well on opening day, are now staying away from the park in astounding numbers.

Unless something good turns up within the next three weeks, the fellows who attend to such matters can brush off a seat for the Nashville club in the Southern league cellar.

The Vols won their last pennant in 1916 and each year the next one seems farther and farther away.

CITY LEAGUE 'S' START 2D HALF NEXT TUESDAY

N.G.I.C. Teams To Close First Half With Games Tuesday.

By ROY WHITE.

Off to a bad start and progressing very slowly due to unfavorable weather conditions, the North Georgia Interscholastic conference and city prep baseball teams will make a strenuous effort to catch up on the schedule this week.

First round on the second half of the city league will be played Tuesday afternoon with Commercial High and G. M. A. as hosts. Boys' High will have an open date.

Tech High, the undefeated leader, plays Commercial on the Grant park diamond and Marist plays G. M. A. at College Park, in a game which is likely to decide the temporary runner-up position.

ANOTHER ROUND.

Another round of the city league will be played Friday afternoon, with several postponed games likely to be played Wednesday and Thursday.

Only three games in the first half of both races have been played by each team due to rain. The opening round was postponed and the teams may decide on doubleheaders Tuesday.

Members of the N. G. I. C. will close the first half of the schedule Tuesday with Norcross playing Southwest DeKalb at DeKalb and Marietta and Decatur at Decatur.

The opening round of the second half of the N. G. I. C. race will be played Friday afternoon.

HOLDS MONOPLY.

Tech High holds a monoply on the leadership of the city race with three straight wins. The Smithies have allowed only one run to be scored against them and that came last Tuesday when Commercial sent one runner across the plate.

Tech High and Boys' High were rained out of their sports day program on Thursday and an effort will be made to rearrange the entire program of a softball game between the faculties and a number of field day events.

THE SCHEDULES.

Sally League

COLUMBUS 2; GREENVILLE 0.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 23.—Walter Ammon was in mid-season form today, limiting the Greenville, S. C., Spinners to four scattered hits and the Columbus Red Birds took the opener of the series by a 2-0 score in a Sally league game here.

Joe Salazar yielded only half a dozen blows, but issued 7 passes. The first Red Bird tally was scored by Cecil (Rabbit) Garriott who stole home after having swiped second and third in the third inning. He had reached first on a fielder's choice. Garriott stole a total of four bases.

JACKSONVILLE 2; MACON 1.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 23.—Darwin Cobb, first cousin of the immortal Ty, who started in the South Atlantic league, made his own Sally league debut here this afternoon by pitching the Tars to a 2 to 1 victory over Macon. It was the locals' first win of the season.

Cobb permitted only three hits, none after the third.

Folsome, county school superintendent; Bob Snow, president of the welfare board; Colonel George E. Simpson, president of the Kiwanis Club; G. C. Dougherty, deputy clerk; Horace Caldwell, president of the Valdosta and Lowndes county Chamber of Commerce. Civic clubs and commissioners co-operated during the year for the advancement of the county. Several committees assisted in mapping programs.

Civic leaders inspect new project. Left to right are H. W. Firkler, president of the Kiwanis Club; J. H. Mitchell, vocational teacher at Baldwin College; A. P. Hill, president of the Lions Club; Mrs. Reynolds Mechine, president of the county council; H. A. Inglis, Clarkesville vocational teacher, and A. L. Crawford, mayor of Cornelia.

Habersham county board of education members inspect new Fairview Consolidated school, now ready for opening. Shown left to right are Ernest Blair, M. I. Free, board chairman; H. A. Dyer, and C. L. Purcell, school superintendent. Board members J. P. Inglis and Hugh Gibbs were not present.

Judge Frank Gabrels, commissioner and ordinary of Hambersham county, is shown at the left above conferring with Mrs. L. H. Callaway, home demonstration agent, and C. L. Purcell, county school superintendent. Habersham centered its activities on educational and agricultural advancement for the most part, having the co-operation of hundreds of citizens.

Columbia county commissioners inspect new record-system and smile. Left to right are J. E. Blanchard, Griffith B. Lamkin, chairman, and L. I. Prather. Commissioners and citizens proudly exhibited a new jail, a new record system, a $10,000 office annex to the courthouse and many other activities, which include a systematic effort to raise the standard of farming activities in every section of the county. The basic activity for Columbus county is farming.

Citizen co-operation with county commissioners and county officials in the drives of winners of the congressional district awards in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937 is shown conclusively in photographs on these pages.

Interested and enthusiastic groups joined in county-wide drives in every one of the counties with the avowed purpose of bringing honor to their counties through successful competition in The Constitution's program. The record of their success is written broadly in the fact that they are included among the winning counties.

In addition to the pictures contained on this page, this week's issue of the Rotogravure section of The Constitution carries additional pages of pictures devoted to the winners of the first three state awards.

DeKalb and Charlton counties, winners respectively, of second and third places, also have prominent display.

Judges yesterday designated winners of the 13 cash awards made to the 13 Georgia counties which during 1937 make county governmental improvements bringing the greatest benefits to their citizens.

In addition to the 13 winning counties, the judges established an honor roll of 40 Georgia counties, which made notable strides during the year, and asked The Constitution give them proper recognition.

Every one of the winning counties and practically every one on the honor roll mapped county-wide programs in efforts to win awards. Citizens, county officials and commissioners joined county-wide co-operative movements to back their county programs.

First district, Bulloch; second, Decatur; third, Schley; fourth, Carroll; fifth, Rockdale; sixth, Monroe; seventh, Bartow; eighth, Lowndes; ninth, Habersham, and tenth, Columbia.

Pictures used on these pages were made by H. J. Slayton, Constitution staff photographer, who visited each of the counties within the past few weeks obtaining material for a pictorial presentation of the counties for Constitution readers.

DOCTORS OF GEORGIA WILL CONVENE IN AUGUSTA TUESDAY

SOIL CONSERVATION WILL BE INSPECTED BY HARRY L. BROWN

Demonstration Field Day at Gainesville To Welcome Farm Aide Home.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 23.—Visitors from 25 northeast Georgia counties will converge on Gainesville Tuesday for a soil conservation field day, culminating in an address in the afternoon by Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture, at Clermont High school, 12 miles north of here.

Mr. Brown will find a lot of changes in farming practices as well as in schoolhouses since he attended the school where he will speak. The modern new school is located on the site of the old Chattahoochee High school. Workmen two weeks ago razed an old dormitory which was part of the former school plant.

On a tour of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration area preceding his address, Mr. Brown will be shown many changes in farming practices on the red hills with which he was so familiar when he lived on a farm a few miles from here.

Types of Farm Work.

Modern broad-base terraces, a new system of strip cropping, the use of summer and winter cover crops, improvement of pastures and woodland, and other erosion control practices which co-operating farmers are demonstrating in the area are as significant from the agricultural standpoint as the modern school building is from the educational.

B. M. Head, one of these co-operating farmers, has been a trustee in the Clermont school more than 50 years, and recalls the Harry L. Brown "was always considered a pretty smart boy." At 77, Mr. Head is taking up conservation farming practices with youthful enthusiasm.

His "First" Terrace.

Mr. Head's farm is one of those at which stops will be made on the tour of the area to observe erosion control practices under actual farming conditions. One of the leading farmers of this section, he says he built on his farm the first terrace he ever saw this side of Athens.

A new type of broad channel terrace has been constructed on the Head farm as a part of the erosion control program. Last spring he saved enough seed from one acre of crimson clover to plant 12 acres in the fall. He has a fine growth of clover on his farm.

J. R. DeLong, another progressive farmer whose place will be visited, has had a similar experience with broad channel terracing and cover crops. He is using with the terraces, strips of close-growing crops, rotations and cover crops to save his cultivated fields. On his farm may be seen meadow strips for conducting surplus terrace water out of the fields, improved pasture, gully control work and such winter cover crops as crimson clover, hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas.

Farm of W. M. Guest.

W. M. Guest made use of an old abandoned roadbed to form an outlet channel for his terraces. As the road was abandoned, it deleveloped into a large gully. When he built small ridge terraces he used the gully as a dumping ground for surplus water from his terraces. Then, under the control program, the sides were sloped in, strips of Bermuda sod placed across the channel, and the sides planted to Lespedeza serica.

Guest states he cut from his broad channel terraces 20 loads of hay and threshed 1,700 pounds of brown top millet which he sold for over $200. He also harvested 1,600 pounds of crimson clover-seel last year from a two-acre seed patch.

Like other farmers of the area whose places will be visited, he finds the use of cover crops and other erosion control methods not only good practices, but profitable from every standpoint.

They'll Show This to U. S. Agricultural Aide

W. M. Guest (left), Hall county farmer, and Conservationist B. S. Wilder are shown here examining the nodules on the roots of vetch grown on the Guest farm. The nodules indicate that nitrogen is being stored in the plants by bacterial action. Guest's farm is one of many which will be visited Tuesday by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Harry L. Brown, during a field day program in the Gainesville area.

'Mystery' Experimenters Identified As New Non-Sleep Test Is Ended

Three University of Georgia Boys Go Through 100-Hour Period With Eyes Still Open; All Spurn Immediate Rest for Other Interests.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—Three University of Georgia non-sleepers yawned into the news today after completing 100 hours without sleep in a second test for the psychology department.

In the first test six students remained awake 100 hours. Dr. A. S. Edwards called off earlier plans for a second test because of the publicity given the experiment, then went ahead with three boys whose names were withheld until today.

He said the three students were Guy Frye, of Griffin; Bob Ramsey, of Charleston, W. Va., and Bill Bowen, of Athens and LaGrange.

Dr. Edwards said various reaction tests were given at regular intervals during the 100 hours, and compared with similar tests given seven students who had regular rests. The comparison showed the boys without sleep had trouble hearing, suffered slight decrease in blood pressure, pulse rate and temperature.

Results of written tests will be available in about a month, Dr. Edwards said.

Frye went off to a softball game this afternoon, Ramsey decided to get a bite to eat and visit around town before hitting the hay, and Bowen announced he intended to catch up on his studies.

GIN PRACTICES HIT BY EXTENSION AIDE

Four-Point Program Offered To Improve Quality.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—J. C. Oglesbee Jr., agricultural engineer with the Agricultural Extension Service at Tifton, told the Georgia section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers today that "cut-throat methods employed by some ginners" were partly responsible for poor quality of ginning.

He outlined a four-point program for improvement, asserting "cotton farmers, as well as others connected with the cotton industry, benefit from good ginning and likewise suffer from poor ginning."

"There are four things," he said, "that would serve to improve the quality of our ginning if the ginners, the farmers and the agricultural workers of the state could work them out together. These are:

"1. Improvement of physical conditions of cotton gins through inspections and recommendations for replacement of defective or obsolete parts in the gin, particularly badly worn saws and poor cleaners.

"2. Improvement of the operation of cotton gins by changes in saw speeds, care of brushes and air blast nozzles, and in ginning practices pertinent to proper operation, such as seed roll densities, and seed and mote board adjustments.

"3. Installation of cotton drying apparatus.

"4. An educational program to teach farmers that they have a definite responsibility in getting quality ginning in that the cotton brought to the gin must be carefully picked, clean and dry. The best ginning facilities available will not turn out properly ginned cotton if the seed cotton is not harvested and handled properly.

COUNTY PROGRAMS NEED REFORMATION, RAISTY DECLARES

Road Building Instead of Economic Development Draws Criticism.

ATHENS, April 23.—(AP)—Georgia counties, particularly in rural areas, have become "to all intents and purposes" merely road-building agencies, the University of Georgia announced today following a survey of county and municipal finances.

Suggesting that counties may have "put the cart before the horse" in building farm-to-market roads instead of assisting in soil conservation, grading and terracing, and planting of cover crops, the survey asserts that county expenditures for economic development were found "utterly insignificant as compared with those for highways."

The study, directed by Lloyd B. Raisty, associate professor of accounting, was sponsored jointly by the university and the Georgia Association of County Commissioners. It was prepared in co-operation with the Works Progress Administration and covers all 159 counties and 54 representative Georgia municipalities.

Cart Before Horse.

In discussing farm-to-market road construction, the report says "it is worthwhile to consider what would have been the net gain to local county residents had the situation been reversed. Farm-to-market highways are necessarily to be provided, if the farms and markets actually exist. . . .

"Money expended for dirt highways to give access to abandoned farms is money wasted. On the other hand, money expended for economic development represents an investment; an investment that not only increases the taxable wealth of the community but offers greater economic opportunities for the local residents."

The report declares the average county expended 45.4 per cent of its total revenues for roads, and less than 1 per cent for economic development.

Avenues of Reform.

In a break-down of county problems, the report suggests three possible avenues of reform.

It proposes that the cost of operation of courts, now borne by the counties, should be paid by the state. In 1936, the survey found, Georgia counties spent $1,300,000 for superior courts and nearly $700,000 for city or county courts. Transfer of this burden to the state, said the report, would result in a saving to counties and improved court procedure.

A second proposed reform would be assumption by the state of county auditing functions. The report asserts it found a "waste of money" in present county auditing because of varying content, scope and fiscal periods covered. It suggests a system of centralized auditing would provide uniform audit reports by state-employed experts who "would be entirely free of local pressure."

Assessment Practices.

State supervision of county assessment practices is suggested as a step toward uniform and equitable local taxation. It also urges "a vigorous effort to increase the valuation of property already on the digests and adoption of stronger tax collection procedures."

County financial problems, the report predicts, will be intensified by homestead exemptions, which will result in an estimated loss of $2,365,457, with individual county digests suffering cuts as high as 54.3 per cent.

Fiscal administration of schools in Georgia were found "adequate and advantageous," but weak tax assessment and collection methods, with overlapping and unrelated taxing districts are criticized.

In its "summary and conclusions,' the report proposes legislative action to insure uniform municipal accounting, city-county consolidation to eliminate overlapping functions and reduce expenses, and a thorough analysis of individual city financial operating procedures.

The survey, published by the University of Georgia Press, is the first monograph issued by the university's institute for the study of Georgia problems. It covers revenues and expenditures of the counties and municipalities from 1929 to 1936.

DOUGLASVILLE RALLY PLANNED BY CIVITANS

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., April 23. Club presidents will gather in Villa Rica Sunday night for a dinner and inspirational service in preparation for the district convention of Georgia Civitans, to be held here Monday.

Dr. R. L. Ramsey will speak at the service, to be held in Villa Rica Baptist church. The dinner will be held at the CCC Camp Lucretia.

W. J. Dozier, past president of the Douglasville club, will welcome the visitors at the Monday morning session in the high school auditorium, with District Governor S. C. Connally presiding. C M. Buckner, president of the Bremen club, will respond.

The home economics class of Douglas High school will serve luncheon to the visitors. Dr. I. S. Ingram, of the Carrollton club, and Arthur Cunday, international secretary, will speak at the luncheon.

A golf tournament, banquet, and dance will feature the afternoon and night programs, at Lithia Springs.

INSURANCE FOR TAXIS.

DALTON, Ga., April 23.—A new ordinance has been approved by city council requiring taxi operators here to carry liability insurance up to $10,000 and insurance to take care of property damage up to $5,000.

THOMASVILLE MAPS PLANS FOR 30,000 AT 17TH ROSE SHOW

Annual Exhibit To Be Held Friday; Facilities Are Prepared for Day.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 23. Thomasville's 17th annual Rose Show—an event expected to attract more than 30,000 visitors to the city—will be held here Friday at Vose field. The show will open at 11 o'clock in the morning, and close at 11 o'clock that night.

The Vose field hangar provides approximately 30,000 square feet of exhibition space, and already every square foot has been allotted to exhibitors, who have been at work several days with preliminary preparations for their displays.

Many of the largest displays will be by local florists, plantation and estate owners, schools, business institutions, and civic organizations, and as in past years friendly rivalry will produce many novel displays. Hundreds of smaller exhibitors also will participate, their offerings varying from a single rosebud or bouquet of pansies to an entire bed of roses.

The show will not be confined to roses alone. Perennials and annuals of every kind and hue also will be shown. Various kinds of potted plants, shadow boxes, and unusual displays will be presented, as well as decorated tables featuring beautiful silver, china and glassware and adorned with sweet peas, larkspur or other flowers.

DR. A. K. CHALMERS TO SPEAK IN ATHENS

Annual Religious Welfare Conference To Open on Campus Wednesday.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—The University of Georgia's 14th annual religious welfare conference will open Wednesday night with Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle church, New York, delivering his first address in Athens in the University chapel at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Chalmers will speak on "The Constant Fire." Anderson Roddenbery, student president of the campus Y. M. C. A., will preside at the opening session.

Thursday morning at 11:45 President Harmon W. Caldwell presiding, Dr. Chalmers will speak o'clock in Woodruff hall, with on "The Passion of Christ's Spirit."

Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the chapel, Dr. Chalmers will close the conference with an address on "Candles in the Wind."

BAPTISTS TO MEET MONDAY, TUESDAY

Gainesville To Be Host to Sunday School Group.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 23. More than 25 outstanding speakers, as well as approximately 150 officers and leaders, are scheduled to appear on the program of the annual Northeast Georgia Baptist Sunday school convention, to be held here Monday and Tuesday.

Delegates from every group in the organization are expected and ample provisions are being made to take care of the visitors, according to J. R. Meeks, who is in charge of arrangements.

FAUST ADDRESSES NORTHWEST GEORGIANS

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., April 23. "Unless President Roosevelt and his advisors place more emphasis upon religion and its teaching, his whole New Deal is doomed to failure," Dr. W. H. Faust, of Atlanta, told the northwest Georgia Sunday school convention, in session here yesterday.

Speaking of repeal, Dr. Faust declared: "I am going to the polls and vote against every man who had one thing to do with overturning the wills of Georgia people."

Other speakers included Dr. Willis Howard, LaGrange; Dr. Carl J. Giers, Rockmart; J. Fred Eden Jr., Atlanta; Dr. T. W. Tippett, Atlanta; Dr. Carey T. Vinzant, Augusta; Dr. L. Clinton Cutts, and others.

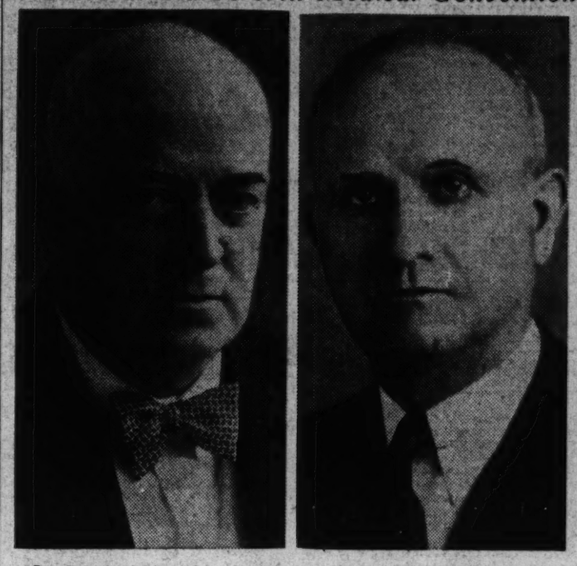

2 SUITS ASK $100,000 IN DEATH OF WOMAN

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 23. Two damage suits, each for $50,000, have been filed in city court here against Mrs. Edith M. Sturges and Miss Priscilla Sturges as the result of an automobile accident last week in which Mrs. Charles Tyler Jr., of Albany, was fatally injured.

The first suit, filed before Mrs. Tyler died of her injuries, claimed $50,000 damages to Mrs. Dolly Lennard Tyler. The second suit was filed after Mrs. Tyler's death by her husband, Charles B. Tyler. It also asked $50,000 damages.

Mrs. Sturges has left Thomasville for her New York home.

Leaders at State's 89th Medical Convention

Dr. Eugene E. Murphey (left), of Augusta, past president, will preside as master of ceremonies Wednesday for the presentation of a president's key to Dr. George A. Traylor (right), also of Augusta, present head of the Medical Association of Georgia. The association will open its 89th annual convention in Augusta Tuesday, and close Thursday.

Savannah Plans Gala Celebration For U. S. Ship Bearing Its Name

Cruiser To Be Presented Silver Service; Farley, Rivers and Others To Attend 'Fleet Week' Breakfast Wednesday; 19 Georgians Aboard Vessel.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 23.—(AP) The 41st major vessel to bear the name of this city, the U. S. S. Savannah, new navy light cruiser, will arrive Monday afternoon and receive a welcome arranged for officers and crew and prominent visitors coming here for the occasion.

The ship will remain for the "fleet week" celebration to continue through Saturday.

A silver service set, purchased with funds raised by Savannah school children, will be presented Wednesday afternoon at appropriate ceremonies.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, one of a number of prominent officials scheduled to be present during the week, will be entertained at a breakfast to be given in his honor Wednesday morning before he leaves for speaking engagements in Millen, McRae and Fitzgerald.

Rivers to Attend.

Governor Rivers, Congressman Hugh Peterson, State Senate President John E. Spivey and others also will attend the breakfast, they have indicated. Members of the first district congressional Democratic executive committee will participate after attending a meeting here Tuesday night.

The new cruiser, 608 feet in length and of 10,000 tons, will be the largest warship yet to enter the Savannah harbor.

The first man-of-war Savannah was a galley built here in 1798 at a cost of not exceeding $3,000. She was 51 feet in length and carried seven guns.

Another interesting early warship to bear the name Savannah was a paddle-wheel steamer of 480 tons and 172 feet in length, purchased here in 1861 out of the first appropriation made by the Confederate congress.

First to Cross Ocean.

Perhaps the best known of the U. S. S. Savannahs was that of 1819, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic, which sailed from here May 23, 1819, and arrived in Liverpool after 26 days.

Nineteen Georgians are among the 881 officers and men aboard the U. S. S. Savannah and their relatives have been invited to be present during the ship's stay.

A flotilla composed of local yachts and tugs will meet the cruiser at the mouth of the river and escort it to the city.

GEORGIA TO GREET FARLEY THIS WEEK

Postmaster General To Visit Savannah, McRae, Millen, Fitzgerald.

MILLEN, Ga., April 23.—(AP)—South-central Georgia will be host to General James A. Farley Wednesday, when the cabinet officer dedicates new post offices here and at McRae, and addresses the annual convention of south Georgia post office workers at Fitzgerald.

The postmaster general also will participate in "fleet week" ceremonies in Savannah Wednesday morning.

He will be accompanied to the state by Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, and L. W. Robert Jr., secretary of the national Democratic executive committee.

The dedicatory program here is scheduled to begin at 11:20 o'clock in the morning. On the program with Farley will be Senators Walter F. George and Richard Russell, Representative Hugh Peterson, of the first district, and Governor Rivers.

From Millen, the postmaster general and his party will go to McRae for dedication ceremonies scheduled for 4:30 o'clock. A special dedication cachet honoring the official opening of the new post office will be used on all mail going out of McRae Wednesday.

At Fitzgerald, Farley will speak before county and district Democratic committeemen, and at the session of post office employes.

EDITOR TO SPEAK TO COTTON GROUP

Manufacturers To Meet in Augusta This Week.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 23.—(AP) The American Cotton Manufacturers' Association will hear Julian E. Miller, editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, at the first general session of their 42d annual conventtion here Friday.

Officers and directors will arrive Thursday for a pre-convention luncheon.

Two other speakers will appear on the program with Editor Miller, Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta and the association's president, R. E. Henry.

Dr. John L. Davis, of New York, will speak at the Friday night session. Saturday's program will include a talk by Dr. C. T. Murchison, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, Inc., of New York, and reports of committees.

One of the features of the meeting will be a display of fashions as interpreted by designers of Paris and New York, intended to show the use of cottons in summer clothes.

BUSINESS WOMEN PICK CARROLLTON

Mrs. Clara Conroy Re-elected President at Augusta Convention.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 23.—(AP) The Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs today selected Carrollton for the next state convention city and re-elected Mrs. Clara Conroy, of Albany, as president.

Other officers are Mrs. Cecil Fuller, of Atlanta, first vice president; Miss Elizabeth Lacy, of Savannah, second vice president; Miss Elizabeth White, of Augusta, secretary; Miss Gwyn Toney, of Carrollton, treasurer; Miss Blanche Wood, of Atlanta, custodian, and Mrs. Louise Warthen, of Thomaston, secretary.

Carrollton won the convention over Rome, Savannah and Macon.

Consolidation Issue.

The federation favored in resolutions the consolidation of some counties and proposed appointment by Governor Rivers of a committee to study consolidation. It proposed action on this subject by the next legislature.

Adequate medical attention for prospective mothers, extension of juvenile and domestic relations courts, jury service for women and more women as candidates for the state legislature also were indorsed.

Ramspeck Speaks.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck told the delegates at an earlier session that continuance of a democratic form of government depends more upon its efficient operation than upon any other factor.

Both economy and efficiency could be secured, he said, under the civil service system and urged support of a civil service or merit system in selection of government employes.

Ramspeck also sharply criticized the wage and hour bill before congress describing it as "an inflexible mandatory criminal statute."

FEDERAL INCOME PASSES 5 BILLION

Total Is $1,300,000,000 Under Budget Estimate.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP) The federal government's income in the 1938 fiscal year crossed the $5,000,000,000 mark in the week just ended.

A treasury statement showed today that receipts for the fiscal year which began July 1, 1937, tataled $5,009,837,814.87 on April 21.

In his January budget message, President Roosevelt estimated receipts for the entire 1938 fiscal year at about $6,300,000,000. To reach this mark, Uncle Sam must collect about $1,300,000,000 by June 30.

MEDICAL PROGRESS WILL BE DISCUSSED; GEORGE TO SPEAK

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 23.—(AP) Georgia doctors will exchange the knowledge gained in another year's experience with the rising tide of medical progress Tuesday when they meet for the 89th annual session of the Medical Association of Georgia.

Professional and public problems also will be taken up at the meetings, with Dr. Irvin Abell, president-elect of the American Medical Association and clinical professor of surgery at the University of Louisville School of Medicine, as one of the featured speakers.

Senator Walter F. George also will speak, taking part in one of the public meetings scheduled in addition to the reading and discussion of scientific papers. Both Dr. Abell and Senator George will speak Wednesday.

Dr. George A. Traylor, of Augusta, will be presented a president's key at the Wednesday session, with Dr. Eugene E. Murphey, of Augusta, acting on behalf of the association.

An "Appreciation of Dr. James L. Campbell, of Atlanta," chairman of the cancer commission for the medical association, will be read by Dr. T. C. Davison, of Atlanta.

The opening day's program is scheduled to consist chiefly of association business, reports of officers and committees and studies of public policies and public health problems.

Pneumonia is given the featured spot of Wednesday's program, with a symposium arranged by physicians from Macon, Atlanta, Albany and Augusta. Malaria and heart disease also are subjects of other scientific papers, with considerable interest evidenced in a report to be made by Dr. C. F. Holton, of Savannah, and Dr. M. E. Winchester, of Brunswick, on malaria treatment of industrial and agricultural workers.

Thursday will bring a discussion of a new type of suction cap used instead of forceps in obstetrics cases. The cap, a rubber device, is used to apply pressure in assisting at the birth, and experiments with it will be described by Dr. Richard Torpin, of Augusta, with Dr. O. R. Thompson, of Macon, and Dr. C. B. Upshaw, of Atlanta, scheduled to lead a general discussion.

DOCTOR PAYS DUES FOR HIS 58TH YEAR

RICHLAND, Ga., April 23.—Dr. T. B. Miller, one of Richland's pioneer residents and physicians, this week sent his dues to the Medical Association of Georgia for the fifty-eighth consecutive year.

Dr. Miller joined the association soon after he began practicing medicine, and has held continuous membership with the organization since that time.

With the exception of a few years spent in Chattahoochee county, he has spent all of his years of service in Stewart county.

N. C. JUSTICE DIES

Heart Attack Is Fatal to George W. Connor.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 23.—(AP) Death came unexpectedly today to George W. Connor, associate justice of the state supreme court, who helped formulate and interpret North Carolina laws for more than a quarter of a century.

Funeral services for the 65-year-old, white-haired jurist, who died of a heart attack this morning, will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at his home here.

Members of the family declined the privilege of allowing the body to lie in state in the rotunda of the state capitol building, preferring simple ceremonies.

STATE DEATHS

MRS. JOHN A. STRANGE.

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., April 23.—Services for Mrs. John A. Strange, 68, who died in a local hospital Thursday after a long illness, were held at her home here yesterday, the Rev. G. G. Ramsey officiating. Burial was in Summerville cemetery. Mrs. Strange was the widow of a former sheriff of Chattooga county and a daughter of the late Captain J. W. Rivers, one of Chattooga's best-known citizens. She was the sister of C. D. Rivers, judge of the city court of Chattooga county, who survives her. Two other brothers, John and Hub Rivers, and two sisters, Mrs. Vashti Elder and Mrs. Lillie Kellett, all of Summerville, also survive.

OSCAR LITTLE PIERCE.

ZEBULON, Ga., April 23.—Services for Oscar Little Pierce, 71, who died late Thursday at his home here, were held in Zebulon Baptist church today, the Rev. Jack Bridges and the Rev. C. B. Drake officiating. Burial was in East View cemetery. Mr. Pierce had been in failing health the last three years. He died of a stroke of paralysis. Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. E. B. Arnold, of Zebulon, and three brothers, Q. K. Pierce, of East Point; J. F. Pierce, of Brunswick, and Charlie B. Pierce, of Zebulon.

WILLIAM T. BATES.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 23.—Services for William T. Bates, 70, who died at his home in Vaughn yesterday after several months' illness, were held today in New Salem Baptist church, the Rev. John Rawls officiating. Burial was in the churchyard. Surviving are his wife; three sons, D. C. and Aubrey Bates, of Vaughn, and J. C. Bates, of Atlanta; and a daughter, Mrs. B. M. Jackson, of Experiment.

JAMES R. BISHOP.

SENOIA, Ga., April 23.—Services for James Rosson Bishop, 18, who died at his home here yesterday, will be held Sunday at the graveside in Senoia cemetery. The Rev. N. O. L. Powell will officiate. Surviving Mr. Bishop are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bishop; three brothers, Lindsey, William and Elmer Bishop, and two sisters, Misses Annie Belle and Clara Bishop, all of near Senoia.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—The stock market tripped over light profit-selling today and ended the week on a moderately downward slant.

In the lightest dealings for about six weeks, industrials yielded fractions to a point or so.

The principal news of the day, which some brokers thought may have been discounted in Friday's run-up, was the compromise on the tax revision bill reached by the senate and house conferees.

Traders Await Action.

While Wall Street, on the whole, viewed the agreement as "constructive," traders generally exhibited a tendency to wait for final legislative action on the measure.

Analysts derived mild encouragement from the fact offerings were small throughout the two-hour proceedings. Transfers of 410,950 shares were the lowest since March 12, and compared with 1,057,860 last Saturday, when the trend was sharply upward. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks off .2 of a point at 40.4. On the week the composite suffered a net loss of .8 of a point. It was the first decline after three consecutive weekly advances.

Consolidated Edison was an outstanding strong spot, again responding to the company's recent successful flotation of $60,000,000 of debentures. The stock held a gain of a point at 22 5-8.

Bullish Performance.

The bullish performance of bonds throughout the week was one of the main bolstering influences for shares. Heavy demand from banking sources for federal issues reflected a jump in reserves and announcement the treasury would use $50,000,000 weekly of its "desterilized" gold to pay off maturing bills.

A sharp break in the French franc in terms of the dollar failed to disconcert domestic markets. This currency weakened on doubts regarding the Daladier ministry's ability to weather financial storms, and doubts a loan could be obtained from the British.

Announcement the President would send his message on revision of monopoly laws to congress before next Friday was without unsettling repercussions.

Market Outlook

By MAX L. BROWN.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Developments regarding the revised tax bill dominated the stock market this week, traders ignoring a series of swift moves by the administration to put the credit phase of its spending-lending credit expansion program into immediate effect.

With the house and senate conferees deadlocked over major provisions of the bill until late Friday, traders were reluctant to take up a definite market position early in the week and the list drifted lower until all the "pump-priming" advance of the preceding week had been erased.

Late Thursday a moderate rally developed. It was extended further Friday when Washington advices indicated a compromise on the tax bill was near. The compromise was somewhat less favorable than had been hoped, although mildly bullish from the capital gains levy standpoint. Saturday's session was marked by extreme caution pending study of the tax bill and prices eased off in all divisions, but the utilities section.

Trading for the week totaled only 4,326,770 shares compared with 4,404,734 shares in the preceding week which included the Good Friday holiday.

The Dow Jones industrial average was down 3.36 points on the week to 117.64; rail, up 0.07 at 22.07; utility, up 0.48 at 18.81, and 70 stocks, off 0.56 point to 37.06.

Losses the first 3 days of the week ranged to more than 6 points in the industrial average and largely reflected profit-taking pending clearing up of Capitol Hill uncertainties. The Thursday and Friday advance about halved losses through the list.

Position of Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The position of the treasury on April 21: Receipts $17,457,236.23; expenditures $33,222,881.86; balance $2,833,058,032.54; customs receipts for the month $17,112,134.40.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $5,009,837,814.87; expenditures $6,193,-977,683.39, including $1,671,961,150.58 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures $1,183,239,848.52; gross debt $37,564,312,600.34, an increase of $162,-982.24 over the previous day; gold assets $12,841,605,731.84.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 8.94 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.71 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—Cotton sagged following early steadiness today under week-end liquidation. July eased from 9.00 to 8.95 and closed at 8.96, with final prices 2 to 4 points net lower.

The market opened 1 point higher to 1 lower with easier Liverpool cables offset by trade and foreign buying. Locals also bought. May liquidation and exchanging from that month to later deliveries, were well taken by the trade. Other scattering liquidation carried prices to the lowest levels for the day in the late trading.

Commodity Credit Corporation reported 9,544 bales entered the loan during the week, making 5,332,809 thus far, exclusive of 151,508 bales repossessed. Cotton goods sales for the week about equalled production. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 52,000 bales, against 67,000 last year and 63,000 two years ago.

There was little foreign interest noted in the early trading, although part of the May liquidation was attributed to foreign account.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON QUIET, BUT STEADY

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—During the early part of the coming week we are inclined to stand aside until the tax picture clarifies, after which we would continue our policy of accumulation.

BEER & CO.—We continue to feel the the market is technically strong and that a furtherance of strength can be expected with any cheerful news.

FENNER & BEANE—Additional periods of irregularity appear likely before a satisfactory base for a definitely constructive attitude can be said to have been established.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—A gradual rise in cotton prices appears probable, but we cannot visualize much above the 9½-cent level for the immediate present and would not reach for cotton.

BEER & CO.—We anticipate a trading affair to continue for the time being and would use recessions for purchase.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe the long range view is bullish and that the next price movement of importance will be upward.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Market appears likely to hold within moderate trading range while May liquidation is in progress.

HUBBARD BROS & CO.—It would seem that likelihood of decline is limited, and there is quite a possibility to advance at least to level which brings out cotton from loan.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Raw sugar was easy today and following a decline of 4 points late yesterday there was an additional loss of 1 point today which brought the spot price down to 2.80. Sales reported were 10,000 bags of Puerto Ricos for April shipment late yesterday at 2.81 and 18,000 bags of Philippine due May 10 today at 2.80.

Futures were easier under increased May liquidation and selling by producing interests, although there were partial recoveries from the lowest on trade covering against sales of actuals. Final prices in the No. 3 were 1 to 2 points net lower on sales of 10,850 tons. The No. 4 closed unchanged to ½ net lower with sales of 6,100 tons.

ATLANTA WILL HOLD HUGE HOME-COMING

Jaycees To Invite Hundreds to Festivities; Plan Ice-Skating Battle.

Hundreds of persons occupying important positions in other cities who look upon Atlanta as their home town will be invited to return during the period of May 16-22 when Atlanta will observe "Home-Coming Week," it was announced yesterday by W. A. Horne Jr., president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the celebration.

The week will mark the opening of Lakewood park for the summer and a daily program will be provided there.

It will be climaxed by a barbecue at which the former residents will be guests of honor. Governor Rivers and Mayor Hartsfield will be on hand to welcome them and "Big Bill" Turner will prepare the food.

Events of the week include a beautiful skating ballet, boxing and wrestling matches for amateurs, an amateur talent show and a brass band concert.

"It looks like one of the best weeks of entertainment Atlanta has had for a long time," Mr. Horne said. "Admission to the park will be free during the week."

SCHOOLS TO MARK CHILD HEALTH DAY

Appropriate Programs Are Listed for Observance on May 2.

Georgia schools will observe May 2, May Day, as Child Health Day.

Schools and communities are arranging programs for observance of the day, Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, director of the maternal and child hygiene division of the state Department of Public Health, announced yesterday.

Child Health Day was proclaimed officially by President Roosevelt April 4 when he designated May Day for the observance. A joint resolution of congress, approved May 18, 1928, also sets the day aside as Child Health Day.

Dr. Bowdoin said factors in child health, growth and development depend upon heredity and environment. The "good environment" after birth, he explained, includes the general surroundings, fresh air, warmth, sunshine, quiet, freedom, proper food, a provision for the formation of good habits in eating, sleeping and elimination, as well as protection against certain diseases, correction of physical defects, training and education.

EMPORIA'S WHITE HEADS PRESS BODY

Publisher Will Guide Freedom Fight.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(UP)—William Allen White, 70-year-old crusading editor who made his country newspaper nationally famous, was chosen by the American Society of Newspaper Editors today to lead its fight to maintain the freedom of the American press.

The editor and publisher of the Emporia, Kan., Gazette was elected president at the closing session of the organization's sixteenth annual convention.

All other officers were re-elected for one-year terms. They are D. J. Sterling, of the Portland, Ore., Journal, first vice president; Tom Wallace, the Louisville, Ky., Times, second vice president; Dwight Marvin, the Troy, N. Y., Record, treasurer, and M. V. Atwood, of the Gannett newspapers, secretary.

Four Babies Born Amid Spain Bombing

VINAROZ, April 23.—(UP)—Four babies, born near Tortosa during the bombardments of that region, were christened today on a Nationalist tank at Roquetas by a chaplain attached to the tank regiment.

Wednesday Will Be Button Day For V. F. W. Martin Beck Post

Scores of Women Will Offer Patriotic Flag Emblems on Streets; William Van Dyke in Charge of Campaign.

Public sale of flag buttons will feature National Americanization Day of Marcus W. Beck Jr. Post No. 3027, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Wednesday.

Announcement of the sale, which will be carried on by scores of women, was made yesterday by Dr. R. F. Thomas, post commander.

William L. VanDyke, quartermaster of the post and Georgia department commander, will be in charge of the sale. Proceeds will be used for the post's relief, patriotic and civic work.

"The sale will give all patriotic citizens an opportunity, by wearing a flag button, to show their appreciation of those who served their country on foreign soil in time of need," said Dr. Thomas.

Day of Rededication.

"National Americanization Day is held by our organization throughout the country every year. It is a day when we rededicate ourselves and renew with increased vigor our opposition to all subversive movements which conflict with the ideas and principles of the constitution of the United States," said VanDyke.

"We believe sound citizenship is the basis of a successful democratic government and our only guarantee that our democracy will survive.

"The puzzling and troublesome problems of today, and their ultimate solution for the best interests of our country and its people, challenge the loyalty and unselfish interest of every American citizen."

The flag buttons can be worn on all patriotic occasions, and will be sold for large or small contributions.

Sale Captains.

Captains of the many volunteer workers who will be on the streets conducting the sale are: Mrs. Wm. P. McKenney, Mrs. F. H. Brady, Mrs. L. S. Magbee, Mrs. John F. Jordan, Mrs. Ted H. Kinney, Miss Sara Jarvis, Mrs. Francis Morgan, Mrs. William G. McRae and Mrs. E. C. Crawford.

Mesdames Catherine Owens, Emily Owens, James C. Crockett, Nell Hill, Alma Dykes, Nora Bell MacQuinn, Mary Phillips, Katie Phillips, Sara Granade, Inez Coleman, Gemmie Coleman, Hermon Gerring, Stella Hagy, Willie Nix, Lucy Sibley.

Miss Lillian Typson and Miss Mae Wiggins.

Former Flora Ann Hope of Pioneer Family; 125 Relatives Survive.

Mrs. Flora Ann Harrison, 93, member of a pioneer Forsyth county family, died yesterday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. B. J. Sanders, on Rhine Hill road.

Born near Cumming, January 23, 1845, she was the daughter of Ellison Hope, Indian fighter and one-time California gold miner. Her husband, Alfred G. Harrison, Confederate veteran and Forsyth county farmer and mechanic, died 29 years ago.

A resident here for the last 20 years, Mrs. Harrison was a member of the Mary Brandan Memorial Methodist church.

Surviving in addition to Mrs. Sanders are a son, Dr. J. L. Harrison, Atlanta; three other daughters, Mrs. J. W. Walker, Decatur; Mrs. J. A. Heard, Cumming, and Mrs. J. T. Hargrove, Atlanta; a sister, Miss Alice Hope, Cumming; 30 grandchildren, 80 great-grandchildren and 10 great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Cumming Methodist church by the Rev. R. A. Edmondson. Burial will be in Cumming cemetery, under the direction of A. S. Turner.

WPA HEAD IS AWAITING PART-TIME JOB REPORT

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia WPA administrator, said yesterday she would await an official report from Washington before making any statement on the charge that Atlanta WPA workers have part-time private employment.

A Washington dispatch Thursday quoted findings of a senate committee which charged that 63 per cent of workers interviewed here and in four other cities were found to be doing other jobs in addition to their WPA employment.

DR. JOHN KNOX NAMED SEMINARY ASSOCIATE

Dr. John Knox, of Chicago, formerly of Emory University, has been appointed associate professor in the department of the New Testament at Hartford Theological Seminary, Dr. Robbins W. Barstow, president of the Hartford Seminary Foundation, announced yesterday.

A native of Kentucky, Dr. Knox was graduated from Randolph Macon College with a bachelor of arts degree in 1919. Later he attended Emory University where he studied theology and was graduated with a bachelor of divinity degree in 1925.

Brackman, Lindbergh Portraitist, Exhibits 8 Pieces at High Museum

By ELLEN ST. JOHN BARNWELL.

The artist who has just finished portraits of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh has eight pieces on exhibit at the High museum of art.

When Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, wanted to have the portraits of the illustrous pair done on their trip to America this winter, the three carefully looked over the work of prominent painters. They preferred that of Robert Brackman. Soon sittings were arranged, and pastels, heads of both Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, were completed.

These pastels were so splendid that the Lindberghs extended their trip another month in America and full length oil portraits were painted by Brackman in his New York studio.

Tells of Brackman.

This past week Miss Cade Coggins, of Canton, who has been studying under Brackman in New York, was in Atlanta visiting her cousin, Mrs. Jack Jones. Especially attracted to the High museum of art by the Brackman pictures now on display, she told of the Lindbergh portraits and the sensational success Brackman was meeting in New York.

Miss Coggins pointed out that the Brackman pieces here were splendid examples of his style. Some of them had caught the admiration of the Lindberghs—particularly the pastel entitled, "Praying Head."

Robert Brackman is classified as "instructor; still life; portrait painting."

Studied Extensively.

Born in Russia, 1896, he came to America when 12 years old. After an extensive American fine arts education he won many prizes of national importance and his pictures hang in leading museums.

Malcolm Vaughan, New York art editor, said: "Brackman proves himself one of the ablest draughtsmen of the younger generation and distinguishes himself by his force and delicacy, the combined directness of his effect and the subtlety of his expression."

The exhibit of abstract art done by Minnie Belle Hutchinson (Mrs. Merrill Hutchinson) will also close Saturday.

The museum is open free of charge from 9 o'clock to 5 o'clock on week days and 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock Sundays. The public is invited.

Mayor To Welcome His Secretary's Son

Mayor Hartsfield will be out of the city until Tuesday or Wednesday, his executive secretary, Joe Gregg Jr., announced yesterday.

The mayor will accompany Gregg and Mrs. Gregg to Savannah where the U. S. S. Savannah, on which the Gregg's son, William, is an ensign, is due to dock Monday. They will leave Atlanta this afternoon.

Good Morning!

When Your Neighbor Brags

About a peach of a bargain found in a want ad . . . you remember that he . . . All the smart folks who have learned to buy with economy use the classified section of The Constitution thru practically every stage of life. Your neighbors do. Your friends do. It's the new national habit.

Use the classified section of The Constitution . . . tell about what you have to sell . . . tell about what you have to buy . . . by means of a simple little want ad.

And only then can you realize what a great power you can wield with such little effort. When you've anything to buy or sell, from a packet of flower seeds up to a county-wide farm, don't forget that for prompt results . . . enthusiastic response . . . you can't beat the classified section of your daily paper . . . the popular section to practically everybody! THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LXX., No. 316. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 24, 1938.

Mrs. Mary Youmans And J. O. Pearson United in Marriage

The marriage of Mrs. Mary Matheson Youmans and James Overby Pearson, of Wheeling, W. Va., formerly of Atlanta, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fleet, on West Wesley road.

Performing the ceremony was the Rev. William Byrd Lee, of Auburn, Ala., a cousin of the bride, who officiated in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

Miss Julia Fleet was the bride's only attendant and was lovely in a dress of violet blue marquisette and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and delphinium.

The bride entered with her brother, Kenneth G. Matheson Jr., of Philadelphia, by whom she was given in marriage. Price Gilbert Jr., was best man. The bride, who is a handsome brunette, was beautiful in a model of white embroidered marquisette made along becoming lines and she carried a bouquet of lavender orchids.

Mr. Pearson and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will go to Wheeling, W. Va., where they will reside.

Mrs. Pearson is the daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Matheson and the late Dr. Matheson and is a sister of Miss Belle Matheson, Kenneth G. Matheson and Graham Matheson, of Philadelphia. She is a prominent member of the younger set in Atlanta and belongs to the Junior League.

Mr. Pearson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pearson, of Alexander City, Ala., and is a graduate of the University of Alabama. He is a member of the Piedmont Driving Club of Atlanta and of the Fort Henry Club and the Country Club of Wheeling.

Among out-of-town guests attending the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pearson, of Alexander City, Ala., parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Walker, of Opelika, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Folmar, of Troy, Ala.; Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Lee, of Auburn, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Matheson Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. George Peter, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Frederickson, of Coshocton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Evans, of Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Brazil Weds Thomas J. Stone.

The marriage of Miss Sara Brazil, daughter of Mrs. William Thomas Brazil and the late William Thomas Brazil, of Fairburn, Ga., became the bride of Thomas Jackson Stone at 11 o'clock Friday in the study at the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Dr. Louis D. Newton officiated in the presence of the families and a few friends. The study was decorated with ferns and baskets of Easter lilies and gladiolas.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Ruth Barrow, who was becomingly gowned in a beige dress and hat with luggage tan accessories. Her corsage was of Marchael Niel roses and lilies of the valley. A. B. Roberts, of Augusta, was best man.

The lovely blonde bride was gowned in dark blue triple sheer crepe trimmed in light blue with accessories to match. She wore orchids and lilies of the valley.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., and Havana, Cuba. Upon their return they will reside at 1233 Munroe avenue, Columbus, Ga., where Mr. Stone holds a responsible position with the Georgia Power Company.

Church Women To Attend Luncheon.

The Atlanta Council of Federated Church Women, Mrs. A. W. Waldman, president, extends an invitation to church women of all denominations to attend the women's international luncheon May 3, at 1 o'clock, at Henry Grady hotel.

Members of civic, patriotic, religious and professional clubs especially are invited. The object is to unify the efforts of church women in the task of establishing a Christian social order in which all areas of life shall be brought into harmony with the teachings of Jesus Christ.

The committee on arrangements is composed of Mesdames J. N. McEachern, L. O. Turner and A. W. Waldman. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Clyde Fleming, CHerokee 2388, or Miss Miriam Rogers, HEmlock 3563-J.

Woodcrest Woman's Club Meets Wednesday

The Woodcrest Woman's Club meets Wednesday at 3 o'clock at Woodcrest, the home of the beloved late president and founder of the club, Mrs. A. O. Woodward.

Honorable William G. McRae will speak to the members on citizenship. Mrs. Murray Howard, representing the Needlework Guild, will be an honor guest. Mrs. R. O. Todd, first vice president, will preside.

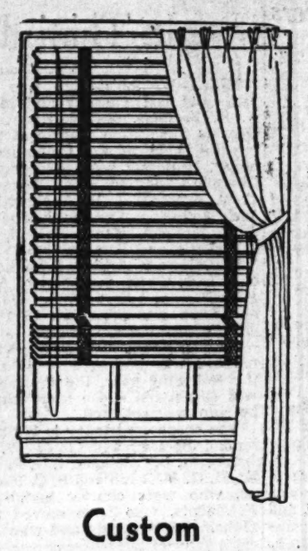

Crawford—Harvey.

VIENNA, Ga., April 23.—The marriage of Miss Louise Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Crawford, of Brainerd, Minn., formerly of Vienna, to Claud Harvey, of Vienna, was solemnized April 19 at the Baptist pastorium, Rev. R. L. Harvey officiating.

Mr. Harvey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lasco Harvey, of Americus. He came to Vienna four years ago as manager of a local grocery store.

Ella F. White Chairman To Give Full Report at Conclave on April 28

By Mrs. Z. L. Fitzpatrick, the Chairman.

We have reached the last lap of the race for an increased endowment for the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs before we meet in Albany for the state convention. A full report cannot be made until next Thursday morning, but here are the last expressions of love for our federation which have come to me and brought joy and thanksgiving to your Ella F. White committee.

Three cheers for Royston Woman's Club which has honored its president, Mrs. Stewart D. Brown, by placing her name on the "Foundation Fund Founders' Roll." Past presidents of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs whose names are inscribed as founders are Mrs. Charles J. Haden, of Atlanta; the Ellen Ottley McCabe memorial, by Mrs. John K. Ottley; the Betty Harrison Jones memorial, by the children of Mrs. Sam D. Jones.

A spectacular drive at the Dallas convention put the seventh district "over the top" and on the Founders' Roll. Other district founders are the second, honoring Mrs. A. B. Conger; the fifth, honoring Mrs. John D. Evans; the tenth, honoring Mary Allman Alford. The Macon Woman's Club, built on former gifts, has reached the founders' roll, and Wymodausis, of Valdosta, is using an interesting contest to reach the coveted goal.

Last-minute additions to the "honor roll" are from the third district and from Toccoa Woman's Club, each sending in $25. We want to report a gift from every club at the Albany convention. Be sure and send your gift.

Mrs. de Jarnett Praises Splendid Work at Tallulah Falls School

At the recent meeting in Atlanta Mrs. T. S. deJarnett, from the section of education, of southern region of United States Forest Service, gave an interesting talk on "Women's Clubs and Forestry," introducing her remarks by saying that she long had been interested in the splendid work being done at Tallulah, and that she shared the general enthusiasm for that remarkable school. She said there could be no finer undertaking nor one of more lasting usefulness than bringing education to the boys and girls of the Georgia mountains.

In discussing forestry and the ways in which clubwomen and the Forest Service may work together, Mrs. deJarnett said that the conservation of our natural resources is a subject clubwomen and her department have in common, as clubwomen have ever been zealous missionaries fighting for this cause. It was largely due to the activities of clubwomen, she said, that the nation's thought was aroused to the necessity for establishing national forests while there were yet trees to save from ax and fire. The Forest Service recognizes that its work has been advanced by decades through the alertness of organized women.

Mrs. deJarnett cited as one of the main problems with which women can help is the provision for teaching conservation, and in providing material for teachers to teach. The logical place for educating the public is through the youth of the country, and no more practical step can be planned by a club than to encourage the introduction of forestry courses into the schools.

The Forest Service is assisting and encouraging in every way possible the committees seeking material for courses of study. The gospel which the service preaches is the conservation and wise use of all natural resources. It is not use, but abuse which has destroyed our forests. In a sense, conservation includes the resources of the state which assure its economic security and provides for its educational, recreational, and esthetic welfare.

Some of the major developments which the Forest Service has made in Georgia's Chattahoochee national forest are Lake Winfield Scott, near Woody's Gap, Warwoman Dell, near Clayton, and Rabun beach, at Lake Rabun. In connection with the program to bring tourists into Georgia which is being promoted by the Chamber of Commerce, women's clubs might plan and conduct educational tours for its members, teachers, and city officials to national forests, soil conservation projects, parks, fish hatcheries, and recreational areas. Many opportunities lie open to women's organizations for practical activity in the cause of conservation.

Noted Speakers Are on Program For 43rd Convention of Federation

Everything is in readiness for the seventh biennial convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Albany April 26 to 29, with Albany's Woman's Club as host. A program replete with names of outstanding speakers and subjects now under discussion combine to make proceedings of importance, with the added interest of the election of officers. Five state officers, the president, vice president, second vice president, recording secretary and treasurer, will be named to direct the destinies of the federation during the coming two years. A general federation director for Georgia will be elected. Recently elected district presidents will be presented and new clubs will be recognized.

Convention Keynote.

"Education for Citizenship," the keynote of Mrs. A. B. Conger's administration, will dominate the deliberations, and the special theme chosen by the president is "Enlarge the place of thy tent . . . lengthen thy cords and strengthen thy stakes." Many questions of the day will be brought forward in addresses by Governor Rivers, Judge Camille Kelley, Mrs. Ruth Campbell, Henry T. McIntosh, John Davis and others, and each department of work will present its activities and be represented by a speaker.

A unique feature on Wednesday morning will be the radio broadcast, speakers being heads of the departments. Primary interest centers in the panel discussion Wednesday morning, directed by Miss Katherine Lanier and Mrs. Robin Hood, co-chairmen of urban-rural co-operation. Others taking part will be Mrs. John K. Ottley, Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Miss Lurline Collier and Miss Mary Creswell.

The three federation foundations—Tallulah Falls School, Ella F. White Endowment and Student Aid—hold the spotlight on Thursday, and emphasis is on the Ella F. White fund this year as the silver jubilee anniversary is being celebrated. Thursday night will feature district and club presidents. Five minutes will be given the district presidents to tell their major accomplishments and one minute is allotted each club president. Awards will be made on this program, and new officers will be introduced.

Social affairs will intersperse the sessions, the first of these being Albany's "silver jubilee banquet" honoring the visitors, on Tuesday evening, in the Masonic temple. Breakfasts, luncheons, drives and teas will add to the enjoyment of the body. Mrs. R. H. Waugh, president of Albany Woman's Club, and Mrs. George A. McArthur, district hostess, are directing a large group that is arranging special occasions for the entertainment of delegates and visitors.

Exciting plans are being made for the "Edith Ritchie luncheon" in Albany on Thursday, April 28, when there will be tributes, songs and more names added to the growing list of those going to Kansas City. Mrs. H. I. Shingler, campaign song leader, and Mrs. O. D. Culpepper, Albany, director of music, will liven the luncheon program with campaign songs. The campaign managers, Mrs. Albert Hill and Mrs. Willis Westmoreland will preside.

Deceased members will be memorialized in a service conducted by Mrs. W. L. Ballenger, of Atlanta, at the Albany convention. Names to be included must be given to Mrs. Ballenger or to Mrs. Harvie Jordan before April 28.

Musical Program.

Mrs. O. D. Culpepper, of Albany, is in charge of the musical program, and Tuesday evening at the banquet Miss Margaret Conger, of Bainbridge, will sing a soprano solo, accompanied by Mrs. Temperance Lear. A piano solo "Rhapsodie" in B Minor, Opus 79 (Brahms), will be played by Mrs. Lear. Mrs. Gregorie will sing "The Wren" (Benedict).

At the auditorium, Tuesday evening, numbers will be given by Mrs. O. D. Culpepper, soprano; Mrs. Louis Kopple, contralto, and George L. Sabados, violinist.

Mrs. Culpepper will sing (a) "Call Me No More" (Cadman); (b) "An Open Secret" (Woodman). Mr. Sabados will play Schubert's "Ave Maria," followed by "Hungarian Dance" No. 6 (Brahms). "Homing" (Del Riego) and "Passing By" (Purcell) will be sung by Mrs. Kopple.

Wednesday evening, Mrs. C. M. Strout, mezzo-soprano, will sing "Happy Song" (Del Riego) and "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak). Miss Katherine Underwood will play Rachmaninoff's "Prelude," in G Minor.

Thursday evening will feature Cuthbert artists, Professor Charles A. Iler, pianist, and Dr. V. G. Osepoff, Russian violinist, of Andrew College. Mr. Iler will sing "Scherzo," in C Sharp Minor (Chopin). Dr. Osepoff will play 'Sans Paroles," Opus 9 (Weiniawski). Mrs. Culpepper will sing "At Parting" (Rodgers).

At the luncheon Wednesday, Mrs. Frank Middleton will sing and Mrs. T. C. Lackland will read. Thursday, Mrs. Herman Sapp will sing and Mrs. B. H. Kay will read. Mrs. A. D. Galt will be accompanist.

Mrs. Longino Elected To Vice Presidency Of Douglas Club

Douglas clubwomen held their April meeting at their club house with Mrs. J. W. Wallace, the president, presiding. Mrs. R. H. Sapp, delegate to 8th district convention at Baxley, gave a full report. Mrs. Alice Longino, of Douglas, was elected to the vice presidency for the next term. Mrs. M. D. Dickerson was appointed on nominating committee of the state organization.

Mrs. John M. Hall was elected as delegate to represent the Douglas club at the state convention at Albany. Mrs. Robin Wood, a member of this club, will be made an honorary member because of her outstanding work on the Rural-Urban conference held in Atlanta recently. Mrs. B. O. Quillian attended this meeting and gave an interesting account.

The highlight of the meeting was the address by Dr. Thomas H. Johnston on "Community Health."

The club has been invited by the Broxton club to attend the April meeting and take part in the program, and attending will be Mrs. J. W. Wallace, president, and the Glee Club. Mrs. John M. Hall will read a paper on "The South Looks Forward." Mrs. W. R. Pryor will read a paper on "The Cultural South."

Mrs. Clyde Tanner played a medley of radio theme songs and other musical numbers.

Roses and other garden flowers were used as decorations, and there were several bunny rabbits peeking out among them in recognition of the Easter season. A salad plate was served, the favors being small baskets containing Easter eggs and a fluffy yellow chick. Hour hostesses were Mesdames Comer Kitchens, Cleon Fales, Fred Davis and John M. Hall.

Mrs. Vason Named Griffin Club Head

Griffin Woman's Club met recently at Memorial Clubhouse with the vice president, Mrs. A. C. Bennett, presiding. The nominating committee presented the following names which were accepted: President, Mrs. Joe Vason; first vice president, Mrs. A. C. Bennett; second vice president, Miss Louise Ellis; treasurer, Mrs. H. G. Hutchinson; recording secretary, Mrs. Mobley Johnson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Mears; parliamentarian, Mrs. J. R. Berry; historian, Mrs. A. O. Nunnally; clubhouse corporation representatives, Mrs. Joe Vason, Mrs. George Niles, Mrs. W. R. Crossfield, Mrs. H. O. Lynch.

Mrs. Albert Hill, of Greenville, was program speaker, being presented by Mrs. W. E. H. Searcy Jr., chairman of the committee on legislation. Mrs. Hill gave a most informative talk on "Women and Legislation." Mrs. Frank Ellis, chairman of music committee, introduced Stanley Armstrong, of Memphis, Tenn., who rendered musical numbers, accompanied by Aldine Combs. Delegates elected to attend the state convention in Albany were Mrs. Homer Gossett and George Niles, with alternates, Mrs. W. H. Beck and Miss Louise Ellis. Mrs. Joe Vason will go as president, and has as alternate, Mrs. A. O. Nunnally. Social hour hostesses were Mesdames Terrell Akin, H. B. Montgomery, W. E. H. Searcy, E. O. Harrison, W. R. Crossfield and Will Taylor.

Maysville Club Holds Meeting.

Maysville Woman's Club held the April meeting at the home of Mrs. T. A. Smith, with Mesdames Wilkie Rylee, L. W. Eberhardt and W. P. Cooley as hostesses. Mrs. John Miller, retiring president, opened the meeting and prayer was offered by Mrs. Liela Sims.

Mrs. Billy Wiley, incoming president, presided over the business session.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Wiley are as follows: Mrs. Claude Meaders, first vice president; Mrs. N. A. Arnold, second vice president; Mrs. M. P. Deadwyler, recording secretary; Mrs. Omar Airial, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Francis Osborne, treasurer.

Cancer control campaign was discussed and members asked to co-operate in the fight against this disease. Mesdames M. P. Deadwyler and O. H. Stephens were elected delegates to the ninth district convention. Mrs. N. A. Arnold presented an interesting program.

Gainesville Study Club Holds Meeting.

Mrs. W. C. Thomas was program chairman at the April meeting of Gainesville Study Club, at which Mrs. Claude Williams and Miss Anne Eliza Brewer were hostesses. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Pierpont F. Brown, on North Green street.

Mrs. Jesse Meeks, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Price Charters. Mrs. E. B. Michaelis was elected and welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Thomas gave an instructive and interesting talk on "Conserving Our Wild Life."

Takes Part in Play at Convention

Mrs. Max Hardy, a talented member of Albany Woman's Club, is at the head of the division of drama. Featured on the fine arts program during the convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Albany this week, will be the play "Peggy," by Rachel Crothers, in which Mrs. Hardy is one of the experienced players. The play will be presented Wednesday evening and others in the cast are C. P. Whiting, Mrs. B. H. Kay, Mrs. A. L. Seely, Miss Lucy Parker, Brandon Seely, Richard Hobbs, and Dr. L. C. Schantz.

Under the Cherokee Rose

By Rose Marie

Georgia Federation welcomes as a new junior group the Buford 'Teen Age Club for Juniors. This group "B" club has as president, Joyce Gunter; recording secretary, Lucille Royal; and treasurer, Elsie McDaniel. Representatives of this fine group attended the club institute in Athens, demonstrating their earnestness in being trained in club work. These are the "Future Force of the Federation."

Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, gave a valuable therapy machine to the Hamilton Memorial hospital, Dalton, as a memorial to Hubert L. and Morton E. Judd.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, state commander of the Woman's Field Army for the Control of Cancer, and Miss Martha Mann, captain of Whitfield county, will attend the dedicatory ceremonies in Dalton.

April meeting of Royston Woman's Club was a joyful one. The president, Mrs. Stewart Brown, expressed pride in the club's winning the cup for the best all-round work done in the tenth district. The members voiced equal pride in Mrs. Brown, who was elected president of the Tenth District Federation of Clubs. Dr. Ross Brown, of the state board of health, was speaker.

Education committe of Guyton Woman's Club presented school pupils in a program at the April meeting. Miriam Sweat gave a reading; Lamar McCleskey Jr., declaimed; Harry Ratchford played a piano selection. Reports from the meeting of the first district federation in Savannah were brought by Mesdames D. C. Gann, T. J. Ricks, and G. S. Cubbedge. A resolution adopted was that every Guyton citizen plant a flowering tree on his home place. Mrs. R. C. Pool is Memorial Day chairman.

Mrs. J. H. Bagwell, president, presided at the luncheon featuring April meeting of Canton Woman's Club, and presented as honor guest, Mrs. W. G. Wingate, of Ellijay. Sharing honors were Miss Gaynelle Anderson, president of Canton Junior Woman's Club, and three past presidents of the woman's club, Mesdames C. K. Cobb, J. B. Parham and O. G. Glover. Mrs. Grady Coker was chairman of the artistic luncheon. Mrs. C. K. Cobb presented Miss Sue Arrington, who sang, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mildred Martyn. A reading was given by Miss Valeria Rudasill. Mrs. C. M. Crisler stated that the sum of $100 was realized from a benefit.

Dr. Hayward J. Pearce, professor of history, Emory University, will be featured by Mrs. John B. Clark, of Macon, on the international relations program of the convention of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, in Albany, on April 27, at 12 o'clock. He will talk on "The Far Eastern Situation."

Wymodausis Club Works for Scholarships

Wymodausis Club met in Valdosta and Mrs. Fred Harris, the president, was in the chair. Possibly the most gratifying work being done by the club is that of the scholarships, one at the Tallulah Falls School, and two at the Georgia State Woman's College. These gift scholarships aid students in completing their education.

Mrs. Harris reported on the recent district meeting in Baxley, and announced the next district meeting would be in Homerville. She announced the cancer control program which will be sponsored by the club at an early date.

Mrs. J. C. Jackson, first vice president, took the chair, and Mrs. Fred Harris made her report as president. Mrs. E. W. Tullis presented baskets of flowers in memory of Mrs. T. M. Talbot, charter member of the Wymodausis Club, and Mrs. Frances Peeples Patterson, who, though not a member of the club, had done much toward beautifying the building for occasions, and who was loved by club members. The flowers were carried and placed on their graves.

Social hour hostesses were Mesdames W. F. Pendleton, J. L. Newbern, J. C. Hunt, C. C. Varnedoe, Elinor Brink, T. G. Mundy, R. E. Dasher, Paul Walker, A. C. Pyle, C. R. Hawk, Harley Langdale, A. Winn, Howard Harris, Frank Rivers, K. L. Crosby, J. E. Culpepper, D. W. Almand, Frank Bird, Max Burt and Frank Ramsey.

Trion Clubwomen Hear Mrs. Barge.

Trion clubwomen recently heard Mrs. Roland Barg, of Summerville, give an interesting book review of "Winter in April," by Robert Nathan. Paul Maffett played "Mist," by William McKinley Garmen and "Nola," by Felix Arndt.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Carleen S. Bell and report on the seventh district meeting in Dallas was given by Mrs. A. B. Lawson. Others attending the meeting were Mrs. N. B. Murphy and Mrs. Grady Cole. At the district meeting Miss Edith Foster, of Trion High school, read poems from her recently published book, "Beside the Wishing Well."

Mrs. Murphy reported that women of this district were invited to meet in Trion next fall. Mrs. N. A. Funderburk was appointed chairman of the committee to raise the quota for the cancer clinic. Mrs. Bell read a letter from Mrs. J. L. Henderson inviting the club to the library to hear a lecture on new books, given by Miss Alice Stockell, of Chattanooga, which is in connection with the observance of Library Week.

Talbotton Club Elects Officers

At the recent meeting of Talbotton Woman's Club, presided over by Mrs. S. C. Ingram, the following officers were elected and will be installed at the next meeting which marks the close of the club year:

President, Mrs. W. L. Perryman; first vice president, Mrs. Brooks Culpepper; second vice president, Mrs. Hinton McGehee; recording secretary, Mrs. Carter Matthews; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. C. Thomas; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Slade; auditor, Miss Mary Slade; parliamentarian, Mrs. J. C. Watts.

Mrs. Frank Freeman, chairman of fine arts department, presented the following program on "Sculpture and Pottery": "Ode on a Grecian Urn," Mrs. Robert Slade; "Famous Piece of Sculpture," Miss Fannie Mahone; music, Mrs. R. C. Battle; "American Pottery," Mrs. J. C. Watts; and "World Events," Mrs. W. K. Couch Jr. Mrs. Hinton McGehee, Miss Frances Calloway.

In connection with this meeting, a silver tea was sponsored for the benefit of the library and was in charge of the library committee composed of Mrs. W. L. Perryman, chairman; Mesdames F. P. Freeman, J. C. Watts, A. J. Perryman, S. C. Ingram, and Green Maxwell.

Mrs. Anderson Heads Hogansville Club

Nominating committee of Hogansville Woman's Club made the following report on new officers at the April meeting: President, Mrs. A. B. Anderson; vice president, Mrs. J. G. Graham; recording secretary, Mrs. Cleveland Miller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hugh Brazell; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Smith; press and publicity, Mrs. J. R. Cannon; parliamentarian, Mrs. J. H. Melson. These nominations were confirmed by the club.

The president, Mrs. B. A. Hogan, and Mrs. A. B. Anderson with Mrs. Clarence Smith as alternate, are delegates to the state convention to be held in Albany.

The department of legislation-law observance composed of Mesdames Jim Leverett, H. H. Ware and J. R. Cannon was in charge of the program rendered at the meeting. Mrs. H. H. Ware introduced J. Render Terrell, prominent LaGrange attorney, who talked on "Legislation-Law Observance."

Mrs. J. N. Wilkinson and Mrs. C. W. Harvey sang, accompanied by Mrs. H. H. Ware at the piano. The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. B. A. Hogan. Mrs. J. C. Ivey and Mrs. Calvin Phillips were welcomed as new members.

A walnut gavel, made by G. G. Daniel was presented to the club by Mrs. G. G. Daniel. Mrs. Hogan, president, on behalf of the club, expressed thanks to Mrs. Daniel for this gift. Social hour hostesses were Mesdames B. A. Hogan and A. B. Anderson.

Mesdames C. W. Sims, B. H. Brock and D. G. Reid, of the department of public welfare, were in charge of the recent meeting. A. B. Clark, of Cleveland, Ohio, talked on "Problems of Industry," and M. A. Kirkland introduced the speaker. Hostesses were Mesdames D. A. Philpot, Joe Davis, M. A. Kirkland, Charles Parham and Janie Allison.

Dalton Junior Club Celebrates Birthday.

Dalton Junior Woman's Club celebrated its fifth birthday recently with a banquet that was a delightful affair. Mrs. Kincaid Thomas, who has completed her term of office as president, called upon speakers for the history of the club. Mrs. Luther T. Mann, of Dalton and Atlanta, was the moving spirit in organizing and served as the first president.

Much constructive work has been done and the young women composing the membership stand for the finer and more worthwhile enterprises of the city. A local milk fund for the benefit of underprivileged children, an annual Christmas tree for children who would not otherwise enjoy the season, cooking schools, bazaars and lectures are among the many functions of this group which has won an enviable place in the district and state federations.

Work done in hospitalization in connection with Hamilton Memorial hospital is widely commended. Mrs. Fred Wescott succeeded Mrs. Mann in office, followed by the late Mrs. Henry W. Nevin, Mrs. Milton Ryman and Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. Frank Raines was elected for the ensuing year.

Rockmart Club Has 50 Members.

Rockmart Woman's Club held its April meeting at the clubhouse with the president, Mrs. H. R. Perkins, in the chair. There are 50 active members on the roster, a decided increase over last year. A tea will be given on May 6, honoring the charter members.

Interest was manifest in the forthcoming plans of building an annex to the clubhouse, which will afford more space for banquet and dancing purposes. In view of the fact that a concentrated drive will be made to raise as much money as possible within the next few months for the building fund, it was moved and passed that the club sponsor a series of invitation dances in the present clubhouse.

It was moved and passed that the house committee have the floors sanded, waxed, etc., and to hire a caretaker who will attend both the interior and the grounds of the club. After a musical program featuring Miss Ina Jolley at the piano, a social hour was enjoyed.

Lexington Club Officers Elected.

Lexington Woman's Club met recently at the home of Mrs. E. H. Roberts and Mrs. Robert Findley was welcomed as a new member. The nominating committee presented the following names for election of officers for the two years: Mrs. Earl Reynolds, president; Mrs. C. R. Crawford, first vice president; Mrs. E. J. Maxwell, second vice president; Mrs. R. F. Brooks, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph H. Williams, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. T. Cunningham, treasurer; Mrs. P. M. Marchman, historian; Mrs. B. H. Henderson, chaplain; Mrs. T. W. Crawford, parliamentarian. These were unanimously elected. Mrs. Earl Reynolds and Mrs. C. R. Crawford were elected to attend the state convention in Albany.

Mrs. G. A. Barron had charge of program, and read a paper on "Public Welfare." Miss Dorothy Whitehead sang, Mrs. W. L. Green and Mrs. H. McWhorter gave readings, and Mrs. T. W. Crawford read "Mother's Prayer." Mrs. R. F. Brooks won the attendance prize.

Tunnell Hill Club Celebrates Birthday.

Tunnell Hill Woman's Club was two years old last Thursday and the event was celebrated at a banquet given at the Dalton hotel. Misses Maymie Foster and Charlie Chester were in charge of the program and Mrs. Erwin Baldwin, a past president, read the club history in poetry form. Mrs. Jesse Brewer, the president, made an inspirational talk. Mrs. J. A. Jolly requested members to aid in the drive against cancer.

Present were Mesdames Avery Hunt, Erwin Baldwin, Hoyt Phillips, Robert Clark, Jesse Brewer, J. A. Jolly, Tom Smith, Mary Smith, J. E. Moore, Lou Horn and Misses Mayme Foster, Georgia Hunt, Henri Quinn, Charlie Chester and Miss Irene Gramling.

Millen Woman's Club Celebrates Its Thirtieth Anniversary Date

Millen Woman's Club was 30 years old last Tuesday and Mrs. A. H. Brenner, past president of Georgia Federation, spoke at the meeting held at the Community house. Hostesses were Mesdames Chapple Chandler, Wiley Wasden, C. C. Rosser, J. P. Applewhite, Jack Johnston, Charles Warnoch, J. C. McLean, Henry Roland, C. J. Bridges and Ben Newton.

Mrs. Forest Boyer introduced Mrs. I. R. White, president of Augusta Woman's Club. Millen Woman's Club was organized in 1908 with a membership limited to 30 members. About 15 years ago, the number was increased to 40 and the following year, the limitation was eliminated and a large membership was solicited.

The enrollment today is 128 and among them are Mesdames W. V. Lanier, R. L. Lewis Sr., I. O. Parker, M. G. McComb and S. C. Parker, who were charter members. Presidents, who have served the club in former years and who are active in the work include Mesdames John Bates, Hendrick Brinson, Forest Boyer, Chapple Chandler, A. S. Boyer, S. C. Parker, C. E. Reeves, G. C. Dekle Sr., Cleveland Thompson and Charles Wadsworth. Mrs. G. C. Dekle Jr. has served for the past year as president, and Mrs. W. Brantley Daniel is the president-elect who takes office in May.

Mrs. Brenner's subject was "Thirty Years in a Woman's World" and she traced the marvelous strides made by women in these three decades. Millen club is the second oldest in the first district of the Georgia Federation. The association for the Education of Georgia Mountaineers, located at Savannah, has the distinction of being the oldest federated club in the district. Miller club was instrumental in forming the First District Federation and in 1913 entertained the second annual convention of the district, the first having been held in Savannah.

Albany Woman's Club President Extends Invitation to Convention

Mrs. R. H. Waugh, president of Albany Woman's Club, extends cordial invitation to state clubwomen to attend the 43d convention of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs which holds a four-day session this week, with Albany Woman's Club as hostess to the convention. Mrs. Waugh says:

"Most interesting to Albany clubwomen is the enthusiastic response received from clubwomen all over Georgia. Reservations have been pouring in to the local hotels for several weeks and already we have secured a list of desirable modern homes to which we may direct visitors who are not fortunate in securing hotel accommodations. Headquarters will be the new Albany hotel with all session in the municipal auditorium, directly across the street, and how pleasant it will be to be able to walk to the meetings instead of waiting for cars and taxis. The management of the hotels promise their guests comfort and convenience.

"The host club has left nothing undone that is possible to do to provide entertainment. The first social function will be the silver jubilee banquet given at the Masonic temple Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. All registered clubwomen will be guests as well as local clubwomen. Governor and Mrs. Rivers will share honors with numbers of other distinguished guests and at the opening session which follows the banquet, Governor Rivers and Mrs. A. B. Conger, state president of Federation of Women's Clubs, will address the assembly.

"Those who cannot be with us should make every effort to tune in for the radio program made possible through the courtesy of WGPC, local broadcasting company. The date is April 27, the hour 10 to 11 a. m., central time.

"We are happy to announce that on Wednesday evening Judge Camille Kelley will be guest speaker and we, who were privileged to hear Judge Kelley at the Rural-Urban conference in Atlanta recently remember with pleasure her delightful personality and ability to 'deliver the goods.'

"Thursday morning will be district presidents' program and two outstanding artists from Andrews College in Cuthbert will be presented, Professor Charles A. Iler, pianist, and Dr. V. G. Osepoff, Russian violinist.

"The citizens of Albany are invited to attend the evening sessions and remember the convention dates, April 26 through April 29. Appoint your delegates and come to Albany in time for the silver jubilee banquet. We are expecting you."

Member Group Clubs Join Federation.

Georgia Federation is happy to list again Abbeville Woman's Club and LaFayette Woman's Club as member groups. Both have federated this week after a lapse of several years. Abbeville used to be in the twelfth district, and the first woman's club was organized and federated in 1913.

Wilcox county is in the third district, and Abbeville Woman's Club has as president, Mrs. W. P. Durham; secretary, Mrs. Benjamin Zeesmon; treasurer, Mrs. R. F. Hobbs, and there are 33 members.

LaFayette Woman's Club is in the seventh district, in Walker county. It was first organized and federated in 1920. The present club has 26 members, with Mrs. E. R. Maples, president; Mrs. J. R. Rosser, secretary, and treasurer, Mrs. H. D. Shattuck.

Colbert Clubwomen Hold Meeting.

Mesdames M. R. Leard, J. C. Hardman and J. E. Kidd were hostesses to the Colbert Woman's Club for the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Hardman. Mrs. H. H. Hampton presided and Mrs. J. A. Hitchcock read the collect. Members responded to roll call with the names of favorite flowers and the current topic was given by Mrs. G. L. Loden.

Miss Colena Hardman, junior club leader, reported that a collection of shrubbery and bulbs was sent to Tallulah and Miss Susie Sorrells, citizenship chairman, reported that a citizenship program was given at the school since the last meeting.

A decision was reached to pay obligation on school library books. Miss Nelle Thrash, county home demonstration agent, spoke on "Live-at-Home Movement." Miss Colena read an article on "Gardens;" Miss Christine Loden rendered a piano solo, and Miss Mary Bray Hampton gave a musical reading.

Mrs. McArthur Attends Sylvester Meeting.

Mrs. George A. McArthur, of Albany, president of the second district Federation of Women's Clubs, attended the Sylvester Woman's Club for the April meeting, and urged a large representation from the club to the state convention in Albany, April 26 to 29. The president, Mrs. C. H. Strangward, talked on "Cancer Control," stating that April had been proclaimed "Cancer Control Month." Mrs. J. J. Crumbley gave full report of the district meeting in Quitman. Committees appointed to serve on the nominating committee includes Mesdames J. H. Tipton, G. M. Pinson, J. L. Johnston, A. H. Overton and Henry E. Park.

Mrs. D. G. Jeffords had charge of the program which included a piano solo by Carolyn Anderson and songs by Maxine Hancock. Mrs. Jeffords reviewed two books and Mrs. I. H. Mann rendered a solo number. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Blackburn, Crumbley, Pinson and Alfred. There were eight visitors present.

State Council To Be Represented At National Council Convention

Georgia Council of Federated Church Women will be well represented at the annual meeting of the National Council scheduled to convene June 25-28, at Denison University, Granville, Ohio.

Mrs. E. M. Bailey, past president of the Georgia Council, is a member of the nominating and finance committees. Mrs. L. O. Turner, president, is on the program committee, and Mrs. M. E. Tilly is a representative on the joint interracial committee. Mrs. John N. McEachern, who has served as president of the National Council, is now a member of the most important committee, the National Council Committee of Church Women.

The Georgia Council holds an important place in the National Council and its activities. Georgia has 14 sponsors of the National Council which is three more than any other state. A very special feature of the meeting will be presented by these sponsors.

Prominent speaks on the national program will include Miss Winifred Wygal, national secretary of religious education, Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Harrie R. Chamberlain, nationally known speaker; Dr. Regina Westcott Wieman, author of "Modern Family and the Church;" Mrs. Frederick B. Fisher, a former missionary in China; Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president, Rochester-Colgate Seminary.

The state council is entitled to be represented by the state president and one representative. Each local council is entitled to one delegate. However any member of the state or local council is welcome to attend the meeting and local presidents are urged to join in securing registrations. May is registration month. Denison University is ideal for a convention. It is owned and operated by a Christian denomination and all its facilities and equipment will be at the disposal of persons attending the meeting.

The National Council of Federated Church Women is one of 12 national and international interdenominational organizations sponsoring the twentieth international convention on Christian education to be held June 28-July 3 at Columbus, Ohio, immediately following the adjournment of the National Council. Columbus is only 20 miles from Granville. "The Christian Challenge to the Modern World" will be the theme of the convention.

The Neil House, Columbus, Ohio, has been chosen as headquarters for the church women. May is the month for registration and church women who wish to attend are asked to register as early as possible.

Miss Elizabeth Adams To Wed Alexander Sterling on June 11

Enlisting widespread interest in Atlanta and throughout the south is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Adams, to Alexander M. Sterling, the marriage to take place on June 11.

The bride-to-be is descended from a distinguished ancestry which has rendered signal service in many states. Her mother was Maisie Gertrude Galaher, of Tampa, Fla., daughter of Mrs. Mary Roughton Gallaher, and the late Wiliam Ainsworth Gallaher, prominent in financial and social circles of Florida. Through her mother she is descended from the Roughton, Bynum, Price, Ainsworth and Howard lines of Georgia.

Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. James Simpson Adams, of Athens, and the late Capttain J. S. Adams. Paternally she is descended from the Adams and Bradford families of Massachusetts, the Rogers, Haylor, Gascoigne, Thompson and Argyle families of Virginia and the Littlepage family of West Virginia. She is a sister of Lorne Richard Adams Jr., of Cordele, and James William Adams, of Atlanta. She is a niece of Miss Ethel Adams, dean of women at G. S. C. W.; Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens; J. T. Adams, of Miami, and C. L. Adams, of West Palm Beach; Harry Gallaher and Mrs. Catherine Gallaher Holmes, of Tampa.

The charming bride-elect received her education at North Avenue Presbyterian school, North Fulton High school, Oglethorpe University and the University of Georgia, where she was a popular member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Mr. Sterling is the son of Alexander Hamilton Sterling, of Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. Elizabeth Hall Harris, of Philadelphia, Pa. His mother was the former Miss Elizabeth Hall Martin, of Philadelphia. His maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Martin, of Petersburg, Va., and Philadelphia. Among distinguished forebears were the Sterling, Laire and McChesney families prominent in Virginia and Newark, N. J.

His education was received at Central High school, of Charlotte, Oglethorpe University and North Carolina State College where he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi social fraternity and Phi Kappa Delta scholastic fraternity. He is a brother of Richard McChesney Sterling and Virginia Laire Sterling of Charlotte. He is associated with the Johnson Manufacturing Company of Atlanta.

Dr. Robert Burns, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony and a musical program will be presented by Hugh Hodgson and the members of the choir at St. Luke's Episcopal church, of which the bride and groom-elect are members.

Dr. Hurt will give his daughter in marriage and Mr. Williams will have his brother, Herbert Maxwell Williams, as best man. Miss Martha Hurt will be maid of honor for her sister and the matron of honor will be Mrs. Cliff Sheffield Jr., now of Memphis, Tenn. The bridesmaids will be Misses Betty Hurt, sister of the bride-elect; Sara Simms, Edith Harrison and Bright Bickerstaff.

The groomsmen will be Linton Young, Maurice Coley, Sidney Penny, Howard Kendall, of Macon. The ushers will be J. P. Illges, A. Illges and J. W. Woodruff, of Columbus; W. A. Chenoweth, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Robert W. Woodruff, of Wilmington, Del.; and W. M. Brownlee, D. L. C. Fischer and Emory Jenks.

Additional parties planned to honor Miss Hurt and her fiance include the spaghetti supper to be given tomorrow evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Botts. On Tuesday, Miss Hurt will be honored at the tea to be given by Miss Dorothea Blackshear at which time Miss Sara Simms, whose engagement is announced today, will share honors. Mrs. Charles Ewing entertains at luncheon Wednesday for Miss Hurt.

Yesterday Miss Emily Carleton and her mother, Mrs. James E. Carleton, entertained at a bridge-tea at the home of Mrs. Herman Evins on Camden road, for Miss Hurt. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. John S. Hurt, mother of the bride-elect.

Present were Misses Edith Harrison, Sarah Simms, Bright Bickerstaff, Frances Hurt, Mesdames Charles D. Hurt Jr., Charles Ewing, James Frazer, Toulman Hurt, Ernest Smith, of Marshalltown, Iowa; John Boman and Emmett Rushin.

For Miss Coleman.

Among the parties given for Miss Pauline Coleman was the luncheon recently at which Miss Pinky Gates and Miss Sue Bailey entertained at the East Lake Country Club. Miss Coleman will be married to Howard Thranhardt in the early summer.

A surprise kitchen shower was a feature of the luncheon which was planned around the Easter motif, with tones of green and yellow prominent in the decorations.

Guests included Miss Coleman, Mrs. Paul M. Coleman, mother of the honor guest; Misses Annie Ruth Boggan, Geraldine Wisenbaker, Wilma Gifford, Doris Coleman, Sara Sharpe, Emma Gates, Frances Smith, Martha Carreker and Mesdames Dan McKeever, Chris Wooten and Charles Smithgall.

Georgia Division U. D. C. Interest Centers in Memorial Day Programs

By Miss Mary Lizzie Wright, of Elberton, Editor Georgia Division, U. D. C.

Interest throughout the division this week is centered around Memorial Day and the activities which accompany this sacred day in the southland. The few remaining veterans will be honor guests at exercises wherever there is a chapter of the U. D. C. Each daughter, from the highest to the lowest, will be giving of sacrificial service to make the day a happy one for those who gave their all, when their state called them.

Georgia division is happy that our president, Mrs. Clyde F. Hunt, is able to take up some of the duties of the office, and hope that she may soon be fully restored to her usual health. Just now, it is her pleasure to sign the membership certificates for chapters over the state and over 50 have been returned to the chapter. This shows a marked increase in interest in the work of the division. She signed certificates for 42 charter members of the new C. of C. chapter organized at Toccoa. Mrs. Hunt received invitations to attend Memorial Day celebrations and speak, all of which were very much appreciated, most of which had to be declined, and she asked Mrs. O. L. Chivers, second vice president, to represent the division in the celebration and parade in Atlanta.

Mrs. Hunt will attend the exercises at the high school in her home town, when she will deliver the prizes to the winners in the essay contest. She will go to Augusta to be among the honor guests at the luncheon tendered by Chapter A, and will bring greetings from the division. She will ride in the official car in the parade, preceding the exercises, when Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, of Macon, president-general, will make the address. Mrs. Hunt will share honors with Mrs. Lamar and general officers at the banquet at which the U. D. C., Ladies' Memorial Association and S. C. V. will be hosts.

Fayette county chapter, Fayetteville, Mrs. H. P. Redwine, president, held its recent meeting at Rhodes Memorial hall, by invitation of state historian, Mrs. J. E. Hays. It was announced that Hon. Warren Grice will deliver the Memorial Day address, when a Cross of Military Service will be bestowed upon S. L. Morgan. Prizes amounting to $12 will be awarded to the winners in the essay contest, in which 430 essays were written. By request, the historical playlet, "Fayette County in the Sixties," will be repeated. Mrs. Hays made the address along historical lines.

Longstreet chapter, Gainesville, Mrs. J. D. Twitty, president, met with the president, who was assisted by Mrs. J. E. Jackson and Mrs. C. A. Rudolph. The chaplain, Mrs. A. H. Swann, gave the devotional, using a prayer book published in 1875. It was voted to purchase the Memorial edition of "The Rise and Fall of the Confederacy," by President Davis, to present to the library. The program featured "The Invention of the Reaper and Its Effect Upon Agriculture in the South," by Mrs. B. A. Rogers. Miss Helen Estes, division chairman Emily Hendree Pary Memorial Library, appealed for donations of money or books.

Larkin D. Watson chapter, Jackson, Mrs. Thomas E. Watkins, president, made plans to observe Memorial Day, the exercises to be held at the school auditorium with Rev. H. E. Russell as orator. The C. of C. chapter will decorate the graves of the veterans and after the program, luncheon will be served at the clubhouse, honoring the few remaining veterans. Hostesses were Mesdames W. B. Thompson, Ida Hendrick, J. T. Warthen, J. H. McKibben and L. H. Hurt.

Dougherty county chapter, Albany, met at the home of Mrs. W. W. Pace, with the president, Mrs. T. E. Pate, presiding. Plans were completed for Memorial Day, with Miss Cena Whitehead as chairman. Mrs. Spencer Walden Jr. made an address upon "The Battle of Atlanta."

Charles D. Anderson chapter, Fort Valley, was entertained by Mrs. R. L. Marchman Sr. The president, Miss Wilma Orr, presided and it was reported that veterans were remembered at Easter. Plans were made for Memorial Day when Rev. Charles G. Gray, an old Fort Valley boy, will speak. The program featured a synopsis of "Gone With the Wind," given by Mrs. W. J. Braswell, and a reading "Gene-Morrie," by Miss Helen Harris.

President of the Savannah chapter, Mrs. R. J. Travis, entertained the chapter at its recent meeting. Brigadier General Travis brought a message on "The Articles of the Constitution," while Dr. T. S. Clay spoke on "Memories of the War Between the States," and songs were rendered by Miss Josephine Grice.

Miss Mildred Jackson, of Macon, To Wed Mr. Vann, of Thomasville

MACON, Ga., April 23.—Interest centers in the announcement today of the engagement of Miss Mildred Victoria Jackson, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew Jackson, to Thomas Heyward Vann, of Thomasville.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Miller High school and studied at Wesleyan College before going to the University of Georgia, where she graduated with an A. B. degree. This spring she completed her B. S. H. E. degree at the university and will receive her diploma in June.

She is a member of the Delta Delta Delta national sorority and last year served as scholarship advisor of Alpha Rho Chapter at the University of Georgia and this year she was social advisor. She has traveled extensively in the United States and Canada, and in Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land. Her mother was before her marriage Miss Lena Franklin Duke, of Fort Valley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Duke. Her sisters are Miss Jeannette Jackson, of Macon, and Miss Cleone Jackson, a member of the senior class of the University of Georgia, and Pan-Hellenic president of that institution.

Mr. Vann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Vann, of Thomasville. His mother before her marriage was Miss Eugenia Etheldinda Switzer, of Bradenton, Fla. His sister is Miss Mary Vann, student of Agnes Scott, and his brothers are T. K. Vann Jr. and Jack Vann, Thomasville.

He is a graduate of the McIntyre High school, Thomasville, and studied at Mercer University before attending the University of Georgia, where he graduated with an L. L. B. degree. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, having been president of the Kappa chapter at Mercer in 1935. He is a member of the Blue Key national honor society, junior board of directors Y. M. C. A., past president of Ki Roy Club and is now engaged in the practice of law with the firm of Forrester & Vann.

Miss Hurt and Mr. Williams Announce Wedding Plans Today

Important social interest is centered today in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Mary Hurt and Harold E. Williams, whose engagement was announced last week. The wedding takes place Friday, May 13, at the Peachtree Christian church and after the ceremony the wedding party and family will gather at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt, on Ponce de Leon avenue, for an informal reception. No cards have been issued to the affair.

THEATER NEWS

Song, Comedy, Drama Are Offered By Theaters on Variety Programs

"There's Always a Woman" at Rialto; "Test Pilot" at Grand; "Mad About Music" at Fox; Paramount Holds "In Old Chicago"; "Hopalong Cassidy" at Capitol.

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

For the movie lovers' pick:

"Test Pilot," a drama of the sky, full of suspense, featuring Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Myrna Loy and Lionel Barrymore.

"There's Always a Woman," a comedy of the "Theodora" type, filled with surprises. Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas star.

There you are, movie-goers. Three swell pictures. And they are not all. "In Old Chicago" is being held at the Paramount. Alice Brady, Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Tyrone Power show the acting ability that made them top-notch stars.

The old western favorite, Bill Boyd, as Hopalong Cassidy, is riding again on the Capitol screen, appearing with old partners and new under the title "Partners of the Plains." And on the stage is a former "Our Gang" star with his own Hollywood revue.

A new Federal theater play—"Help Yourself"—opens at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta theater.

Joan Blondell, Melvyn Douglas Star in Rialto's Comedy Hit

"There's Always a Woman," Columbia's latest comedy, will prove enjoyable light entertainment particularly for those who ranked "Theodora" tops. It's another of the type but with entirely different situations. It's at the Rialto.

This picture is filled with wisecracks from start to finish. You might add "with no dull minutes" too. It shows two detectives battling to "break" a murder case—and incidentally save their happy home. Yes, the rival detectives happened to be Mr. and Mrs. —with a private detective agency ownership awaiting him if she won, and a home and kids awaiting her if he arrested the murderer.

Joan Blondell is the wife and Melvyn Douglas is the husband. And they nearly succeed in tearing up their home as they fight for clues and turn up in the most unusual places—always to the surprise of the other.

Aviation's Test Pilots Lauded In Feature at Loew's Grand

Four "things" make "Test Pilot," at Loew's Grand, worth while. They are Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy and Lionel Barrymore—their acting in this drama of the skies is excellent.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has produced a story of the reckless life lived by the men who fly the experimental airplanes, courting the favor of the blue-dressed "lady of the sky" as they risk their necks that aviation might be advanced and made safer.

Between the "sky lady" and one of the cockiest test pilots of them all comes a midwestern farm girl, Myrna Loy, who marries Gable and shares the heart throbs of Spencer Tracy, Gable's best friend and mechanic, as they watch the pilot slap the "sky lady" back harder than she slaps him.

Throughout there are thrilling scenes, heart throbs, adventure, suspense—the latter of which is the greatest. You keep waiting, waiting with the pilot's wife for that to happen which you know is bound to happen—the fatal crash. And it comes, much as you suspect, when Tracy forgets to place his chewing gum behind the pilot's seat.

Deanna Leaves Audience at Fox Humming "I Love To Whistle"

Youthful Deanna Durbin keeps rolling and singing along. "Mad About Music," now at the Fox, is her third consecutive hit in as many starts. And this time she's better than ever before. Experience is making her a polished actress, capable of bringing tears and laughter.

Deanna has Herbert Marshall as her main support in this new musical and he is by far her best to date. Usually pictures with the youthful actors and actresses are those with little appeal to your reviewer—but Deanna sings and acts herself into a top notch position in this picture.

Beautiful, fresh and with a golden voice, Deanna sings "I Love to Whistle," "Chapel Bells" and others to the audience's delight. In this film she is a student in a Swiss girl's school, and a very imaginative student at that. With the help of the school's handyman, the child writes thrilling letters to herself from her father for her chum's benefit. Circumstances make it necessary to produce a father and Herbert Marshall, a famous composer, arrives just in time, and unwillingly, at first, is drawn into the plot.

Hopalong, "Our Gang" Star Share Capitol Spotlight.

Bill Boyd, to this reviewer the most entertaining of all the Hollywood western stars when playing his Hopalong Cassidy roles, and Mickey Daniels, former freckled-faced star of "Our Gang" comedies, share honors at the Capitol theater this week.

Mickey is presenting his Hollywood revue called "Talk of the Town," and in it are such vaudeville stars as these: The Four Clovers, acrobatic stars; Jan and Carroll, sweethearts of swing; Jackie Ford, novelty baton juggler; Arlene Mar, Chinese girl singer; Jack Freeman, master of ceremonies; Jack Wolcott, drummer; Hollywood Adorables, four talented beautiful girls; Charles and Virginia Tiffany, the tomfoolery stars, and Enrico Leide's Capitolians.

On the screen, to save his life and that of his sweetheart, Hopalong stops a desperate gang of outlaws from blowing up a dam and braves a blazing forest fire in a reckless ride to her rescue.

John Litel, Dick Foran Featured In Prison Drama at Georgia

Warden Lewis E. Lawes, the big boss at Sing Sing, has written another of his psychological stories on prison life, which Warner Brothers has produced in screen version under the title, "Over the Wall," currently being featured by the Georgia theater.

John Litel, a truly remarkable and versatile actor, plays the role of the prison chaplain and plays it well. Cast in the lead is Dick Foran, recent graduate from the hoss-operas, who appears in this picture as a wronged boy, convicted of a crime he didn't commit. He turns bitter against all except his sweetheart, June Travis.

With the aid of the tough but kindly prison chaplain, Dick joins the prison choir and broadcasting soon gathers a following. From then on the story gains interest. Others in the cast are Dick Purcell. Vena Ann Borg and George E. Stone.

Alice Brady Steals Show In Paramount Feature.

"In Old Chicago," with a truly colossal fire and entertaining, has been held over at the Paramount this week after a successful run at the Fox.

It stars Tyrone Power in a new role, that of a willful and cunning racketeer and politician—a role that at times reminds one of Clark Gable in "Manhattan Melodrama." In the other roles are Don Ameche as Tyrone's brother —an honest man who becomes mayor of Chicago, only to be killed in the great fire. Alice Faye has the feminine lead.

But, the best actress or actor in this picture is Alice Brady, who turns in a fine performance as Mollie O'Leary, mother of Power and Ameche who brought her brood to Chicago in a covered wagon and took in washing to educate them and make "fine men" out of them. A good show, well worth seeing if you haven't already

Call for Amateurs! Vodvil Tryouts Await

Atlanta amateurs, who somewhere inside have always nursed a longing to go on the stage, are hearing opportunity knocking on their "talents."

Beginning Friday night, May 6, the Capitol theater will stage weekly amateur contests for those who dance, play musical instruments or can entertain in other ways. To the winners vaudeville tryouts will be arranged and prizes awarded. Entry blanks can be obtained from the doorman.

TUSKEGEE CHOIR SINGS WEDNESDAY

Concert To Be Given in City Auditorium.

William L. Dawson, composer of the only negro folk symphony known to the music world, is the director of the 107-voice Tuskegee Institute choir which will appear in concert at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night in the city auditorium.

Appearing in Atlanta for the first time, the choir will sing the negro spirituals and folk songs for which they won fame in Radio City and over the National Broadcasting Company network.

Director Dawson, a native of Anniston, Ala., studied in some of the nation's leading conservatories and he arranges all the spirituals the choir sings. Among them are "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Steal Away to Jesus," and "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray."

Dr. Louie D. Newton, Julian V. Boehm and Thomas K. Glenn are in charge of arrangements for the concert and they anticipate 5,000 people will attend the concert.

Screen Sweetheart

Alice Faye has the lead in "You're a Sweetheart" featured at the Center theater today and tomorrow.

EX-ATLANTAN PRAISED FOR ACTING ABILITY

An 11-year-old former Atlanta boy is attracting the attention of critics in Hollywood and they are predicting screen success for Stanley Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hoffman.

Attention of the critics was drawn by Stanley's performance in portraying the boy king in George Bernard Shaw's satirical play, "Caesar and Cleopatra," which was produced by the Hollywood Playhouse.

While living in Atlanta, Stanley appeared in several stage plays and on the radio.

Shirley Wants To Be a Policewoman | Mother Temple Talks About Daughter

By Sheilah Graham

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—Shirley Temple is 9 years old today. For this momentous occasion we interviewed Mrs. Temple and collected known—and unknown—facts concerning the No. 1 box-office attraction of the world.

To begin with—Shirley's famous golden hair is dark brown—very dark brown (some people would call it light black). She weighs 74 pounds (by her mother's scales), is four feet two inches high (I understand this is short for her age), wears size six in dresses, a 13 1-2 shoe, socks are 8 1-2—and the Temple curls nestle in size 22 hats.

"She has eaten the same breakfast since she was two," says Mama Temple. "Orange juice, stewed fruit, half a slice of toast, cereal—alternating with bacon, an egg once or twice a week—Shirley doesn't like eggs—and a glass of milk—she loves milk."

Lunch, which is at noon, is always hot—with tomato juice, chicken or lamb, or roast beef, three vegetables (yes, she eats spinach), and pudding.

Dinner at 6:30 gives Shirley her first potatoes of the day and is a light affair of soup, stewed fruit or pineapple and cottage cheese—Shirley is a glutton for the latter—a very little meat and salad. Also one cookie or cake. She is not allowed to eat in-between meals, rarely gets a piece of candy (which irks her terribly), and swallows one soft drink every other day.

Whether working or not, Miss Temple is awakened at 7:30 a. m. She is a slow getter-up and struggles 15 minutes to go back to sleep. She retires at 8:30 when working—and 9:30 when not. She sleeps like a log.

In addition to the regulation schooling of three hours per day—which starts at 9:30 (grade B-5)—Shirley, in between pictures, is taught piano, drawing and French by private tutors (three lessons a week, of one hour, on each subject).

"Once a month Shirley gets a manicure," Mrs. Temple tells me. "I wash her hair every two weeks, and cut it at the same time." (Visits to the hairdresser for dyeing purposes are less frequent now—the touching up ordered by the studio is bad for Shirley's baby locks—and Mrs. Temple has put her parental foot down.)

The big idea occupying the collective mind of Mr., Mrs. and Miss Temple is their forthcoming June vacation trip to the east.

"We've been offered $350,000 to make personal appearances," informs Mrs. Temple. "But this is not a personal appearance tour We don't want any publicity, we want to be just like any other family taking a tour. Of course, if anyone happens to see us, we won't hide—but we want to be left alone. If I have my way, all our plans will be kept quite secret, without anyone knowing whether we travel by car, train or boat." (I'm afraid you're pipe-dreaming, Mrs. Temple.)

The usual protection — two guards—will accompany the family. "No, we are not afraid of kidnapers," adds Mrs. Temple. They will be away two or three months. "But if the crowds get too difficult, we will come right back."

Shirley's immense wardrobe of clothes is supplemented four times a year with the clothes she wears in her four annual films.

"She got six coats and eight dresses from 'Little Miss Broadway'" (the latest of the Temple epics). Shirley's shoes are numerous. "She wears them to a frazzle." Twice a year Shirley's discarded clothes are given to children in orphanages and hospitals. "And I keep several of Shirley's friends outfitted all the time." Shirley's annual doll intake—about 100—is also given away.

The Temple family — mama, papa, Shirley, brothers Jack and George—occupies a pleasant, rather small, English house in Brentwood, minus guest rooms and a tennis court—but with a swimming pool, Badminton court, stables for three ponies, kennels for three dogs. Shirley enjoys riding, but refused recently to accompany Joan Crawford on a canter—afraid Joan would not like her equestrian kit—high-heeled cowboy boots, old overalls, a sweater, a gun in her belt, and a silver-studded saddle given her by Leo Carrillo.

Shirley at home plays the role of a kid sister who keeps her place—or else—or else there are quarrels with big brothers. "But only the usual sister-and-brother rows."

La Temple's current earnings are reputed at $15,000 a week inclusive of indorsement royalties. (A cereal brings in most, with dresses next and dolls third.) A few months ago Mrs. Temple, on behalf of her daughter, refused $620,000 for a 26-week radio program. "She must have time for fresh air and play." But Shirley won't miss it. All her money is invested in annuities and trust funds to be payable to her at 21.

The moppet's health is excellent—she always outworks the adults in her pictures "She has not had a single illness for four and a half years and hasn't seen a doctor since she was five." According to mother, Shirley rarely cries—the last time was when her dog, Ching, was injured by an automobile.

Shirley's ambition for when she is a big girl—in her own words—"I want to be a policewoman."

'Under Suspicion'

Newnan Gardens Draw Scores of Georgians

Easter Sunday brought more Georgians to the Hetty Jane Dunaway gardens near Newnan than on any day since the beauty spot was opened to the public this season.

The visitors were entertained by a negro quartette, singing folk songs as they strolled through the gardens which boast the largest rock garden in the south, and the only garden totem pole in the world, among its many and varied attractions.

Those who wish to visit the gardens are advised to follow the Newnan road to Palmetto and turn off there to follow a well-marked trail.

OPTIMISTS' SHOW WILL OPEN FRIDAY

Blackface Comedians To Perform at Erlanger.

With Billy Beard heading the cast, the Optimist Club of Atlanta will present a company of 70 singers, dancers and comedians in a revival of the old-fashioned minstrel at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at the Erlanger theater.

The show is being given to raise funds with which to take 500 Atlanta boys, who have never been to camp, to a camp this summer.

The traditional first part of the show will present the singers, comedians and interlocutor in the semi-circle. Walter Sheats will direct at 24-piece orchestra.

Officials have announced a "variety of pleasing vaudeville acts to be presented and culminating in a rib-tickling, side-splitting afterpiece staged by Billy Beard in person.

'UNDER SUSPICION' FEATURE AT CAMEO

Jack Holt Plays Lead Tomorrow, Tuesday.

"Under Suspicion," with Jack Holt and Katherine DeMille, plays tomorrow and Tuesday. The story tells of a millionaire auto magnate, played by Holt, who decides to retire and turn over his plant to his employes. The move makes enemies of many of his friends, several of whom he believes would like to see him dead.

To forestall any assassination he invites all the would-be culprits to his mountain lodge, and through a series of cleverly planned maneuvers, traps the lurking killer.

"Wells Fargo" stars Joel McCrea, Frances Dee and Bob Burns Wednesday and Thursday, while Friday and Saturday, "Danger Valley" will feature Jack Randall.

ROMBERG WRITES NUMBERS. Sigmund Romberg, composer, and Gus Kahn, lyricist, who collaborated on the music for "The Girl of the Golden West," now are writing numbers for "Balalaika," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film, to star Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey.

Here they are, the three central characters in "Test Pilot," Clark Gable, cocky test pilot; Myrna Loy, farm girl wife of the pilot, and Spencer Tracy, mechanic, and constant guardian of Gable.

Small Towns Have Edge Over Cities In Placing Local Talent in Movies

Hollywood Survey Reveals Most Big Stars Were Born in Small Towns or Cities; Few Screen Favorites Born in Nation's Metropoli tan Areas.

If you were born in any one of the major metropoli of the country, your chances to become a motion picture star are pretty slim.

A check of the roster of American-born stars today revealed that New York contributed Mae West and Sylvia Sidney; Philadelphia contributed Jeannette MacDonald, John Barrymore and W. C. Fields, and Chicago contributed Jack Benny.

Los Angeles contributed Joel McCrea and Frances Dee, but they kept it in the family and married. Anna May Wong also was born in Los Angeles.

Detroit has not one representative and neither has Boston.

Let the big cities read the list and weep.

Martha Raye was born in Butte, Mont.; Dorothy Lamour in New Orleans, La.; Shirley Ross was born in Omaha, Neb.; Jane Withers and Dixie Dunbar, Atlanta, Helena, Mont. produced as many stars as any of the big cities except Philadelphia. It claims both Gary Cooper and Myrna Loy.

Here are some other birthplaces:

Of course, Claudette Colbert, Edward G. Robinson, Paul Muni, Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo and Franciska Gaal were born abroad.

ALICE FAYE STARS ON CENTER SCREEN

'You're a Sweetheart' Plays Today, Tomorrow.

Alice Faye stars in "You're a Sweetheart" at the Center theater today and tomorrow. With her will be Ken Murray, Andy Devine and Charles Winninger.

"I'll Take Romance" is the feature Tuesday starring Grace Moore with Melvyn Douglas and Wednesday the attraction is "Living On Love," which brings James Dunn and Whitney Bourne in the starring roles.

"The Barrier," a love story of a dashing army officer and a simple woods girl, is billed for Thursday and Friday with Leo Carrillo, Jean Parker and James Ellison in the leads.

Opening Saturday for three days is "Wells Fargo," a romance with Joel McCrea and Frances Dee in the love spots.

MOVIE DISTRIBUTORS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Delegates to the Paramount Pictures' Distributing Company's annual spring district meeting here this week-end were told weekly business of the company in the southeast since January 1 has been above the average for the nation.

The meeting was directed by O. A. Morgan, southeastern district manager of the company. He told them of production and distribution plans of the company for the coming year.

VETERANS IN PICTURE.

World War veterans comprise most of the marching troops seen in action on the screen. In Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Yellow Jack," 500 of them are used for scenes showing United States soldiers leaving Cuba for home. Robert Montgomery is starred in the dramatization of the fight against yellow fever. Virginia Bruce has the feminine lead.

JONES ON TOUR.

Allan Jones will sing Joan Crawford's most recent hit song on his current personal appearance tour in the east. As a feature number he will sing "Always and Always," which she sang in "Mannequin." He will also sing his own hit, "The Donkey's Serenade," which he sang with Jeannette MacDonald in "The Firefly."

Federal Play To Open Here Tomorrow

The sparkling farce, "Help Yourself," adapted from the Viennese of Volpino, will open at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta theater.

Presented by the Federal Players of the Atlanta Federal theater, the play opens here after a successful Federal theater run in New York City.

Four native Atlantans are members of the cast. They are Mae Mooney, a new ingenue; Harry Lee, James Reese and Gilbert Maxwell. Others in the cast include Katherine Bratton, of Birmingham, playing her first important role with the company. She has the feminine lead.

The play deals with the extraordinary disruption of an old and staid banking house, by one Christopher Stringer. Due to the unemployment situation, Stringer has existed since his graduation from college on a diet largely composed of cocktails and cheese-straws. His unannounced arrival at the bank precludes his avowed intention of making a job for himself in the organization. He accomplishes his object and upsets the routine of the organization—including the bank president, his secretary, the stenographers and the board of directors.

Plays Vice Leader

Tyrone Power plays a new type role—that of a bigtime gambling racketeer—in the film version of "In Old Chicago," which has been moved to the Paramount for another week's run after a successful showing at the Fox.

THEATERS OBSERVE WILL ROGERS WEEK

Will Rogers National Theater Week will be observed by theaters throughout the nation for seven days beginning Friday, Major L. E. Thomas, motion picture executive, announced in New York yesterday.

A special short subject titled "For Auld Lang Syne" has been produced by Jack and H. M. Warner, to be shown in connection with the observance. Last year the Will Rogers Memorial short was produced by Louis B. Mayer.

LIPSTICK AUTOGRAPH.

Ann Rutherford, featured in "Judge Hardy's Children," at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, gave her first lipstick autograph recently. While dancing at a night club a youth requested her autograph, but he had neither pencil nor paper. She used her lipstick and wrote on his shirt cuff.

After Dark in Atlanta

Cecil Rhodes, the modest young maestro of the Biltmore's featured orchestra, fell into his position as a band leader by getting fired. He's just joined an orchestra playing at the Van Dyke Club in Detroit. Two weeks after his arrival, the manager fired the entire crew—but through the waiters Cecil learned the big boss would like for him to form an orchestra and return. Rhodes did, and thus began his career as a leader. That was five years ago.

CECIL RHODES.

Blonde Marion Martin—a protege of Vincent Lopez—made her debut at the Ansley Rathskeller last night singing blues and other popular songs to the accompaniment of Leo Lazaro's orchestra. She's a native of Detroit and new at the singing game, having been offered her first contract three years ago after appearing in an amateur floor show. Rathskeller patrons will find her very easy on their eyes—and a swell kid.

Bernie Holmes, a member of the Rhodes group, is a musician of all instruments. In addition to doing many of the vocal refrains, Bernie doubles on the saxophone, violin, flute and clarinet . . . He joined the band a few weeks ago in Miami when the regular saxophone player became ill.

Just to keep the records straight, Marion Martin is not a regular member of Lazaro's Rathskeller orchestra and has never sung with him until rehearsal yesterday afternoon. She arrived in Atlanta Friday night from Detroit where she has been singing in the continental room.

A successful engagement in the Van Dyke Club brought Rhodes his opportunity to play for the exclusive Bath Club in Miami Beach. He's played two seasons there and had just completed a 10-week winter stand there when he came to the Biltmore . . . By the way, this is the first engagement, since becoming an orchestra leader, that Rhodes has played outside private clubs. He's branching out now, he says, "to see the world and let the world see me." (He formerly was a member of the George Olsen and Harold Stern orchestras.)

One more word about Marion Martin, the Rathskeller singing beauty. This is her first trip into the south and this is her story of how she landed the Atlanta job: Vincent Lopez played an engagement here several weeks ago and while in the city was asked by Carlton Dinkler, president of the company operating the Ansley hotel, to recommend a good singer for the Rathskeller. Lopez immediately named Marion; Dinkler sent a wire and Marion arrived this week.

'BROADWAY JONES' IN EMORY ENCORE

Cohan's Comedy To Be Offered May 6.

George M. Cohan's three-act comedy, "Broadway Jones," will be offered by the Emory University players as their spring production, May 6, in Glenn Memorial auditorium.

NEW TITLE FOR FILM.

"Slightly Married" has been selected as the title for Mervyn LeRoy's production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer of "Private Lives." Fernand Gravet will star in the film upon his return from Switzerland in April.

Harry Helps Himself

Harry Lee is cast in the leading male role of "Help Yourself," Federal theater comedy, which opens at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta theater.

John Barrymore has been taking such good care of himself, since his recent attack of ptomaine poisoning, that he's gained four pounds during the time he's been working in Paramount's "Spawn of the North."

Movies Born 42 Years Ago Yesterday

Forty-two years ago yesterday the motion picture industry got under way.

It was on April 23, 1896, that Koster and Bial gave the first public exhibition of a motion picture on Armat's Vitascope, forerunner of the present-day projection, at their Music Hall theater, Thirty-fourth street and Herald square, New York.

Thomas Armat, of Washington, D. C., perfected the intermittent movement mechanism which, introduced in the Vitascope manufactured by Thomas A. Edison, made practicable the projecting of motion picture films upon a theater screen.

When the pictures were first introduced they were placed in the "chaser," spots on a vaudeville program. Ten years passed before the screen overcame this forced introduction and the now billion-dollar industry got under way.

The first films shown were only 50 feet in length, the International Motion Picture almanac reports, and the New York Herald for May 3, 1898, reported "they are to be improved shortly by films from 150 to 500 feet in length," among them "pictures of Niagara Falls, a steamer going down the Lachine rapids and an ocean greyhound leaving her pier with her decks crowded with passengers waving adieus to their friends ashore.

Edison began working on talking moving pictures with the first performance in 1896, but it was not until 30 years later that the talkies became a reality.

District Theater Head

E. E. WHITAKER.

Fox Manager Now Heads District

In a series of intraorganization changes yesterday, E. E. Whitaker, for five years manager of the Fox theater and city manager for Lucas & Jenkins Atlanta theaters, was made district manager for the company.

The personnel changes were announced by William K. Jenkins, secretary and treasurer of the theater operating company.

Succeeding Whitaker as manager of the Fox will be Hudson Edwards, former Atlantan and member of the 1928 Rose Bowl champions of Georgia Tech. Edwards comes to Atlanta from the Lucas & Jenkins theaters in Savannah.

O. H. Bradbury, manager of the Georgia theater, has been named manager of the Bijou theater in Savannah.

The general offices of the Lucas & Jenkins organization have been moved from the Walton building to the Fox theater building. Executive offices are on the second and third floors of the building.

Among those who offices have been changed are: Messrs. Lucas and Jenkins and secretarial staff; A. C. Cowles, booking department; Miles A. Metzger, accounting department; E. B. Whitham, purchasing department; Mrs. Patricia Flack, short feature department; R. L. Walker, sound engineering department; Joseph Mitchell, projection department; Pete Arno, accessory department.

In making the announcement of the changes, Jenkins said:

"The company feels these promotions in each instance are warranted by unusual capabilities of each individual. We consider Mr. Whitaker the finest showman in the south and his management here in Atlanta is adequate evidence of his ability."

2 EMORY GROUPS ELECT OFFICERS

Political Science Club and Frat Honor Seven.

New officers for two organizations at Emory University were announced yesterday. Glenn Hogan, of Carrollton, has been named president of the Political Science Club, and Lew Gordon, of Atlanta, has been elected head of Alpha Kappa Psi, commercial fraternity.

Other officers for Alpha Kappa Psi include Ray Miller, Bacontown, vice president; Smith Johnston, Woodstock, secretary, and Bill Pierce, Chamblee, treasurer.

Bob Burns has had to have three new scripts, during the time he's been working in "Tropic Holiday" at Paramount. Bob uses the backs of the pages to write his radio dialogue and newspaper column in long-hand on the set.

MOVIES PRESSED TO FIND MOSQUITO

California Flood Practically Extinguished Pests.

ALAMEDA, Cal., April 23.—(UP)—Had it not been for the Alameda county mosquito abatement organization, a film entitled "Yellow Jack," now being turned out at Hollywood, might not have been seriously delayed.

The turning had just gotten to the point when the next shot to be taken was that of a mosquito biting the arm of an army officer in a sequence showing the yellow fever menace in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

The actor-officer's arm was bared, the kleigs turned on, the cameras posed for the shot, when it was discovered that the recent floods at Los Angeles had apparently drowned about every mosquito in the whole of Los Angeles county.

A local bait firm was telegraphed to rush some mosquitoes, but the nearest approach it had to a mosquito was a grasshopper. Fortunately the firm remembered the local mosquito abatement organization and wired back to the Hollywood studio to try that.

It did, and officials of the organization were able to bottle up 100 mosquitoes and send them to Hollywood by plane in time for the shot to be taken.

VACATION FOR JEANETTE.

Jeanette MacDonald, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, will make only two more radio broadcasts before leaving Hollywood for a vacation in New York and Philadelphia. Gene Raymond, her husband, will accompany her.

The 1930 Ford that Harry Owens drives to Paramount where he is working in "Cocoanut Grove," is a loan from his father. Harry, who lives in Hawaii, is using it so that he won't have to buy a car during his brief stay in Hollywood.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 24, 1938.

THE JUDGES DECIDE

Announcement today by the three judges in The Constitution's Progressive Government Awards for 1937 of the winning counties serves once more to emphasize that the true winners in this contest include the citizens of every county which entered into the spirit of the undertaking.

The purpose of the awards, when first the idea was conceived, was to awaken a new interest in efficient county government in Georgia and to arouse among all citizens a full awareness of the part they must play if government is to best serve the people.

The three judges, Albert S. Hardy Sr., Mrs. A. B. Conger and Robert C. Mizell, are due the sincerest thanks of the entire state for the unselfish labor they expended in studying the reports of achievement sent in by more than 100 counties. They worked for weeks on their difficult task and sought only to make the awards according to their best and most sincere judgment. The decisions were left entirely in their hands.

The 13 counties which won cash awards will receive the congratulations of every other county in the state, but there will be no envy. For there is no county which tried to win which does not realize today that, in trying alone, it won benefits that cannot be measured.

The broadened interest, among good citizens, in the local governments, will not cease with this announcement of awards. Its value to every citizen has been too well demonstrated. It will go on through the years and county officials will find their tasks made lighter by the co-operation of all their fellow citizens.

Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution, summed up the chief values of the awards when he listed the two outstanding things they have accomplished, as follows:

"They have inspired a new interest in the government of counties in Georgia.

"They have inspired officials to strive harder than in previous years to operate the most efficient governments possible, to give the greatest service possible most economically."

THE NEED OF THE JEWS

The pitiful need of the Jewish populations abroad must awaken a responsive chord in all citizens of this country. New terrors confront these people at every step of the iron heel of blind hate. Millions condemned to slow starvation are unable to escape tyranny by emigration.

For these people the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee is undertaking to raise $5,100,000 against an estimated need of $11,650,000 for relief of distress and for rehabilitation. It is evident, then, that others must contribute to the fund in the name of humanity. In Poland, with a Jewish population of 3,400,000, more than 1,000,000 are said to be starving; in Germany, the 360,000 who have not yet been able to cross the border, face a living death; boycott faces 760,000 in Rumania, while in other lands of central Europe new repressions face Jews at every turn and their need grows greater with the passing of each day.

Last year $900,000 was expended in Poland; $694,000 in Germany and $97,000 in Rumania. In the refugee lands, $850,000 was invested in vocational training, food, clothing, shelter and medical attention. More than $1,800,000 was spent for economic development of Palestine and additional funds for construction work. This last is spent that the land can absorb more refugees. As is the custom with Jewish philanthropies, all contributions are carefully spent and accounted for.

All to whom the spectacle of a people being strangled by the mania of dictators is abhorent will do well if they help to relieve the victims, and thereby lessen a reproach to humanity. National compaign headquarters is at 100 East Forty-second street, New York city.

Chicago now has Dizzy Dean, as well as a baby giant panda. Given in exchange were $185,000 in cash and three tame ball players.

With position, power, medals, uniforms and what-not, Goering leads a well-rounded existence with a 50-inch waistline.

A foe of dictators says they raise young soldiers like vegetables. A platoon of potatoes doing "eyes right!" is something to see.

With the sealing of the Italo-British pact comes a slight sag in the south end of the Berlin-Rome axis. The Fuehrer may have to go on to further glory on a one-wheeled bicycle.

THE WAGE-HOUR BILL

The adverse effect the so-called wage-hour bill would have on the future development of industry and agriculture in the south becomes more apparent with each discussion of the proposed measure. The bad, it seems, so outweighs the good that strong reasons exist for the belief no advantage would, in the long run, inure to the benefit of southern labor or industry from its enactment.

The bill, to start with, would set up a minimum wage of 25 cents per hour with a maximum work week of 44 hours. Then, by employing a sliding scale, the wage would be increased at a rate of 5 cents per hour and the work week reduced, each year, until a minimum of 40 cents and a maximum of 40 hours has been attained. It would then be fixed permanently on this basis. Being part of the law of the land, it would presumably be enforced against industry at the time, whether economically sound, or even possible.

To make it further objectionable, no wage differentials in favor of the south are embodied in the bill. All the advantages of favorable working conditions would be thrown overboard, despite the fact that the Department of Labor, in setting up wage scales under the WPA, recognized the necessity as well as the justification for such differentials. Even under higher wage scales "there are more sweatshops to the square inch in the east," according to the organization director of the American Federation of Labor, "than to the square mile in Georgia."

Furthermore, an unwanted economic upheaval would probably result from the fixed annual wage increase. Immediately before the wage advance each year, mills would be swamped with orders from buyers taking advantage of lower prices. This would simply mean overproduction, followed by a long, dull, inactive market, until goods were gradually absorbed.

While labor would then be paid the higher wage, if working, there would be fewer hours of work available. Maximum hours of work on paper mean very little when actual work is reduced to a minimum or does not exist at all.

The law would also have another unhealthy effect. Enforcement would be entrusted to the Department of Justice and administration to the secretary of labor. The latter would be empowered to inspect, spy and investigate at will. All violations, and there would of necessity be thousands of minor infractions of rules, would be certified to the Justice Department for prosecution. Violators would be penalized up to $500, or sentenced to six months in jail, or both. No vivid imagination is needed to picture the chaos that would follow the enforcement of this measure against an already overburdened, harassed industry.

Another unhappy effect in the south would be felt in the luring of farm labor to industrial centers under the promise of higher wages. This would work a hardship against the farmer as well as add to the problem of caring for the unemployed in the congested areas.

The whole proposition seems to boil down to a definite disadvantage to the south. That it was so intended has been frankly admitted on more than one occasion by members of congress from the industrial east. Enactment of the measure could eventually prove ruinous to southern industry and for this reason, if for no other, it should be defeated.

THE BASIS FOR PROSPERITY

While nothing should ever be left undone in the industrial development of the state, it should be remembered that Georgia is primarily agricultural. No widespread, permanent prosperity can be hoped for, or long endure, unless farming is kept to the forefront. This basic fact is recognized by bankers and industrial leaders of the state.

The farming country is going forward. Greatly improved uses of land, conservation within watershed areas, better quality of products, quicker methods of distribution, are all permanent increments. They are making the farmer a much improved commercial banking risk.

As an indication of better economic conditions among the farmers as a whole, the land banks, in 1934, were making farm loans at an average rate of 400 per month. Last year, only 193 loans were made in the entire state. And considerably more money was paid back against principal in 1937 than in the previous year.

Farm financing in its various forms is a problem not yet thoroughly solved by the bankers of the state. The bankers, however, are not passing up the opportunity. They are much alive to the problem. They realize the future of the banks is bound up inseparably with agriculture. They are adapting themselves to changing conditions to properly serve the farming community. The future prosperity of the state, as in the past, must be built on a foundation of agriculture.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY

In the great hospitals of the nation is centered life for many of the inhabitants of this country. In their austere precincts comes the miracle of birth and the tragedy of death. Few moderns go through life without requiring hospital treatment. Yet to most persons they remain mysterious buildings, hallowed by either the memory or the fear of pain.

The institutions of the nation and Atlanta will observe May 12 as National Hospital Day, when the general public is invited to visit the hospitals and when hospital authorities will bring the message of their service to the general public in many ways.

More than half a million persons are represented in the service of hospitals. From the great medical centers to the five-bed institutions of the smaller towns there is constantly the quest for more knowledge in the battle against disease, against pain and human misery, against death. The men and women in white who have dedicated their lives to service in the name of their fellow man work ceaselessly that others may live in happiness.

Atlanta is fortunate in the number of first-class institutions providing for the needs of the community. All citizens will do well to join the observation of hospital day. The cause and the work is deserving of more recognition than has been accorded in everyday life.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

TWO BATH TUBS WASHINGTON, April 23.—Two tubs stand side by side in the principal bathroom of Adolf Augustus Berle Jr., the newest assistant secretary of state. The second is probably the most impressive among many monuments to Mr. Berle's intellectual brilliance.

The story of the second bathtub is quite simple. When Mr. Berle went to work as Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's New York city chamberlain, he was so busy that Mrs. Berle felt deprived of her daily share of the Berle conversation. Fortunately, Mr. Berle glitters in his most coruscating fashion during the unholy hour before breakfast. And so Mrs. Berle installed the second tub in order not to waste a moment or miss a word.

The Berle brilliance is important at this moment because, in the few weeks since his arrival here to take up his State Department duties, he seems to have become the private brain trust of the administration's conservatives.

Just how completely Mr. Berle is in the corner of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and their friends, only time can tell. But recently he has been keeping company with them, and his former associates, the New Deal left-wingers, would prefer broiled Berle gizzard to almost any other breakfast dish.

THE BRAIN The Berle brilliance is the kind that hurts your eyes a trifle. He started life as an infant prodigy, and he has kept up the same dreadful pace ever since. He is an expert on corporate finance, stock market liquidity, municipal finance, transit unification in New York city, labor arbitration and Central and South America. When he is not thinking about one of these weighty subjects, or writing someone else a speech about them, or saying something bright himself, he relaxes his mind by reading the Latin poets for a couple of hours.

If the underworld had not already pre-empted the term to describe its legal advisers, one would be inclined to call Mr. Berle, quite simply, "The Brain." "Modern Corporations and Private Property," the book he wrote with Gardiner C. Means, is the standard authority on corporate structures. His city financing and transit-unifying work in New York was memorably intelligent, and his opinions on South American affairs are respected by no less an expert than Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

Indeed, there can be no doubt of the solidity of Mr. Berle's achievements. Mr. Berle himself never doubts it. On one occasion, during his New York period, he ran into Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins lunching with a friend. Miss Perkins was bewailing the New Deal's slow journey toward its objectives. She attributed the delay to the scarcity of intelligent men who would work for the government.

"Well," said Mr. Berle, "you can't expect me to be in New York and Washington at the same time."

BOY MAKES GOOD The first Adolf Augustus Berle is a clergyman of some distinction, a man of great learning, and an intimate of Justice Brandeis. He it was who made little Adolf both a prodigy and a liberal.

The elder Berle had the knack of stuffing his little ones' heads with weighty matters. From their earliest years, he bred them up to wisdom, and, when most children would have been worrying about Old Mother West-Wind, little Adolf was uttering pretty cries of sympathy over the plight of Dido, as set forth by Virgil. As for the first Berle lesson in liberalism, the story of that is honestly stirring.

In the summers, the Berle family used to go to New Hampshire, for the cool country air. Near their house was one of the many New England mill towns, and, in the mill, children worked. The elder Berle possessed a fine capacity for righteous indignation, and one morning, when his son was still very small, he roused the boy and took him out to see the children go to work in the dewy morning. As they watched the children passing through the dark mill gates, the elder Berle said:

"Adolf, as long as you live, you must never forget this sight."

ALL TRADES FOR ADOLF Mr. Berle was just turned eighteen when he had his degree from Harvard, and barely twenty-one when he could call himself doctor of laws. He has taught at Columbia, advised South American statesmen, and helped reorganize the stock exchange. He hurried down to Washington in the dawn of the new era, to help with the first New Deal, and was tempted back to New York by Mayor LaGuardia's need for a man who wasn't a banker but could understand them.

Now he has returned to Washington again, and, in spite of his ambition to run for the New York governorship on the American Labor party ticket, he is already suspected by the New Deal's left wing of having reverted to conservatism. What the left-wingers call conservatism is scarcely the Liberty League variety. And if he really is in the corner of Messrs. Jones and Morgenthau, the conservatives are fortunate. They may experience the unpleasing sensations of intellectual inferiority, but they have a good mind on their side.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

It's the kind of shack they point to—
When they talk of human woes—
As a place unfit to live in,
As a problem, I suppose.

And yet, as I was passing
I saw the flowers of spring
A-bloom all 'round that hovel,
I heard a woman sing.

Personal Excitement.

Your old Silhouetter is getting all worked up into a lather. The reason?

He's going on the air—the raddio—tomorrow night. That, in the Jones family at least, is news.

Beginning tomorrow, Monday, night, this column conductor is to give a daily broadcast from WGST. It will be at 6:45 o'clock, daylight saving time, every week night evening, except Mondays. On Monday nights it will be at 6:15 o'clock.

What's it all about? Well, it will be about 'most anything. Just like this column is about 'most anything. In fact, the broadcasts have been christened, generally, "Silhouettes of the Air." With a sponsor 'n' everything.

They may not be as good as I hope they will. But in any event it will be encouraging to think, in front of that "mike," that all the friends who have read this column will be listening in, with fullest sympathy, and helping to put it over. So, I'm counting on you, all.

Those Auditions.

It has been right interesting, the preliminary activity about this broadcasting.

It all began about three months ago when a New York advertising agency sent an emissary to sound me out on the proposal. Looked like a lot of extra work, at first, but after consideration decided to say yes.

Then had to make a sample, recorded, broadcast. Wrote a script and went up to a special studio. Talked into a microphone in one room while they made the recording in the next. Then they ran the record off for me and I heard what my voice sounds like. Utterly surprising. Had no idea. Sounded like a total stranger talking. Pleased, on the whole.

I guess the difference is because when you are speaking you hear the sound from the inside of your head and its different with the same sound coming from outside.

So the record was shipped off to New York. And months passed and I'd almost forgotten about it.

Then, A Hurry Call.

Then, one afternoon, Frank Gaithor at WGST telephoned. Said representatives from the New York agency, together with executives of the probable sponsor, were in town. Had listened to the recorded thing until it was about worn out. And wanted to know if I'd make another, sample, audition right away. I explained there wasn't time to write a new script. I'd have to read the old one. But that was three months out of date? Never mind. But I'd forgotten it, hadn't even time to read it over and it wouldn't be much good, reading it into the mike cold? Never mind, never mind! Come on!

I was right. It was cold. And kinder slow. You see, I couldn't read faster because I'd forgotten it and didn't know what was coming next.

So, would I mind writing a fresh script and auditioning again the following day? I didn't mind. So the next day it was snappier, and better.

And those listeners must have thought so, too.

Because it put it over and now it's all settled.

So, you understand why Silhouettes is sorter excited today. Don't think there'll be any noticeable mike fright tomorrow night. But if there is, on that first broadcast, I'll just have to learn from the telephone girls and say " 'Scuseit, please."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Thursday, April 24, 1913:

"London, April 23.—Protection for the cotton trade of Lancashire by fostering the supply of cotton independent of America, was the gist of Chancellor Lloyd-George's argument on introducing in the house of commons this evening a resolution permitting the British government to guarantee a Sudan loan of $15,000,000 for the development of cotton growing along the Nile."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, April 24, 1888:

"An old lady, with several unmarried daughters, feeds them on fish diet, because it is rich in phosphorus, and phosphorus is the essential thing for making matches."

Faith Is Born in the Spring

Oh, yellow jasmine with your golden light,
Sweet joy your smiles do bring.
And you gladly chant the soft, low song
That Faith Is Born in the Spring.

The violets, so shy and so demure,
With mellowed, hushed tones ring
Out the praises of the God of the Sky,
That Faith Is Born in the Spring.

And dogwood blossoms, bearing the scars
Of the pierced hands of our King,
They—more eloquent than all the rest
Rejoice—that Faith Is Born in the Spring.

CREATING ONE'S OWN WORLD

In discussing the question, where one lives, in this column several Sundays ago, we decided that he lives in the world of his thought—within the radius of his consciousness. The world one lives in is the world he knows, or the world he thinks it is. So each man lives in his own world. One need only contrast the savage watching an eclipse, trembling in the presence of the shadow of a terrible demon, and the modern astronomer watching that same phenomenon, tracing a planet's shadow across the face of the sun.

So each one of us lives in the world it seems to us, or as we think it is. Our world is friendly or hostile, interesting or full of thrilling adventures, beautiful or ugly, according to each one's viewpoint.

This truth is all the more striking, when we apply it to the world of people with whom we live. What one thinks of other people, and his estimate of their worth, will largely determine his own happiness and his worth to the world. Does one look upon other people as customers, clients, prospects, employers, employes, debtors or creditors? Or are they neighbors, friends, brothers? What we think of our world, and the people in it, will determine the kind of life we are to live. Because out of one's opinions, sentiments, emotions and affections, grow all of his words and actions.

Interpreting Life.

Each one of us, not only lives in the world of his own thought, but to a large extent it is the world of his own creation. Each one of us through our five senses receives reports of that outside world. This is only the raw material out of which we are to fashion the world within, which is the real world for us. We take these reports and interpret them for ourselves, as beautiful or ugly, good or bad. Thus we build a beautiful or ugly, good or bad, world. Two men go out in the fields and forests, one of these radiantly beautiful spring days. One of them is brooding over a wrong, and comes home with murder in his heart. The other man with the windows of his soul wide open to the songs of birds and the blended beauty of skies and flowers and trees, comes home with a song which he must sing, or a picture which he must translate to canvass.

So one man goes out among his fellowmen cynical, suspicious, and comes home with enemies threatening his life and property. Another man goes out into the same world believing there is some good in all men, gathers the best there is in human nature, and comes home with friends. Sinclair Lewis went to the middle west and found one continuous dismal and deadening main street, peopled by vulgarians of narrowed interests and limited sympathies. Mark Twain found in this same land, among the same kind of people, charm of humor and romance, and a rare richness and beauty in their simple lives. Lewis lives and will die on "Main Street," which he created. Mark Twain will live forever in the immortal charm of Colonel Sellers, and the perennial fascination of Tom Sawyer.

The Business of Religion.

Now the business of religion is with this inner-thought world. Its mission is to deal with what a man thinks and believes, wants and feels—with his sentiments and attitudes, his aspirations and affections. Its task is not transportation but transformation. In a very real sense it is that of interpretation of the world in which one lives. Religion believes "In the beginning God created." It has no revelation as to when or how He created. It welcomes all the knowledge which science can accumulate. It bids and counts the milleniums back to the beginning, if it can, but whenever that beginning was, "God created."

Religion would gladly have science trace step by step the upward reach of life, as it develops in mysterious order from mud to mind, and then call that mystery, "God created." But in the Christian religion, Jesus goes further. Not only is it God who created, but that God who created, is "Our Father." He is a Jesus-kind of God. This is the interpretation of the world which the religion of Jesus Christ makes for each one who accepts Him. That is what the coming of Jesus into one's life means. It is the acceptance of His viewpoint—what He believes the world and the people who inhabit the world really are. This is our Father's world, and the people in it are His children, and our brothers.

One really cannot do his best work in the world, until he can believe in the essential goodness and friendliness of the universe. Yes, believe that the stars in their courses are fighting for us. That is to believe that Goodness is God, and God is Goodness. With this faith one may have the courage to stand for nobility and truth against all enemies. He can bear transient defeats and disappointments, because he believes in the ultimate triumph of his cause. And as we face the world of today, torn by racial hatred, national greed, and creedal bigotry, one can think of no change so needed, as the transforming, revolutionary change which would be wrought, by the spread of this faith in the world.

Destiny.

What is this thing called 'destiny,'
Does it mean some things—have to be?
That there is one person under the sun,
Who is the one—and only one—
That you will meet—and heart to heart
Know that this is—your counterpart?

That love was waiting down the ages—
(Regardless of scoffers and sages—)
To light a flame that forever glows
Like the fragrance of a dew-kissed rose

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY.

"Sok," Sam shouted over a "G-Man Special" in Lindy's, "it ain't figuring."

"Sam, let me eat in peace," I was dwelling upon sturgeon on rye covered with a juicy Bermuda onion. After all, such things are important.

"What do you care if they figure wrong? Your customers will buy your stuff because they ain't got the heart to throw you down. But my customers, they say, 'Sam, if a President can figure like that, it must be that even adding machines is all wet'."

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

"Sam, I thought we were through with politics. The last time you said everybody was lousy and you were filled up to here," and I drew my fingers across my throat like an imaginary knife. "And now you start all over again. Let's talk about the difference between Toscanini and Barbirolli."

"Who?"

"Or if you don't know them, let's discuss the relative merits of" . . .

"Listen Sok. This ain't no time for kibetzing. When you begin figuring wrong you can't help but land up in Sing Sing, like some other smart guys what figured that six plus seven equals 67. It's a dangerous business."

"But I am sure; Sam," I said kindly, "that the President employs statisticians and experts who compile accurate figures and charts and who tell him what the figures should be. I am sure that the President would be careful about what he said in a fireside speech."

"You know, sometimes I look at you and wonder how you can be so sure about so many things. Maybe, if you had to figure a little more, you would find that sometimes figures can get so twisted that even the smartest certified public accountant can't find the swindle for years. That's why accountants make good money.

"I ain't ever buffaloed when it comes to figures. I never went to college, so I don't use a slide rule. They once showed me algebra, so I told the teacher, 'What's the use of kidding yourself with x and y when you can start out by saying if you got 10 and add 2, it makes a dozen.' By me, it's all simple arithmetic."

SO SAM TOOK A PENCIL

So Sam pulled the President's speech out of his pocket. Then he took a pencil and a napkin and he proceeded to show me his figures.

"The President says here, that in 1929, national income amounted to $81,000,000,000. He says here that national income is what we all got. It reads like this: 'The total of the income of all the individual citizens and families of the United States.' Then he goes on with telling who the families are, which is just to make it clear to such dopes who don't understand that all the citizens and families means all.

"So then he says that by 1932, this national income came down to $38,000,000,000. So that means that in three years we flopped to the figure of $43,000,000,000. So then he says that in 1937, we was up again to $68,000,000,000, which means we had come back by $25,000,000,000 and if you go back to 1929 and average it, all we lost is $13,000,000,000. But the debt increased, he said—where is that figure?"

THE DEBT FIGURE

"Well, anyhow," he said, "the national debt went up $16,000,000,000. So you can figure it two ways and anyway you go you lose.

"Suppose you take the $25,000,000,000 way; down from 1929 to 1932 and up from 1932 to 1937, so you get $25,000,000,000 less national income. But it shows that to go up over 1932 by $25,000,000,000, we spent $16,000,000,000 more than we got for taxes. If you drop the word billion it is clear. But you still don't figure in this higher taxes which wipes out plenty and you don't figure that for 1938 we got another depression."

"Let me talk. Now suppose you take it the other way. So, in 1937 you got $13,000,000,000 less national income than in 1929. But it cost $16,000,000,000 in national debt to get there, not counting high taxes and also that in 1938 we are worse off than in any year of the depression that I tried to sell the customers in. So if you figure it this way, we're altogether mechoolah. Because it is like a business in which you spend millions for advertising and still the customers don't buy."

"Sam, you don't seem to understand. First of all, the President should have said 'national income produced,' which would have made it clearer."

"You should tell the President how he should talk?" Sam asked in anger. "Listen. When you got a radio voice that you can make phoney figures sound like a message from heaven, then you can tell him what to say."

"But, Sam," I replied, more than annoyed, "here you've been criticizing the President's figures"—

"I ain't criticizing nothing!" Sam shouted. "All I says is that his statisticians use machines instead of brains to figure. It stands to reason if we go into hock $16,000,000,000 we got to get something. All I want to show you is that this bigger national income he talks about ain't happened. All that happened is that you pick $16,000,000,000 off one side of the ledger and you stick it on the other. So an asset becomes a liability, and vice versa."

SAM PROVES STUBBORN

"Look here, Sam. If you want to understand this matter let me explain it."

"All right, Mr. Einstein. You tell 'em."

"It's like this. You must note the rise of national income year by year. The rise cannot be deducted from the fall"—

"But can you minus the fall from the rise?"

"No. You take each year and note the increase. Similarly, the increase in national debt includes loans for which there is collateral."

"Pfui from me to you! How much collateral do you figure on? Did anybody pay the war debts? Do you figure that any states or cities is going to pay back Uncle Sam because the Democrats wanted to win elections? Do you figure that in 1940, if times is good, or by 1944 the latest, congressmen won't run on the platform, 'Cancel all collateral and forget the bad news'? How do you become so simple?

BILLIONS AND TAXES, ALL GONE

"The way I figure is this $16,000,000,000 is all gone. Alright, if we make it an even number, $20,000,000,000 by the end of the year, that will be gone. So if we count in the high taxes, they are gone. The President says, 'Look around and see the fine buildings you got for your money.' Brother, I would schenk him the buildings if he let me have a dollar in my pocket without taxes. The next tax is going to be a stamp tax on paper money or something like that.

"He says, 'Look at the public works.' For $16,000,000,000 plus high taxes I could have not only fine buildings but even a blonde to run all the elevators in those fine buildings.

"So it makes me sick if I go into an old-fashioned post office with a brass spittoon and a pen that was made when the Civil War was still taking place and I write the boss, 'Business is fine. Hoping to hear the same from you!'

"And I get high blood pressure from excitement when I go into a million dollar, imitation-marble post office, after seeing at least a billion customers, and I write the boss like this:

" 'Dear Boss: I am writing you a letter from a million-dollar post office here in the middle of no place. The building is beautiful. It has a lobby like Radio City and outside it's finished off with white steel that shines like the Empire State building. On the walls is murals painted by the WPA, which shows how America grew because wheels and smokestacks can be seen by farmers who hold a girl's hand with one hand and a hat in the other hand. It sure is beautiful.

STORY OF GRUMPY MISSING NOT TRUE

" 'I can stand here all day looking at these murals which was painted by a Jap WPA worker who ain't even a citizen because I ain't got nothing better to do except go to the movies which I don't want to do again because I saw Snow White six times already and that story about Grumpy and Dopey being missing ain't true.

" 'From this letter and seeing as I have plenty of time to look at public works, you can figure for yourself, if you still can figure, that business is not only lousy but lousier. Maybe you will save money by going to Spain to see which side is the biggest liar and close up the business altogether. So far as I'm concerned, I ate up not only my expense money but my drawing account as well. If you can figure that one, maybe you know what becomes of $16,000,000,000 borrowed when the national income goes down. It looks to me like there's going to be a wholesale fire sale this season. Hoping to hear the same from you, I am SAM'."

Those Who Sleep.

(Memorial Day, 1938.)

For loyal fighting men on every strand
Who died that flag and homeland might be spared—
For minutemen, defense of newfound land;
For Yank and Reb, when hot dissension flared;
For doughboys keeping faith in Flanders field
Where poppies nod in understanding rows;
For Spanish dons, their eyes forever sealed
On scenes that mark the growth of civil woes;
For slant-eyed soldiers of the Rising Sun
And yellow foes who sought to stem their tide;
For British Tommy, French Poilu and Hun—
This Day of Memories we set aside.
And for these pawns, dear Lord, in games of war,
Thy special compensation we implore!

ELIZABETH LAXSON.

Around the Corner.

A loved one walked away from me.
I watched him in his flight
Until he turned a corner—and
His form was lost to sight.

Though far beyond my vision's reach,
I knew he traveled on.
I didn't fear he'd stopped—because
From my sight he had gone.

A loved one journeyed life's long street;
And he, too, made a turn.
The lane he chose is known as death—
A path we all must learn.

I have no reason to suspect
He stopped; for—you'll agree—
Activities go on, each day,
'Round curves—where we can't see!

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE BRITISH-ITALIAN AGREEMENT.

Only time will tell whether the British-Italian agreement, signed on Saturday in Rome, will actually contribute to the pacification of Europe, and, if so, whether the terms will permit democratic government to live. It may temporarily do the first. That, indeed, seems very likely. War is probably farther off than it was a few weeks ago. And that, of course, is a great deal. On the other hand, we have got to wait and see whether this agreement will serve to weaken the Rome-Berlin axis or whether it will serve to extend it; we shall not have any real light on what is happening until we know what passes between Mussolini and Hitler in the conversations soon to take place in Rome; until we see what happens to the French-Soviet pact; until we see what terms Britain offers Germany in an attempt at conciliation there.

TRADITIONAL POLICY

At first sight England is clearly following a variation of her traditional policy of never having two potential enemies on the continent of Europe at the same time, or treating the fait accompli realistically, and of attempting to divide power which, when combined, might mean the control of the continent.

And Mussolini is also acting realistically. He has been anxious to further his own interests by challenging Britain, but he has not been anxious to further the German interests. He played with Germany in order to force the hand of England, and he has now got Germany and a militant Pan-Germanism on the Brenner Pass. Therefore, unless he wishes to become a satelite of Germany rather than a partner, he needs an ally.

VICTORY A MOCKERY

And now what have you got?

In the last two years Mussolini has risked starting two wars in Europe. According to this agreement, he has definitely won the Ethiopian war. He had, to be sure, won it already; the agreement is merely a recognition of an accomplished fact.

But the fact that the Ethiopians still had legal claims may have encouraged them to continue the opposition which has been going on to this day, and the fact that Mussolini has no money with which to exploit Ethiopia has made the victory a mockery except for prestige.

It remains to be seen whether the Anglo-Italian treaty will be accomplished by a loan to Italy or with other aid in exploiting East Africa, and whether it will really make it easier for Mussolini to deal with the Ethiopian tribes. If all he gets is the recognition of Ethiopia, then the agreement is tantamount to killing a dead horse.

In Spain Mussolini is giving up a tremendous strategical advantage if the agreement means exactly what it says. Germany and Italy now control every naval air base in Majorca, Spanish Morocco and all over Insurgent Spain—bases which could terribly harass the British, menace the French, and which have cost Mussolini thousands of lives and millions of dollars. Even if we assume that he has been paid or partly paid in Spanish raw materials, he will be no better off than when he went in, and the probability is that he will be very much in the hole.

Of course, the agreement about non-intervention remains the cruel and immoral joke that it has been from the beginning.

The Italian Foreign Minister "confirms that his government adheres to the British formula for the proportional withdrawal of volunteers from Spain . . . at the time and under the conditions laid down by the non-intervention committee."

In view of past history, this simply means that Italy agrees not to withdraw from Spain until Franco has won the war, and England agrees to continue to call active assistance for Franco non-intervention.

But Mussolini agrees that the moment the war is over all Italian volunteers shall immediately leave, and all Italian war material be immediately removed, and all territorial, political and economic advantages renounced.

So we are asked to believe that Mussolini has been fighting this whole war out of purely altruistic motives, or, we can draw the conclusion that Britain also wants a Franco victory and that England and Italy together will share the spoils.

GERMANY ALSO IN SPAIN

But Germany is also in Spain. So now England must try to negotiate an agreement with Hitler that he should also get out of Spain. But why should Hitler do so, except for a very handsome quid pro quo? Who is going to throw him out? England, France and Italy together? Italy has reaffirmed the Berlin-Rome axis. If Franco wins the war, Spain will be a sovereign power and the dictator will be Franco. Suppose General Franco, who will have conquered Spain with foreign troops, finds that he cannot hold it without their continued presence? Suppose he finds it useful to have German aid to extend and enlarge a Spanish empire in Morocco?

Is there anything to prevent Franco from making arrangements with either Hitler or Mussolini? From asking Hitler to build him ports and give him arms in exchange for raw materials? At Wurzburg a few months ago Hitler admitted that he was in Spain for raw materials.

It seems to me that Hitler is in an extremely good position. He will certainly ask a price for leaving Spain, and that price will be a free hand in Central Europe. He is taking it anyhow, but, of course, he would much rather have it by agreement so that he can present himself as a gentleman and a keeper of treaties.

SYSTEM OF BLACKMAIL

I cannot see that the negotiation of this treaty ends the system of general blackmail which has kept Europe in an agonized uncertainty for the last few years. The net result of it is that England and France have perhaps won back their old and dubious ally in case of war. If this is as far as it goes, then the hope of doing more than postpone war is chimerical.

And my guess is that the eventual price which may have to be paid will be the abrogation of the French-Soviet pact, in which case Germany will be infinitely stronger than she was in 1914 and, in which case, Germany and Russia will come together in one way or another sooner or later. And then we will have the real menace to the democratic world.

NOT TOO OPTIMISTIC

This column continues to be skeptical and not too optimistic regarding the effect of this treaty in the long run. We shall have to wait and see what concessions, if any, France, England and Italy acting together, can wring out of Germany in Central Europe.

Hitler does not plan a "conquest" of Central Europe. He plans penetration and hegemony under the threat of force. And it's very hard to deal with this kind of expansion by agreements, unless France can induce Britain and Italy to back her up in supporting her old allies in Central Europe.

The agreement to suspend propaganda against each other will be interesting to watch. This may be interpreted in Great Britain to mean the suspension of all anti-Fascist opinion. It's amazing what censorship already exists in England against any utterances likely to hurt the feelings of the Fascists, and, of course, in protecting Fascists against attacks in the British press the British government also protects English Fascists.

Facing Facts Of Unification

Editor Constitution: There has been publicity given to the daily press recently by the group of laymen opposed to unification of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church. There are four main reasons that they give for being opposed to this unification:

First, that the northern section of the church will predominate, when, as a matter of fact, the United church will be divided into six jurisdictions: The north central and north eastern, which compose approximately 45 per cent of the members; the south central and south eastern, which compose approximately 10 per cent; which shows that no one section will predominate.

Second, the anti-unificationists fear that the south will be contaminated by various false doctrines, and feel that the southern section is more religious. Our claim to a superior Christianity is a doubtful assumption. If smacks of self-righteousness. Even so we surely are not so easily influenced that we will lose our fine religious heritage. And if we are so pious (I do not make the claim) unification will give us the opportunity to leaven the whole church.

Third, it is also claimed that the central (negro) jurisdiction will eventually be abolished and become a part of our church without having their own jurisdiction. There are not grounds for this belief as it is not the desire of any large portion of the northern Methodists, or of the negroes, themselves, to become closely affiliated within the local church. There can be no danger of this affiliation. The present M. E. church for the most part has its separate negro annual conferences.

Fourth, it is also claimed by the anti-unificationists that the supposedly predominating north will seize our property and we will lose control of it. This is without any foundation whatsoever. The property which has a trust clause will be the Methodist church instead of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the same local board of trustees will hold their property in trust. As a matter of fact, union will open a way for further influx of northern charitable gifts into the south.

The anti-unificationists also claim that the lay members have not ben informed. No doubt this is largely true, but it is the fault of us, laymen ourselves, for the plan was published in our church papers as early as 1935 and 1936, and discussed pro and con for two years in the church press. This was before any delegates were elected to district, annual or general conferences. And last year the daily press was carrying almost weekly reports of voting in the annual conferences. If the laity is ignorant of the pending plan, what can be done other than leave this and all other questions facing our coming general conference to its constituted representatives? I am sure that this group of anti-unificationists will not convince a very large portion of the three million Methodists that our bishops and other ministerial leaders have any motive other than the welfare of our church at heart. The commission that represented our church in working out this plan of unification is composed of: Bishops John M. Moore, W. N. Ainsworth, Arthur J. Moore, Paul B. Kern; Ministers, T. D. Ellis, G. C. Emmons, Ivan Lee Holt, J. W. Moore, F. N. Parker, W. W. Peele, Clare Purcell, Paul W. Quillian, Charles C. Selecman; laymen, John W. Barton, W. E. Brock, John S. Candler, Joseph W. Lewis, P. D. Maddin, J. H. Reynolds, Daniel C. Roper, John T. Scott, H. N. Snyder, H. H. White. Surely no right-thinking person would charge this group of great preachers and laymen of formulating a plan that would in any way mean the disintegration of our church.

When the general conference passes this plan of unification it will no doubt be submitted to the judicial council for final action as to the legality of the plan. This council is composed of four eminent lawyers and five outstanding preachers, namely: Judge M. E. Lawson, Dr. A. C. Miller, Dr. J. Stewart French, Dr. W. G. Henry, Dr. J. W. Johnson, Judge O. A. Park, Dr. R. L. Flowers, Judge A. W. Childers and Dr. A. J. Weeks.

My suggestion to every Methodist is to study the plan, which can be ordered from the Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn., with a one-cent postal card, and be guided by it rather than what is said about it by a group of unfriendly to the church's leadership.

There is a small group in north Georgia, upper South Carolina and north Mississippi that is opposed to unification, but the vast majority of our members from Maine to California have elected delegates who are in favor of unification. And let us add that no preacher has voted for a single lay delegate from the church conference to his arrival at the general conference. Laymen elect their representatives of whom they have 50 per cent in the general conference. Let us trust the elected leadership of our church.

Happenings in the Church World

By HERMAN L. TURNER.

The Supreme Council 33 degree bulletin, Washington, D. C., dated April 15th, writes interestingly about The Canterbury Pulpit: The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, in delivering his Easter Sunday sermon at the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral on Mount St. Alban, Washington, D. C., will speak for the first time from the celebrated Canterbury Ambon, or Great Pulpit, made of historic stones of Canterbury Cathedral in England. The pulpit was presented 36 years ago by the archbishop and dean of the chapter of Canterbury in memory of Stephen Langton, who led the Barons of England when the Magna Carta was granted by King John.

The central relief of the pulpit depicts the story of those stirring days, a scroll repeating the first words of the Magna Carta. "The Church of England Shall Be Free." On the left is the Venerable Bede, giving one of his pupils the final chapter of his Anglo-Saxon translation of St. John. The Martyrdom of William Tyndale, burned at the stake October 6, 1538, for printing an English version of the Bible, is at the right. Stone likenesses of King Alfred who, in 871, translated the Psalms into Anglo-Saxon, and of John Wycliffe, rector of Lutterworth, who was tried in 1378 for issuing an English Bible, complete the work.

Workmen have assembled the pulpit, the parts having been laid away in vaults awaiting the completion of other furnishings for the choir and Great Crossing of the Cathedral. At the time Bishop Freeman steps into the celebrated pulpit for his sermon, the new great organ of the cathedral, equipped with 125 stops and approximately 10,000 pipes, will be used.

The Christian Century editorially comments about "Ohio Church Women Consider Peace": From Columbus, Ohio, comes word of a new method used with great effectiveness to focus the attention of the church members of that city on current issues pertaining to war and peace. On a recent Wednesday 236 "peace luncheons" were held in the homes of Columbus church women. In most cases the hostess invited 10 or 12 women who gathered at 11 o'clock, ate a simple meal, reminiscent of war-time menus, and then discussed various aspects of the peace issue including the May bill and other measures now before congress. For several days before the luncheons were held, Columbus newspapers and radio stations had given generous attention to the project, as well as to the questions which were to be discussed. While the luncheons were in progress, a special radio broadcast participated in by a Protestant minister and a Jewish rabbi gave final definition to the purposes of the gatherings. After the luncheons were over the entire city manifested interest in the conclusions registered by the women. These concerned five questions balloted on by each group:

1. Should we keep a regiment of soldiers in China? Yes, 272; No, 1,951.

2. Should we serve notice that all our citizens who invest in foreign lands do so at their own risk, and that the United States navy will not be used as a collecting agency to collect foreign loans? Yes, 2,088; No, 180.

3. Should congress fix limits on the ocean within which the United States fleet would remain at all times except if attacked by a foreign foe? Yes, 1,743; no, 465.

4. In the present emergency do you favor the method of complete isolation? Yes, 733; no, 1,464.

5. Should we strive for an international government to preserve peace? Yes, 2,111; no, 138.

The two final questions in this list are so vague as to be virtually meaningless without further definition. But as a means of stirring up a community on vital national issues, the Columbus method is worthy of being copied widely.

The Rev. William H. Foulkes, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., recently addressed a gathering of ministers and laymen in Washington, D. C. Said Dr. Foulkes "The minister must do more than stand in his pulpit and announce truth. He must go out among his people who are living in sorrow, doubt and futility." At a later service held in Georgetown, (D. C.) Presbyterian church, he stated: "A time-saving, easy-going Christianity is no match for the organized paganism of today. But Christianity which takes its Christ seriously will not only be able to save its own soul, but to win the world. The church must become afresh a crusading church."

Cheap Insecticide Discovered In Weed Common Over Georgia

"Devil's Shoestring" May Provide Weapon To Win Farmers' Long War Against Insect Pests.

By R. W. MARTIN.

Scientists hold high hopes that their long, intensive search for material with which to battle effectively one of man's greatest enemies — insects — will end in Texas, Florida, Georgia and Arkansas.

For years there has been a demand for a cheap insecticide nonpoisonous to man and animal for controlling insects that destroy crops worth millions of dollars annually.

Searching for such material among plants of the world, chemists and entomologists discovered vegetation in tropical countries that contained a substance toxic to insects. They called it rotenone. Roots of these plants are now being shipped to the United States for manufacture into insecticides.

However, this discovery failed to provide ample supplies of insecticides at prices within reach of farmers for widespread and effective use.

Found in Texas.

Consequently a search was started in this country for a plant that might contain rotenone. In 1931, V. A. Little, professor of entomology at Texas Agricultural & Mechanical College, reported his discovery that the root of a weed plant found in the eastern part of his state and commonly known as "devil's shoestring" had insecticidal properties.

Known by such other names as rabbit bean, goats rue, hoary pea and turkey pea, the plant was used by American Indians as a vermifuge and other medicinal purposes and for poisoning fish.

Professor Little's discovery attracted the attention and interest of scientists at the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington. Soon experiments were started to determine whether the weed could be cultivated on a large scale as a commercial source of a cheap yet effective insecticide.

Varied in Toxicity.

A survey showed that the plant grew in most southeastern and southern states, but that only those found in limited areas in Texas, Florida, Georgia and Arkansas contained the insecticidal qualities. Experiments also showed that in those limited areas plants varied in the degree of toxicity.

For example, all individual plants found on one square acre on a tract known locally as Sandflat, about 6.5 miles north of Tyler, Texas, were tested to determine the variation of toxicity. Of 220 plants on the plot, 11 were non-toxic and 83 were included in the group of maximum toxicity. Thus only 5 per cent of the plants were apparently without toxicity, another 5 per cent were practically so, approximately 20 per cent were of moderate toxicity and almost 70 per cent were regarded as decidedly toxic.

Experiments are now being carried on to determine the factors which cause the toxic quality. Scientists are inclined to believe that several factors are responsible, including possibly climate, soil, botonical characters of individual plants as well as presence of other types of vegetation.

Experiments Under Way.

Other experiments are being conducted to determine cultural requirements of the plant, methods of propagation, the cost of cultivation and its crop possibilities in general as well as to develop, through scientific processes of selection and breeding, a species of greatest insecticidal content.

The experiments are being carried on at Milano, Texas; the Agriculture Department's experimental farm at Arlington, Va.; the Georgia Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton, and in the Choctawhatchee National Forest, near Valparaiso, Fla.

Plant breeders and chemists at the Federal Department of Agriculture express confidence that these experiments will not only provide the nation with needed material to fight destructive insects, but give the favored regions a new commercial crop.

Description of Plant.

The plant, which grows to a height of one to two feet, prefers low altitudes and well-drained sandy soils. Its flowers, which appear in May and June, are comparatively large and numerous and a dull yellowish white in color with purple markings. Its fruits are bean-like pods about three inches long. Its roots are numerous, long, slender and tough. It may be propagated from seed and division of the crown wood. It is a characteristic plant of railway embankments and roadsides in the south.

"If collection and cultivation of toxic plants is practical," agriculture department chemists said, "the principal districts, one in northeast Texas, one in northwest Florida and one in northeast Florida, would be those in which it would be most promising."

Counties where toxic plants appear to thrive were listed:

Texas—Caldwell, Austin, Robertson, Milam, Leon, Trinity, Anderson, Smith, Harrison, Lamar, Montague, Callahan, Comanche, Eastland, Jasper and Nacogdoches.

Florida—Duval, Clay, Madison and Putnam counties, as well as an area within Choctawhatchee National Forest.

Arkansas—Ouachita, Washington and Crawford.

'Way Down in Georgia - 'Look Pretty, Uncle'

The Pulse of the Public

The columns of The Constitution are always open to the expressions of the public, regardless of the opinion expressed. UNNECESSARY TAX BURDENS

Editor Constitution: I heartily agree with you along the line of your recent editorial, "Wages and Taxes."

There should be a halt called in taxation and extravagant expenditures in government. Excessive taxation, extravagant appropriations, and expenditures in the legislative halls place unnecessary burdens upon the masses of people.

Such a system is, of course, beneficial to a certain class of people, to-wit: Those who are on the pay rolls of the various departments of the government. However, in the end such methods place hardships and burdens on the people and really defeat prosperity.

A certain amount of taxation is necessary to maintain and carry on any government, and the people of this country both rich and poor alike have been very loyal to their government in this respect, never have, nor do they now, object, to a reasonable system of taxation, provided they get, in a measure, value received in return; but they do object and do think there should be a limit to taxation and wasteful and extravagant appropriations of their tax money to maintain useless boards, bureaus and employes that could and should be discontinued.

The power to tax is the power to destroy, and the people least governed are the best governed, therefore, it behooves our law-making powers to exercise care and caution in this respect if we expect our government to survive.

TALMADGE SELECTION AS SPEAKER ADMIRED

Editor, Constitution: The writer is the daughter of the late Dr. Daniel Cornelius O'Keefe, who was a surgeon in the Confederate army during the whole War Between the States. As such I greatly admire the selection of ex-Governor Eugene Talmadge as orator of the day at the memorial exercises of the Confederate veterans on April 26. I know of no other public official who has so deserved this honor as has former Governor Talmadge. What other official worked as he did to remove from these veterans, who could not help themselves, the odium of practically being "on the dole" placed there by the Rivers administration and return to them the honor of the pension bestowed upon them by a grateful state? I was astounded to know that the U. D. C. objected to Governor Talmadge as orator.

Why?

Because he had made a kindly speech at the grave of Abraham Lincoln when invited to do so. Those gifted and beloved southerners, John B. Gordon and Henry Grady, had paid eloquent eulogies to Lincoln. Did that make them traitors to the south?

Among other things Talmadge said, "Would we had a President like Lincoln, who would not 'boondoggle' us into prosperity." "Boondoggle" is slang for "foolish spending." Thus this reference to Lincoln was entirely a financial one. It had nothing to do with war. It might have been a misleading sentence. If Talmadge had not left in the treasury of Georgia when he retired from the governorship nine million dollars, he would not afterwards had to work so hard. He would have had time to polish his speeches. Did not his efforts to honor permanently those veterans atone for a misleading sentence? I think the good ladies of the U. D. C. must have misunderstood. If so, would it not be noble in them to admit it?

In these troublous times, let us all work together for Georgia's welfare.

MRS. J. O'KEEFE NELSON.

TALMADGE APPROVED AS MEMORIAL SPEAKER

Editor, The Constitution: The selection of former Governor Eugene Talmadge as speaker of the day at the Confederate memorial exercises to be held on April 26 is a graceful favor bestowed on a man worthy to receive it.

The records of Mr. Talmadge's administration show that he was, and still is, the friend of the few remaining Confederate soldiers. He is the grandson of a Confederate soldier and stands four-square as a staunch supporter of state's rights, for which over half a million brave Confederate soldiers died on the field of battle.

WANTS A DICTATOR FOR U. S.

Editor Constitution: After reading a letter in The Constitution titled "Dictatorship Comes Unawares" I would like to know why the press of the United States has tried to poison the people of this country against Hitler and Germany.

Anybody with half sense knows Hitler does not force the people of Germany to stand in cold and bad weather for hours just so they can see or hear him make a speech. We know that there are millions of people who worship Hitler. They like him because he told the billionaires if they didn't get busy and put their money to work he would take it away from them and put the unemployed to work. Today finds hardly any unemployed in Germany and one of the strongest governments in the world and the happiest people in the world.

The press of the United States don't want dictators because the rich don't want dictators. The press is run by the money crowd.

FREEDOM OF CAPITAL ROAD TO SALVATION

Editor Constitution: We have had two rebellions in this country against the government. We must not be led into another one. We all know the rebel is a product of bad government. There is no such thing as stamping him out. He may be checked but he will forever be raising his head until the evils of government are wiped out. If democracy and capitalism fail it is the fault of leadership, which is the strength of the rebel. The fault is not in the New Deal. There has been no New Deal—only a stiffer application of the paternalistic theory that supposes capital is strong and labor is weak. Nothing could be more false. There is nothing so strong in human affairs as the will to work. Capital cannot support the people in idleness. Labor supports everything, including capital—or it will fall down.

Salvation is likewise, not a return to the so-called stand-patism. It's a return to freedom for capital. The poverty of the masses has increased in exactly the same degree that taxes have increased. Another way of saying it is that employment has decreased in the same proportion that taxes have destroyed capital's ability to employ workers. But, you say, capital still makes money. I say it must make money or industry will be destroyed and all of us be turned back to the most primitive existence. Capital is making money out of taxes. It has to, because it limits production and becomes a part of the cost of everything produced, and profits are figured on the total cost which includes taxes.

If the workers of the world ever find this out and stop this raid on their employers, the money now going for taxes will go to them in increased production and lower living cost. The building trade today would absorb every available worker in the country, and thereby furnish consuming power for factory workers, businessmen and salesmen, if taxes on building were based on the income instead of the cost. This is the key to unlock the door between the worker and his job throughout our national economy-agriculture, industry, transportation and distribution. After all, there isn't but one thing we need—jobs, and they will be supplied when capital is set free, and its only duty is to furnish them. Capitalism set free would be forced to develop the national resources to protect itself against unused profits affecting the value of money. That would mean a steady balanced progressive prosperity with no confiscatory or arbitrary taxes to create fear. Make it easy to make money—and it will be easy to find jobs—and pay taxes.

Business and industry must get its profits from the voluntary spender—let the government do the same and free capital will furnish the power.

WOULD CANCEL MEXICAN DEBT

Editor Constitution: A few days ago The Constitution carried a suggestion that the United States offer to take Lower California in payment for the expropriated oil properties in Mexico. I wonder if that offer might not emphasize their long held fear that the United States coveted Mexican territory and wished to use their difficulties as an excuse to profit at their expense.

Not only the Mexicans but all the people of South America have feared our purposes, and doubted our friendly overtures ever since we took so much from Mexico after our war with her, and we need to truly prove our good neighborly intentions beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Mexico is one country for whom we should cancel debts. Not the United States government, but those of us who have been trying to find some way to advance the peace of the world, should seize this opportunity to do something great toward illustrating our goodwill and desire to make amends for the ruthlessness of our fathers in settling the Mexican war. We should raise the money by popular subscription to satisfy all that Mexico owes our people.

This gesture would warm hearts toward us all over the world, and the world needs a revival of goodwill and magnanimity.

LILY REYNOLDS.

ATLANTA AS MEDICAL CENTER.

Editor Constitution: Vienna was considered the medical center of the world, and recent happenings to the medical profession there is one of the major tragedies of recent times.

What a wonderful opportunity there is for America to open her arms and take advantage, and it is possible that Atlanta, which has the nucleus, could capitalize and bring some of these outstanding doctors here; and it is possible that Atlanta might in itself become, at a not far distant date, the medical center, not only of the south but of the country.

To permit these men to stagnate or to suffer through persecution would be a major loss to the civilized world, for they possess untold opportunities, under the right environment, to do wonderful things.

In such event, it would be for the good of all and the hurt of none.

New York Skylines

NEW YORK, April 23.—The things you see and the things you hear in the town between the rivers:

From a policeman on 110th street and Madison avenue: "We get more knifings in this part of the city than in any other, but what we get most of is cases of dog-bite. Overcrowded tenements, each with a dog. Little enough food to go around among the human beings, nothing at all for the dogs. The dogs take bites out of people because they're so hungry." That sounds startling and a little funny, but what he means is that hunger makes dogs (even as you and me) mean.

On the corner of Forty-third street and Broadway, where the kids wait. Wednesday mornings, in a line half a block long to get in for the 9:30 a. m. grind in a movie cathedral. Once they get in and once the swing band on the stage starts kicking it around, the kids go crazy in the aisles, jitterbugging, big appling, fighting ushers to get on the stage and hotfoot it. It's a regular weekly feature. It feels and looks like a revivalist meeting to the tune of "Dipsy Doodle." A few of the kids have stage ambitions and seek this method of attracting attention. Most of them are just good-time Charlies giving themselves a Charley horse.

At Fourteenth street and Second avenue, where a wild and sinister-looking Cossack frightens the Kretchma patrons with a knife dance. A cork plaque is put on the floor before him and on it a folded dollar bill is placed. He puts the point of the long, gleaming, heavily-handled dagger between his teeth, rears his head back and then flips it forward, letting go with the knife. If he stabs the dollar, it's his. In the days before the Wall Street bears started getting fat as bulls, clients used to send up dollar bills for him to stab. Now the management has to do the honors.

In midtown, after midnight, where a profound essay is waiting to be written on the theme of what a funny thing life is by the area's most famous hosts. The three are thugs. What is more, they look like thugs. One used to be a dope runner. The second used to be a gang punk and is thought to have earned a dollar or so poisoning horses in a laundry strike. The past of the third has been written on more than one police blotter. The boys are doing lots better now and you ought to see the town's debs, buds and blades sashaying into their saloons, hoping desperately they will get a nod from the man who's allowing them to pay $3 for a plate of scrambled eggs. If the ex-punk goes all the way up to their table to say hello, the girls go pink and the lads beam. They've been elected. I'd give a year of my life for a blow-by-blow report of the ex-punks' thoughts as they, nightly, watch these glittering goings-on.

On Fifty-second street, where you can see the nicest and pleasantest of the town's blackmailers in action. Ruddy-faced and gray-haired, with a wide and hearty smile, made only slightly less pleasant by yellowing teeth, one of which has been knocked out in some rude encounter. He goes around gathering unpleasant little items about love-nests and such and then puts it up in the nicest way possible to the knight errant (meaning, this time, the knight who has wandered too far). He can get $10 from one of the Broadway columnists for the item, but he'd much rather get $20 for it from the knight. Business can't be too good. He's always dressed shabbily. And he never seems to be enough ahead of the game to replace the tooth (knocked out by a mesh evening bag in which was encased a vanity case big and hard as brass knuckles). But it's better than working and more exciting. He's a nice fellow, too. In case you haven't got $20, he has been known to settle for the $10 he could have got from a Broadway columnist. He doesn't mean any harm. All it is, he's got to eat, too (don't ask me why).

Eighth Wonder of the World.

As you stand on the top of Stone Mountain, the like of which nowhere is seen, and Gaze on the azure of Heaven, you think of man's triumphs so lean.
Your soul is impelled with such fervor, that you cry out in loudest acclaim
How low and how vile are those creatures who seek to belittle God's name.

There is not in all God's creation, a rock so immense and in one,
As the great Stone Mountain of Georgia, that I had the thrill of being on.
And, from now until Gabriel's loud trumpet calling mankind on earth and within,
May the tribute expressed in those sculptures be as lasting to Lee and his men.

Superintendent's Message.

April 24, 1938.

My dear Boys and Girls:

Life in all of its forms is the world's greatest riddle and greatest gift. We know what it is to be alive, to see, to move, to walk, to feel, to love and to be able to do many things. Man is conscious of being alive, and is only partly conscious of his possibilities and what he may become. We know that animals must in a way be conscious that they are alive, and we know that many of them have learned how to protect themselves, how to care for their young and how to keep out of danger. We have not yet learned perfectly how to care for our own lives and the lives of our fellow man, much less to protect and care for the lives of the animals. Therefore, we have what is known as humane education—that is, training and educating people to take better care of their own lives, be kind and thoughtful to each other; to do all in our power to save each other from suffering and from death and then to extend these blessings to our animal friends.

This is Humane Education Week in the United States. We wish to emphasize that we should learn to be more thoughtful of each other, to prevent all the suffering possible to our families, friends and neighbors, and those who live in foreign lands, and that we should use this spirit of the prevention of suffering in the care of our fellows, and in extending our sympathies, our good will and care to the animal creation. He who feeds the bird when it is hungry or protects a forsaken dog or cares for an abandoned cat has added to his own soul the priceless virtue of mercy and tenderness and has given to his own consciousness the thought that "I have helped God in caring for an unfortunate."

Do your best this week and all the years to be careful of the lives and happiness of men and women and children and of the animals that are about us.

Always your friend,
WILLIS A. SUTTON, Superintendent of Schools.

Convention of Junior Red Cross Draws Students to San Francisco

Local Junior Red Cross members who will be delegates to the National Red Cross convention in San Francisco, May 2-5, are Patricia Stodgill, from Washington Seminary; Tommie McClure, Commercial High; Fluker Stewart, Boys' High; Correne Stephens, Girls' High; and Bertha Worthem, a representative of the Junior Red Cross associate honorary club.

The delegation, accompanied by Miss Mary Jernigan, Atlanta secretary of Junior Red Cross, will leave Atlanta on Tuesday, April 26. There will be sightseeing trips along the way, including stops at Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, and Los Angeles.

Talks will be made at the convention by all the delegates. Tommie McClure will tell about Junior Red Cross work in first aid, explaining that Georgia is the first state to have first aid courses put on throughout the state by the board of education. Fluker Stewart will discuss methods of interesting all students in Junior Red Cross membership; Patricia Stodgill will tell of the national activities in which Junior Red Cross can assist. Bertha Worthen will represent this chapter at a session in which there will be groups of Juniors who have graduated from high school and gone to college or into community life. She will talk about the types of service they can render.

GRADE AT FAITH GIVES TOY ANIMALS

Nursery School Expresses Appreciation for Gift of Sparkling Verse.

Two of our patrol are going to the convention in Washington. They are Robert Babb and Hugh Little. We hope they will enjoy themselves.

The nursery school children wish to thank the children of Low-3 for the animal pets that were given them. They wrote this poem in appreciation:

Eighteen little animal pets,
Made of cloth and cotton,
The Nursery School appreciates
Too much to be forgotten.
We have a happy time each day
When play time rolls around;
An animal pet for each of us
Makes our World go round.

Thank you, Low-3, thank you. We like them ever so much.

The kindergarten has a new doll. It is a Shirley Temple one and they enjoy playing with it very much.

The children in Low-3 made some stuffed animal pets. They gave some of them to Miss Massengale, Miss Boyston, Francis Gail Butler, Mary Jane Stanlet and Vergil and Emily Eady.

Every child in Low-5 has a dental certificate, making their record 100 per cent.

Almost every child in our school has a garden at home and works in it, and every child has a chance to work in the garden at school. We enjoy it.

HELEN M. WILLIAMS.

CLARK HOWELL PUPILS HAVE SCHOOL GARDEN

Ann Howell, our news reporter for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, is ill. We hope that Ann will soon be back with us.

Clark Howell was glad to have Miss Brown and Miss Fields, teachers from Griffin, to spend the day with them on last Monday.

The rain prevented an inter-school game at Clark Howell last Monday. We were sorry that Highland and Luckie could not play with us. We hope to have them at another date.

High 3 children are working very hard on the school rock garden. Today we planted several dozen iris, some various kinds of sedum, verbena and callopsis.

Low 3 has been doing some finger painting. They are going to iron out paintings today and tomorrow we are going to cover their Georgia note books with them

High 2, Mrs. Akin's class, planted strawberry plants in their garden and now they have strawberries ready to eat. They also won the P.-T. A. prize.

High 2-Tupper's class has seven children who haxe a perfect Sunday school record.

Low 2 wrote Easter greeting telegrams to their mothers and dads.

High 1, Mrs. Hardman's class, is learning the names of some wild flowers.

High 1-Haley gave a health program in assembly, Thursday.

Low 1 is very proud that most of their gardens at home have come up. There are many different kinds of flowers.

Our sponsor, Mr. Hibbett, gave us an easter egg hunt. It was lots of fun and we all enjoyed it very much. We made Easter cards for sick children who could not go out and enjoy Easter.

CONNALLY CHOIR SINGS AT CHURCH

Boys Enjoy Sunday Service at Cascade Methodist Before Breakfast.

The boys' choir of the fifth and sixth grades sang at Cascade Methodist church Sunday. After the service the choir was served breakfast in our cafeteria. The choir was glad to have Rev. H. H. Dillard and family to eat with them.

The third grade children are still enjoying visiting in Holland. They have made some lovely scenes on the blackboard and are making a Dutch village on the sand table.

The fourth grade is working on a play on transportation. They hope to present it on our May Day program. It is the "Development of Transportation" by Land.

We are having our school painted.

JOY COBB,
MELVIN MEEKS.

PUPILS AT INMAN ENTERTAIN P.-T. A.

Diversified Program Given at Tuesday Meeting.

High 1-I have been enjoying their recent study of pets. They have visited many pet shops. They also decided to make a paper pet shop on their bulletin board.

High 1-III enjoyed an Easter egg huntg iven by Mrs. Jeff Hanna.

Now here's news that is news! The Easter bunny visited High 2-II and brought candy eggs, bunnies and chickens. They also had an Easter shower, only it wasn't rain, it was books for their room library.

Monday the children of High 4-I gave the production of Show White and the Seven Dwarfs for the other fourth grades. They gave it again Wednesday for their mothers.

Law 5 is very much interested in dramatics. They have written and acted out three of these original plays.

Frank Wilson, of High I is in the hospital for an operation. Some of his classmates and teacher had a cheer-up party with him.

High 6-III have had group programs on Venezuela. The most interesting one was a resturant scene in Venezuela.

Inman parents had a treat at the P.-T. A. Tuesday as the pupils put on the program of old-time fiddling and swinging your partners, kindergarten toy-making, real pets, quaint songs, poems, plays, paintings, a fashion show exhibiting dresses made by students, and talks about interesting excursions and activities.

SNOW WHITE PARODY AT KINGSBERY SCHOOL

Mrs. Clark Williamson's class made some beautiful panels called Snow White and Prince Farming. The old witch is Soil Erosion. The seven dwarfs, Stumpy, Slopey, Washful, Freezy, Steepy, Block and Snappy.

These panels are so good that they were on exhibit in the city auditorium during the G. E. A.

A number of our posters and booklets are on display at the Biltmore this week. We hope you saw them at the physical education meeting there.

Low 4, Mrs. Wikes' class, had a nice visit from their sponsor, Mrs. J. W. Wesley, last Thursday. She brought them some Easter eggs; they were delicious.

Miss Hogan's class had a surprise when they came back after Easter. A piece of poison oak was found growing on their sand table right beside a Virginia creeper. After teaching the class how to know poison oak in the woods, Miss Hogan carefully removed the root from the sand table.

Miss Nell Williamson's class has a spelling flower garden which is growing more beautiful every day as they are working very hard on their spelling.

JOE BROWN CLUBS ARE EDUCATIONAL

Monday the preliminaries of the "Miss Joe Brown" contest were held at which time girls in the senior classes met under the direction of several teachers to determine which girl in 9-high at the present was the best all-round girl. The girls participated in certain trials to prove their quality. Winners will not be known until next week.

Opposite the girl which is judged the best is the senior president, Thomas Withorn, at the present. When the nine-high class graduates in June, Henry Russey will take Thomas' place and a new Miss Joe Brown will be elected.

Joe Brown is urging its students who have no dental certificates to secure these immediately as the school is eager to have that extra holiday added onto its spring holidays. There is still a remaining 200 to be brought in but new certificates are received every day and it is every student's hope that those who still haven't been will respond to the call of others of their friends and bring them in.

This week the Joe Brown library received two new books which have proved to be a true addition. These are: "Aluminum," by Hobbs, and "The Book of Marvels," by Richard Haliburton.

Joe Brown sponsors within itself several organizations which are branches of larger units. Three of the most outstanding are the Garden Club, the Girl Reserves, and the Home Economics Club. Each of these have their set activities and do their part in binding the school body together.

A few days ago Joe Brown was honored by a visit from R. H. Basmajian from Constantinople. He visited while at the school several of the subject classes and his talk of his and other foreign countries proved to be most interesting.

CAMPUS AT DAVIS HAS LARGE AREA

Numerous Trees and Flowers Attract Many Birds.

The extensive campus at Davis Street school is an ideal place for birds, since it contains many trees, shrubs and flowers. For the last several days the goldfinches have again used it as a stopping place on their migratory journey to the north, and their stay has been a delight to the children. Everyone watched them flying and eating and chattering. The sixth grade enjoyed seeing them through the telescope they received at Easter. In addition to the first-hand information, the children read many stories about these birds in their books. The sixth grade section of the Nature Garden Club gave a program on these migrants for the second, third and fourth grade sections, and the children sang songs they had learned about birds.

The boys and girls in the fifth grade are learning of many of the 250 species of birds that live in Georgia. All the children keep windows open as much as possible, in order to hear the cardinals call to each other. They like to hear their song of "Cheer, cheer, spring is here!" On clear days they go on walks to get better acquainted with the cardinals, robins, brown thrashers that make Davis Street school their home.

SLATON PUPILS HEAR ABOUT BERRY SCHOOLS

Slaton children are working hard on athletic buttons.

Slaton had many "Easter hunts." Jesse Draper, sponsor of High 3, and Mrs. A. P. Miller, of Low 5, were responsible for the grand time.

Mrs. Roquemore and Miss Cheely treated the kindergarten classes to lovely Easter baskets. They were filled with eggs by their sponsor, Cecil Hester.

Low 4 gave Mrs. Ada Jones a lovely Easter lily.

The High 6 grades enjoyed an interesting talk on Berry school by Mrs. Crawford Phillips.

Low 3, Miss Stalling's class, enjoyed a trip to a large greenhouse. They saw thousands of lilies and other Easter flowers. They had a large surprise egg from the bunny.

Miss Jones' High 2 had a good time last week at Ramond Roach's birthday party, at which his mother entertained.

FLORENCE STALLINGS.

MORNINNGSIDE REPORTS ON ATHLETIC TESTS

Morningside has many children who have won their athletic buttons. Field day was April 12. Eighty-four pupils tried and over half of them won their buttons.

We had five pupils who made gold buttons, 19 made silver and 25 made bronze. The children in the sixth grade will receive their buttons at their promotion exercises.

Fair Pupils Enact Jungle Scenes

Fulton County School News

E. Rivers School.

A marble tournament has been held at the E. Rivers school each spring for several years and this year Sanford Strickland, of Miss Phillips' seventh grade, was school champion, and Bob Cheek, of Mrs. Fowlkes' sixth, was runner-up. The other grade champions were Albert Best, Houston Myers, Harry Cargile, second grade; General Harmon, George Small, Morris McMillan, third grade; George Dunbar, Buddy Cogburn, Frank Owens, fourth grade; Max Lowe, Roy Doyal, Hubert Lane, fifth grade; Edward Lockridge, Robert Cheek, Randolph McGaughey, sixth grade; Harold Thomas, Dozier Rolader, Eugene Shearer, seventh grade.

Carolyn Evans won first place in spelling at Rivers school, and took part in The Constitution spelling bee.

This school was open for inspection by the visitors at the Georgia Education Association convention on Friday, April 15, from 9 to 12 o'clock. The guests enjoyed seeing the activities of the pupils and the new bureau of materials.

Miss Rene Davenport, one of the seventh grade teachers, has been absent because of illness and Mrs. Faust has been teaching her class.

Tom Shelton gathers the news for the Rivers school.

Longino School.

The Longino Glee Club and orchestra, under the direction of Miss Louise Watkins and Mr. Sheats, will visit the Central Park school in East Point to take part on an assembly program.

A rock garden has been started in the school yard by the fifth grade pupils because they have made a study of many kinds of gardens.

A play, "The Trial of the Birds," was presented by the fourth grade for their mothers when they came to the school to see the work that has been done in a unit of study about birds. Robert Stephenson took the part of the judge in the play and Jimmie McMullen and Johnny Dicks were attorneys. All the pupils in the class took part. They have made bird boxes, posters and booklets, and very soon they will take a trip to the capitol to see the bird exhibit there.

Liberty-Guinn School.

A real Chinese tea party with tea from China and rice eaten with chopsticks was enjoyed by the seventh grade pupils at Liberty-Guinn school last Tuesday. Two little girls served according to Chinese custom and the desks were the individual tables. Dessert was date pudding.

A Chinese village has been built by the seventh graders, and a part of the Great Wall of China, made by Amanda Land and Katherine Land, is shown. George Newberry and J. W. Childers built a house and Carmen Douglas made a sedan chair with real curtains which can be drawn. Edgar Crowder made a screen for the door to keep evil spirits away, George Newberry brought a school junk and a sampan, Helen Pass made a table to show the kind of furniture, Emogene Meyers and Joneta Burdetto made some pottery, Grady Webb made a mask to show what the Chinese children wear on festival days, and Granger Douglas made some chop sticks.

The class has a real Chinese newspaper which was printed in New York's Chinatown. They have copied some of the writing and have learned a few of the characters. Covers for a scrapbook were made by Annie Lee Glisson and Estelle Collins and each pupil made a page for it with a drawing or a curent event item. Elaine Malone made a products map of China.

The fourth graders made Easter favors for Hospital No. 48, and the third grade has made a humane scrapbook. Miss Paris had charge of a humane play given by the third and sixth grades at P.-T. A.

The second grade is interested in reading new health stories and the fifth graders are enjoying their history lessons.

Fred Colley brought a bird house to school and several pupils have brought old nests. The first graders are studying birds and making a collection of pictures and nests.

On Friday the sixth and seventh grades had a joint debate on the subject, "Resolved, That Slavery Was Worth the Cost."

A play day will be held at the school on April 30, with Dutch games as one of the special features.

CHATTAHOOCHEE SCHOOL.

Robert Berryhill was marble champion at Chattahoochee school. All the children are enjoying playground activities under the guidance of Mr. Truitt, PWA supervisor. The baseball team will soon have competitive games with other schools.

Many pupils have had long absences because of illness and the following have been welcomed back: Bobby Gary, Leila Hales, Boyd Williams, Freddie Lawson, Maurice Jones, Arthur Barker, Clarence Stell, Louise Crowder and Mary Moreland.

The fourth graders have made an interesting study of Switzerland, its surface, climate, size and people, and now they are drawing scenes and pictures of the children and animals.

R. L. HOPE SCHOOL.

Frances Stafford, Betty White, Peter McCurry, Lloyd Hobson and Harrison Denning took the principal parts in a play, "Ever Upwards," presented at the Hope school stunt night by the fourth grade, and this class won the prize of $2.50 given for the best stunt. The class also won the attendance prize given at open house. The prize money will be spent for something the class will enjoy, perhaps a picture for the room.

All the fourth graders have enjoyed a study of Africa and Egypt, and very soon Mrs. S. L. Daniel, who has been to Egypt, will tell them about her trip. They will also take a trip to Emory museum to see the Egyptian relics there.

New chairs have been bought for the reading group and the slip covers for the backs have been decorated with maps of various continents put on with crayons and pressed. A large map of Africa made of salt and flour and painted with tempera paints has been completed and many pupils have made small individual maps. There is a border telling the story of Egypt on the front board.

PUPILS OF CREW STAGE BROADCAST

Classes Present Harmonica Playing and Spelling Over Radio Monday

The following children from Crew spelled over WAGA radio station on Monday: Helen Citron, Pete Caras, Inez Humphries, from High 6, and Richie Mathis, Betty Croddock and Bessie Stephens, from Low 6.

There was a group of children who played on the harmonica over the radio also.

High 6 is glad to welcome back Phillip Froug who has been sick for two weeks.

Low 6 enjoyed an Easter party last Thursday. We played a game and Lucy Hankinson won the prize which was a chocolate bunny. Eugene Estes had his tonsils removed. We hope he will be back with us soon.

High 5 had a delightful visit from our sponsor, Mr. Kenneth Kalmbach, of the Kalmbach Travel Agency. We are studying transportation and so we were keenly interested in the fascinating things he had to tell us about boats.

Low 4 had an enjoyable visit to Grant park. We visited the Cyclorama and the zoo, and studied the trees and flowers. All had a fine time.

Low 3 had a nice Easter party and trip to the library last Thursday.

Low 2 had a delightful Easter party on Thursday the 14th. We made Easter baskets, sang songs and told stories.

WHOLE STANTON SCHOO REACHES TOOTH GOAL

Low 1 had 100 per cent attendance for last week.

Roy Dyer and Donnie Webb gave Low and High 1 an Easter egg hunt in the park. Bobby Morgan, Jack Kuykendall, Betty Anne Stewart and Janice Abrams found the four prize eggs.

Gladys Merck, Carmen Fornara, Joe Turner, Monteen Brownlee and Roland Hudson made perfect scores in our spelling broadcast Tuesday. We were very proud of them.

Stanton has completed its perfect teeth program. We are glad.

The fifth and sixth grades are having such a good time with the dances, Dan Tucker, Coming Around the Mountain, and Shoofly.

MARILYN DAVIS.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 23.—Cordial social interest centers in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edward Schilling, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Conradine Schilling, to Frank Martin Henderson, of Tampa, Fla., the marriage to be solemnized early in June at the St. James Episcopal church. Canon Charles F. Schilling, of Atlanta, will perform the marriage ceremony.

The bride-elect is the youngest daughter of her parents, her sisters being Misses Madge Henderson Schilling and Betty Owen Schilling. Canon Charles Frederick Schilling, of the Cathedral of Saint Philip and the Church of Our Savior, Atlanta, is her only brother.

Miss Schilling's mother is the former Miss Mary Allen Henderson, of Marietta, daughter of Charles Edward Henderson, of Tampa, and the late Betty Owen Henderson. Her paternal grandparents were the late F. E. A. Schilling and Amanda Agricola Schilling, of Marietta. Her father, Walter Schilling, is prominent in the church, civic and business circles of Marietta, being the city's postmaster, a member of the city board of education and treasurer of the local Rotary Club. For years he has served as vestryman of the Episcopal church.

The bride-elect graduated from Marietta High school and attended the University of Georgia, where she was a member of the Phi Mu sorority. She is a member of the Marietta Cotillion Club. Possessed of great personal charm, and with the unusual combination of auburn hair and brown eyes, she is a young person of winsome attractiveness.

Mr. Henderson is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nathan Henderson, of Tampa. His brother is Thomas Nathan Henderson Jr., and his only sister is Mrs. F. F. Dupre, of Los Angeles, Cal. He attended the public schools of Tampa and Asheville, N. C., and is a graduate of Riverside Military Academy, at Gainesville, Ga. He attended the University of Florida and graduated from the University of California, at Los Angeles, where he received an A. B. degree and where he was president of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. He also has a L. L. B. degree from the University of Southern California. He is a member of the Merry-Makers Club at Tampa.

Mr. Henderson's father is prominent in church and business circles of Tampa, and is chairman of the board of county commissioners of Hillsboro county.

At Decatur Club.

The choir of Druid Hills Methodist church, directed by Ethel Beyer, will be presented by the fine arts division of the Decatur Woman's Club at the clubhouse on West Ponce de Leon at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The public is invited.

A new and interesting Easter cantata, "Adoremus Te," by Arthur Clokey, is the work to be presented. An unusual and modern setting furnishes fine expression for the words by Loraine H. Miller, with nature at springtime lending the background for the Easter story.

The choir is composed of 30 singers. Soloists for the cantata will be Mrs. E. S. Radway and Lillian Black, sopranos; Helena Douglas and Mrs. W. E. Wilkes, altos; Eugene Doyal, tenor, and William Thaxton, bass.

Other members of the choir are Mesdames J. C. Brown, I. A. Erwin, W. B. Johnson, R. L. Towles, Joseph Bray, Guy Coker, E. D. Lester, Oscar Tigner, and the Misses Eva Everett, Ione Cail, and Izora Maynard, sopranos; Mesdames J. C. Withers, L. G. Martin, H. D. Dale, Eugenia Fambrough, W. E. Buntin, and Imaal Patterson, Katherine Burford and Carolyn Bennett, altos; Edmund Phillips, J. C. Withers, G. O. Bane, Edward Mumford and Phillip McGuire, tenors; Paul T. Arnold, Guy Coker, B. C. Speers Jr., Howard Allison and H. L. Middlebrooks, basses.

Organ, Piano Concert.

Wilbur Rowand, F. A. G. O., prominent organist and head of the music department of Shorter College, at Rome, will be presented in recital by the Georgia Chapter of the American Guild of Organists at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at Druid Hills Baptist church, Frances Felder, Atlanta pianist, will assist Rowand.

Emilie Parmalee, dean of the guild, extends an invitation to the public.

Rowand will open his program with "Grand Jeu," by Du Mage; "Now Rejoice, Christian Souls," and "Toccata in C," both by Bach.

He will play the masterpiece of Cesar Franck, "Grand Piece Symphonique," in its entirety.

Other numbers will be "Cantilena," McKinley; "The Squirrel," Weaver, and "Aria" and "Scena," from "Three Gothic Sketches," by Haussermann.

Mrs. Felder and Mr. Rowand will close the program with the lovely "Exultation" (for piano and organ), by Weaver.

Studio Club Musicale.

The Music Study Group of the Studio Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Waldo Oettinger, will give a program at 8:30 Monday night at the home of Kitty Butner on Wakefield drive.

Mary Pritchard, chairman of this program, will give a discussion on the program subject, "Italian Opera."

Illustrations will be given by Sara Minick, soprano, singing arias from operas by Donizetti and Ponchielli, and Emory Barton, baritone, singing arias from operas by Donizetti, Verdi and Puccini. Neel Thurman will play their accompaniments.

Mary Quigley, young Atlanta violinist, will be the guest artist. Alice Gray Harrison will play her accompaniments. She will play "Legende," Wieniawski; "Polish Dance," Severn; "Waltz in A Flat," Brahms; "Melodie," Gluck-Kriesler; "Schoene Rosmarin," Kriesler, and "The Bee," by Schubert.

N. A. P. S. Concert.

North Avenue Presbyterian school will present a choral program at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the auditorium of Bass Junior High school. Mrs. Haskell Boyter, director of music in the school, will direct the program.

The P.-T. A. of the school sponsors school music and a major project this year. They have provided choral singing for every child once a week. A tremendous interest in music and singing has been stimulated in the five months that this work has been in progress. The P.-T. A. is to be highly commended for this very progressive step.

Every child in the school has been given an opportunity to participate in the program Tuesday night.

The Glee Club will sing a group of three songs, "My Shadow," Hadley; "The Brownies," deLeone, and "A Spirit Flower," Campbell-Tipton.

A group of 19 girls will sing "Lift Thine Eyes," from Mendelshon's "Elijah."

A feature of the program will be the kindergarten orchestra, playing under the direction of little Caroline Conner.

Myrtis Trimble, soprano, and Herman Fittz, flutiest, will be guest soloists. Mrs. Charles Chalmers will be the accompanist.

Miss Parmalee Honored.

Emilie Parmalee, Atlanta organist, has been signally honored in that she was chosen to play on the program of the southeastern convention of the American Guild of Organists to be held in Tallahassee, Fla., May 9-11, inclusive.

Miss Parmalee will play Monday night, May 9, in the Florida State College for Women Auditorium. She will appear in joint recital with Mrs. Brooks, organist of Birmingham, and the Florida State College Glee Club.

Miss Parmalee's numbers include "Variations de Concert," Bonnet; "In dulci jubilox," Dupre, and a cycle by Karg-Elert, including "Melodia Monastica," "Aria semplice," "Appassionata," and "Chorale."

Charles Courboin, noted Belgian organist, will give a concert at the convention on May 10.

Mrs. Bonita Crowe, another Atlanta organist, will be speaker on one of the programs, representing the Georgia Chapter of the Guild.

Music Festival.

The eighth annual Festival of American Music will be conducted in five performances, Monday through Friday, at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Howard Hanson is the festival director.

I make mention of this event, because it is important to American composers that such a festival should be held annually to give their works public performances, and especially a festival of this size, for this event attracts large audiences from far and wide.

The following American composers are represented on this year's programs, many of their works receiving first performances, Burnet Tuthill, Ernest Lyon, Ferde Grofe, George F. McKay, Elliott Morgenstern, DeForest Cline, Harry Alford, Gardner Read, Leo Sowerby, Horation Parker, Charles Martin Loeffler, Vladimir Ussachevsky, Frederick Jacobi, William Ames, La Vahn Maesch, David Diamond, Charles Vardell, Aaron Copeland, Robert McBride, Howard Hanson, Bernard Rogers, Byron Arnold, William Grant Still and Burrill Phillips.

The works to be performed consist of symphonic pieces, symphonies, string quartets and quintets, and ballets. It is significant that America possesses now such a long roster of composers of sufficient importance to be included on programs of this kind.

New Atlanta Composer.

Another Atlanta composer has been added to the list of those who have written successful teaching pieces. Her name is Helen Little, and she has just had accepted and published by Theodore Presser Company a teaching piece for piano called "Under the Willows."

It is a graceful and tuneful little number with a singing melody above arpeggiated chords. It is very attractive and should prove popular with students.

National Music Week.

National Music Week will officially open next Sunday, May 1, with a concert program at 3 o'clock at the city auditorium, to which the public is invited, there being no admission charges.

The Atlanta Girls' Military Band, the only such girls' organization in the world, will make their debut appearance on this program, playing "Star-Spangled Banner" to open the program, and closing it with "America."

The Shrine Chanters, under the direction of Frank Cundell, will sing two groups, the first being "Morning," adapted from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite;" "Russian Hymn," Strake-Kountz; "The Bell Man" (Stratfors, 1616), Cecil Forsyth, and "The Sword of Ferrare," Bullard. The second group includes "Dedication," Franz; "Sylvia," Speaks; "Bird Song at Eventide," Coates, and "Plantation,' Steiner.

The WPA orchestra, conducted by Walter Sheets, will play the "Overture to Orpheus," by Offenbach, and selections from "The Desert Song," by Romberg.

Atlanta Orchestra.

The Atlanta Philharmonic orchestra, Georg Linder, conductor, will give a concert at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night, May 3, at the Atlanta theater, as one of the highlights of National Music Week. This will be the second symphonic program the orchestra has given this season.

They will open the program with "Coriolanus Overture," Beethoven; followed by the first movement of "Symphony No. 1," also by Beethoven, and "Largo," from the "New World Symphony," by Dvorak.

One of the features of the program will be selections from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Paul Overbay, Atlanta tenor, singing the solos.

Other works will be the first movement from Schubert's "Symphony in B minor," and the Overture to Rossini's "Barber of Seville."

G. S. C. W. Program.

The Georgia State College for Women's Symphony orchestra, said to be the only all-girl symphony orchestra in the south, with Frank D'Andrea conducting, will be presented in concert at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium Wednesday night, May 4, as another feature of Music Week.

Mrs. W. H. Allen, pianist, will be soloist in the Schumann "A mino Concerto."

The orchestra will play "Prometheus Overture," Beethoven; "Andante Cantabile" (for strings), Tschaikowsky; the first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony"; the "Andante" from Tschaikowsky's "Fifth Symphony"; the "Minuet" from Mozart's "E flat Symphony," and "March Militaire Francaise," by Saint-Saens.

There are 55 players in the orchestra, with full instrumentation.

"The Bohemian Girl."

The Alberta Carroll Summer Light Opera Company will contribute to the National Music Week program in the presentation of the light opera, "The Bohemian Girl," on Monday night, May 2, at the Woman's Club auditorium.

Principals in the cast will be Granett Trotter, Paul Overbay, W. S. Cotton, A. H. McLaughlin, Jerome Davenport, Elise Jamieson, Patsy Berry, Wilhelmina Browne and Bertha Brown.

Spring Festival.

The festival program of the junior and senior high schools of the city, with a chorus of 700 singers, and a large orchestra, will be given at the city auditorium on Thursday night, May 5. The concert is under the direction of Anne Grace O'Callaghan, director of music in the high schools.

Friday night, May 6, the elementary schools' combined chorus will give a concert in the city auditorium, under the direction of Ruth Weegand, supervisor of music in the elementary schools.

Negro School Concerts.

The Women's Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the National Music Week, will present two choral programs from negro schools of the city, the first being Saturday night, May 7, in the city auditorium, with combined choruses from the negro elementary schools of the city singing directed by Jessie Wartman.

The second will be at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 8, at the city auditorium, with the department of music of Morris Brown College, Earl A. Starling, director, giving the program.

The Tuskegee Choir.

The Tuskegee Choir, negro choir from Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, directed by William L. Dawson, will give a concert at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night in the city auditorium.

The Tuskegee Choir has met with success after success on the concert stage and on the radio. These singers went off the air February 21, after a series of 21 Sunday programs of 30 minutes each on a coast-to-coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company.

William Dawson is the composer of a symphony based entirely on negro themes that was played by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, and met with great success.

There are about 100 voices in the choir. Appearing on the Atlanta program will be a group of negro spirituals. They will also offer formal choral arrangements of such composers as Tschaikowsky, Wagner, Verdi, Debussy and many others.

Ensemble Program at Columbus.

The members of the Music Teachers' Association of Columbus will present a program of ensemble music at the Springer opera house on the night of May 7, as a celebration of National Music Week.

Over 300 children and young people will take part on the program, which will consist of piano ensemble numbers (using 10 pianos), orchestral numbers, vocal choruses, rhythm orchestras and folk dances.

For Mrs. O'Shields.

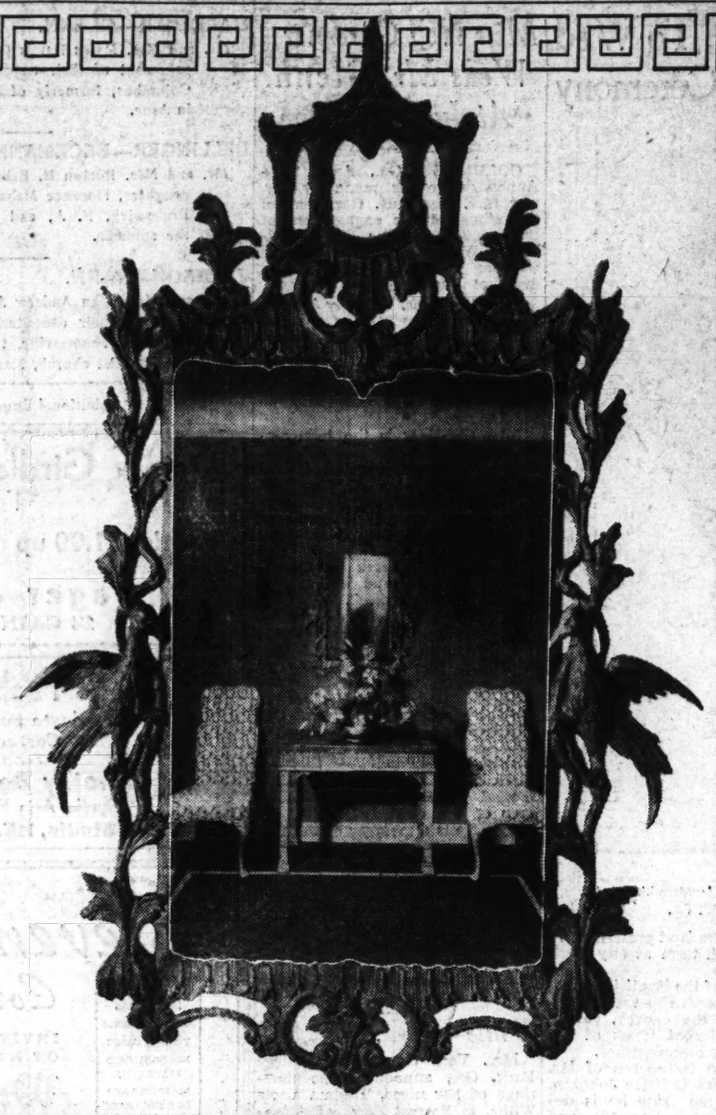

A reception was given in celebration of the 70th birthday of Mrs. Ella Perry O'Shields recently at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Millians, 1270 Druid place. A profusion of spring flowers were arranged in vases and bowls to carry out the color motif of pink and white. Forming the receiving line was the honor guest and her sons and daughters. Mrs. O'Shields was gowned in a frock of blue and white chiffon, her flowers being a corsage of orchids.

The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with an elaborate birthday cake embossed with pink roses. On either side of the cake were crystal candelabra holding white burning tapers.

Assisting Mrs. Williams in serving were Misses Helen O'Shields, Mary Faver, Louise Faver, Emily O'Shields and Mrs. Garland Embry.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LXX., No. 316. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 24, 1938. M SECTION

Foyer . . . Chippendale Chinese. Shown within a frame, a likeness of the exotic mirror in the foyer itself. Lacquer-green walls, contrast with accents of tangerine and ambertones of old pine. The Chippendale table of pine has a green marbleized top . . . With a pair of impressive chairs in antique brocatelle, it creates a striking group. A dramatic note is the pickled pine mirror in bird-and-pagoda design. Flanking the mirror are Tole brackets holding old polished horns, mysteriously lovely as the orient itself.

RICH'S HOUSE of TODAY

Newly Re-Designed and Re-Created for This Season

The House of Today—to live in today—and tomorrow! Six exquisitely conceived interiors, each room a foil for the other. Period groups alertly attuned to the modern tempo . . . a perfect blending of 1938 sophistication with traditional 18th Century, and age-old Chinese Chippendale.

Cool colors lifted from sapphire seas . . . Soft greys for restfulness . . . Vibrant, joyous Oriental hues. Six livable rooms . . . surprises in loveliness . . . achievements in charm. We cordially invite you to visit our House of Today.

Living Room . . . in Classic Period of 18th Century England

About the strikingly distinctive carpet, revolves the setting of this room. A delicate Adam pattern in crimson, peach, gold, and ebony seems etched into its blue-green hue. The walls echo the blue-green, with mouldings and pilasters in soft grey. Pictured here is the pilastered book case, with its outstanding Wedgwood collection. Centered is an inlaid Sheraton writing table. Mirrored panels gleam between the windows, dramatically draped in grey satin, curtained in sheer turquoise net.

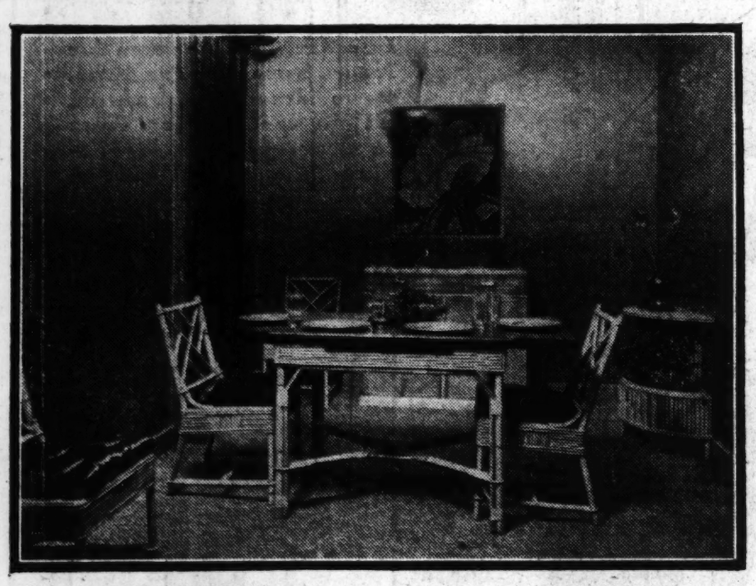

●

Another enchanting glimpse of the living room reveals a group about two old hand prints of Cupid and Psyche in restful grey tones. The crimson-covered Sheraton sofa, of fine proportions, is flanked by pearwood tables holding bronze-and-ebony lamps. A pair of ebony chairs with sumptuous turquoise satin brocade completes this luxurious yet livable scene. On the left wall (not shown) is a charmingly simple fireplace, with a recessed mirrored alcove. On either side stand gorgeous bronze and glass candelabra.

●

Another view of the Adam Living Room

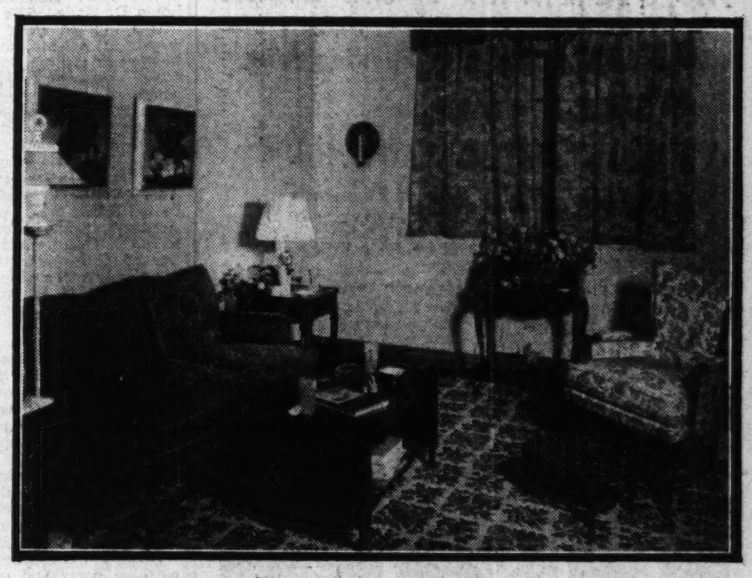

Dining Alcove . . . designed for modern sophisticates

A daringly vibrant room whose color motif of peacock blue and cerise was taken from an old East Indian shawl! Old gold tea-box papered walls and gun-metal matting contrast brilliant cerise hangings of shaggy barbeche cloth and the satin seat covers. The furniture of split bamboo is excitingly new in conception . . . the accessories intermingle both modern and oriental feeling. Pagoda-shaped cornices with small Buddhas top the windows. An exotic room for exciting entertaining and sparkling repartee!

●

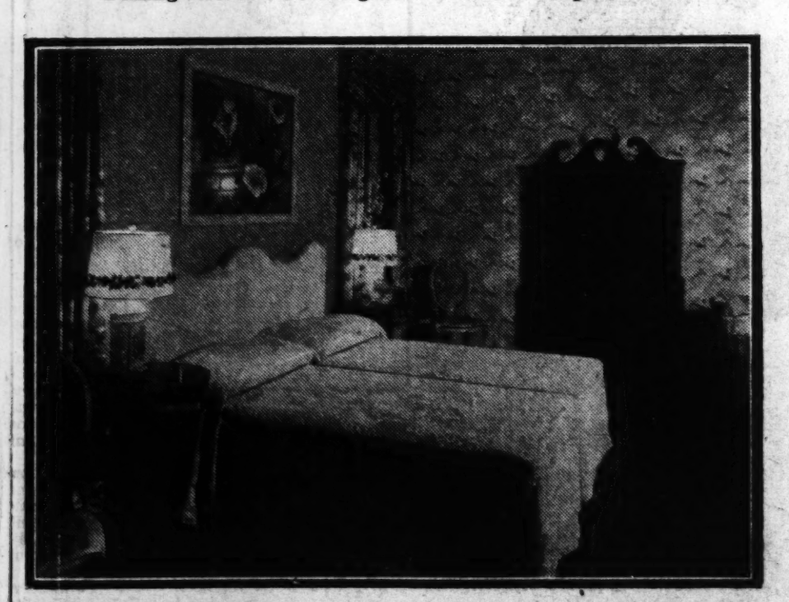

A cheerful, intimate room . . . bright with color. Designed with a capacity for lots of living! Bisque walls with hand-blocked border. Waxed floor covered with a creamy bisque rug figured in copper, green and brown. Provincial furniture, in hickory rubbed to a satin finish . . . invites you to lounge and relax. The single casement window is curtained in a quaint toile-patterned organdy, topped with a quilted linen valance. The love-seat is quilted linen, too. Tables are flower-laden.

●

Morning Room . . . in the style of Provincial France

Bedroom . . . 18th Century American in Contemporary Setting

Luxurious charm rests here! Between the chintz-curtained windows, is the magnificent double bed (really twin beds joined to a single headboard) . . . upholstered in yellow modern damask. Round night tables hold old pharmacy jars converted into charming lamps. On the right wall, an outstanding colonial highboy with a pediment top. The carpeting is soft green . . . the yellow wallpaper in a charming lily design. Flowers in the windows add a summery touch to a room where past and present unite.

●

Rough plaster walls in a pinky cast . . . gray-green flax carpeting (cool as the sea) . . . and a wall of glass brick to let the sunlight in! The chaise in a pinky white cosmo pattern is irresistible. The furniture is of cool bronze in an ivy pattern, intricately wrought. (The painted glass-top table and four chairs not shown.) Painted flower glasses and an English watering pot for the flowers add their intriguing notes to this picture of summertime living as it should be.

Terrace . . . . invitation to lazy restfulness

Miss Howard Weds Mr. Sanders At Church Rites

Miss Marilyn Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Howard, became the bride of Raymond C. Sanders at an impressive ceremony which took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at United Liberal church.

Rev. F. Mitchell Tileston, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives of the two families.

An appropriate musical program was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Abbott Taylor preceding and during the speaking of the vows. Seven-branched candelabra held burning tapers which cast a soft light over the altar, and stately palms furnished a background for the lilies which decorated the chancel. Bows of white tulle marked the family pews.

Alton Sanders, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Roy Sanders Jr., brother of the groom, and Dr. William L. Dobes, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. M. H. Varn Jr., of Denmark, S. C., the bride's matron of honor, was gowned in a dusty pink crepe distinguished by a bolero jacket buttoned in the back. White accessories and a corsage of gardenias afforded contrast.

Entering with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, the attractive bride presented a lovely picture in an ensemble of navy, featuring a front panel of sweetheart blue which matched the trimmings of her short jacket. Her hat was an off-the-face tri-corn of navy straw. The veil, tied in the back, repeated the accents in chenille dots. Sandals and bag of navy and gloves of sweetheart blue completed her costume. She wore a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies. In keeping with tradition her "something borrowed" was a beautiful heirloom brooch loaned by her great aunt, Miss Sophronia Durdin, member of a well-known Georgia family.

The bride's mother, Mrs. H. A. Howard, wore dark blue crepe with dusty rose trimmings and she wore a bouquet of gardenias. The groom's mother, Mrs. Roy Sanders, wore navy marquisette over taffeta with dusty rose points and a shoulder spray of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Sanders and his bride left for a wedding trip by motor. Upon their return they will reside in the city.

Miss Wade To Wed Phil B. Armour.

Miss Sara H. Wade will become the bride of Phil B. Armour at his home in New Albany, Miss., on May 8. Interest of friends in Atlanta centers in the announcement of the betrothal of this popular couple, made today by the parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Louie D. Wade. The bride-to-be was graduated from Girl's High school in Atlanta, and attended Monticello College, of which her father was financial secretary, where she was a member of the Delta Beta Phi sorority.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Armour, of New Albany, Miss. He was graduated from Marion Institution in Marion, Ala., and afterwards attended United States West Point Military Academy. Mr. Armour is now with the Georgia State Highway Department. After the wedding, the couple will reside at 195 Howard street, N. E., Atlanta.

Dinner Party.

The beautifully appointed table was centered with a large silver bowl of pink and yellow rose buds flanked by silver candelabra holding burning yellow candles. Places of the guests were marked by cards of the bridal motif.

Dell-Loftis Rites Are Solemnized

MOULTRIE, Ga., April 23.—Miss Kate Dell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Julian P. Dell, became the bride of James Robert Loftis Jr., of Washington, D. C., at a ceremony at the First Methodist church performed here this afternoon. Officiating was the bride's father, pastor of the church.

A program of music was presented by Mrs. Alma Booth and Mrs. Albert Snelling.

Ushers were William B. Dell, of Atlanta, and Truman Whitfield, of Emory University.

Attending the bride as matron-of-honor and as maid-of-honor were her sisters, Mrs. Richard Dell, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Mary Dell. They wore white silk net gowns over white taffeta and carried blue delphinium, pink roses and yellow snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Richard Dell, of Washington, D. C., and the groom was attended by Julian P. Dell Jr., of Savannah. The bride's gown of ivory satin featured a high neckline, and the skirt extended into a train. Her veil of illusion tulle was held with orange blossoms and she carried white rosebuds and valley lilies.

Mr. Loftis and his bride left for a trip to New Orleans. They will reside in Washington, D. C.

Miss Davis, Fiance Honored at Parties

Miss Josephine Davis, bride-elect, was central figure yesterday at the luncheon at which Mrs. J. E. McKinley Jr., and Miss Grace McKinley entertained at the home of Miss McKinley on College avenue. Mrs. J. E. McKinley, mother of the hostesses, and Miss Mary Phaup assisted in entertaining.

Guests were seated at individual tables which were centered with small crystal bowls of vari-colored garden flowers. The places were marked by placecards of the bridal motif.

Present were Mesdames William Eagle, Eugene McNeel, James Wheeler, Rufus Darby, Richard Waddell, H. W. Beers Jr., Misses Mary Phaup, Helen Barnes, Edwina Davis, Sarah Gray Rainey, Jacquelin Howard, Lufred Brooks, Dorothy Smith, Nell Scott Earthman, Charlotte Johnson, Marjorie Rainey, Doris Dunn, Caroline Ledbetter, Betty Sams, Eloise Estes, Katherine Ledbetter, the hostesses and the honor guests.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Daniel Jr., entertained yesterday afternoon at an aperitif party at the Piedmont Driving Club honoring Miss Davis and her fiance, Frank Inman. Mrs. T. H. Daniel, mother of the hosts, assisted in entertaining.

The party took place in the reception room and on the club terrace and members of the wedding party and other friends of the honor guests were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Rumph complimented Miss Davis and Mr. Inman last evening at a buffet supper at their home on Harvard road.

The beautifully appointed dining table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl of pastel-shaded spring flowers flanked by silver candelabra holding burning white tapers. Members of the wedding party were present.

Wright—Hammond.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Ruth Nash Wright to Egbert C. Hammond, which was quietly solemnized April 17 at the Hapeville Baptist church, with the Rev. H. W. Morris officiating.

Miss Lila Boozer, of Bainbridge, To Wed Joseph C. Ferebee in May

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., April 23.—The announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lila Tompkins Boozer and Joseph Clay Ferebee, of Norfolk and Lynchburg, Va., is of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends in Georgia, Florida and Virginia. The marriage will be solemnized on May 21 at the First Presbyterian church of Bainbridge. The bride-elect's uncle, the Rev. H. H. Munroe, of Takamatsu, Japan, will perform the ceremony.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late Donald Douglas Boozer, of Bainbridge, and the late Mrs. Edith Baxter Russell Boozer. She is a sister of Mrs. David Bowen, of Cairo, and Baxter Douglas Boozer, of Bridgeport, Conn. She is the granddaughter of Judge David Augustine Russell and his wife, Eliza Baxter Tompkins, on her maternal side, and of John Gormany Boozer and his wife, Elizabeth Ann McCuller. Both grandfathers served with distinction in the Confederate army, Judge Russell having been with General R. E. Lee at the surrender at Appomattox Courthouse, Virginia.

Miss Boozer is the descendent of distinguished southern families. On her paternal side she traces her ancestry to include Archibald Douglas and Sir James Douglas. On her maternal side she is a direct descendent of Robert Harris, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Captain William Green, Captain John Christmas, Major Andrew Baxter, of North Carolina, and Humphrey Tompkins, of Georgia, who served in the Revolutionary War. Miss Boozer also is a direct descendent of the Rev. John Springer, of Delaware and Wilkes county, Georgia.

The groom-elect is the eldest son of Samuel Paul Ferebee and Louisa Ola Covey. He is the grandson of Joseph Cartwright Ferebee, who served in the Confederate army of North Carolina, and his wife, Laura Northern Ferebee, on his paternal side. His maternal grandparents are Henry Clay Covey, of Maryland, and his wife, Louisa Seemer Covey. Mr. Ferebee's great-grandfather, John Russell Seemer, and great-grandmother, Louisa Draper Seemer, both of England, came to Maryland as children, with their parents, who were some of the first settlers of Maryland.

Mr. Ferebee is connected in business with the Ferebee-Johnson Company, in Lynchburg, Va.

After a wedding trip to Florida and Cuba, the young couple will make their home in Lynchburg, Virginia.

Josephine Davis To Carry Heirloom Prayer Book at Her Wedding

By Sally Forth.

WHEN pretty Josephine Davis becomes Mrs. Frank M. Inman Jr., on April 30, she will carry a beautiful ivory prayer book as the "something old" part of her bridal ensemble. The book belongs to Mrs. Frank Inman Sr., and it was first used when, as Miss Louise Reese, she became the bride of Frank M. Iman at the Reese home in Hancock county, Georgia. Mr. Inman presented the book to his future wife, and Dr. H. O. Judd, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Macon, officiated at the Reese-Inman wedding. He read the service from the ivory book that Josephine will carry next Saturday.

Several years ago when Sam Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Inman's son, married Margaret Garwood, the book was used by the bride and minister for the wedding ceremony. Sam, you know, will be the assisting pastor at the marriage of his brother and Josephine, and when the young couple take their vows, Sam will use the same prayer book which bears so much sentiment in the Inman family.

For "something borrowed," Josephine will wear the exquisite veil belonging to Mrs. William Conard. She wore the tulle veil in February when, as Lady Fleming, she became Mr. Conard's bride. Her only ornament will be a handsome diamond and platinum bar pin, the gift of the groom-elect. Tucked in her sleeve will be an exquisite old-fashioned lace handkerchief which will be loaned her by Mrs. Samuel M. Inman.

When a limited number of friends gather at the Hotel Candler, in Decatur, for the wedding reception to be given by Josephine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Eagle, two features will bear sentimental as well as interesting angles.

The knife to be used by the bride to cut the cake is one which has been used by brides for generations in the family of Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, grandmother of Frank. Mrs. Inman, you know, was Mildred McPheeters, and the handsome knife is an heirloom in the McPheeters family and was used by Mrs. Inman to cut her wedding cake when she became the bride of the late S. M. Inman in 1892 in Raleigh, N. C.

The bride's cake will be placed on a small table which will be covered by a handsome imported silk and linen cloth, which will make its debut, so to speak, at a wedding reception. The cloth was made in Germany and was exhibited at the recent World's Fair in Chicago. Mrs. Sam Inman was so attracted by the cloth that she purchased it and when her grandson marries next Saturday the cloth will be used as a part of the decorative scheme of the reception.

THE beautiful rose-cut diamond, flanked on either side by long baguette diamonds that surmount the ring which acts as a symbol of the betrothal of Emily Smith to Harvey Hill, was presented to Harvey's mother by his father at the time of his birth. It was at that time designated that it should adorn the ring Harvey would some day place on the third finger of his bride-to-be.

One evening, when Emily was only 13 years of age, it seems that Harvey called at the Smith home to squire her sister, Helen, now Mrs. George Willis, to a certain very important party. It was at this time that Emily happened to wander through the living room and thus brought about her first meeting with the man she will marry on June 9.

Sally will not try to convince you that it was a case of "love at first sight," but she believes that Harvey still remembers the conversation he had with Emily that evening while waiting for her older sister to put the finishing touches on her coiffeur. Harvey and Emily began to go together the fall she made her debut and a year later he asked her to become his bride.

THE engagement of Mary Kerr and Billy Brooks, which is announced today, never would have occurred had it not been for the prolonged Christmas vacation that Mary took last year from Mary Baldwin College, where she was attending school.

While home from Virginia it was necessary for Mary to undergo an operation for appendicitis and on recovering, having wasted so much time in bed, she decided to stay here a few extra days in order to catch up on her good times.

It was during these last few days that she met Billy, and it was exactly a year from that day of their meeting that he asked her to become Mrs. Brooks.

The bride entered with her brother, Ray Barbre, of Kinston, N. C., who gave her in marriage. Her lovely blonde beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of French bridal satin made along princess lines with long leg o' mutton sleeves which came to a point over her hands. The skirts widened to form a long train. Her veil was of rose point Venetian lace which was loaned by a dear friend, Mrs. Hugh Hardin, of Forsyth. It was held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book decorated with gardenias and valley lilies. She wore a small gold cross centered with a diamond, the gift of the groom.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Lindsey, brother and sister of the bride, entertained at a reception. Mrs. Amos Martin and Miss Evelyn Cox kept the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler are honeymooning in Florida. The bride traveled in a beige basket weave cape frock, with matching accessories. Her outfit was complete with a corsage of gardenias and valley lilies.

Miss Sarah Simms Is Betrothed To Ensign Edge

Social importance is attached to the announcement made today by Mrs. Arthur Benjamin Simms of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sarah Jackson Simms, to Ensign Lawrence Lott Edge, United States navy, formerly of Columbus, Ga., the marriage to take place in June.

The bride-elect and her fiance are representatives of distinguished Georgia families whose members have been leaders in the development and upbuilding of this state for generations.

Miss Simms is the only daughter of her mother, who was formerly Miss Eva Hurt, and the late Arthur Benjamin Simms, of this city. Arthur Benjamin Simms III is the bride-elect's only brother.

Miss Simms is listed among Atlanta's most popular belles and is a prominent member of the Junior League, and the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Junior Guild.

The bride-to-be finished her high school studies at North Avenue Presbyterian school. She attended Hollins College for two years, completing her education at Agnes Scott College. After her graduation, Miss Simms enjoyed several months of travel in England and on the continent.

On her maternal side, the bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Annie Bright Woodruff Hurt and the late Joel Hurt, pioneer builder of Atlanta and dynamic leader in its civic and cultural development. Her great-grandparents on her maternal side were members of the Woodruff and Lindsay families of Columbus, Ga., and the Hurt and Long families, of Hurtsboro, Ala. She is descended on her maternal side from the Lee and Jackson families of Virginia, her grandmother being the former Miss Sarah Jackson, of Greensboro, Ga., who married Colonel Arthur Benjamin Simms, a distinguished lawyer of Covington, Georgia.

Mr. Edge is descended from a line of ancestry long identified with the cultural and business life of Columbus, Ga. His mother was Miss Alcine Lott before her marriage to Ralph Wilton Edge. The groom-elect's maternal grandparents were the late William Lawrence Lott and Mrs. Effie Embry Lott. On his paternal side he is the grandson of the late Mrs. Araminta Brannon Edge and William Edward Edge. Miss Mildred Louise Edge, of Columbus, is his only sister.

After graduation from Columbus High school, the groom-to-be entered Georgia Tech where he became a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. After two years at Georgia Tech, he accepted an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., where he graduated with distinction in 1935. Mr. Edge was one of eight of his graduating class of 450 to receive a letter of commendation from the admiral of the academy. Since that time he has been stationed on the U. S. S. Maryland on the west coast until the past January when he was ordered to the submarine base at New London, Conn., for instruction in submarines. Upon graduation from this school in June, he and his bride will leave for the west coast, or Hawaii, where the former will be stationed.

Miss Louise Conradine Schilling, of Marietta, who will wed Frank Martin Henderson, of Tampa, Fla., at an early June ceremony at St. James church, in Marietta. The betrothal is announced today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Schilling, of Marietta.

Miss Smith and Mr. Hill Wed at Ceremony in June

Enlisting the interest of society today is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Emily Kendrick Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex W. Smith Jr., and Benjamin Harvey Hill, son of Mrs. Harvey Hill and the late Mr. Hill. The ceremony takes place on June 9, at Sacred Heart church, with Rev. Edward McGrath officiating. A reception at the Piedmont Driving Club will follow the ceremony.

Blonde and beautiful Miss Smith, a popular and admired member of the 1936-37 Debutante Club, and made her debut at a reception and dance given at the Piedmont Driving Club. She is a member of the Girls' Cotillion Club and a provisional member of the Junior League. The bride-elect attended Sacred Heart school, and graduated from the Georgetown convent in Washington, D. C. She is a member of the Pi Pi sorority.

Miss Smith is the granddaughter of Mrs. John Carroll Payne and the late Mr. Payne and of Mrs. Alexander Wyly Smith and the late Mr. Smith. She is a sister of Mrs. Francis Willis, Mrs. Thomas M. Clarke, Miss Carroll Smith, Miss Joan Smith and of Alex W. Smith III.

Mr. Hill received his preparatory education at Boys' High school and graduated with honors from the University of Georgia. He belongs to the Chi Chi fraternity and the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity. For three years he played halfback on the Georgia football team. Mr. Hill received his law degree from the Emory Law school. The groom-to-be is a member of the board of the Nine O'Clocks, an exclusive social organization.

Miss Smith and Mr. Hill are members of prominent and distinguished southern families. Mr. Hill is the son of the late Benjamin Harvey Hill, a well-known attorney, and of Mrs. Hill, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Blount Ridley, of LaGrange, and Mrs. Thomas Gerdine is his only sister.

Mr. Hill is a grandson of the late Dr. and Mrs. Francis Marion Ridley, of LaGrange, and the great-grandson of the late Judge and Mrs. Blount C. Ferrell, of Ferrell's Gardens. On his paternal side, he is the grandson of the late Solicitor General and Mrs. Charles Dougherty Hill, and the great-grandson of the late Senator and Mrs. Benjamin Harvey Hill.

W. C. T. U. Medical Temperance Head Stresses Prevention in Broad Program

By Frances Meadors Burghard, Cedartown, State W. C. T. U. Editor.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has always stressed prevention rather than cure in its efforts.

The following facts have been compiled by Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, director of medical temperance, National Woman's Christian Temperance Union:

"The re-legalized liquor traffic is spending enormous sums of money for the promotion of the use of alcoholic liquor as a beverage and as a medicine. It is well known to producers that medical sanction is the most respectable excuse for the use of alcoholic liquor which when made a part of the family medicine chest, is an easy stepping stone to the beverage use of it. Before prohibition the medical profession was frequently approached with offers of special discounts for recommendation of certain brands. One of the emoluments in this era is a gratuity in the form of a specially prepared quarterly periodical promoting the medicinal use of alcoholic liquor.

"The pioneer in this field in the United States was Dr. Nathan S. Davis, founder of the American Medical Association, who published the report of his experiments in a series of articles in a New York city medical journal in 1848."

"The medical profession was slow to accept the findings of either Dr. Davis or Dr. Richardson. Even as late as 1900 there were only a few leading physicians in either Europe or America who opposed the therapeutic use of alcohol. Since then great progress has been made. In 1917 the American Medical association passed the following resolution, which has never been rescinded:

"Whereas, We believe that the use of alcohol as a beverage is detrimental to the human economy, and

"Whereas, Its use in therapeutics as a tonic, or a stimulant, or as a food has no scientific basis, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the American Medical Association opposes the use of alcohol as a beverage, and be it further

"Resolved, That the use of alcohol as a therapeutic agent should be discouraged."

"Dr. Howard Kelly, of Johns Hopkins University, says: "If the army of drunkards which has been made by physicians' prescriptions could be marched to the next meeting of the American Medical Association, the question would be settled forever."

Dr. Nathan S. Davis, founder of the American Medical Association: "Every experienced practitioner knows that alcohol quickly increases the number of heart beats per minute, but the weaker the heart becomes the faster it beats. Consequently, the number of times the heart contracts per minute is no measure of the efficiency of its work. I have found no case of disease and no emergency arising from accidents that I could not treat more successfully without any form of fermented or distilled liquors, than with such."

Dr. Charles H. Mayo says that: "Medicine has reached a period when alcohol is rarely employed as a drug, being displaced by better remedies."

Dr. Richard C. Cabot says: "Alcohol is always a narcotic, never a stimulant, and therefore has none of the uses ordinarily attributed to it. The supposed value of alcohol in medicine has been exploded long ago. In our best hospitals—such as the Massachusetts General—it is almost obsolete."

Statement of president of the French Academy of Medicine at the 21st International Congress Against Alcoholism, Warsaw, Poland, September 12, 1937: "Total abstinence is the essential condition of a sane and normal life."

Elijah Clark Chapter, D. A. R., Wins State Editors' Annual Trophy

By MRS. J. L. MIMS, Of Hawkinsville, Ga., Editor, Georgia D. A. R.

The state editor's award, known as the May Philips Mims trophy, which was offered in the Georgia Society, D. A. R., last year, for the first time by the state editor, Mrs. J. L. Mims, was won this year, by the Elijah Clark Chapter, of Athens, with Hawkinsville Chapter winning second place. This trophy is awarded annually to the chapter sending in best publicity for the column in The Atlanta Constitution. The reports of chapters, meeting all requirements, were sent by the state editor to the committee suggested by the editor and named by the state regent to study and make the final decision. The committee serving for the past two years consisted of Mesdames D. Holmes, of Cordele, chairman; Sidney O. Smith, of Gainesville, and Lee A. Jordan, of Hawkinsville and Dalton. The editor desires to thank this committee for their services.

Button Gwinnett Chapter, of Columbus, recently held a service when a marker was placed on the grave of Samuel Cooper, Revolutionary soldier, on the Franklin D. Roosevelt highway, six miles from Columbus. This chapter has also marked the graves of three other Revolutionary soldiers, John Milner, Cleola; Richard Christmas, Midland, and Shadrack Rowe, River Road, Columbus. The service was conducted by Mrs. T. D. Power, honorary regent of chapter. Mrs. John Murrah read the ritual service and Misses Elizabeth Long and Mary Josephine Ford, members of D. A. R. Chapter, of Columbus, unveiled the marker. She placed this on the marker, the gift of Captain Yates, of Fort Benning. The speaker of the occasion was Paul Munro, superintendent of Columbus public schools. He is a personal friend of a descendant of Samuel Cooper, Mrs. D. P. Sturdivant, of Selma, Ala. Samuel Cooper drew five land grants, spending his last days on what is now known as the Franklin D. Roosevelt highway. He was a pioneer citizen, living to the age of 84, dying in 1841.

The pledge to the flag was led by Miss Minnie Merle David, chairman of Americanism; Clinton Moon, superintendent of Muscogee county schools sang, accompanied on violin by John Harris. Taps, sounded by Jack Butler, concluded the service. Mrs. Frank Davis is regent of Button Gwinnett Chapter and was present.

Pulaski Chapter, Griffin, unveiled a marker at grave of William Foster, Revolutionary soldier, recently, in Jester cemetery, near the old Foster home which William Foster built in 1833. It was unveiled by Henry Jarrell and Barbara Phinazee, great-great-grandchildren of Foster. He enlisted in the war on May 20, 1776, in Georgia. He died April 22, 1852, at the age of 106 years. The bugle call was sounded by Armistead Boardman, after which Mrs. R. G. Hunt, regent, led the ritual. The pledge to the flag was led by Mrs. P. D. Boardman, past regent. The invocation was given by W. F. Huddleston, after which the marker, presented by Mrs. Hunt, was accepted by Mr. Huddleston. Major Joel B. Mallett, of Jackson, spoke followed by the benediction by Rector Blackwelder and sounding of taps by Armistead Boardman. Mrs. W. F. Huddleston, a great-granddaughter of William Foster, is chairman of marking revolutionary soldiers graves.

Stephen Heard Chapter, Elberton, met at the home of the regent, Mrs. Z. W. Copeland. The opening prayer was led by Mrs. Anna Duncan. Resolutions on the passing of Mrs. D. N. Thompson, secretary of the chapter, were read by Mrs. S. S. Brewer. Miss Lula Peek, program chairman on colonial schools and churches, presented Mary Arnold Reid, Miss Edna Rogers, Mrs. W. E. Fortson, Mrs. Lester Lee and Miss Lula Peek.

T. Mayhew Cunningham spoke at a recent meeting of Savannah Chapter, on "The Formation of the Constitution of the United States and Some Present Day Tendencies." Mrs. Julian K. Quattlebaum was program chairman. Mrs. Scott Edwards conducted a memorial service for Mrs. Judith Jacobson Waite and Mrs. Isabelle Stanley Beard, former members of the chapter. Music was rendered by Mrs. Edwin Maner. Miss Isabelle Berry Weds Paul Johnston

ROME, Ga., April 23.—The wedding of Miss Isabelle Chaney Berry, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Berry, and Paul Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forney Johnston, of Birmingham, was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Mount Berry chapel, on the Berry schools campus, an institution founded by Miss Martha Berry, an aunt of the bride.

The chapel, a copy of Christ church in Alexandria, Va., was decorated with masses of Easter lilies, dogwood, palms and ferns.

Appropriate music was presented by the chapel organist and Rev. John W. Melton, pastor of the Rome First Presbyterian church, officiated.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Anne Thompson, of Fort Worth; Miss Mary Marshall Price, of Miami; Miss Marjorie Saltonstall, of Boston; Miss Virginia Johnston, of Birmingham; Mrs. Carl Lohmeyer, of Baltimore, and Mrs. George Brownell, of Tuscaloosa.

Three of the bridesmaids wore maize marquisette with matching hats trimmed in blue velvet ribbon and the others were gowned in delphinium blue marquisette with matching hats trimmed in maize velvet ribbon. They carried large bouquets of spring flowers tied with large bows of yellow and blue satin.

Miss Anne Bonnyman, of Knoxville, cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor and little Miss Diane Chaney, of Detroit, another cousin, was junior bridesmaid. Miss Bonnyman's gown was blue marquisette with an Eton jacket beaded in sequins. The junior bridesmaid wore a quaint model of yellow marquisette and her hat was a straw poke bonnet trimmed with yellow flowers. She carried a formal nosegay of pastel flowers.

Ushers were William S. Hutton, Detroit; Percy H. Clark, Philadelphia; Thomas Mason, New York; Henry Lynn, Charles Caldwell Jr., Birmingham; Marshall Rawle, Morris Brownell, New York; Tom Berry Jr., Schenectady, N. Y., and Henry and Randolph Berry, of Rome.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Joseph F. Johnston, of Birmingham, Ala., who was his best man.

The bride wore a gown of antique white satin fashioned on empire lines. Soft shirring was used at the sleeves which were three-quarter length. The long satin train fell from the waistline and the veil of Brussells lace fell the full length of the train. Rosepoint lace formed the cap and made a coronet at the front of the cap. She carried cape jasamine showered with valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a garden reception in the terraced garden of their home after which Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left for a motor trip to Florida, from where they will take a plane to Nassau. After June 1 they will reside in Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Lucretia Van Horn Becomes Bride of Lieutenant J. Y. Adams

Miss Lucretia Van Horn, only daughter of Brigadier General Robert O. Van Horn, U. S. A., and Mrs. Van Horn, presented a picture of radiant blonde beauty as she became the bride of Lieutenant James Yeates Adams, U. S. A., of Fort Benning, at a lovely afternoon ceremony solemnized at 4:30 o'clock yesterday at All Saints Episcopal church. The Rev. Theodore S. Will, rector of the church, officiated at the service which assembled a fashionable company of military and civilian society. Lieutenant Adams is the son of Colonel Emory S. Adams, U. S. A., and Mrs. Adams.

The decorations within the church adhered to the bridal motif of white and green. The chancel was outlined with candelabra holding white burning tapers, and between the candles were massed clusters of long-stemmed white gladioli. The altar was banked with fragrant Easter lilies, forming an effective backdrop for the filmy gowns of the bridesmaids and the military uniforms and the shining sabers of the groomsmen in the wedding tableau.

A program of music was presented by Joseph Ragan, church organist, during the assembling of the wedding guests.

Colonel Emory S. Adams served as best man for his son, Lieutenant Adams, and the groomsmen included Lieutenant Robert R. Glass, Lieutenant Joseph M. Cummins, Lieutenant C. Randolph Kutz, Lieutenant Leo H. Heintz, and Lieutenant Howard M. Snyder, all of Fort Benning.

Mrs. W. D. Williamson, of Atlanta, was the bride's matron of honor, and her bridesmaids were Miss Lucy Herndon Crockett, of New York city; Miss Marion G. Nulsen, of Fort McPherson; Miss Elizabeth Fugitt, of Atlanta, and Miss Susan Falligant, of Fort McPherson.

The attendants wore identical models of mist blue marquisette posed over crisp taffeta slips of the same shade. Fashioned with close-fitting bodices and wide, bouffant skirts, the picturesque gowns featured heart-shaped necklines and slightly puffed sleeves. The attendants wore wide halo hats of ivory-tinted horsehair braid, with mist blue velvet ribbons crossing over the head and extending to form ties under the chin. Bouquets of cream-colored roses formed an effective contrast to the lovely costumes.

The bride entered the church with her father, General Robert O. Van Horn, who gave her in marriage. Bridal satin of a deep ivory tone was employed to fashion her exquisite costume which was cut on princess lines and featured a long court train. Her tulle veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, the end of the veil being inset with a triangular shawl of delicate handmade lace, a valued family heirloom and the gift of the bride's cousin, Madame Michael Moukhanoff, of Avon, N. Y. The only ornament worn by the bride was the wedding necklace of her great-aunt, the late Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, of Washington and New York. Completing the bridal ensemble was an ivory prayer book, caught with a cluster of exquisite white orchids. The prayer book was first used by the late Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, and later carried by the bride's mother when, as Miss Lucretia Bourgeois, she became a bride.

As the bridal couple left the altar, they passed beneath an arch of sabers, formed by the groom's brother officers who served as groomsmen.

Owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride's mother, the plans for the wedding reception at the Officers' Club was canceled. A small reception, immediately following the ceremony, was held for the bridal party at the home of General and Mrs. Van Horn at Fort McPherson. Attractive arrangements of summer garden flowers in the Dresden shades adorned the reception rooms of the home. The table in the dining room was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake beautifully embossed in bridal design, its base surrounded by white roses, white snapdragons and valley lilies. The bride cut the first slice of the cake with her husband's saber.

Mrs. Van Horn received her guests wearing a smart redingote costume of white sharkskin silk. Her hat was a wide-brimmed white sailor and her flowers were a shoulder cluster of gardenias. Mrs. Emory S. Adams, the groom's mother, chose for the occasion a tailored gown of shell bisque crepe, and a wide brimmed hat of natural straw. Brown slippers and a cluster of bronze orchids completed her costume.

Among the distinguished guests from a distance who attended the wedding were Major General and Mrs. Frederick W. Coleman, of Washington, D. C.; Brigadier General and Mrs. Asa L. Singleton, of Fort Benning; Colonel and Mrs. Charles H. White, of Fort Benning, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moukhanoff, of Avon, New York.

Miss Holland Weds Mr. Armistead.

Miss Edna Elizabeth Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Holland, of Rockmart, Ga., and William Earl Armistead, son of the late William Earl Armistead Sr. and Mrs. Armistead, of Atlanta, were married on April 15 at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Palier, at 1620 Marietta road, N. W.

Rev. E. P. Eubanks, pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist church, read the service, which was witnessed by an assemblage of relatives and friends.

The musical program was rendered by Mrs. R. Chester Gloer, pianist, and Miss Margaret Meredith, soloist.

Cleopheus Nolen, of Atlanta, was best man. Miss Hazel Meredith, the bride's maid of honor, was attired in a sport suit of light blue worn with accessories to match. She wore a bouquet of sweet peas and sweetheart roses.

Martha Jane Holland, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Miss Maude Hulsey, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles.

The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue wool with three-quarter tailored swing coat and blouse of powder blue crepe. Her hat was a smart model of navy straw worn with short veil. Her bouquet was lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Armistead left for a wedding journey by motor Upon their return they will reside at 767 Pryor street in Atlanta.

May Day Health Pageant Planned For May 1 at Executive Mansion

The May Day health pageant, honoring Mrs. E. D. Rivers, first lady of Georgia, which is sponsored annually by the fifth district P.T. A., will be held May 1, at 3 o'clock at the executive mansion. Each local association in the district is requested to send a child with a May basket of flowers to the mansion on that date.

The pageant ushers in the summer roundup of preschool children. The summer roundup is the major health project of the national congress, and it includes examination in the spring of all children who will enter school for the first time in the fall; correction of all remediable defects during the summer; and a checkup in the fall to determine the condition of the children. As a result of this project, more children are entering school every year as free as possible from defects and protected against disease.

Mrs. Hub Huddleston, director of the department of health, is planning the May Day pageant, assisted by Mrs. T. H. Austin Jr., Mrs. Charles S. Smith, Decatur council; Mrs. Harry Ridley, Atlanta council; Miss Mary Neal Shannon, Fulton council; Mrs. Charles Mashburn, DeKalb council, and Mrs. Bohannon, Rockdale county.

Girls' High Reports.

"Our government as a republic is successful because the people can govern themselves," said Judge Virlyn Moore in his talk stressing self-government and the development of character, Tuesday evening at Girls' High on the P.-T. A. program. Judge Moore's talk was on "The Community and the High School Girl," and emphasized, not the three Rs, but the two Rs, responsibility in the community and respect for ability in the law, our associates, and ourselves. He was introduced by Mrs. J. L. Richardson, program chairman. Mrs. Paul McGee sang accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Withers at the piano.

Rita Santry, president of student government, and the board of managers explained the functions of each committee, and the significance of the shield which typefies student government.

Mrs. Lester Forbes, president of Girls' High P.-T. A., presided. Miss Jessie Muse, principal, stated that graduation takes place on May 31, and called attention of the audience to the art exhibit down stairs. It was a portion of the large exhibit collected at the city auditorium for the G. E. A. visitors, and represented model communities and ideal planting.

Boys' High Meets.

ZOTOS
MACHINELESS PERMANENT

The dramatic climax for your beauty...a ZOTOS permanent!

Machineless comfort plus utmost permanence

••Women who have known the joy and ease of Zotos never return to the discomfort of the old-fashioned machine permanent. Zotos needs no wires, no electricity, no machinery. Light little pads alone complete your permanent while you are free to walk about.

But the drama of Zotos lies in its supreme beauty—precision-timed to last with the amazing "Guardian Eyes." These two tiny red discs on every Zotos pad, by a seemingly magic change of color, signal your operator when your permanent reaches perfection.

Make an appointment today for a Zotos at your favorite Zotos-licensed Beauty Shop. And, while getting your permanent, ask your hairdresser about a new product called—LOXOL.

Your ZOTOS wave is in to stay when the "Guardian Eyes," the two tiny red discs on each Vapet, signal your operator by an amazing change of color.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

SUNDAY, APRIL 24, 1938.

DODGE COUNTY WINS $3,500 FIRST AWARD IN THE CONSTITUTION'S $7,500 PROGRESSIVE GOVERNMENT AWARDS CAMPAIGN AS JUDGES SELECT 13 COUNTIES BRINGING GREATEST BENEFITS TO CITIZENS FOR 1937.

IN ORDER to increase the quality of beef cattle, Dodge county maintains fine Hereford and Aberdeen Angus herds and co-operates with farmers and 4-H Club members in raising the standard of production.

OFFICIALS AND CITIZENS vied in aiding D. W. McCranie, Dodge county commissioner, Eastman, in his drive to win the first award. Shown, left to right, in front of a new demonstration home to be used by home economics classes, are the following officials: W. L. Bowen, school superintendent; Dr. J. L. Gallemore, health commissioner; J. W. Jones Sr., ordinary and treasurer; D. S. Stokes, clerk of court; Mr. McCranie; D. D. Smith, judge of city court; J. C. Lewis, sheriff; Fred Jones, tax commissioner; R. F. Burch, former commissioner and leading citizen, and W. A. Wooten, solicitor city court.

A COMMUNITY HOUSE, built near Eastman, had the co-operation of the county commission and a large part of the materials were provided without cost.

LIVESTOCK sales at this barn attracted the attention of national operators who pointed to the fact that the service charge in Dodge county is one of the smallest in the country. Sales aggregated $30,000 since it was opened in the summer in 1937. In one week they totaled about $7,000.

Photographs by H. J. Slayton.

AT THE NEW DODGE COUNTY Farmers' Market, completed last year, co-operative sales will reach a new high this year as a result of this facility, it is said.

A NEW CANNING PLANT with every modern facility available, free of any cost, is at the disposal of farm families of Dodge county.

(Right)

THE HENDRIX CONSOLIDATED High school, built co-operatively by the district board of education and the Dodge county commission, is another example of co-operative enterprise.

ASPIRING YOUNGSTERS learn trades in one of the best equipped trade schools in Georgia as a part of the curriculum of the Dodge county school system.

WINGS OF THE FLEET. Flight decks crammed with fighters of the air—the giant aircraft carriers Ranger, Saratoga and Lexington—plough through the Pacific waters during the United States fleet maneuvers.

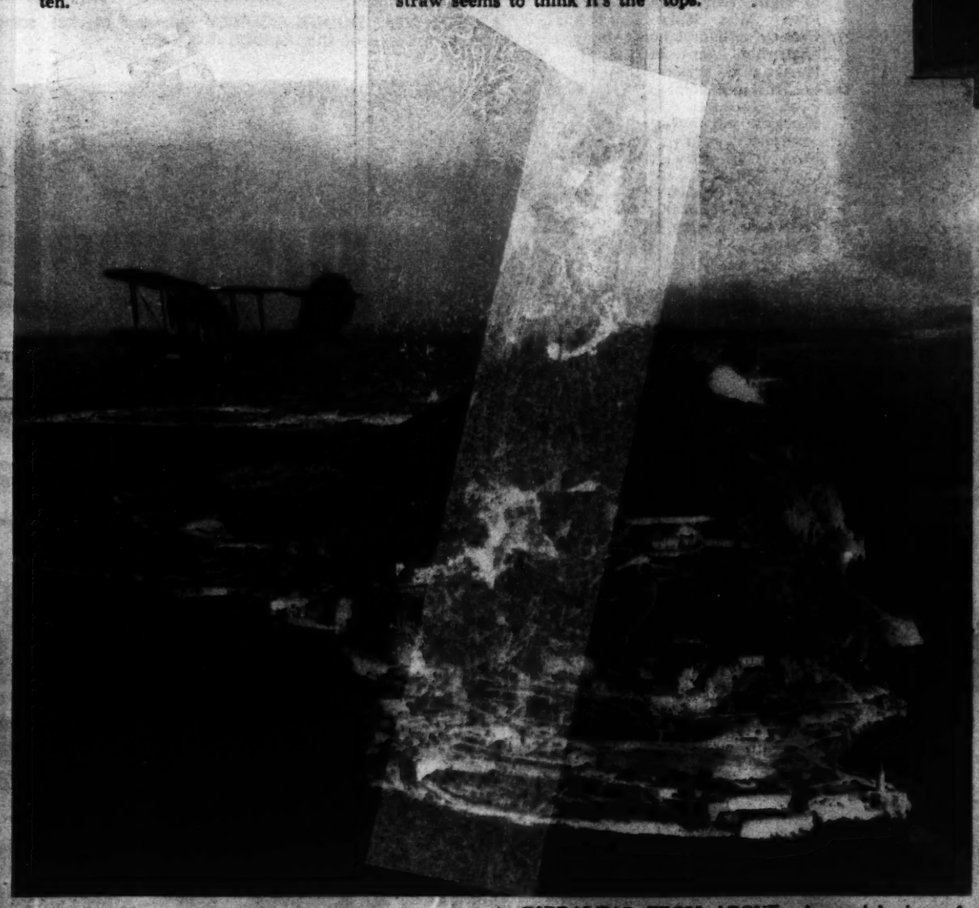

CIRCUS CHAPEAU. Arleen Whelan wears this "Clown's Cap" hat, the latest millinery lunacy. The two stuffed clowns perched on a peak of yellow straw seems to think it's the "tops."

BEAUTY AND THE BEACH. Ann Sheridan, titian-haired screen actress, who was recently acclaimed as the possessor of the "perfect American girl figure," displays a new beach ensemble which features a longitudinal striped play suit with detachable skirt and sun hat to match.

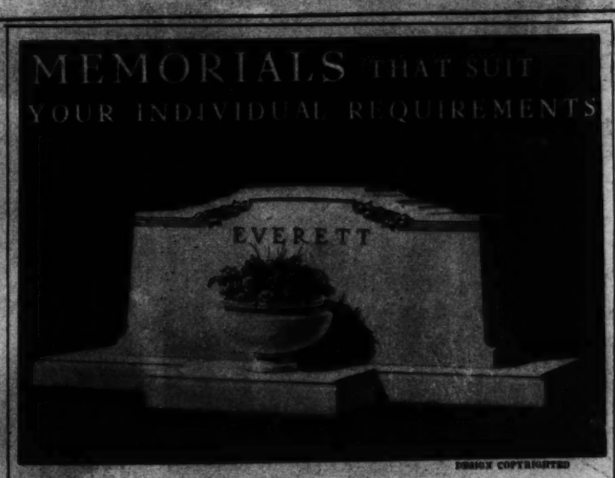

HI, PAL! Anything, pet fanciers feared, might happen when the American Mouse Fanciers and the Columbian Cat Fanciers held shows in the same building at Washington, D. C. And it did! This mouse went over to the cat show and paid this very sociable call on a kitten.

(Left)
BELIEVED TO BE THE OLDEST AND LARGEST THING ALIVE is this Wawona tree in the Yosemite National park. The 26-foot tunnel through this tree was cut in 1881. Many of the trees in the park were mature when Rome fell.

GIBRALTAR FROM ABOVE. An aerial view of the rock of Gibraltar, Britain's gateway and once called the impregnable guardian of the Mediterranean. Ships of all nations are anchored in the harbor and with them are mighty gray warships of the fleet which patrol the Straits and vast sea so valuable to England.

"CENTER YOUR FIRE ON THE MEN WITH THE SCALING LADDERS," TARZAN DIRECTED.

THREE TIMES THE FOE SURGED FORWARD AND WAS THRICE REPULSED.

FLASHING VOLLEYS RIPPED THE RANKS OF THE SAVAGES AND THEY FELL BACK.

"WE'VE PLENTY OF POWDER; WE CAN HOLD THEM OFF," JAN VAN BOEREN CRIED CHEERILY.

NOW THE WOMEN HURRIED TO SMIT'S STORE FOR FRESH SUPPLIES OF POWDER, SHOT, AND CARTRIDGES.

BUT WHEN THE NEW AMMUNITION WAS LOADED INTO MUSKET AND RIFLE, IT FAILED TO FIRE.

"THE DEALER CHEATED ME," SMIT LIED, TO COVER THE FACT THAT HE HAD DELIBERATELY SPOILED THE POWDER.

LATER HE CONFIDED TO ANNITJE; "THE SAVAGES PROMISED ME MUCH GOLD IF THEY TAKE THE TOWN TONIGHT."

AT FIRST THE GIRL WAS SHOCKED BY HIS TREACHERY, BUT HER VANITY WAS DAZZLED BY THE PROSPECT OF RICHES

"THEN WE CAN GO TO THE CITY AND LIVE IN LUXURY," SHE COOED; "YOU ARE WONDERFUL, HENRIK."

NOW WITHOUT AMMUNITION, THE DEFENDERS WERE HELPLESS TO STEM THE SAVAGE TIDE.

"I know the kind of tobacco bought for various cigarettes," says Beckham Wright, who has been growing tobacco for 19 years. "Camel got my choice tobacco last year, as they 'most always do. You bet I smoke Camels—I know what fine tobacco is in 'em."

"I had the dandiest tobacco crop ever last year," says Roy Jones, well-known tobacco grower. "Camel paid the biggest prices to get the best lots. I know Camel uses costlier tobaccos, so they're the kind I smoke. Camel is the leading cigarette down our way."

Walter Devine's tobacco brought the highest price in his market last year. "The Camel people took the choice lots," he says. "They usually do. I know tobacco, so I'm partial to Camels. Most of the big growers here feel the same way. They're Camel smokers too."

WHILE JANE WAS STAGING HER FAKE ROBBERY, THE "MAN WITH THE SCAR," NOTORIOUS CROOK, ARRIVED ON THE SCENE—

PUT YOUR PURSE ON THAT TABLE AND TURN AROUND—I'M GOING TO SEARCH THIS PLACE UNTIL I FIND THAT NECKLACE!!

IT WON'T DO YOU ANY GOOD! YOU CAN'T FIND IT IF I CAN'T!

H'M—NOT HERE—AND HE TOLD YOU IT WAS IN THE BANK, EH?

THAT'S WHAT HE SAID!

H'M—I BELIEVE YOU HAVE THOSE JEWELS!

STEP IN THAT ROOM AND TAKE OFF YOUR CLOTHES—I'M GOING TO SEARCH THEM—PUT ON THIS ROBE!

WHAT IF I SHOULD SCREAM?

YOU WON'T! YOU'RE A CROOK, TOO—YOU CAN'T BE FOUND HERE ANY MORE THAN I CAN!

YOU'RE RIGHT—I CAN'T AFFORD TO CALL THE POLICE!

NO FUNNY BUSINESS! BRING YOUR CLOTHES OUT HERE AS SOON AS YOU'VE CHANGED! IF THOSE DIAMONDS ARE HERE, I'LL FIND THEM!

THEY AREN'T ON ME—THAT'S THE TRUTH!

LEON IS TIED TOO TIGHTLY TO HELP ME—I'M ON MY OWN—IF ONLY HE DOESN'T THINK TO LOOK IN THAT GLOVE!

HERE THEY ARE—I TOLD YOU I DIDN'T HAVE IT!

I HOPE YOU DIDN'T TRY TO HIDE IT IN THE OTHER ROOM!

SO, YOU WERE TELLING THE TRUTH—

I THOUGHT YOU WERE LYING—BUT I'VE SEARCHED THIS PLACE INSIDE OUT—I THOUGHT YOU WERE STILL TRYING TO GET AWAY WITH THE NECKLACE!

I MIGHT HAVE TRIED THAT WITH SOMEONE ELSE, BUT NOT YOU—YOU'RE THE ONLY CROOK IN THE WORLD THAT I ADMIT IS AS CLEVER AS I AM!

TO KILL TIME EVENINGS AND RAINY DAYS, SHANGHAI HAS SAT IN THE WOOD HOUSE AND WHITTLED---A RICH COUPLE, STOPPING FOR DOUGHNUTS WERE SO IMPRESSED BY HIS WOOD CARVINGS AND BY HIS INDEPENDENCE THAT THEY PAID HIM FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR TWO OF HIS WOODEN FIGURES---

I'M TELLIN' YUH THEY WERE WORTH FIVE HUNDRED- THAT OLD SAILOR WITH TH' JUG WAS PERFECT- AND TH' SAVAGE GETTIN' TH' SPEAR IN HIS GIZZARD! BR-R-R-- YUH COULD ALMOST HEAR HIM HOLLER-

OH, I'M SO GLAD FOR HIM- WHAT IS HE GOING TO DO WITH THE MONEY?

I'LL ANSWER THAT- THE FIVE HUNDRED GOES INTO THE POT, OF COURSE-

THE POT? I DON'T THINK I UNDERSTAND-

WELL, I DO- AND I'LL NOT HAVE IT- YOU EARNED IT, SHANGHAI- YOU KEEP THAT MONEY-

NO! YOU PEOPLE TOOK ME IN- ASKED NO QUESTIONS- FED ME- GAVE ME A HOME- EACH OF YOU GAVE YOUR ALL TO MAKE THIS HOUSEHOLD SELF-SUSTAINING-

ALL FOR ONE- ONE FOR ALL- SORT OF A FAMILY AFFAIR- I LIKE THAT- OF COURSE I REALIZE I'M ONLY A ONE LEGGED OLD TRAMP- BUT I THOUGHT-----MAYBE--

YOU WOULDN'T MIND IF I FOLLOWED YOUR RULES- IF YOU'D RATHER NOT HAVE ME IN THIS ENTERPRISE I CAN'T BLAME YOU--

BUT THE FIVE HUNDRED IS YOURS- IT'LL HELP PAY FOR MY BOARD AND KEEP PERHAPS--- AND---AND---I'LL BE GOING---

SHANGHAI! STOP! YOU KNOW WE OWE YOU MORE THAN WE CAN PAY-

AS TO BEING A MEMBER OF THIS FIRM, YOU ARE ONE- YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY IN, SHANGHAI-

WHY, SHANGHAI- YOU SHOULD KNOW WE'VE REGARDED YOU AS ONE OF US SINCE THE DAY YOU CAME HERE-

YOU'VE SAVED OUR BACON PLENTY TIMES-

WILL YOU TAKE THE MONEY, THEN?

SINCE YOU WANT US TO, YES-

HERE- IT GOES IN WITH THE DOUGHNUT MONEY- JOINT ACCOUNT- BUT IT'S NOT FAIR TO YOU-

THANKEE- IT MEANS A LOT TO BE ABLE TO FEEL ONE IS OF SOME IMPORTANCE- THAT HE'S KEEPING UP HIS END, AFTER A FASHION-

I CAN'T IMAGINE YOU NOT DOING THAT, AND MUCH MORE, SHANGHAI-

THE PRIDE OF THE MAN- HE MAY HAVE BEEN BROKE, BUT HIS KIND NEVER COULD BE A REAL TRAMP OR BEGGAR-

ROUGH- THE WAY MY CALEB WAS ROUGH- VIOLENT IN ACT AND SPEECH, BUT WITH A HEART- ODD HOW HE BRINGS BACK MEMORIES OF MY CALEB-

CAPTAIN CALEB- A FINE FORTUNE HE HAD WHEN WE SHOOK HANDS AND PARTED- ME STAYING WITH THE SEA- HIM RETURNING TO HIS FAIR YOUNG BRIDE AND A HAPPY LIFE ASHORE, IT SEEMED----HM-M- WHAT WENT WRONG? WHO? HOW? BUT WALK SOFTLY, SHANGHAI-

The flowers are beautiful, Hön,
All fresh with the dew and the sun,
They give me a thrill;
But I keep thinking still
That maybe some golf would be fun.

The scent of bouquets is sublime!
But pardon my saying that I'm Inclined to think you
Would find golf pleasant, too,
We really must try it, sometime!

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

By PETER LEVINS.

After no less than 11 trials, the leaders of the dreaded Mafia have at last been brought to justice in the Argentine. More than five years intervened between the final crime and the conviction of the participants. Before that final outrage there had been numerous ruthless kidnapings and killings—and no convictions. Today the Argentine authorities declare that the Mafia is shattered in their country as completely as in Italy and the United States.

This organization, better known to an older generation as the Black Hand, had been the scourge of Italy for centuries. Just as the underworld of every country and every region develops its own methods of crime, the Mafia's peculiar weapons were those of blackmail and kidnaping. For kidnaping, the desolate, inaccessible hills of interior Sicily were admirably suited. There the Mafiosi were practically beyond the reach of the law. Manhunts usually meant ambush.

After the war the activities of the organization increased considerably. It was estimated that the victims of the Mafia numbered 365 in 1992, 960 in 1923, and 760 in 1924. Then the Italian government, under Mussolini, launched a systematic cleanup, directed by Police Chief Cesare Mori. The police went through Sicily like an army of occupation. About 1,500 were arrested and most of them went to jail.

ITALIAN QUARTERS INFESTED BY MAFIA.

In the United States the Black Hand had existed in fact and fiction since the 1880's. The Italian quarters of New York and Chicago were repeatedly subjected to various forms of extortion. The Mafia in time dominated certain types of business peculiar to Italian immigrants, compelling merchants to pay for "protection" under threat of death. Much of the business correspondence of the terrorists was written, older readers will recall, in blood. And the signature was invariably in the form of a black hand.

One of the most notorious Mafia leaders in New York was Lupo the Wolf, who established the first actual chapter of the organization 34 years ago. With his brother-in-law, Ciro Terranova, Lupo gained a stranglehold on New York Italians which was not broken until he went to Atlanta to serve a long sentence for counterfeiting. As for Terranova, he recently died broke.

In Chicago the Mafia centered in the Unione Sicilione. There, as in New York, the organization gathered many recruits from criminals—and their families—fleeing Fascist Sicily. They found dry America an ideal field.

* * *

The wave of crime that marked the prohibition years in this country is still fresh in our memory. Outlawry, of course, was by no means confined to Sicilians and their offspring, but Al Capone, the kingpin racketeer of that decade, found his main strength in the Unione Sicilione. Leadership of the organization usually meant sudden death for the titleholder within a few months, or even days. Capone's torpedoes accounted for several, at least, before he gained undisputed control.

Fortunately, several things happened in quick succession to rescue the country from the Mafia and similar mobs—the depression, a new government, repeal of prohibition, and the rise of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Today Capone is in Alcatraz, and those of his kind who aren't dead or in prison have for the most part been reduced to petty crime or honest employment.

In South America the Mafia gained a foothold in Argentina as early as 1915, when the organization became active in the agricultural provinces of Santa Fe and Cordoba, to the north and northwest of Buenos Aires. These provinces, rich in soil and well suited for cultivation of small peasant farms, had been settled by Italian immigrants in the 1880's and 90's. The Mafia, masquerading as a philanthropic Sicilian society, held its first meeting in the Colon theater in Rosario, and presently began an active career of extortion.

By 1930 the criminal society had become a national menace, specializing in kidnaping for ransom. Its victims were not always found alive. As these crimes continued through 1931 and '32, and as the authorities seemed helpless in the situation, the newspaper Critica, of Buenos Aires, decided to dispatch one of ist best reporters, Silvio Alzogaray, to make an investigation.

Alzogaray went to Rosario late in September. His first articles to his paper created a sensation — and aroused the Mafia. Within a week after the reporter arrived, Alfredo Gonzales, a taxi driver, whom he had hired to guide him through the Italian quarter on his nightly trips, was found stabbed to death at his wheel. At the same time Alzogaray received anonymous warnings to get out of town.

The reporter could not be intimidated. The morning after Gonzales' death his paper featured an article by Alzogaray in which he charged that the Rosario Mafia enjoyed the tacit support of the city's police department. "I accuse the Mafia and the police," he wrote, "of having perpetrated this outrage."

The next day an attractive young woman, Graziella Sabelli de Marino, who had close connections with the local Mafia, visited Alzogaray and told him that he must quit his investigation and get out of Rosario. She admitted frankly that the chief of the organization had sent her.

"You are wasting your time,' Alzogaray told her. "I will not leave until my job is done."

* * *

The next day, October 8, the reporter was sitting in a cafe on Montevideo street, Rosario, editing an article which he intended to mail that day, when he was called to the telephone. Some one professing to be speaking for his landlady informed him that there was a telegram at the house from his newspaper.

Alzogaray gathered up his notes, paid his check, and stepped out of the cafe. He was crossing the street when an automobile slowly passed—and a blast of revolver fire ended his investigation.

This deliberate murder appalled the country, and made matters very hot indeed for the Mafia. However, the Rosario police could make no headway. No one had taken the license number of the assassins' car—or if any one noticed the number fear sealed his lips.

So the Mafia rode on—to its ultimate fall.

THE CRIMINALS STRIKE AGAIN.

It struck again just 15 days after the killing of Alzogaray. On Sunday evening, October 23, three young men enjoyed the movie show at the Colonial theater in Marcos Juarez, near Rosario, and then started for Calchaqui, the ranch estate owned by the immensely wealthy Ayerza family.

The party consisted of Abel Ayerza, 20-year-old medical student; Santiago Hueyo, 21, a law student, son of the Argentine Minister of Finance, Dr. Alberto Hueyo, and Alberto Malaver, 21, law student and son of another prominent family. The driver of their car was Juan Bonetto, administrator of Calchaqui, where the three youths were spending two weeks' vacation.

They were moving along a secluded road about ten miles out, and had just passed a bridge, when they noticed the dimmed lights of another car which had stopped directly in their path. Bonetto braked his machine and got out. At the same time a man alighted from the other car and asked how to get to Marcos Juarez.

Hardly had Bonetto answered when four men, armed with rifles, their faces covered to the eyes with bandannas, sprang out of the darkness and surrounded the Ayerza car. They ordered the young men to get out of the car, then asked for Abel Ayerza. When he readily spoke up, they asked for proof. He showed them the initials in his hat.

"Step over to our car," one of the strangers directed.

Now Hueyo spoke up. "I will go along, too," he said. "I am the son of Mr. Hueyo, the Finance Minister.

The gunmen agreed. Both youths were bound and placed in the kidnap car, then Bonetto and Malaver were tied up and gagged and placed in the Ayerza car, whose tires had meanwhile been punctured.

"This is a kidnaping," the spokesman said. "Do not try to get loose for at least two hours—and do not tell the police. The boys' families will hear from us very soon."

Then they drove away with their captives.

* * *

An hour later Bonetto and Malaver worked themselves loose and decided to return to Marcos Juarez immediately. Bonetto led the way to a small farm, whose owner he knew, and borrowed a car for the drive back. In Marcos Juarez he notified Chief of Police Leonidas Romo.

Bonetto said the kidnap car was a large blue sedan, probably a Hudson. The leading gunman—or at least the one who had done the talking—spoke Spanish with a marked Italian accent. One of the gang seemed hardly more than 18 or 19, said Bonetto.

Early the next morning, as Buenos Aires newspapers told of the newest Mafia outrage, Santiago Hueyo suddenly reappeared at Rosario police headquarters. After a brief visit there he dispatched some telegrams, had a bite to eat and, eluding reporters with the aid of a plainclothes detail, took the next train for Buenos Aires.

RELEASED TO ASSIST IN NEGOTIATIONS.

There he closeted himself at once with his father, who later issued a terse statement in which he said that Santiago had been released for the purpose of assisting in the ransom negotiations. The young man had promised the kidnapers full co-operation, and intended to keep his word, said Dr. Hueyo.

That same day Santiago returned to Rosario, followed soon afterward by Abel Ayerza's two older brothers. The latter went into an immediate conference with Assistant Chief of Police Felix de la Fuente. At the same time, despite the protests of young Hueyo, the police of Rosario, as well as the authorities of Sante Fe and Cordoba provinces, launched a systematic hunt for suspects.

The next day, October 25, a reporter from La Prensa, Buenos Aires daily, was talking to Juan Bonerto in his hotel room when one of the Ayerza brothers strode in excitedly and said that the kidnapers had just communicated with the family, demanding 120,000 pesos (about $50,000). He indicated to the reporter that the ransom would be paid, and that the family would refrain from taking down the numbers of the bills.

Nothing was given out about the negotiations but it developed later that on October 27 the family received a second letter containing full instructions.

Following these directions carefully, Herman Ayerza, the captive's eldest brother, accompanied by a relative, drove to the main thoroughfare of Rosario on the 31st and posted themselves at a busy intersection at 11 a. m. As directed, each wore a large white flower on his coat lapel.

The kidnapers' car drove past them several times, then stopped, spoke to Herman Ayerza and handed him a ten-peso note, the agreed-upon sign. With that Ayerza gave the man a package containing 120 notes of 1,000 pesos denomination each.

Thus the gang got the ransom without having to prove that the captive was still alive, just as another kidnaper had got his $50,000 in a Bronx cemetery a few months before.

* * *

The next day several of the 1,000 peso notes were changed in Rosario and near-by towns, apparently to determine whether the Ayerza family had supplied the numbers to the authorities. But they had not done

The Planets—Your Daily Guide

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON.

Bernice Denton Pierson, eminent astrologer, has prepared this forecast in brief for a handy reference convenient to Constitution readers. This guide will aid you, for it indicates the most auspicious time to begin any new endeavor, whether it be business, social or domestic.

APRIL 24—SUNDAY: A combination of vibrations operate before 1:41 p. m. which are likely to cause you to look on the seamy side of life or bring interference in your plans. Between 1:41 p. m. and 6:59 p. m. harmony and contentment will make this a favorable period for religious and educational efforts, sociability, correspondence and interviews. After 6:59 p. m. is a period when hastiness and lack of caution can cause you to be too aggressive.

APRIL 25—MONDAY: Throughout the entire day, several favorable influences are working, making this a propitious time for financial dealings, news, communications, moves, literary and educational works. After 6:16 p. m. favors attending to old business, doing work that is considered hard or dirty and laborious.

APRIL 26—TUESDAY: Nervousness, irritability, confusion and misunderstandings may be easily encountered previous to 12:30 noon, and it will be an unwise time to enter into works of a secretive nature. Between 12:30 p. m. and 8:49 p. m. new beginnings will meet with slow progress, and is not an auspicious time for real estate, working on old matters, or dealings with older people. After 8:49 p. m. favors communications, literary works, travel and interviews.

APRIL 27—WEDNESDAY: Personal affairs, dealings with groups, humanitarian efforts, ordinary business routine, are favored previous to 4:57 p. m. Between 4:57 and midnight any feeling of extravagance should be curbed.

APRIL 28—THURSDAY: While this is not a favorable day for important undertakings, if moderation is observed, good results may be obtained in work that is useful and necessary.

APRIL 29—FRIDAY: During the morning hours and until 12:29 noon favors working on affairs that are established and are conservative in nature, and for general business and domestic affairs. After 12:29 p. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening hours new beginnings are not likely to prove stable, and will encounter sudden conditions which tend to dissolve and break up affairs. Feelings at this time may prove sensitive, touchy, erratic and spasmodic.

APRIL 30—SATURDAY: Previous to 6:29 a. m. be especially thoughtful before you go into action. Feelings and actions will be filled with a tenseness. The remainder of the day favors work of a stable nature, attending to conservative matters, and dealings with those who are dependable. This is an auspicious time for finishing up old matters, for dealings in land and real estate, and interviewing or contacting older and conservative people.

HOW TO USE THESE INDICATIONS TO BEST ADVANTAGE.

Why pretty Mrs. Hecht sounded a call to arms for harried wives who are martyrs to over-exposures in hubbys' camera craze

By URSULA PETRIE

ILLUSTRATION BY SKI WELD

Mrs. Hecht claimed that Camera Addict Husband not only snapped her when not at her best, but that she found films of another beauty.

LOVE'S FADEOUT IN f. 3.5 TIME

MRS. GLADYS GWYNNE HECHT is about to rid herself, via the Supreme Court, of the most obliging husband who ever found himself being sued for separation. Mr. Hecht, the same handsome Theodore Hecht who made quite a Broadway hit in Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset", is so talented at being obliging that he himself provided the photographic evidence which his wife was to take into court. And the old saw says: "The camera never lies".

Mr. Hecht, in short, is a candid camera addict or "bug", as his wife prefers to describe him. Their married life, just four years old, has been one long candid camera film, according to Mrs. Hecht, who claims she has put in about twenty-four hours a day as leading lady in this record photographic saga. Cupid flew out the window, however, closely followed by Mrs. Hecht, on the day that Mr. Hecht, according to her allegations, imported another woman to pose for some intimate shots in the home—and left the telltale films lying around.

It had to come sooner or later, the first of all candid camera separations. and Mrs. Hecht, who is well and favorably known as a professional model for top-flight photographers and painters, is sufficiently burned up by this competition in her own home to establish the precedent.

It becomes an awful strain never to be able to blow the nose, scratch the ear, pull up the stockings, tug down the rubber girdle, cold cream the face—do anything other than strike an arty pose—without wincing for fear of hearing: "Hold that pose!" Even the most beautiful model in the world has her moments with mud packs, hair curlers, chin straps and the like.

Things got so bad around the Hecht house, according to the Missus, that Theodore was on hand with his little camera to record Gladys' eye-opening yawn before she could get out of bed. You'd have thought he was scooping a news beat, she declares. She would laugh that off and get her mouth all set for a cup of coffee and darned if he wouldn't yell: "Hold that pose!"

Most women would froth at the mouth at the mere notion of being photographed at the crack of dawn, even if the artist behind the lens was nothing but a familiar husband. Most men, for that matter, step softly and speak not at all to the wives of their bosoms in the early morn, waiting until the first cup of coffee has soothed "the little woman" and signalled an armistice for another day. The zero hour for matrimony begins with the clarion call of the alarm clock and scarce a family needs an extra charge of dynamite in the form of a camera, putting its two cents in.

As Mrs. Hecht sums it up: "I knew that Theodore was a candid camera bug before I married him, but I never suspected that it would wreck our marriage; he had three cameras and three times as many gadgets for each of them. I was deeply in love with him but he has killed my love. I have been a loyal and loving wife for nearly four years—to say nothing of being a 24-hour-a-day model for him—yet he never considered me as a wife, only as the ideal camera study."

It was Theodore's departure from this ideal that spilled the beans, she avers. He waxed just too candid with his camera when he got another model for his home work. Gladys, free to catch up with some household chores one day when her lens-loving husband had his hobby outside in the world for the nonce, found a packet of undeveloped films in a desk drawer and sent them off to be printed. When she fetched the pictures home and examined them she distinctly understood the knowing look of the clerk who had handed them to her—and telephoned her lawyer. The background of the Hecht living room was familiar enough, and so was the parrot who appeared in the compositions. But the draped female "art" model was not one who belonged on that reservation, she alleged. Womanly, as women will be at the most unexpected moments, seeing her own parrot in the pictures, was the last straw for Gladys.

She got mad at him one night when he took her and his favorite camera out stepping in a nightclub and became so excited during an argument about lenses and such with a camera fan at a nearby table that he lost his balance and fell off his chair. Theodore was mortified also, so much so that he claimed his wife pushed him off into space. This she denies, however, and it is probably just as well that she was not the camera bug of the family at that moment, for the man does not live who could forgive anyone photographing him when he wasn't feeling tall, dark and handsome.

And when the last tie, or film, so to speak, is cut, Mrs. Hecht says she is going to curl up in a comfortable chair with a good book (without pictures) at long last, not to be interrupted by: "Hold that pose!"

WILFUL WIVES

Should They Be Spanked or Coddled?—How a Learned Judge Ruled in a Marital Tragedy; and Debating the Title of 'Sissy' for the Husband Who Always Gives In

By JAMES DOUGLAS

TRAGEDY is a conflict of wills. This profound truth is illustrated by a recent and typical case in an English court.

The President of the Divorce Court dismissed the petition of the wife for a decree of judicial separation on the ground of the alleged cruelty of her husband.

"There have been grave faults on both sides," he said, "but in my opinion the wife has been at least as much to blame as her husband.

"I am satisfied," said Sir Boyd Merriman, "that the husband was devoted to his wife, but I think he was very domineering and not very tactful."

With regard to the wife he said: "She was not prepared to take criticism from anybody, especially from her husband. She acted as if she was convinced that she was always in the right, and was quite determined to have her own way."

The President also declared:

"I am bound to say that I detected no evidence in the wife of that old-fashioned virtue in the marriage service—obedience."

After a conflict in the court which lasted six days the two antagonists are where they were—will opposed to will. The four children, with the consent of both parties, have been made wards of the court.

"I am afraid," Sir Boyd Merriman confessed, "in the circumstances, this judgment of mine is not going to do anybody any good."

The real fight was over the custody of the children, and it seems that the fight will go on to the bitter end.

The two wills are equally matched. It is a case of an irresistible force meeting an immovable obstacle.

Every husband and every wife may, with profit, ponder over this tragedy of two conflicting wills.

Every husband will ask himself this crucial question, "Have I a stronger will than my wife?"

Every wife will ask herself the same question, "Have I a stronger will than my husband?"

No husband likes to admit that his wife's will is stronger than his own, and no wife likes to admit that her husband's will is stronger than her own.

That is the supreme vanity of human wills. If pressed and pushed to extremes the cult of the strong will produces the misery of stalemate and deadlock.

I am inclined to doubt the whole dogma and doctrine that glorifies the strong will as a thing good in itself. In marriage there ought to be no conflict of strong wills.

The ideal marriage is not based upon the obedience of the weak will to the strong will. It is based upon mutual love, which overcomes the whims and caprices of the strong will by a process of give and take.

A good husband may possess a will of iron, but he does not use it as an instrument of tyranny.

He wields it for the purpose of self-control and self-sacrifice. He realizes that will-power is a destructive force unless it is generously and mercifully controlled.

Of course, it is a fallacy to imagine that the will of a wife is weaker than the will of a husband. Will-power is not a monopoly of either sex.

A frail and fragile woman may be endowed with unbreakable will-power. She may be capable of winning every conflict of will by sheer staying-power.

She may wear her husband into abject surrender for the sake of a quiet life.

We all know marriages of this sort, wherein the wife establishes a lifelong despotism and tyranny over the husband.

It is one of the mysteries of marriage that stable happiness can be evolved out of the complete subordination of a strong man to an apparently weak woman.

Some husbands are temperamentally unable to dominate their wives and are able to find peace and harmony only by yielding in every way to the mastery of the feminine will.

It may be that the defects of the husband's character are corrected by the will-power of the wife.

He may realize that it is salutary for him to be governed and disciplined. He may find happiness in leaning on his wife's superior wisdom and common sense.

He may find security and safety and shelter from his own foibles and his own follies in a complete acceptance of his wife as the keeper of his conscience.

It may seem an incredible thing that a happy marriage should be built upon this surrender of will-power. But these things happen every day in the mysterious blending of wills wrought by the alchemy of love.

A husband may be so fond of his wife that he can make his will bend to her will in order to erect an edifice of happiness for her, for himself, and for their children. Do not sneer at this as uxoriousness!

Is such a husband necessarily a weak creature without a will of his own? It is surely possible to exert a strong will for a higher aim than victory.

If the husband is convinced that marriage is made perfect by the surrender of his will-power to the will-power of his wife, he can go to almost any length in the exercise of self-surrender.

Does he become contemptible in his own eyes by willing his own pliability and abandoning his own wishes to attain a satisfying harmony of wills? Should he be despised for his resolute determination to practice selflessness?

If the wife uses her will wisely and warily she may make a good, weak husband happy in the knowledge that she is his helpmate in the intricacies of marriage.

The whole business is an interplay of values. The outsider cannot analyze these values.

They are the arcana of marriage. They are the imponderables of affection and loyalty.

The same philosophy is equally applicable to the case of the wife who gives way to her husband because she recognizes that his will is wiser than her own and that their harmony may be attained by her subordination and her self-surrender in the minutiae of life.

Her will to harmony may seem incompatible with her human pride and dignity.

But strength of will may be manifested in what seems to be weakness. It is often the one who gives in that is the real victor in the conflict of wills.

It is often the highest valor to be weak and the supremest cowardice to be strong.

Where there is real love there is no lasting glory in the triumph of will-power. The winner may very often lose everything in a barren victory.

The real laurels may adorn the brow of the vanquished.

Often these battles of wills end in a rivalry of self-sacrifice. The contestants disdain the spoils of conquest. They proclaim each other the victor and rejoice in competitive reconciliation.

Fortunately these battles of love are not always fought out before the eyes of impartial and dispassionate spectators. The wise husband and wife conceal the fray from all.

They have their reward in the renewal of their love for each other. Like the lovers in Tennyson's lyric, they can say: "O we fell out, my wife and I, O we fell out, I know not why", and they can kiss again with tears.

This miracle is a commonplace in marriage,

Illustration by Geoffrey Biggs.

A frail woman may be endowed with unbreakable will-power . . . but it is often the one who gives in that is the real victor in the conflict of wills.

Linking Shanghai and Atlanta

By JOSEPH A. LOEWINSOHN.

When the Japanese shells struck the building in Shanghai where Leonid Skvirsky, the Russian-born artist, had his studio, he decided to leave for Atlanta.

Mr. Skvirsky, A. R. P. S., (Associated Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain) wanted to settle in Atlanta for more than one reason: he is married to an Atlantan, the former Miss Lulah Thompson, whose beauty and grace have charmed the audiences in Europe and the Orient. Under her professional name, Halsey Armstrong, she was appearing in her dance recital in Shanghai when she met, and later married, her Russian husband.

On entering the Skvirsky drawing room one is instantly transplanted into China, for the Skvirskys have transformed the drawing room of their Atlanta apartment into an authentic replica of that of a mandarin.

Gopinoth, kathakoli dancer of India, is said to be the greatest living exponent of his art.

Everything in the room is genuinely Oriental—from the huge round Chinese ceiling lamp, encased in silk shade and shedding a mysterious blue light, to the exquisitely carved tea tables of teakwood, numerous statues of Buddha in bronze and ivory, native objets d'art, richly embroidered portiers and small rugs of rare beauty.

Mr. Skvirsky's parents left Russia in 1904 for Harbin, where young Leonid graduated from a Russian high school. Returning to Moscow, the young man entered the Moscow Art School and later went to Leningrad for his post-graduate work. Returning to Harbin in 1927, Mr. Skvirsky, in addition to his studies in art, was engaged in an extensive research work in chemistry and the theory of light in relation to photography.

His first job was that of a photographer with the Eastern-Chinese Railway at $11 per month. After remaining there for nine months, the enterprising young man opened his own studio in Harbin where his income averaged in excess of $800 per month.

Moving to Shanghai in 1932, he joined in partnership with an American studio, which business he bought out in 1935. Leaving the business in charge of his trained associates, he went to Bombay, India, where he remained 15 months during which time he reorganized the famous Hamilton Studios.

Mr. Skvirsky brought with him to Atlanta about 150 of his best photographs, many of which have been awarded first prizes at various Oriental, European and American exhibitions.

Being an artist himself, his portraits are in truth more than photographic likenesses. His inherent ability to perceive the hidden charms of various personalities and reveal them with a technique of his own, has made him an authority of international renown.

Among Mr. Skvirsky's friends and patrons are Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of Chinese National government; Dr. H. H. Koong, Chinese prime minister and minister of finance, and T. L. Soong, president of the Chinese republic.

On August 15th of last year, Mr. Skvirsky was requested to take official photographs of Generalissimo and Madame Kai-shek in Kooling, the summer residence of Chinese government, 300 miles north of Nanking.

During the first outbreak of Japanese hostilities, Mr. Skvirsky was invited to photograph Dr. and Madame Wellington Koo, delegates to the League of Nations. Among other Chinese officials who sat for Mr. Skvirsky were Dr. C. T. Wong, Chinese ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Yen, former Chinese ambassador to Soviet Russia.

While in India he made pictures of His Highness, Maharajah of Akaltot and, by special invitation, His Highness Nawab of Sachin, as well as His Highness Rajah and Maharanee and Princesses of Politana.

His Highness, Nawab of Sachin, is also a patron of Mr. Skvirsky.

The Sino-Japanese war found the Skvirskys in Tsingtao, a summer resort. Making a perilous journey to Shanghai up the Wampoo river, the young couple witnessed the terrific bombardment of Shanghai, Pootong and Chapei.

Awaiting their American visas, they were in constant danger, for Shanghai was under the crossfire of both the Japanese and Chinese artillery. Most terrifying were night raids by the Japanese bombers. The entire city shook with reverberating detonations of the aerial bombs that exacted a frightful toll of human life as well as of property.

With the war-torn China behind him, Mr. Skvirsky believes that Chinese culture and civilization, the oldest in the world, will survive the military subjugation by Japan and that in the end the Japanese military command will see the folly of its ruthless attempt to destroy the Chinese identity.

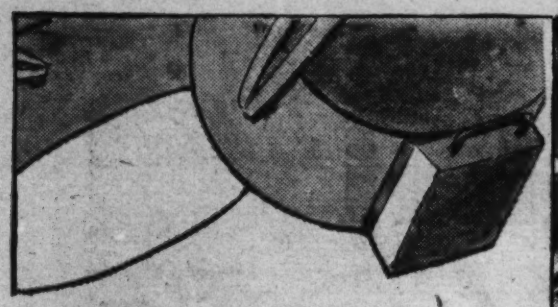

Mr. Skvirsky profoundly admires the courage of peaceful Chinese who, practically barehanded, put up a marvelous resistance against the highly organized Japanese military machine. He feels that the seemingly unexpected invasion of China is being carried out in accordance with the plan prepared by a colonel of the Japanese general staff. The book in which the full extent of Japanese military conquest of China is outlined was written 30 years ago.

Miss Laks, a Shanghai debutante, posed for the exhibition portrait which Mr. Skvirsky calls "Compassion."

Mrs. Zee, wife of the president of the Bank of China, photographed in full native dress by Mr. Skvirsky. She is said to have the most beautiful hands in China.

In Costume

A SHORT SHORT STORY
By JACK LAIT

LOVE, COURTSHIP AND ROMANCE, THIS SCRIPT HAD EVERYTHING, INCLUDING A BIT OF REAL LIFE DRAMA THAT NOBODY EXPECTED

ILLUSTRATIONS
BY GEORGE A. FISH

"Oh, yeah?" cried the director. "So you know better'n I do. Say, Greta Garbo, what's your name?"

BILL EVERETT got an inspiration. Looking through some browned and dried-out clippings in the "morgue" of his paper, researching into the early days of Los Angeles, thereon to fasten a Sunday feature article, he ran across a report of the bankruptcy proceedings against Alberto Morales and Lila McKnight Morales.

The Morales clan had acquired vast acreage in the 60's. Their ranchos took in most of Hollywood and nearby towns, then all desert and grazing land, labyrinthian canyons and barren foothills.

High livers, hot lovers, huge gamblers, the tribe of Morales had held prodigal revel on their domain. Countless peons cultivated their arable lands, unnumbered gauchos herded their cattle, and they strutted and drank and danced and bred for generations like feudal monarchs.

But time and changing conditions, their wasteful spending and loose administration, began to catch up with them. The newer sons began to stray, having lost their lust for horsemanship and rugged roistering, to follow their silk-lined dissipations in New York, in Paris and in 'Frisco.

Parcel by parcel they lost their heritage; season by season their income dwindled. Their serfs organized into unions, markets nearer the big centers undersold their steers.

Could they have held out another dozen years, they would have been billionaires, for upon their lands were to be struck the fabulous oil bonanzas.

But no one then thought of oil; there wasn't much use for it.

So, amid disaster that closed in from all sides, still maintaining the last vestiges of former grandeur by selling and borrowing and mortgaging, the Morales dynasty refused to foresee its ultimate crash.

Don Alberto Morales, nineteenth of his line since the immigration from Castile, Oxford graduate and Park Avenue habitue, realized only vaguely that the collapse was so near.

In a show of that Broadway day, there danced a dream named Lila McKnight, the toast of her time—when they did toast stage charmers.

Don Alberto saw her and his Latin heart pounded. There were flowers, impassioned letters in the hysterical style of his race and era—and in a month or so, ravishing Lila McKnight was the bride of the scion of the storied Morales monarchy.

A few months of delirious delight—and then the curtains fell.

Crude deputy sheriffs with rusty badges, in overalls and brogans, clumped in and took over.

Alberto and Lila were dispossessed. The jewels were stripped from her fingers and wrists.

Like vagrants they crept away—on foot. On the table of the dining-hall in the Morales palace still remained the vestiges of the final feast; the vintages of the almost exhausted cellars. The guests stood about, stunned.

The proud young man tried his hand at such things as he could do—he taught school, he sold insurance, he attempted to write. Lila stuck by him gamely. She took odd jobs in choruses, but her husband would never suffer her to use the family name, though she was offered handsome sums as a "freak" attraction.

But he wasn't bred or broken to such a life.

Two years after his exile, he walked, in the dead of a moonlit night, to the highest spot on the old Morales domain. Slowly, with head up, he circled and surveyed the empire he had lost. Then, with a silver-mounted pistol which his father had given him on his thirteenth birthday, he ended the Morales line.

What a scenario, thought Bill!

Look at the production possibilities: the old West of the hidalgos and the caballeros; high jinks, sultry beauties, Latin love; the coming of the Easterners, the Iowa invasion, the modern system; the last of the Morales—handsome, romantic, arrogant—with the inborn traditions against newborn changes...

San Francisco, London, Paris, the Riviera—then old-time New York, Broadway when it WAS Broadway, and Lila McKnight...

Love, courtship, culmination; a chorus-girl queen! And then—the cataclysm.

It COULD have a happy ending if the director wanted one. Anyway, if this wasn't a natural for the screen... Well, it was. Bill sold it and it was announced under title of "Tabasco", later to be released as "The Scion and the Siren".

The research department burrowed into every detail — costumes, furnishings, dialects, colloquialisms, hairdress, nomenclature, exteriors, trappings, tableware...the works. It had to be accurate, accurate.

The juve and the ingenue, of course, were the stars. But the big scene, the tear-jerker, was to be the last feast, the one interrupted by the deputy sheriffs.

For this dozens of "extras" had to be chosen. There were to be some two dozen guests; then the faithful house-servitors, and the mob scene of loyal vassals who had stuck through thick and thin, who would form the lines of weepers and breast-beaters as the young master and his regal bride walked forth—all but their pride gone—into a world that didn't want them, couldn't understand them and had no place for them.

The director was pretty fussy over that scene. Again and again he rehearsed it, set it up, regrouped it, shot it—then ordered retakes.

He had been raised on East Broadway, had come to Hollywood as a script-reader, and had since then knocked off some big-money pictures as well as a little statue for artistic excellence.

What he knew about old California was limited to what Research certified. But he had a natural feel for verisimilitude as well as for effects and drama. The scene didn't suit.

He stepped back in disgust after he had cried: "Cut" for the twentieth time, and tried to put his eye on what was out of line.

Ah! He had it. That one "extra"—the old dame in the costume of the young Morales' dowager aunt, who had one line to say—"Bot, my belofed chico, Cayafornia is the land of your forefathers—here is the desteenee of a Morales!"

That was it. She said it with her eyes down, softly. She should have said it sharply, with command.

"Hey, you," called the director. "No—you; the one with the purple earrings—yes. When you come to your line, look him straight in the eye; hit the table a little with your fist, and talk up—UP! Sell it to me—give it conviction. Authority. Understand?"

"But," said the little old lady, "she wouldn't. He is now the head of the house. She wouldn't—she is a woman; and among the Morales a woman spoke but softly, respectfully."

"Oh, yeah? So you know better'n I do what she ought to say — what she would say, huh? Gee, that's hot. You know better'n I do!"

"Yes, sir . . . I think I do."

"Colossal! You get $15 a day—when you get it—and you know better'n I do. Say, Greta Garbo, what's your name?"

"Mrs. Alberto Morales."

Why the Yanks can't win

HOW THAT HALF-STEP SLOWING DOWN OF A GREAT MACHINE MAY BAR ANOTHER PENNANT

By BOB CONSIDINE

JACK DOYLE, flying in the face of baseball tradition, has made the New York Yankees team a prohibitive favorite to win the American League pennant for the third straight time. Mr. Doyle is Broadway's favorite betting commissioner, and has held that honorary title since he picked the Indians in Custer's last fight.

What he seems to overlook, in the case of Col. Jacob Ruppert's gentlemen, is that the life of a championship ball club is about the most fragile thing in sport. A fighter will hold a title as long as seven or eight years, and so will a golfer like Bobby Jones or a tennis player like Tilden. Ball clubs, even the great champions, bloom and wither in a space of two or three years. John McGraw's Giants of the early '20's were the only team that ever won the bunting four years in a row.

A championship ball club is a wondrous mechanism, put in perfect working order only by a combination of luck, skill and unity of purpose. Individually it is tough, hard-hitting, often unshaven, pugnacious, rarin' to go and impossible to discourage. Collectively it is a car racing around a slippery bend—an open watch in a sandstorm.

Things have happened to the Yankees since they dusted off their dukes last October, stepped over the prostrated figure of the New York Giants, and hurried back home to catch up on their whittling. The things that have happened have not been for the better.

The team, for one thing, is one year older. That may not sound particularly sinister, but Joe McCarthy, the manager of the champions, is authority for the assertion that a ball player is at his peak for only two years, and spends the rest of his career building up to his peak, and sliding down from it.

Four key Yanks are getting to the age when a year might take noticeable toll on their effectiveness—Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing. Gehrig is probably a full step slower than he was even two years ago, and now must exert himself to the utmost to accomplish things that he once was able to do with only a normal expansion of his great controlled strength.

Bill Dickey, partly because of an unorthodox posture behind the plate, has been finding himself making more frequent trips to the sidelines of late. Bill is brittle.

Lefty Gomez came back brilliantly last year, after a dreary 1936 season during which he won only 13 games. His problem this year will be not only to turn the difficult feat of holding his 1937 form, but also to ignore the merciless "riding" he'll take this season from the enemy benches. Bench "jockeys" are no respecters of a man's private life. If Gomez were permitted to wear soundproof earmuffs this season, to guard his peace of mind from the ravages of tormenting foes, he'd probably add five games to his season's victory total.

Gomez has already anticipated his troubles. In one of the final exhibition games this season he was introduced over the loudspeakers while he trudged out to coach the Yanks at first base. Only a mild applause greeted his name.

Gomez came back to the bench after the inning was over, and simulating great regret said, "They didn't know who I was. That guy should have introduced me as 'Strangler Gomez'." This was the winning nickname fastened on him by the tabloids during his loud divorce trial vs. June O'Dea.

Ruffing had a splendid year in '37, after starting a month late, but, for all that, Red gets no younger. He was a big leaguer 13 years ago.

The heart of a ball club is a straight line running from the catcher's box to center field. During the past off-season a valuable valve dropped off that heart. Tony Lazzeri, for 11 years the second baseman and hub of the Yank infield, has gone. With him has gone one of the great field captains in Yankee baseball history.

In Tony's place this year is young Joe Gordon, a fine young fielder, a sucker for a sharp-breaking curve ball, and still too green in the big leagues to attempt to be much of an inspirational force. Gordon wasn't able to hit .300 with Newark last year. As a semi-admission that it fears he may not make the grade, the Yankees have purchased Bill Knickerbocker from the St. Louis Browns and are holding him in readiness. Knick is no Lazzeri.

The Yankees had an exceptionally good break last year in the matter of injuries. It is an old truism in baseball that a championship team must get the breaks, on injuries.

But the dice don't always roll a natural. Detroit went through 1934 and 1935 without having to replace a player. It looked like the Tigers would go on forever, but injuries did for them.

How many accidents could the Yankees stand? Could they repeat without Gehrig? Without Ruffing? Without DiMaggio?

On DiMaggio, we believe, hinges most of the Yankees' chances for 1938. His holdout has produced wounds that will not heal easily.

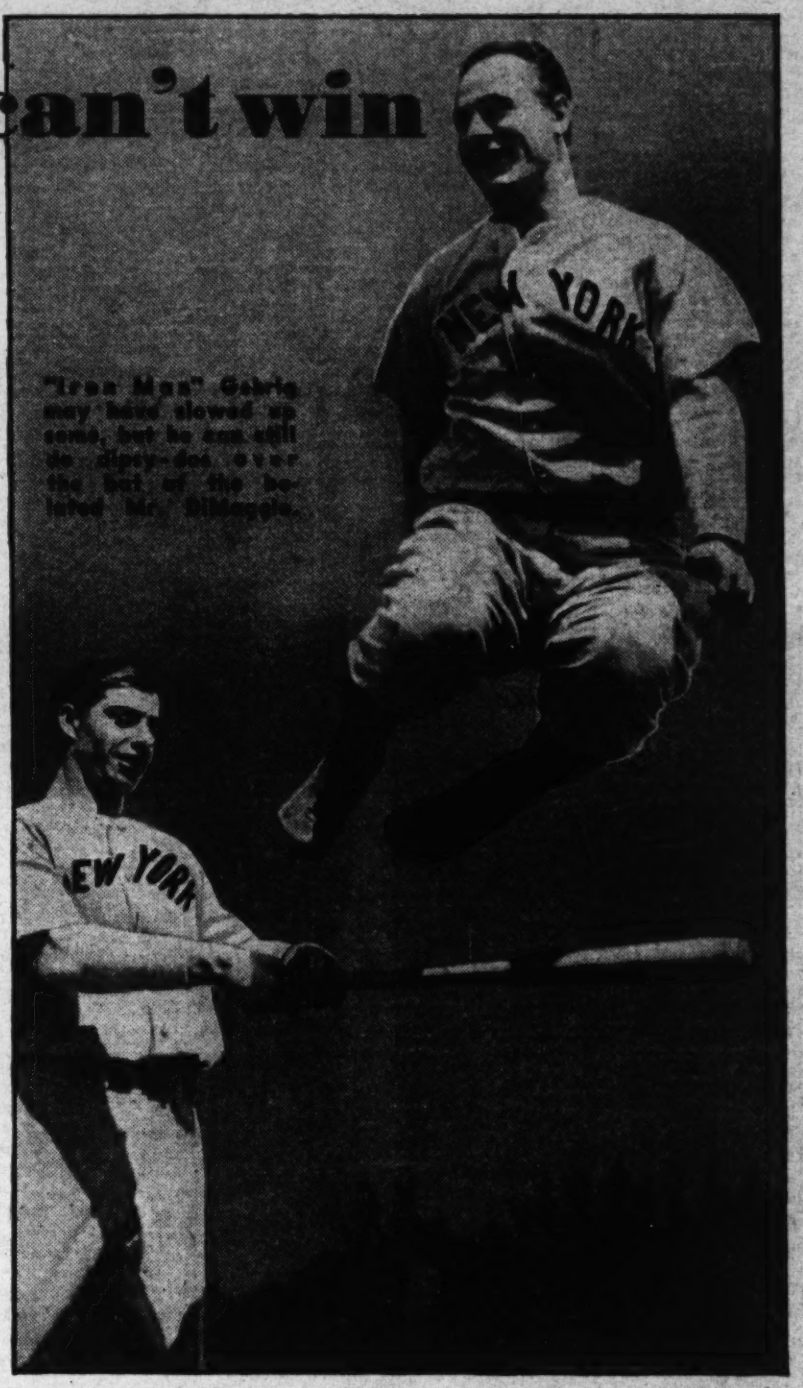

A number of the Yankee players, particularly the older ones, made no bones about denouncing DiMaggio during the Spring training season from which he absented himself. "Who does that guy think he is?" was the general feeling, as the older gaffers punched a medicine ball into each other's rounded stomachs, or chased flies until their tongues were in danger of being stepped on. They thought him silly to reject $25,000 after only two years and they will get around to telling him.

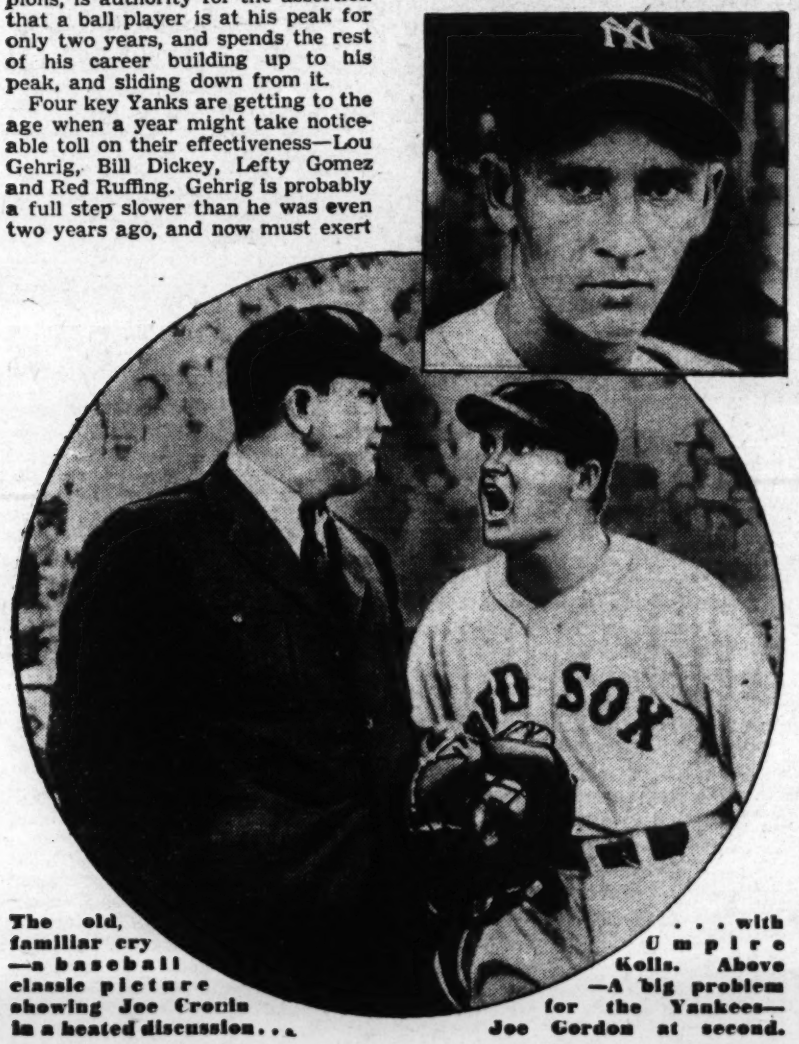

If DiMaggio takes it with a shrug, laughs, says: "Well, boys, I went down swinging", and then goes out and plays the kind of ball he can play, all may go well with the Yanks—barring the unforseen. If he chooses to mount a high horse, sides will be formed, and a baseball house that is divided against itself is, of course, riding for a loud fall.

As for the rest of the league, the only real competition will come from the Tigers and Indians, two teams whose pennant chances revolve around a huge "IF". If Schoolboy Rowe makes a comeback, and the termites of tradition begin boring from within the Yanks, the Tigers will win the pennant. And if Bobby Feller can pitch a full season, at top speed, and Johnny Allen is able to turn in another season like the one he produced in 1937, Cleveland, long over-due, will win.

The Giants are never very seriously considered at the beginning of the year. The allegedly wise boys are touting the Cubs again, but the National League puts on such bang-up photo-finish races that it is foolhardy ever to make a prediction. For National League predictions rarely pan out—except when a fellow winds up and predicts that Brooklyn will finish a dazzling sixth.

Mr. Doyle would want odds from you, on such a bet.

The old, familiar cry—a baseball classic picture showing Joe Cronin in a heated discussion . . . with Umpire Kolls. Above—A big problem for the Yankees—Joe Gordon at second.

AN island Eden — stately palms bowing at the touch of warm South Sea breezes, tropical forests, cobalt skies—a dream of Paradise on earth to thousands who "would get away from it all", who chafe at the routine of a machine-age civilization.

On occasion, fate waves its magic wand and seems to offer an opportunity for a realization of this dream. And then there comes a surge of adventure-seekers from the big city's canyons and the quiet rural villages where "nothing ever happens". Such has been the case since the announcement a few weeks ago that Uncle Sam has laid claim to tiny Canton and Enderbury Islands, in the South Pacific, with a view to settling them and establishing an aviation base.

Men and women, old and young, are deluging the Interior Department with pleas to be transported to the tropical promised-land that looks so entrancing in the news reels and makes such a romantic setting for travel books and screen scenarios.

Already eleven stalwart young men from Hawaii have gone to the islands, fortified with 400 cans of Hawaiian poi, the nucleus of a poultry farm and drums of drinking water. They will keep the American flag flying while the United States and Great Britain settle their conflicting claims to the little dots in the turbulent Pacific.

But disillusionment lies ahead for those who seek a languorous existance on tropic isles. There's hard work in Paradise. And danger, too.

Elmer Ainsley Conway, 43-year-old mining engineer and ex-newspaperman, and his school-teacher wife, Frances Conway, know just how it is. The adventurous couple set forth for lonely Floreana Island, in the Galapagos Archipelago—that strange, legend-haunted group of islands where fantastic sea creatures swarm in the ocean depths and where human lives have been interwoven with romance, mystery and tragedy.

Wild bulls chased them up a tree the first night they spent in their "island Eden".

The second night they spent in the middle of a thorn thicket.

For three months, they lived on jerky —and wild bull meat is tough —tastefully garnished with sweet potatoes. Daily, they worked from dawn to dark with axes, hoes and shovels, clearing an almost impenetrable jungle of ancient citrus trees, thorn bushes and tangled vines.

They had virtually no contact with the outside world, no luxuries and few comforts.

They were found there, living under primitive conditions but with a library of well-selected books, cooking over an open fireplace but with a typewriter ready for use when back-breaking labor gives them a chance to write; found when the Allan Hancock Expeditions visited Floreana Island last January.

Seven times Captain Hancock has led scientific expeditions to the South Pacific, searching for the strange forms of life that dwell in the ocean's mysterious depths and the queer creatures that live on lonely shores.

And, almost every time that his cruiser, Velero III, has touched at the Galapagos group, he has found some new human mystery, some story of romance or adventure or tragedy.

This time, the expedition found the Conways.

They are living, these two Californians, on Floreana Island where once the spectacular Baroness Eloisa Bosquet von Wagner set herself up as "empress" and where she disappeared in company with Robert Philippson, one of her strange entourage, in 1934.

On Floreana, Dr. Karl Friedrich Ritter and Frau Dore Strauch von Koerwein sought to establish an earthly paradise, and on Floreana, Ritter died.

On Floreana, Heinz and Margaret Wittmer and their three children live in self-chosen solitude on the farm they have won from the jungle.

And, from Floreana, Alfred Rudolf Lorenz, one of the moths that fluttered about the flame of the fantastic baroness, fled with Trgyve Nuggerud, Norwegian sailor—fled, seeking safety and finding death from thirst and starvation on waterless Marchena Island where their emaciated, sun-withered bodies were found.

But the Conways are not worried about the tragedies that Floreana has known. They are quietly confident that some day their hard-won farm on the mountain will support them.

In the meantime, although neither had had any experience in wresting a living from the wild before they went to Floreana, they are striving to overcome privations and danger.

Conway, born in Chico, California, served with the Army in the Philippines and for two years in France. He was an instructor at Fort Snelling

They camped that night under a giant avocado tree, and in the dark hours, they were awakened by furious snortings and stampings. Earlier settlers had abandoned cattle on the island, and their descendants have been wild for generations.

So, up the avocado tree they fled and clung there throughout the rest of the night.

The next night, the Conways wriggled into the middle of a thorn thicket, dense enough to discourage even a Floreana bull.

Inch by inch and day by day, the undiscouraged Californians fought for their island paradise. They had nothing but hand tools, but they cleared the jungle. Through the dense thickets, where trees crowd each other, they literally tunneled for a quarter of a mile to reach the spot they chose for their farmland.

That tunnel, arched over with trees on which wild orchids cling, the Conways christened Avenida de los Toros—Avenue of the Bulls—for the wild bulls greatly appreciated the fun of romping up and down the open space every night, bellowing mightily.

The bulls served another purpose, for the government of Ecuador permits the Floreana settlers to kill one bull a week and divide the meat among them. So, each week, Zavala climbs up the mountain toting the official rifle—Conway himself hasn't so much as a revolver.

Working every hour of daylight, living in a shack that is open to weather on two sides, so tired at night that even the bellowing of the bulls prancing up and down Avenida de los Toros can't keep them awake, the Conways are happy. They told members of the Hancock Expedition that they were happy and contented.

By last January, when the expedition discovered them, the dauntless couple had cleared an acre of ground and had planted a garden of vegetables and flowers. Corn, beans, tomatoes, carrots, peas and all manner of familiar vegetables stand in neat rows. And, on an island where orchids grow wild, Mrs. Conway cherishes her red geraniums and zinnias and nasturtiums.

The one-time school teacher and college graduate cooks over an open fireplace and serves meals on a table knocked together out of stray boards. But, in a corner of the shack, stand the boxes of books, and in their leisure hours at night, by the dim light of a lantern, the Conways read and talk of the stories he plans to write.

They have strung barbed wire between trees to protect their little farm on two sides, and they keep the bulls out of the corn patch on the other side by the simple method of stacking up the dense masses of thorn bush which they cleared from the land.

When the Hancock Expedition members came clambering up the steep jungle - bordered path to the "estate", the Conways wanted just two things.

They were all out of sugar, and a long way from the nearest corner grocery. And, by any chance, was there anyone who knew how to pull a tooth and relieve Conway's toothache?

The Velero's stores provided plenty of sugar, and Dr. Edwin O. Palmer, retired Hollywood surgeon and a member of the expedition, officiated on the tooth. It wasn't his first dental operation at Floreana. Four years before, he had made an upper plate for Frau Dore. Doctor Ritter, foreseeing possible trouble, had all his teeth extracted before he went to Floreana, replacing them with molars of indestructible steel.

The Conways were positive that they wanted to stay right where they were and that they would make good. They are working under the plan by which the Ecuadorean government permits island settlers to clear not more than three hectares—six or seven acres—at a time, with permission to clear additional three-hectare portions when government representatives approve what has already been done.

And the Conways are not afraid of the ghosts of Floreana. When the moonlight floods the clearing that they have won from the jungle, they watch it turn their rows of corn to silver and do not fear the wraiths of the baroness and her missing English favorite.

They have their plans and their work, their garden and their books, and when night comes, they are too tired to see ghosts.

BOOKS and Their Authors . .

In the Far North.

UNFLINCHING. By Edgar Christian. Funk & Wagnalls, New York. 159 pp. $1.50.

This is the diary of Edgar Christian, aged 18, who directly after leaving school went on a trapping and exploring expedition into the Arctic regions of Canada. He was, unhappily, one of the numerous adventurers who went into the Arctic never to return. In 1929, three years after the expedition set out, the Canadian Mounted Police found three skeletons in a hut, one of which was all that was left of Edgar Christian. They also found his diary, which he had kept full of entries until shortly before his death. It is for the most part a quiet and stoical account of almost unbelievable privation, a hopeless and uncomplaining struggle for survival. The book also contains the eloquently terse description of the finding of the bodies by the Mounted Police. The author's youth and tragic fate lends a deep interest to the pages of paper that constitute his monument.

War in Spain.

The abrupt arrival of the Spanish civil conflict greatly interrupted the gay, happy life led by the inhabitants of a small, sleepy, colorful Andalusian town. Influenced by this uprising Helen Nicholson has written one of the first novels about the civil war in Spain.

Although "The Painted Bed" is an exciting story of six persons drawn together in a strange bond of circumstances by the inevitable forces of war, the main theme is found in the deep love of these six.

Carlow and Paloma, the young gypsy couple are charming characters. Even while aiding their side in a dangerous plot they will not be separated and together they go to the fate destined them by war.

The construction shows carefulness and accuracy in writing while the story itself is fast moving and interesting to the finish.

Enlightening Narrative.

The author, an American well-known for her graceful exhibition of the Spanish dance, had an appointment to meet her fiancee in Madrid. Arriving on the Franco-Spanish border she found that a revolution had broken out in Spain. Of course it would be over in a few weeks, and she proceeded to intrigue her way into the Spanish capital. Not an easy matter, but she succeeded by posing as an American newspaper correspondent. Having arrived, she perforce had to stay—for two long years.

Her narrative, always intensely personal, nonetheless gives the reader a reliable close-up view of the Spanish conflict, and the extraordinary cruelty and ferocity with which this battle is being fought. Unhesitatingly she places her sympathy on the side of the Loyalists, though her fiancee, member of the Catalan bourgeoisie, regards them as the Great Unwashed, and plots against the government. Her personal experiences, deeply tragic as they turn out, must be the experiences of many Spanish families today, torn apart by violence and hatred greater than family ties. Even more moving is the fate of those on both sides who have not the sedative of political convictions to sustain them, but with hopeless apathy are witnessing the destruction of everything they cherish. From this record the reader is apt to reach the conclusion that no matter who wins, the struggle cannot be reconciled within the memory of the grandchildren of those who today are fighting. The author writes with an engaging candor, and hides not even her secret mental struggles over her fiancee's activities. An interesting and enlightening narrative.

Pasteur's Start.

PASTEUR: KNIGHT OF THE LABORATORY. By Francis E. Benz. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York. 232 pp. Illst. $2.

When, some 70 years ago, winegrowers in the south of France were faced with bankruptcy because a strange bacteria was perennially ruining their wines, somewhat reluctantly they called upon a young teacher of chemistry who had made quite a stir of late in Parisian academic circles. Louis Pasteur's fame rested largely upon a single paper on the formation of chrystals. Though possessed of a sharp, discerning mind, his career as a student was never exceptionally brilliant. What he had attained had come through hard work and an undaunted spirit. In the same manner in which he attacked problems in his chemistry classes, he probed for an answer to the question which long had puzzled the winegrowers of France.

The result of his work was, materially, the present system of pasteurization. Finding that, by raising the temperature of the wine to 55 degrees Centigrade, he could destroy the harmful bacteria and still retain the full flavor and bouquet of the wine, he set about treating the entire vintage in the same way, saving the merchants of France many thousands of francs a year. His greatest success, however, did not come until late in life, when, in treating chickens for cholera, he ran across a method of vaccination which he used successfully to combat the dread hydrophobia which was raging throughout Paris.

While it lacks in a number of points, this biography of Louis Pasteur could not have been more appropriately addressed to boys and girls of high school age.

BUILD YOUR OWN FUTURE. By David Seabury. Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York. 314 pp. $2.50.

Here is a surprise. "Build Your Own Future" sounds like the title of a book that only a college professor could understand, but it proved to be interesting and written in a most delightful manner and easy to understand. David Seabury uses illustrations taken from life to explain the different subjects of his new book, and by this method it is easily understood and the real point of the discussion reaches the average reader.

"Build Your Own Future" deals with the important problem of putting your life in good order today so that you may have a more successful tomorrow. It explains in detail the modern technique for organizing. It explains in detail the modern techniques for organizing one's purposes to establish the art of healthful living. It is a hard-hitting explanation of the art of living in an actual world and should prove a big help to those who have found it hard to adjust their lives to this modern day.

What Burns Mantle's annual collection is to the full-length drama, this new collection is designed to be to the one-act play. Twelve outstanding one-act plays, ranging from heavy drama to high comedy and low farce go to make up Miss Mayorga's collection, which, though slightly inclined toward the Left in politics, is highly satisfying to the browsing reader. Outstanding plays are: "If the Shoe Pinches," by Babette Hughes; "The Maker of Laws," by John W. Bayley, and "Goodnight, Please!" by James L. Daggett. Valuable bibliographies and pointers for the aspirant writer are included.

YOU PLAY THE BLACK, THE RED COMES UP. By Richard Hallas. Robert M. McBride Co., New York. 213 pp. $2.50.

We have herein another of the series of stories published within the past few years which would have been classed as decidedly "off color" back in the "gay nineties," but which are now read without causing blushes on the part of any excepting the most prudish—providing they are cleverly written and minus pure coarseness.

The author tells the story of a man in Oklahoma whose wife runs off to California with their little son, and he hoboes out there to find them. She sets the police after him for trying to break down the door of the house where she is staying. He escapes and from then on things happen; the sequence of events keeps the reader's interest to the end.

M. Blanche's memoirs cover the late Victorian scene and the Edwardian Era; or, roughtly, from the fall of Paris to the outbreak of the World War. Informative and witty, they afford many intimate glimpses of the great men of that period whom M. Blanche knew personally: The novelists Thomas Hardy, Henry James, George Moore and Marcel Proust; the playwright, Bernard Shaw; Vaslav Nijinsky, Sargent, Whistler and Edward VII. Others who figure in the Norman artist's "Portraits" are Max Beerbohm, Oscar Wilde, Gertrude Stein, and the late Gabriel d'Annunzio, Italy's national poet during the past two decades.

RICH'S

How the G-2 Woman Trapped the Dope Ring

No one is above suspicion in Washington's spy craze today, from glamor gals to movie villains, but just try to get a code message by this feminine Sherlock!

Illustration by A. Leslie Ross.

The capital's alive with so-called spies today.

The woman is suspected of having Air Corps officers to her parties.

Code Expert—Mrs. Ely Friedman.

By PAT FRANK

IN a secluded office in the great, rambling pile that is the Treasury Department in Washington, a mild-mannered, dark-haired woman broods over a half-sheet of paper scrawled with groups of five-letter words, none of which means anything as they appear.

Up in the chromium and marble halls of the Department of Justice, the scientists of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are busy at their ultra-violet ray projectors, picking invisible ink out of apparently blank sheets of paper.

And in an unpretentious four-story building, opposite the baroque structure which houses the State Department, the Army is reorganizing G-2.

The spy business is booming again. It is booming as it hasn't boomed since the World War.

It is, definitely, a business. You may call it romantic in the E. Phillips Oppenheim pattern, and dangerous (if you are caught), but it is a business in which you are paid exactly for what you produce

It is to meet this menace, a very real one, that the United States Army has G-2, its little-publicized Intelligence Division, alert, compact—and obscure.

You don't hear much about G-2, because by its very nature its workings must be secret. G-2 has a head, Col. E. R. Warner McCabe, and G-2 has a personnel known to everyone, the officers under Col. McCabe who dress in dark business suits and go to work in their unpretentious building every morning at 9:30, and go home every night at 5 o'clock.

They don't arrest spies. They leave that, and the glory, to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. But they're the men who find them.

How high Washington's elaborate spy system goes, not even G-2 can guess. But they have had under surveillance for instance a former diplomat who manages to give big parties without any visible means of support (and he has no private income.) And there is a woman of the nobility who maintains a small apartment in a quiet, but exclusive section of Washington.

It is known that she gives little cocktail parties, and always, always invites young officers of the Air Corps. G-2 doesn't like that sort of thing, and the young officers may be discreetly questioned, if they're seen there often, just to be sure that too many Bacardis didn't loosen their tongues. Usually, they don't go back.

G-2, and other government departments faced with the need for deciphering the code messages seized in recent spy raids have had to rely largely upon the brilliant crypto-analytical ability of one woman.

For 20 years, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Friedman has been decoding ciphers for the United States Government. She is probably more adept at the strange art than any person on this continent. She works for the Treasury Department, lives modestly with her two children in a home in Chevy Chase.

Quite by accident she drifted into the amazing science which now has become so important. She was a student at Wooster College, in Ohio, when she became interested in the theory that Bacon wrote the works credited to Shakespeare. She spent long hours trying to solve the mystery by analyzing the works of Bacon for a key to the cipher. She never established the connection. But she did become an expert on ciphers.

During the World War she was in the "Black Chamber", and greatly distinguished herself. She is one of the few persons still in the government service who during the war fought the enemy agents in their underground battle. After the war, there was the Treasury Department and the battle against smugglers.

Recently Mrs. Friedman was loaned to the Canadian government, and her deciphering of a Chinese code trapped five opium smugglers. She didn't know a word of Chinese, and after she had deciphered the code, a translator was needed to turn the Chinese into English.

A key message that she puzzled out read: "Uvooa masan aguso gukuu eiy."

Deciphered, it read: "Cable three thousand. Select fully the order list of Wat Sang." Which brought quick disaster to the smugglers.

"The whole deciphering science is based on the mechanics of language," she says. "The most used letter in the English language is E. Next comes T. Then O-A-N-I-R-H, in the order named.

"The most used combination is 'th'; the commonest word 'the'.

"Suppose 'rc' are the most used letters in a message. I know they mean 'th'. If 'rcx' appears the most that means 'the'."

The more complex codes—such as the Chinese code already referred to—contain blind letters—letters that mean nothing, put in just to confuse people like her (although they rarely do). In this case the letter "u" was blind.

While sometimes Mrs. Friedman fails to break single messages, she says there is no code that cannot be broken. Given enough examples of a code, the lady G-2-man will break it.

Military codes are naturally hardest to break, because usually they are arranged as a combination code and cipher. The cipher of meaningless letters must be broken down to make intelligible words—but then these words mean something else entirely, and their secret must be found.

ADVICE ON ROSE CULTURE

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN.

So far this spring, roses have recovered very well from the cold that they stood during the winter. One wonderful thing that the cold weather did was to kill a very great percentage of the insects that had lived through the winter. At the same time a great many aphis are, and will be troubling roses, and they should be killed promptly.

The cultivation of roses is of the utmost importance. This is so very true in the case of the rose, because of the immense quantity of food that is necessary for their blooming. They are such prolific bloomers, and for each bloom that appears, that much food has been taken from the soil by the plant. In order for the plant to be able to take this food from the ground, the top of the ground should be loose and porous at all times. This is necessary because it not only aerates the soil, but also tends to hold the moisture. After each shower, the rose beds should be cultivated, not deeply, but thoroughly.

Not long ago we were reading an article about the care and cultivation of roses, and the author used a phrase that has stuck in our minds. It was something like this: "I have observed that thorough cultivation at frequent intervals is better than watering." There is much truth in that statement. The thorough, often repeated cultivation, which keeps the top two inches of the soil dry and dusty, keeps the ground from crusting and baking, but the greatest virtue lies in the fact that the soil does not dry out completely.

As a matter of fact, the sub-soil stays filled with water. This soil stirring after each rain not only keeps the plants growing properly, but at the same time keeps down all of the weeds that are constantly springing up. Remember that weeds will use as much or more food than the rose plants, and very few weeds are a thing of beauty that should be fed and cherished.

The summer and spring food that must be supplied in order that the rose may grow to its usual perfection, is of the utmost importance. Roses are heavy feeders and if you wan to err be certain to err on the heavy side. Give them lots of food, applying it at frequent intervals. There isn't anything better than well-rotted stable manure. As a substitute for this, and it is hard to find it in a city, we would suggest a mixture of the commercial sheep manure and bone meal.

We realize that these are old-fashioned fertilizers not highly advertised, but they are hard to beat. A light application of some good high-grade commercial fertilizer analyzing about 12-4-4 every two weeks, will help tremendously. This latter is particularly true during the heavy blooming season, in the early part of summer.

The rose is a most unselfish plant and might well be an example for all of us. It responds to generosity with more generosity. It seems that for every blossom that is cut from a plant, at least two take that one's place. On the other hand, if the roses are not cut as fast as they appear, the plant seems to dwarf itself and stop blooming, as well as growing.

There is only one thing that should be kept in mind when cutting roses. Use a knife that is razor-sharp, or, better still, use a pair of scissors or pruning shears. Cut the roses with real long stems, just as long as possible, and still leave two leaves at the base. This cutting, which is so beneficial, helps to give the plant the proper pruning that should be its due all through the summer. After a bit of experience at this pleasant task of cutting roses, the latest amateur will fast learn to shape the plant as this pruning is carried on.

Each year that passes finds the subject of bugs as easier one to talk about, for each year there are new remedies for our old enemies, and life becomes shorter and shorter for them.

Our oldest friend among the bugs is the aphis. They have had a wonderful time this spring, for they delight in cool, damp weather. There are several different kinds of aphides, but they confine themselves to two colors, pink and green. They are usually first found underneath the buds and new leaves, and there they sit and suck the life from the plants. These lice reproduce with amazing rapidity, and soon will cover the entire plant if they are not controlled immediately.

It is fortunate indeed that these aphides, plant lice or green flies, as they are sometimes called, are easily controlled. There are several methods by which this control may be effected. The oldest method, and also a most satisfactory one, is by the use of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate. One teaspoonful will make a gallon of spray. It is a good plan to add about one ounce of whale oil, or common laundry soap, to this mixture. This is done in order that the solution will stick to the leaves in a better manner.

Another method, more of a prevention than a cure, is by the use of tobacco. Plants are given a thorough dusting with tobacco dust early in the morning while the dew is still on the plants. This, of course, is done that the dust will stick on the plants.

The third method followed, the latest and probably the most satisfactory of the three methods generally followed, is spraying with a pyrethrum spray. Pyrethrum, like nicotine sulphate, is a contact spray, and care should be taken that every bit of the plant is thoroughly soaked. A great advantage of this pyrethrum spray over the old-fashioned nicotine sulphate spray is that pyrethrum is non-poisonous.

There are two diseases that give us trouble on our roses here in Atlanta—mildew and black-spot. Mildew is commonly found on the Dorothy Perkins roses and also on a great many of the bush roses. Dorothy Perkins is such a sinner about attracting mildew that most people are pulling them up by the roots and throwing the old sister away, then replacing with some stronger brother. The rest of the roses may be saved without a great deal of trouble, and are worth saving.

Mildew is a surface disease, and therefore is easily controlled. The American Rose Society highly recommended two methods of control: fungtrogen or tri-ogen, and Massey dust. Fungtrogen is the commercial name for ammonical copper-carbonate solution. This is always applied in a liquid spray. Massey dust is sold under a number of commercial names, but is composed of nine parts of dusting sulphur and one part of arsenate of lead.

To make this dust even more effective, add one part of tobacco dust, thereby controlling, through one dusting, mildew rose curculio and aphides. The sulphur will cure the mildew; the arsenate of lead, the rose curculio, and the powdered tobacco the aphides.

The black-spot is harder to control and cure than the mildew, but this may be done by starting before the appearance of the disease, or at the first indication. Black spot is hard to control, because of the fact that it is bacterial growth within the leaf itself. The control is simple: Clean up all of the dead and fallen leaves and burn them. As the leaves become infected, pick them from the plant and burn them as well. Dust the plant thoroughly with Massey dust once every week. Remember, black spot is difficult to control. Promptness and thoroughness are essential.

We have just read over what has been written and it is certainly very discouraging; fertilizers, bugs and diseases. As a parting suggestion, may I ask that you not take this too seriously? Roses bloom well without very much care, but try a bit of prevention in your garden of roses and discourage the bugs and diseases.

WHAT TO PLANT IN APRIL.

BULBS-ROOTS: Gladiolus, dahlias, cannas, tuberoses, elephant ears, fancy leaf caladiums and German iris may all be planted this month.

FLOWER SEEDS: All of the annual flower seeds such as ageratum, sweet alyssum, snapdragons, asters, nasturtiums, candytuft, cosmos, forget-me-nots, gaillardia, baby's breath, larkspur, portulaca, sunflower and a dozen others may be planted this month.

FLOWER PLANTS: All kinds of bedding plants may be planted now.

GRASSES: Grass mixtures as well as Kentucky blue grass may be planted now.

SHRUBS: Roses and shrubs are growing now and will appreciate a good fertilizing.

VEGETABLE SEEDS: All of the vegetable seeds may be planted during this month.

VEGETABLE PLANTS: Plant tomato, pepper, eggplant, cauliflower, celery, sweet potato, cabbage and onion plants now.

WHAT TO DO IN APRIL.

PRUNING: All of the flowering shrubs that have bloomed this spring, such as January Jasmine, Forsythia, Japanese Quince, Spirea thunbergi may and should be pruned now. The other flowering shrubs that will bloom before June should be pruned directly after flowering.

FERTILIZING: Fertilizer for the lawn, flowering shrubs, flowers and vegetables should be at this time of the year a high-grade commercial fertilizer which is very active. This fertilizer should be a complete plant food with an analysis of 10-4-4.

SPRAYING: Roses should be sprayed every two weeks with Massey Dust. For all kinds of insects that appear, use a Pyrethrum spray. For mildew on crape myrtle, scale on privets and ligustrums, use Volck or any good oil emulsion spray. Peach trees should be sprayed with Mulsoid Sulphur and Arsenate of Lead during the spring and summer. Use Pyrox for apples, pears and plums.

Questions, Answers On Garden Subjects

By MRS. FLETCHER PEARSON CROWN

Question: May I put a little well-rotted manure around my iris now?

Answer: Do not put it too close to the rhizome. Next fall feed them with bone meal.

Question: The lower leaves of my sweet peas are turning yellow. What shall I do for them?

Answer: From your letter I have wondered if you arranged good drainage before you planted your seed. If this is the trouble, I am afraid that there is nothing that could be done now. However, before you plant anything else in the same place, you should test the drainage.

Question: Do you feel that perennials are very difficult to grow from seed?

Answer: No, I do not think they are difficult. I think that it is most interesting and economical to grow your own perennials from seed. However, you will find that growing any plant from seed is exacting for the first few weeks. Be sure to try some this year and see for yourself.

Question: My peonies were looking splendidly, had big buds. Suddenly the stems turned black and the shoots began to die. What shall I do?

Answer: You are having trouble with sclerotinia, a fungus trouble. Cut these dying shoots out well below the ground, then disinfect with 1 to 1,000 solution of corrosive sublimate poured well on the soil where this trouble has been found. In the fall cut back all the old tops and burn. Then in early spring as soon as you see the little tips begin to show you should spray with Bordeaux mixture. This is a very destructive and common disease. Disinfect the pruning shears as soon as you use them on any diseased part.

Question: How can I rid my garden of snails?

Answer: Use arsenate of lead on pieces of potato and cabbage. Put it out after dark to keep all of the birds and animals from it. If particularly bad in a certain spot, you might use a flash light to search for them at night. Use lime or coal ashes around plants that attract them. Delphiniums is one kind which does.

Question: When shall I begin spraying my roses?

Answer: I begin spraying roses in January. However, I continue throughout the year. Our roses suffer so much from blackspot, making it necessary to spray once each week throughout the growing season. Sulphur, very fine, is necessary to keep off fungous troubles, and to each nine pounds of dusting sulphur I add one pound of arsenate of lead. This will destroy the chewing insects. For those miserable little green or black soft-bodied insects, aphids, I either dust with tobacco dust, or use one teaspoonful of Black Leaf Forty to each gallon of water and spray. This should be repeated in four days, then repeat again.

Question: My gardenias are covered in a black mold, is this caused from coal smoke?

Answer: No, this is caused from the white fly. You should spray your gardenias in the winter with an oil spray. Since you have failed to do this you can now spray with the following: Dissolve 1-2 pound of furniture glue in one quart of water, very hot. Then add five gallons of cold water, spray. In a few days the glue hardens and peels off, bringing all the mold off with it.

Question: Will you suggest a vine that will give me both foliage and blossom?

Answer: I can not name a vine that is evergreen and also giving blossom. However I greatly like the Silver Lace vine. The foliage is very lovely in the summer, and the delicate white blossoms are like a mantle of snow. Wisteria and climbing roses also are deciduous and give lovely blossoms. Many annual vines give equally as much beauty and grow very rapidly. I like the feathery green foliage of the cypress vine, with red or white blossoms.

Cleopatra Won the Love of Two of the Greatest Leaders Who Ever Lived

By DALE CARNEGIE.

This is a bit of the story of the most seductive sweetheart that ever raised a man's blood pressure. Her name was Cleopatra, the Queen Goddess of Egypt—Cleopatra, the enchantress of the Nile.

She has been dead for 2,000 years, but her fame still glows brightly across the dead centuries. She committed suicide when she was 39; yet in her short riot of life, she won and held the ardent love of two of the most famous men who ever walked the earth—Mark Antony and Julius Caesar, the latter of whom you honor every time you speak of the month of July, which was named in his memory.

Caesar had conquered practically all the earth; but little Cleopatra conquered him, and the story of how she did it is one of the dramatic incidents of antiquity.

When Caesar drifted down to Alexandria, 48 years before the birth of Christ, Cleopatra was in a bad way. Her throne had been taken away from her, she had no money and she was in grave danger of having her head cut off. She had married her brother, they had had a family quarrel, he made war on her, and she had fled from Egypt to save her life.

Caesar commanded her to appear before him. But how could she? That was a problem, for Alexandria was infested with her brother's spies, and to be caught meant instant death. So one dark night, she slipped into the city in a small fishing boat, had her servant tie her up in a roll of carpet being shipped to the palace, and unroll it before the eyes of the mighty Caesar.

When Cleopatra leaped out of that carpet and started laughing and dancing around the room, the very sight of her exquisite body quickened the riotous blood of the astonished Caesar.

Boasting that he himself was descended from Venus, the goddess of Love, Caesar prided himself on being a judge of feminine pulchritude; but this was something new, something breath-taking.

"My! My!" Caesar might have said to himself, "Oo, la, la, how long has this been going on? Why haven't we girls like that in Rome?

Caesar was 54 and bald-headed, and Cleopatra was exuberant with the vitality of a youth of 21; and as Caesar looked upon her, he was lifted, as if by a tidal wave, to the foamy crests of love and ecstasy. By the ardor of her passion and the brilliance of her mentality, she made Caesar her willing slave for life.

So this brother of hers was trying to kill her, was he? Well, Caesar swore that he would teach that young upstart a lesson; so, with his Roman legions, he marched out and annihilated the Egyptian army and chased her brother into the Nile where he was drowned.

From that time on, Cleopatra was the undisputed Queen of Egypt, holding dominion over all the lands of the Pharaohs.

Months went by, and Cleopatra presented Caesar with a son—the only son he ever had. With one wife back in Rome, of course Caesar couldn't marry Cleopatra—you know how tongues will wag. So to hush up the scandal and legitimatize her son, Cleopatra used a brilliant piece of strategy. She ordered the priests to announce that Julius Caesar wasn't a man at all. No. No. He was a God. He was the reincarnation of Ammon, the Sun God, and he had come back to earth in Caesar's body to procreate a child for the Queen.

Sounds like a wild tale to me, but people believed it 2,000 years ago in Egypt. I am afraid that Cleopatra would have a hard time getting by with that story now.

Shortly after that, Caesar was assassinated, and roaring old Mark Antony, always drunk, always in debt, became the mightiest Roman of them all. Intoxicated with the wine of victory, Mark Antony led his armies into the east, bent on loot and plunder and a life of dissipation.

Egypt was the richest country in the east; so some of Antony's followers said to him when he was sober: "Look here, let's go down to Alexandria, cut off Cleopatra's head and feast on the flesh pots of Egypt."

Cleopatra trembled. How could she stop Antony? With ships and swords? Never. With love and caresses? Yes, may be. So with a flair for the dramatic, with a genius for showmanship, she set out to meet Antony in a gilded ship with purple sails. Surrounding herself with all the pomp and pageantry of the Arabian Nights, she had little boys, painted as Cupids, fanning her with peacock feathers, while voluptuous maidens, swathed in silk, danced to the wild strains of desert music. The fragrance of burning incense intoxicated the senses; and, in the midst of all this oriental glamour, Cleopatra lay on a silken couch, enchanting, irresistible, posing as Venus, the Goddess of Love.

Well, now, there you are. What would you have done if you had been Mark Antony? Well, that's precisely what I would have done, too. Why, if Mark Antony had been down in bed with rheumatism and dyspepsia and dandruff, he couldn't have resisted a girl like that. He didn't even try.

A rough, crude, vulgar soldier was this man Antony, giving wild parties to wild women and mountebanks, and scandalizing even Rome. And now, Cleopatra, a woman to the manor born, a creature of culture and refinement, a woman who could quote poetry, had become his mistress. His passion for her brought into his boisterous life the first touch of beauty and sublimity he had ever known, and it inspired in him a devotion and fidelity that commands our admiration across more than 20 centuries.

Cleopatra knew how to handle men. She didn't nag about his manners. She did everything he wanted to do. She shot dice with him, hunted and fished with him; and sometimes, she even disguised herself as a slave and strolled through the streets at night with him, jerking chairs from under people and playing wild pranks. Once, when they were out fishing, and Antony complained because he didn't get any "bites," Cleopatra had one of her servants swim under the ship and put a salt herring on Antony's hook.

Cleopatra catered to Mark's stomach and always kept a retinue of chefs on constant duty, day and night, preparing hot dishes, so that a sumptuous banquet could be served the instant Antony desired it.

Antony became so infatuated with her that he lost all semblance of sense. He gave her the whole sea coast of Phoenicia as a present. Then he made her a gift of the province of Jericho, the island of Cyprus, the island of Creto. Finally, as a grand climax to all his lavishness, he handed over to her the whole province of Asia.

The news of these gifts set Rome seething with hate and boiling with fury. What? Was all this territory, bought with a hundred battles and paid for in Roman blood, to be tossed away like a bauble to satisfy the whims of an Egyptian mistress? The answer was war. Cleopatra's hour had struck. She had overplayed her hand. The day of awful reckoning had come, and Rome rose in its mighty wrath, destroyed the ships of Antony and Cleopatra and routed their armies.

This was the end, and they knew it. Antony realized that he would be captured and beheaded, so he stabbed himself and died writhing in agony in the arms of Cleopatra, clinging to her in death as he had clung to her in life.

She vowed over and over again that she would never be taken captive and led through the streets of Rome in chains for the populace to hoot and jeer at. So she committed suicide by poisoning. How she did it, no one will ever know. Even the people who found her, 20 minutes after she died, couldn't solve the mystery. Some thought she had bitten herself and then poured the poison of a snake into the wound. Others declared that she had had an adder smuggled to her in a basket of flowers and that she had let the added bite her breast.

She lies buried today beside Mark Antony somewhere out in Egypt. Precisely where is still a mystery. If you go out to Alexandria and find her tomb, you will make a fortune and you will get your name flung in headlines across the front page of every important newspaper on earth.

her lover escape to Vienna, where they meet just retribution.

Released at last from an unhappy marriage, Malden turns to Alicia, who has been a real mother to his five children, and finds in his new life an ecstacy surpassing all that he had known in the past.

The characterizations are indelibly clear and vivid, and out of the old English background emerge a beauty and emotion that enriches the story.

Modern Story.

SAFE ROAD. By Katharine Newlin Burt. Macrae-Smith Co., Philadelphia. 288 pp. $2.

"Safe Road" is a modern story of modern people. A story bright and brisk yet containing enough drama to be interesting and exciting.

This is the story of Sally Keyne who inherits a fortune and immediately loses it. After quite a thrilling escapade her fortune is regained —plus a husband.

It is charmingly written and you will be very surprised at the unexpected ending. J. M.

Beautifully Executed.

A PURSE OF COPPERS. By Sean O'Faolain. The Viking Press, New York. 284 pp. $2.50.

Mr. O'Faolain made his reputation, in England and in this country, with the volume of stories called "Midsummer Night Madness," then practically remade it with "A Nest of Simple Folk." This is distinguished stuff for a man to be faced with, but the competition is no greater than that which is offered by modern Irish literature in general. Yet, in spite of such names as George Moore, Seumas O'Sullivan, Maurice O'Sullivan, James Stephens, Lennox Robinson—I feel no regret that the name which appears on the cover of this book is that of Sean O'Faolain.

Here are 14 stories which, barring two, are to me comparable with the best work which is being done in this form: delicately conceived and beautifully executed. This is purer art than most. In fact, the socially conscious would object to all but "Sullivan's Trousers" as disregarding modern life, especially in view of the turbulence of the Irish temperament. Indeed, in his poised discursiveness Mr. O'Faolain's work is strongly reminiscent of that of George Moore. But "Sullivan's Trousers" and "A Broken World" absolve him of any charge of deliberate nearsightedness. It is too easy to confuse the timeless, the absolute with evasive escapism.

so. They had faithfully carried out their part of the bargain. Nothing remained to complete the deal but the release of the victim.

But there was no sign or tidings of Abel Ayerza.

On November 2 the police picked up what seemed to be a clue in a telegram sent from Rosario to a farmer named Anselmo Dallera, living at Corral de Bustos, a village not far from Marcos Juarez.

The message, which read, "Manden cerdos urgente" (Send pigs urgently), was interpreted as an announcement by the kidnapers that the ransom had been paid and that Ayerza would be released. It came to the attention of Miguel Viancarlos, chief of the criminal investigation bureau at Buenos Aires, who had gone to Rosario at the personal suggestion of President Augustin Justo. Viancarlos suggested that Farmer Dallera be arrested forthwith.

This man had no previous police record, but was known to have mixed with the Mafia element. When he was questioned at Marcos Juarez he at first protested that he knew nothing about the kidnaping, but eventually said that he "suspected" two important members of the local Mafia, Juan Vinti and Santos Gerardi. Dallera admitted that Vinti had recently been staying at his farm.

And where might Vinti be now? Dallera said he couldn't say. However, the police might try a certain address on Calle de Castellanos in Marcos Juarez.

Accordingly, on November 3, police officers surrounded the suspected house under the command of Federal Police Commissioner Victor Fernandez Bazan, who had also been detailed to the case at the suggestion of the President. But Vinti wasn't there. Tipped off in time, he had escaped just half an hour before.

But the raid was not entirely futile, for the police found in the house Carlos Rampello, 18, who seemed to fit the description of the young kidnaper described by Bonetto. His brother, Antonio, owned the dwelling.

Grilled at headquarters, he soon admitted assisting in the abduction, but declared he had been forced to participate. He named Vinti as chief of the gang, Jose Frenda, another suspected Mafioso, Santos Girardi andi and Romeo Capuani.

Where was Abel Ayerza being held? Rampello replied that the youth was at a farm near Monte Buey, not far from Carlos de Bustos. When several farms in the region were fruitlessly searched, the prisoner admitted he must have been mistaken and named another village. After this had gone on for a few more hours the police realized that he had deliberately deceived them.

Four months passed now, with no further developments. It was not until February 14, 1933, that the next break came.

* * *

On that day two federal officers, patrolling the railroad station of San Nicholas, in the province of Buenos Aires, saw a man they long had been seeking—Carmelo Vinti, brother of Juan Vinti. He and a companion, Jose Latorre, were arrested as they alighted from a train, and rushed at once to Buenos Aires.

That same day Vinti was grilled so severely that, as the police put it, he died of a "heart attack."

It came out that, while in custody at Buenos Aires that day, he seized a pair of scissors and slashed two officers. The newspapers could not discover whether the scissors attack led the police to punish Vinti, or whether it was the grilling that brought on the attack. At any rate, he died.

The other prisoner, Latorre, quickly broke down. He admitted what the police had suspected for many weeks—that Abel Ayerza was no longer alive. Juan Vinti had shot him to death on October 31, as soon as the ransom had been delivered.

Latorre implicated Santos Gerardi, Salvador Rinaldi, of Rosario, and his brother, Cayetano. These three, arrested in Rosario, in turn implicated Maria Devalle de Marino, mother-in-law of Salvador Rinaldi, and Graziella de Marino, the young woman who had warned Reporter Alzogaray about leaving town.

Maria de Marino had posted the ransom letters to the Ayerza family. The younger woman, a relative, had sent the wire, "Manden cerdos urgente," on November 1.

Questioning of all these prisoners culminated on February 22, when police officers descended upon the farm of Vincente and Augustin Digrado, near Corral de Bustos, where young Ayerza had been held, and where he had been murdered. His body was found in a shallow grave about two miles from the farmhouse.

Meanwhile, the Ayerza family, realizing that the kidnapers had cruelly betrayed their trust, took the police into their confidence, and hired, as their personal investigator, Cesar Etcheverry, former chief of the Buenos Aires police. He concentrated his efforts upon tracing down the fugitive Mafiosi, particularly Juan Vinti.

* * *

Weeks of painstaking detective work finally landed Etcheverry on the right trail. Information reached him early in May that Vinti and his partners-in-crime had forced themselves upon the owner of a house at 2026 Calle Virasoro, Rosario, and had been hiding out there since November. The owner of the house, Jose Rugenini, free-lance editor of Italian-Argentine magazines, was the person who supplied the tip.

He confided to Etcheverry that, in order to stock the hideout with plenty of arms and ammunition, Vinti had hit upon the idea of organizing a rifle club made up from among the Rosario Mafia. Thus the dwelling had become a vertiable arsenal.

POLICE SURROUND HOUSE, SEIZE THREE.

Etcheverry informed the Rosario police on May 10. Three days later, after making careful preparations, the house was surrounded and at a given signal the officers closed in at the front and rear. Juan Vinti and Romeo Capuani were seized as they dashed for their guns. Jose Frenda, preferring not to shoot it out, was yanked out of a closet.

With the cleanup of the kidnap gang, the victory seemed complete. Actually justice had a long, hard fight ahead. The Mafia mustered all its money and influence to defeat the law, and for five years succeeded. No less than ten trials were thrown out by higher courts, because the trial judges feared to exact proper penalties.

The eleventh trial opened in the Cordoba criminal court last December, with Judge Dr. Luis Aguero Pinero presiding. He conducted the proceedings most courageously—to the relief and admiration of the Argentine press—and on December 27 Justice at last triumphed.

Vinti and five fellow defendants—Capuani, Latorre, Girardi and the Digrado brothers—were sentenced to deportation for life to terrible Ushuaia, the Argentine Devil's Island. Jose Frenda could not be judged, for Vinti had since killed him in a prison brawl. Young Carlos Rampello got 16 years, Maria de Marino 20 years, and Graziella de Marino 12 years.

The Ayerza case shows how cruelly at the mercy of the kidnapers is the desperate family of a victim. It would not be correct to say that the Ayerza family had not learned the great lesson of the Lindbergh tragedy, since the gang could have proved that the youth was alive, and still could have killed him after the ransom was delivered.

The obvious solution in this situation would seem to be some sort of simultaneous exchange. To make this demand, and to stick to it, would imperil the life of the captive, but one cannot help but believe that such a practice would deal a further blow to this most despicable of crimes.

EVERY woman is entitled to the joy of living and every husband is entitled to the perfect contentment that can come only from the companionship of a happy, not overtired wife. How much time does a woman really have? That depends, as does her youth, her charm and her mental development, on the number of electrical servants she possesses with which to transmute hours of household drudgery into leisure for other things . . . for real companionship with husband and children.

MORE HOURS OUT OF KITCHEN---FEWER HOURS OF WATCHFUL COOKING

Here's the old way. The old iron range. Drudgery and more drudgery, not to mention annoyance. Blazing heat to strike the face as the lid is lifted. Splinters for tender hands as the wood is placed in the stove. Then worn out grates. Danger of kerosene igniting the clothing as this means was often used to start a slow-starting fire. Dust, grime, soot and other drawbacks. Not to mention filling the house with smoke and soot.

BUTTERMILK SHERBET.

2 cups buttermilk
1-2 cup sugar
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla
1 egg white, unbeaten

1. Combine buttermilk, sugar and pineapple thoroughly. Place in trays and freeze to a mush. 2. Remove from tray to a chilled bowl, add egg white and vanilla. Beat until light and fluffy. 3 Return to freezing unit and continue freezing until firm.

CHARTREUSE OF MEAT AND RICE.

2 cups chopped cooked meat
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon onion juice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 egg
3-4 cup fine soft bread crumbs
4 cups cooked rice

1. Season meat and mix with crumbs and beaten egg, add enough stock to make it pack easily. 2. Line a thoroughly buttered mold with three cups of rice, fill with the meat mixture, and cover with the remainder of the rice. 3. Cover lightly and bake at 350 degrees F., for one hour. Serve with tomato sauce. (The preparation may be done ahead and the covered mold kept in the refrigerator until time to bake).

CHEESE STRATA.

Temperature 350 Deg. F. Time—45 to 50 minutes. Serves 6.

12 slices of bread
1-4 lb. American cheese
2 2-3 cups milk
Paprika
4 eggs
2-3 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper

1. Trim crust from bread, arrange 6 slices in bottom of buttered baking dish. 2. Slice the cheese and place on bread; cover with remaining slices of bread. 3. Beat eggs slightly, add milk and seasoning. Pour milk mixture over the bread. Cover and keep in the refrigerator cabinet until ready to bake. 4. Bake and serve at once. The bread should puff up and brown. The thorough chilling makes the "strata" puff like a souffle.

SOFT GINGERBREAD.

1-2 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup molasses
3 cups flour
1 cup sour milk or coffee
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cloves
1-2 tsp. nutmeg
1 1-2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. ginger

Temperature—325 Degrees. Time—45 Minutes.

1. Cream the butter and sugar together, add the eggs and beat well. 2. Add the molasses and mix. 3. Sift the dry ingredients together and add alternately to first mixture with milk. 4. Turn into a well-buttered (9x12x2-inch) pan and bake. This may be baked in muffin tins (3 1-2 dozen).

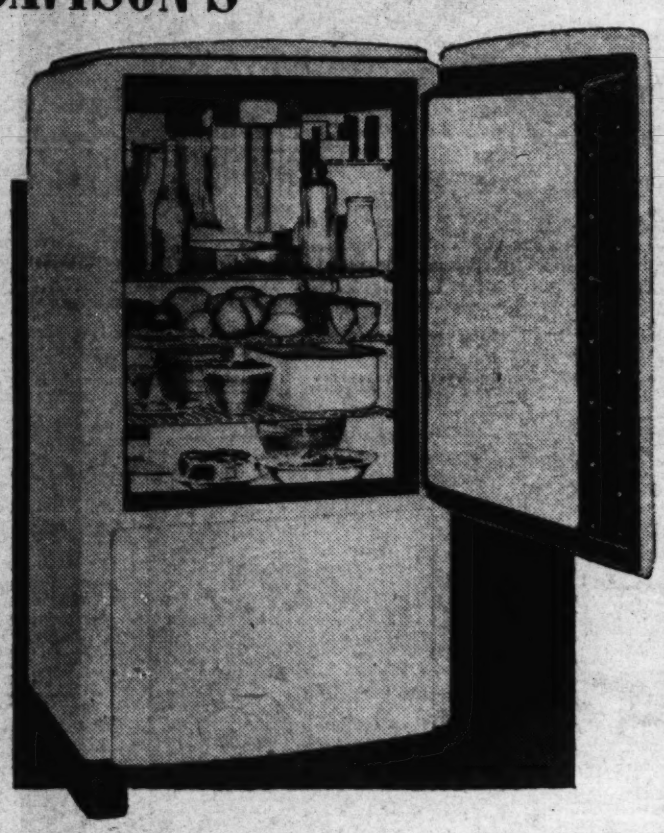

GRAHAM ROLY-POLY.

1 1-2 cups graham flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup shortening
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg yolk
1-2 cup milk
Fresh fruit or jam
1 egg white
Sugar

Temperature—375 Deg. Time—1 hour.

1. Sift the dry ingredients together. Cut in the shortening. 2. Beat the egg yolk, add the milk and combine with the dry ingredients (add more milk to make a soft dough). 3. Knead slightly and roll into a sheet 1-4 inch thick. 4. Spread with jam or fresh fruit cut fine and sweetened. Roll up as a jelly roll. 5. Arrange in pan, brush with egg white and sprinkle with sugar. Bake. 6. Serve hot with fruit or lemon sauce.

VANILA ICE CREAM.

1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, boil to a thick syrup
3 tablespoon gelatin
¾ cup cold water
3 eggs
2 cups milk
1½ cups whipping cream
2 tablespoons vanilla.

1. Soak gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. 2. Add to hot syrup and allow to cool. 3 Beat eggs thoroughly and add hot syrup to eggs, beating constantly. 4. Add milk and freeze to a mush. 5. Whip cream, add vanilla and fold into first mixture. 6. Return to freezing tray. Place in freezing unit and allow to freeze for several hours. This makes two quarts of ice cream.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM.

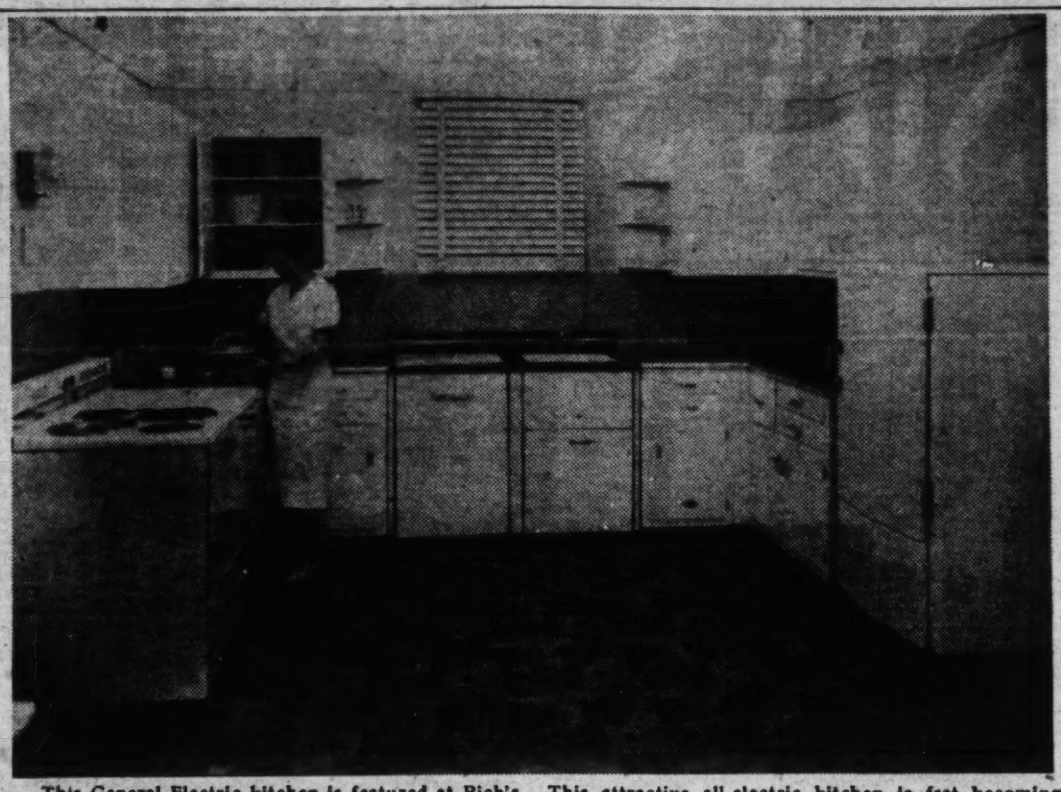

1½ squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups rich milk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Few grains salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup cream
2-3 cup sugar

1. Melt chocolate on low heat and add scalded milk very slowly. 2. Mix cornstarch with sugar and add to chocolate mixture. Cook ten minutes, stirring until thickened. 3. Cool, add vanilla, turn into trays and freeze to a mush. 4. Fold in whipped cream and beat well. Return to freezing unit to freeze.

FRESH PEACH ICE CREAM.

2 cups peach pulp
¾ cup sugar
Juice of 1 lemon
Pinch of salt
2 whole eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
½ pint cream
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon almond flavoring

1. Select soft peaches. Mash thoroughly. 2. Add sugar and lemon juice and dissolve. When thoroughly dissolved, pour into tray and freeze 45 minutes to one hour. 3. Beat egg whites, adding the 2 tablespoons sugar—then add egg yolks and mix. 4. Whip cream to a thick custard consistency (do not overwhip). Combine with the beaten eggs. 5. Add frozen peach pulp and mix lightly. 6. Return to freezing unit to freeze.

This General Electric kitchen is featured at Rich's. This attractive all-electric kitchen is fast becoming the center of interest in the sixth floor refrigeration and range department of Rich's. Men as well as women show great interest in this elaborate electric kitchen, sales department heads and salesmen say. Everything is up to the minute with electricity the moving spirit of this huge display.

FRENCH VANILLA ICE CREAM.

2 cups coffee cream
1 cup milk
2 eggs
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
3-4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon flour
Vanilla to flavor

1. Mix sugar, flour and salt with enough cold milk to make a thin paste. Scald remainder of milk and stir in paste. 2. Cook to consistency of thin custard. 3. Add egg yolks beaten with water. Cook a minute longer. Allow to cool. 4. Add egg whites to cream, and beat slightly. Add to custard mixture, and stir in vanilla. Freeze. Due to thickness of mixture, more time must be allowed for freezing.

RED RASPBERRY SHERBET.

1 package of raspberry jello
1 cup sugar
2 cups water
Juice of 1 lemon
Juice of ½ orange
1 quart red raspberries or
1 can red raspberries

1. Cook sugar and water together five minutes. Cool slightly and add the raspberry jello. Dissolve thoroughly. Cool until it begins to thicken. 2. Wash berries and run through a sieve, add orange and lemon juice. Add to the jello. Pour into tray. Place in freezing unit and freeze 1½ hours. 3. Remove to a chilled bowl and beat 2 minutes. Return to tray and freeze firm. 4. Serve in sherbet glasses, garnish with sprig of mint. This is delicious and very fluffy and smooth.

Variations: Use cherry or strawberry and fresh fruit run through sieve.

LIME SHERBET.

½ tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons water
¾ cup sugar
1½ cups water
2 egg whites
¼ cup fresh lime juice
1-3 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-8 teaspoon salt
Green coloring

1. Sprinkle gelatin over 2 tablespoons cold water. 2. Boil sugar and ¾ cup water for 10 minutes, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. 3. Cool. 4. Add fruit juices, remaining water, and salt. Tint mixture light green. 5. Freeze to a mush in tray placed in freezing unit. 6. Remove and whip with unbeaten egg whites. 7. Return to freezing unit until frozen. 8. Serve with a red cherry, strawberry, or raspberry, and a mint leaf.

GRAPEFRUIT CREAM SHERBET

1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 No. 2 can grapefruit juice
1 1-3 cups sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice, if desired
1 cup thin cream, or ½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg, well beaten

1. Soften the gelatin in the cold water, dissolve in boiling grapefruit juice. 2. Add sugar, dissolve and chill. 3. Add lemon juice and well-beaten egg. 4. Pour the chilled mixture slowly into the cream. Place in tray and freeze in freezing unit. An excellent texture may be obtained if mixture is allowed to freeze until firm then beaten in an electric mixer until smooth—return to tray to harden.

GRAPE JUICE SHERBET.

1 teaspoon gelatin
½ cup cold water
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups grape juice
1-3 cup orange juice
¼ teaspoon salt
4 egg whites, unbeaten

1. Soak gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. 2. Make a syrup by boiling sugar and hot water ten minutes, and add soaked gelatin. Cool slightly and add fruit juices; then freeze in two large freezing trays in freezing unit. 3. Remove, add to egg whites and whip. Return to trays—freeze until firm. Makes 2 quarts.

STEAMED RICE.

1 cup rice
1 tsp. butter
2 cups cold water
1 tsp. salt

Saucepan. Time—35 Minutes.

1. Measure the rice and wash very thoroughly to remove any surplus starch. 2. Place rice in saucepan, add the water, salt and butter, cover. 3. Turn the switch to start until steaming (8 to 10 minutes). 4. As soon as the rice is steaming, stir with a fork, cover again and turn off switch. 5. Steam without removing cover 20-25 minutes. 6. Fluff with a fork and serve hot.

DELICIOUS FROZEN DESSERTS EASILY MADE WITH ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

SURPRISE LOAF.

1 loaf sandwich bread
Mayonnaise dressing
1 1-4 cups chopped raw cabbage
1-2 cup shredded lettuce
2 cups cheese relish
1-4 pound cream cheese
1-2 pound yellow or snappy cheese
Seasonings
1 pimiento, chopped

1. Remove crust from bread and slice lengthwise in thirds. 2. Place one slice of bread on a platter and spread with mayonnaise, then with the cabbage, lettuce and pimiento which have been mixed with enough mayonnaise dressing to moisten. 3. Cover this with second slice of bread which has been spread with mayonnaise. 4. Spread over the cheese relish and cover with the third slice. 5. Mash cream cheese, press yellow cheese through sieve or grate it—and mix together with enough thin cream to make a soft spreading consistency. 6. Season with salt, pepper and paprika.

APRICOT PUDDING.

2 cups steamed apricots (mashed)
1 1-2 cups flour
1 1-2 tsp. baking powder
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 tsp. salt
1-3 tsp. mace
1-3 cup butter
2-3 cup milk

Thrift Cooker. Time—1 1-2 hours.

1. Sift all the dry ingredients together. 2. Combine the milk, 1-2 cup apricots and the melted shortening. 3. Add to dry ingredients and mix well. 4. Turn into buttered pudding pan and steam. 5. Serve with apricot sauce, using remaining apricots, 1-2 cup sugar and 2 tbsp. butter. Cook for 8 to 10 minutes with switch on COOK.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM.

2 tablespoons gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1-2 cup fruit juice
1 1-2 cups crushed fresh strawberries, or
1 1-2 cups canned berries, drained of their juice
1 1-2 cups cream

1. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling fruit juice. Cool. 2. If fresh fruit is to be used, sweeten to taste, depending upon the sweetness of the berries—about 1-2 cup; if canned fruit, no extra sugar will be needed. 3. Add fruit and place in refrigerator cabinet to chill, stirring occasionally. 4. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in cream, whipped until stiff. Turn into mold, first dipped in cold water, and return to refrigerator to become firm. 5. Unmold on serving plate and garnish with whole strawberries, crushed strawberries, or whipped cream, as desired.

YUM-YUM — What's this being mixed by Mrs. Ben Bailey below. Whatever it is it is sure to be good for the ingredients are just right and the kitchen is electrically equipped and most modern in every respect. It is a real pleasure and intriguing declare women who know whereof they speak.

And someone is in for a real treat here. Mrs. David N. McCullough is preparing a feast for a bridge party. These frozen dishes are always popular and doubly so in the warm summer months. This kitchen, too, is fully electrically equipped, refrigerator, range and all the other necessary appliances to make work in the kitchen easy and pleasant. Atlanta women are more and more realizing the importance of completely equipping their kitchens electrically, say leading Atlanta kitchen experts.

Just take a peek into this refrigerator. Just the thing for a smart kitchen, says Mrs. English Robinson. Plenty of space. She says it goes for today's practical and economical kitchen budget. Atlanta housewives say they find the fulfillment of their every desire for saving on food, time and energy in their electric kitchens. Not a single worry, say they all as they find time for enjoyment of many summer sports and attractions.

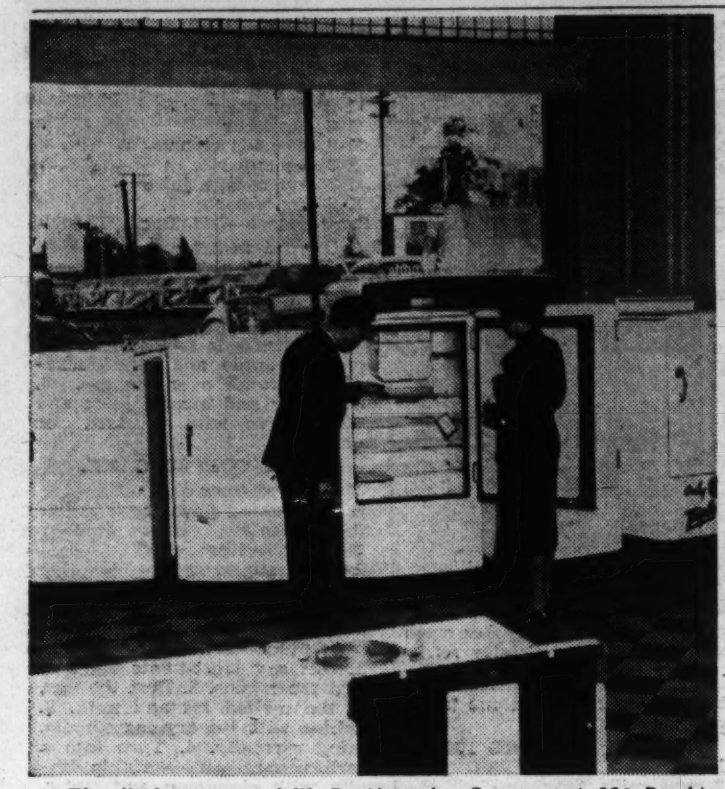

Mrs. Thomas D. Meador III above is preparing some tasty dish on that electric range which is certain to be just right. And at the extreme right Mrs. S. Russell Bridges Jr. is likely preparing a frozen dish for her bridge party guests. Mrs. James Frazer shown in photograph at the right seems to have found just the right recipe she was looking for, and it's going to be great fun making it with all the electrical appliances that she has at hand in the modern electrically equipped kitchen. Husbands as well as wives appreciate the conveniences, economics, more cleanliness and a more abundant home life, due to the modern electrically equipped kitchen. Brother and sister, too, join in this refrain for such a kitchen affords dad and mother more time in which to devote to their outdoor and indoor sports. It all goes to make the entire family joyous.

MORE HOURS TO ENJOY LIFE AND A GREAT MANY LESS HOURS OF HARD WORK

ITALIAN LAMB CHOPS.

6 shoulder chops
2 onions—sliced
1 1-2 cups tomatoes
1-2 cup bread crumbs
1-2 cup grated cheese
Seasoning

Temperature—350 Degrees
Time—1 1-4 hours

1. Have butcher cut chops 1 inch thick, trim excess fat and remove the bone. 2. Season the chops and brown in frying pan. 3. Arrange chops in large casserole—on each chop arrange sliced onions and carefully pour over the tomatoes—season with salt and pepper. 4. Mix the cheese and crumbs, sprinkle thickly over the chops. 5. Bake.

DEVILED ROUND STEAK.

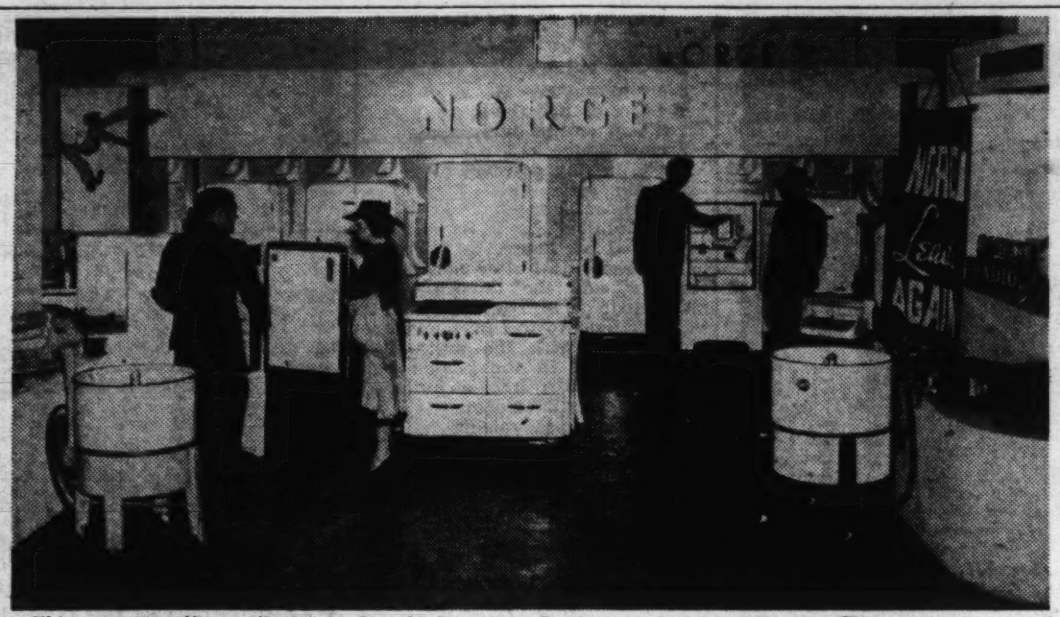

3 lb. top round steak cut 1 1-2 inches thick
1-2 cup flour
1 tsp. mustard
1-2 cup flour
1 tsp. mustard
4 tbsp. fat
2 tsp. salt
2 tsbp. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup water

Temperature—350 Degrees
Time 1 1-2 to 2 hours

1 Mix the flour, mustard and salt, and pound into the round steak. 2. Brown in a frying pan. When brown, place in casserole or Thrift cooker on rack, add the Worcestershire sauce, rinse the pan with the water and pour over the steak. 3. Cover and bake. May add onions if desired.

PORK CHOPS SUPREME.

6 rib chops cut 1 inch thick
1 can tomato soup
1 No. 2 can peas
Salt
Pepper
Crumbs

This attractive Norge display at Sterchi Furniture Company's electric appliance department evokes much comment. In addition to a complete Norge line this concern also carries the Frigidaire and Crosley refrigerators and a complete line of R. C. A. radios, supplies and radio equipment.

Temperature—375 Degrees
Time—1 1-2 hours

1. Trim excess fat from chop—salt and pepper. Brown in frying pan. 2. Arrange chops in casserole, pour over the peas and tomato soup. Sprinkle with crumbs. 3. Cover and bake.

HAM LOAF.

1 lb. ground ham
1-2 lb. veal
1-2 lb. pork
4 slices bread
1 cup hot milk
1 egg
1-2 tsp. salt
1-4 cup minced onion
1-4 cup minced celery
1-4 tsp. pepper.

Temperature 400 Degrees
Time—1 1-4 hours

1. Have the butcher grind the meats twice so that they are very fine. 2. Add hot milk to the bread and allow to soften. 3. Add softened bread, eggs and seasoning to the meats and mix thoroughly. 4. Pack into a ring mold or a loaf pan and bake. (If ring mold is used, place ring mold in another pan to prevent from dripping in the oven).

LAMB STEW.

2 lb. lamb neck
1-4 cup flour
6 carrots
Salt and pepper
3 onions
3 potatoes
1 tsbp. Worcestershire sauce
2 cups broth or water

Thrift Cooker Time—2 hours

1. Dip lamb in the flour and brown in Thrift cooker kettle on surface of range. Place kettle into well. 2. Add the seasoning and broth. 3. Add vegetables cut in large cubes and more salt if needed. 4. Cover and steam.

One of the most important features of your range is the possibility of cooking the entire meal at the same time in the oven. There is no need to use the surface unit when a roast is being cooked in the oven. Place the vegetables (except green) and desert in the oven and have them all cook at one time. This means saves money.

PASTRY.

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup lard
6 to 8 tablespoon ice water or milk

Temperature—475 Deg. Time—10 to 12 minutes.

1. Sift the flour and salt. 2. Add the shortening and cut with a fork or pastry blender. 3. Add liquid gradually, enough to hold the ingredients together. Knead lightly and chill. 4. When ready to cook roll 1-2-inch thick and put into a greased (lard) pan. Pinch edge of pastry and prick bottom with fork. 5. Bake. (Enough for two crusts).

FRUIT PIE.

Pastry
3 cups fruit
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
Juice 1-2 lemon
3-4 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon

Temperature—425 Deg. Time—45 to 50 minutes.

1. Line a greased (lard) pie pan with pastry and chill. 2. Prepare fruit (any fruit desired) add sugar, spices, flour, lemon juice and butter. 3. Fill pastry-lined pan, and cover with pastry (moisten the edges thoroughly). 4. Crimp edges and bake.

MINCEMEAT PIE.

Pastry
2 cups mincemeat (moist)
1 cup chopped apples
1-4 cup sugar
Spices
2 tablespoons wine

Temperature—425 Deg. Time—30 minutes.

Beauty of Performance

This dainty dessert made with the aid of electrical refrigeration. This young woman found just the recipe she wanted and found it easy and pleasant to make the dessert she desired.

Bame's, Inc., located at 60 North Broad street, a popular Norge dealer, handles a complete line of Norge products as well as radios and other modern electric appliances. This concern takes pride in its Norge line and other appliances which are always kept up-to-date and in full stock.

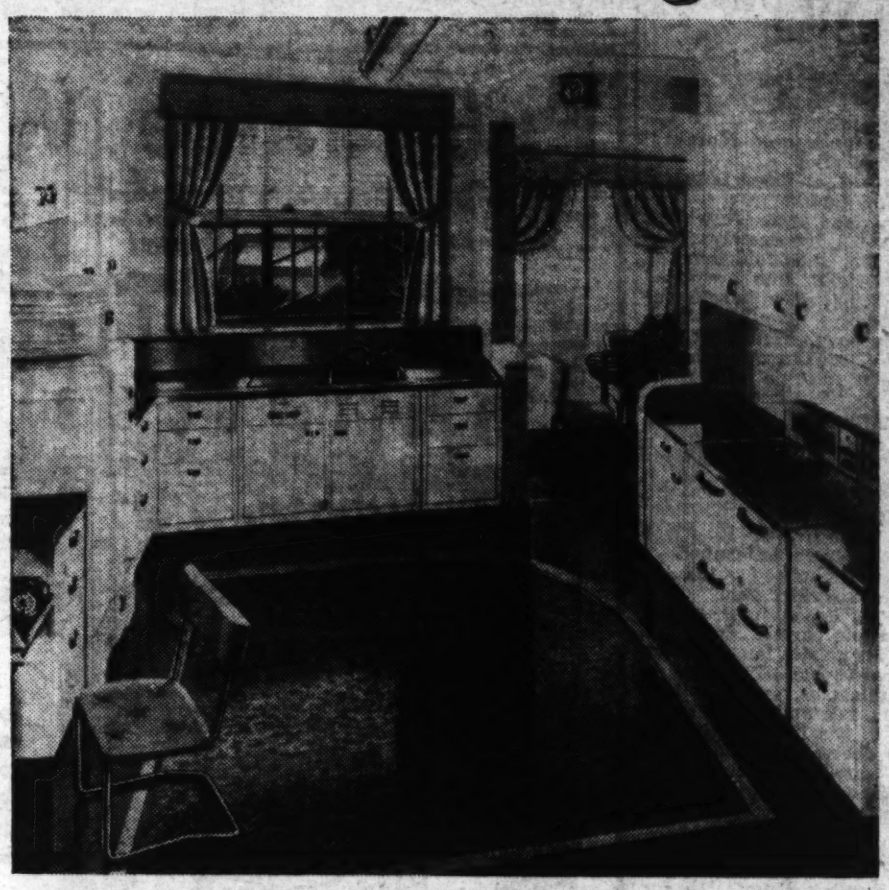

Prize-winning window of the Georgia Power Company, which features Hotpoint and also Westinghouse Electric ranges and refrigerators. Men are said to be just as enthusiastic about an electric kitchen as their wives, who insist upon it and in most cases have their desire granted.

THE SINK THAT SAVES YOUR DISHES

— BECAUSE IT'S EQUIPPED WITH THAT NEW GE DISHWASHER

— AND BECAUSE IT'S MADE OF RESILIENT MONEL

There are two reasons why this lovely Monel sink is kind to your china . . . and gentle to your glassware: First because there's a General Electric dishwasher tucked away in that sink—just to the left of the bowl. You'll find it a fast worker . . . and a careful one. It doesn't encourage your glasses to develop rough edges. It helps prevent those ugly little nicks from appearing on your best set of china.

The second reason why this sink saves your dishes is that Monel is resilient. It acts as a shock absorber. In a recent test, six plates were dropped upon a Monel sink from a height of six inches. Nothing happened. Not a sign of a chip. Not a trace of a crack. Yet the same drop onto an ordinary sink made all six plates candidates for the ash can. The Kitchen is no longer woman's "Workshop" — not in this Monel top surface General Electric equipped kitchen. It is compact for saving needless steps and energy. The smooth surfaces of Monel metal are a pleasure to clean. Substances which tend to make stains cannot penetrate Monel. Consequently, stains are never permanent. They are easily and quickly removed with common household cleansers.

You don't need to build a new house to have the advantages of an electric kitchen like this. We will gladly supply information on a complete built-in kitchen or help you plan for accomplishing the same result, step by step with one unit at a time. Either way, surprisingly easy terms are offered.

MORE HOURS OF FOOD PRESERVATION---FEWER HOURS OF TEDIOUS SHOPPING

And just look at this meal prepared on an electric range. This delicacy was prepared in just a few minutes. The electric kitchen, women say, has abolished drudgery and toil. Now the housewife has more hours for her family, relaxation and clean fun. Many, many more hours to enjoy life. The men, too, are very enthusiastic about an electric kitchen. It makes the home pleasant, they say, and more comfortable for every one of the family.

SPANISH CREAM PIE.

1 1-2 cups whipping cream
2 egg whites
2 egg yolks
1-3 cup sugar
1 table spoon gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced Maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

1. Whip cream, beat egg whites, and egg yolks separately; add sugar to yolks, then fold into egg whites. 2. Fold into whipped cream. 3. Soak gelatin in cold water, and dissolve over hot water. Add slowly to first mixture. 4. Add vanilla. 5. Pour into a baked pie shell and sprinkle with cherries and nuts. 6. Place in refrigerator to congeal. Use an 8-inch pie plate.

SALADS.

TOMATO ASPIC.

2 tablespoons gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1-2 cup boiling water
4 tomatoes, fresh or canned
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1-2 teaspoon celery seed
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 or 3 whole cloves

1. Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. 2. Cook the tomatoes, onions, celery seed, cloves, salt and sugar for 15 minutes. 3. Strain through fine strainer or cheesecloth; add lemon juice and dissolved gelatin. 4. This may be molded at once or it may be kept in covered jar in refrigerator cabinet until needed. Makes about three cups aspic. 5. To use, take out what is wanted and melt over hot water. Use for various salads such as celery and cucumber, vegetable, etc.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD.

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1-2 cup cooked salad dressing
1 cup shredded pineapple
1 cup cream, whipped
1-2 cup pecan nuts
1-2 cup Maraschino cherries
1-2 green pepper

1. Mash cream cheese and blend with salad dressing. 2. To this add pineapple, cherries (cut in pieces), chopped green pepper, and chopped nuts. 3. Fold in the whipped cream and turn into tray of freezing unit. When frozen, serve on crisp lettuce leaves. (This should freeze in about two hours; if left too long it will become icy.)

MOLDED CHICKEN SALAD.

1 tablespoon gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1-2 cup chopped celery
1 cup mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing
1-4 cup chopped pimiento
2 cups cooked chicken cut in small pieces

1. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve over boiling water. 2. Add to salad dressing. 3. Fold in chicken, celery and pimiento and more dressing if necessary. 4. Turn into large or individual molds and place in cabinet to chill. 5. Unmold on crisp lettuce and garnish with fan pickles, stuffed olives or radish roses.

FROZEN PISTACHIO CHEESE SALAD.

3 packages cream cheese
2 ozs. Roquefort cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 green peppers
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup pistachio nuts
1-4 cup whipping cream
Lettuce
French dressing

1. Mix Roquefort and cream cheese together until creamy consistency. 2. Whip cream and fold in. 3. Add lemon juice, nuts, and salt. 4. Fill green peppers. Pack tightly. 5. Place in freezing unit to freeze. 6. Slice and serve on lettuce with French dressing.

24-HOUR SALAD.

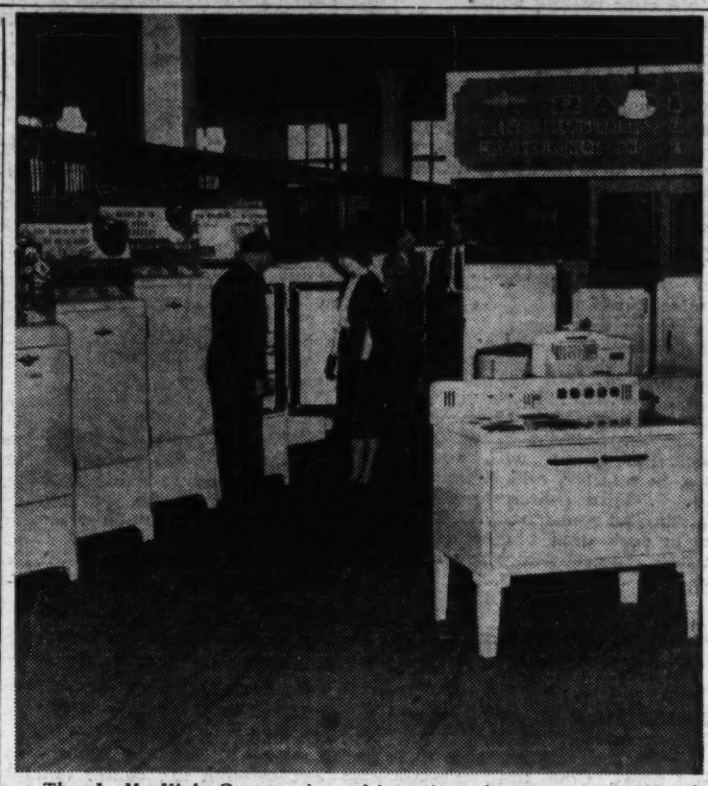

2 eggs, beaten
4 tablespoons vinegar
4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups white cherries, cut in halves
2 cups pineapple, cut in pieces
1 cup cream
2 oranges, cut in pieces
2 cups marshmallows, cut in quarters

1. Put eggs in saucepan and add vinegar and sugar, heat and beat constantly until thick and smooth. 2. Remove from heat, add butter and cool. 3. When cold, fold in whipped cream and fruit mixture. 4. Top with Emrelettes and Rubyettes. 5. Turn into fancy ring mold and put in cabinet for 24 hours. (This makes a delicious party salad and serves 12 to 14.)

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS. Temperature 400 Deg. F. Time—15 to 20 minutes. Yield—three dozen.

1 quart scalded milk
2 yeast cakes
1-2 cup shortening
1-3 cup sugar
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
Flour to make a stiff dough
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder

1. Scald milk, add the shortening. Cool. Add the sugar and yeast cakes, dissolve thoroughly. 2. Add soda and baking powder sifted with three cups flour. Make a sponge and allow to rise 1-2 hour. 3. Add salt and enough flour to make a stiff dough (3 to 4 cups). 4. Place in refrigerator and use as needed. 5. About 1 to 1 1-2 hours before baking, pinch off dough and shape into rolls, let rise until light and bake.

Scrambled Eggs Guava Jelly
Fluffy Muffins Drip Coffee

Temperature—375 degrees. Timer set for 1 hour.

Arrangement in Oven—1. Place muffins on third shelf and bake 35 minutes. 2. Broil bacon and scramble eggs.

A WORD ABOUT BROILER MEALS

The whole main course of a dinner or luncheon may be cooked on the broiler pan. This is economical and is an attractive way to utilize left-over foods.

There are two kinds of broiler meals:

1—Broiling and Baking Combination.

The vegetable, dessert and bread are baked partially, and during the last 20 to 30 minutes the meat and fruit are broiled.

2—Broiler Pan Meals.

The meat, vegetable and fruit are broiled on the pan at one time. In most meals the vegetables are pre-cooked.

When baking rolls or muffins cook 10 to 15 minutes, then broil the meat. Switch is turned to broil—leave door ajar.

MENU I

Lamb Chops Pineapple Fingers
Baked Potatoes Stuffed Squash
Refrigerator Rolls
Cinnamon Custard Pie

Cold oven to start. Temperature—400 degrees. Time—1 1-4 hours.

Arrangement in Oven—1. Place the potatoes on the second shelf and the pie on the fourth. 2. Remove pie when baked (45 to 50 minutes) and put rolls in to bake. After 10 minutes broil chops, etc.
